Morgan Stanley

PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

October 03, 2022

Rutvik Vipin Choudhari
Sardar Patel Institute of Technology

Dear Rutvik,

Confirming our discussions, we are pleased to offer you employment at Morgan Stanley Advantage Services Private Limited (the "Firm"). Those who have had the opportunity to meet with you look forward to your joining the Firm. Your position will be that of Analyst in Technology in either Mumbai or Bengaluru; you will be notified of your actual work location prior to your start date.

Total Reward

As an employee of the Firm you will receive an annual Total Reward comprising (1) Base Salary (as defined below) and (2) discretionary above base compensation which may be awarded at fiscal year-end (referred to below as "year-end bonus"). Your Total Reward is inclusive of compensation for all work performed, including any overtime.

Your discretionary year-end bonus, if any, may be payable partially in cash and partially in the form of long-term incentive compensation. There are further details about the conditions of long-term incentive awards below. Your Total Reward will be determined as a part of the compensation review process at the end of each fiscal year. In deciding whether to award any discretionary year-end bonus and the amount of any such bonus, the Firm may take account of factors including (but not limited to) business and market conditions, the profitability and performance of Morgan Stanley and your division, your individual performance, conduct (including compliance with the Firm's principles, policies and procedures) and potential, the strategic objectives of Morgan Stanley, your business unit and team and the associated value attributed to your role and whether you will be remaining in employment with the Firm. In order to be eligible for a year-end bonus award you must be employed and performing duties at the time bonuses are communicated to similarly situated employees and not have given or been given notice of termination prior to such date. Further details about the conditions of year-end bonus awards are contained in the India Employee Handbook. The cash portion of any discretionary year-end bonus is payable when year-end cash bonuses are paid to other similarly situated employees, and in no event later than March 15 in the year following the relevant fiscal year. All payments are subject to applicable withholdings and deductions.

For fiscal year 2023, your CTC (cost to company) consists of your Base Salary (in the components shown below) plus employer's contribution to Provident Fund. For your reference, our projection of the discretionary year-end bonus you can expect to earn this year, based on our expectations of your performance, is also stated below.

A.	Basic Salary	INR 6,50,000.00	per annum
B.	Allowances	INR 6,50,000.00	per annum
C.	BASE SALARY (A+B)	INR 13,00,000.00	per annum
D.	Provident Fund	INR 78,000.00	per annum
E.	TOTAL CTC (C+D)	INR 13,78,000.00	per annum
F.	Projected Discretionary Year-end Bonus	INR 1,95,000.00	per annum
PROJECTED TOTAL COMPENSATION (E+F)		INR 15,73,000.00	per annum

Morgan Stanley

Please note that the Allowances amount includes a fixed Conveyance Allowance of INR 19,200 p.a. and the balance would be Housing Rent Allowance. Leave Travel Allowance and contribution to National Pension Scheme are permissible under the current flexi compensation program which if opted for, would be from your balance Housing Rent allowance. All components of Base Salary (excluding Leave Travel Allowance (if any)) will be paid in monthly installments. Both your annual base salary and your discretionary year-end bonus, if any, will be prorated from your date of hire through the end of the fiscal year.

As mentioned above, consistent with Morgan Stanley's philosophy regarding employee equity ownership, under certain circumstances in the sole discretion of a committee of the Board of Directors (the "Committee"), you may receive part of any year-end bonus in the form of a long-term incentive award (such as Morgan Stanley restricted stock units and/or stock options or other incentive or equity-based awards in effect at the time) under one of the Morgan Stanley compensation plans. From time to time, we review the form and terms of the long-term incentive compensation and the percentage component that it constitutes of Total Reward with the Committee. Your actual award in any year, if any, will be consistent with the terms and conditions of the relevant long-term incentive compensation program at the time of the award and will be subject to certain restrictions and cancellation provisions (for example, your long-term incentive award, even if vested, is subject to cancellation under specified circumstances). All long-term incentive awards assume satisfactory performance and conduct and that you remained employed through the grant and vesting dates of the award.

Special Awards

In addition to the foregoing, you will be eligible to receive a Sign On/Retention Award (the "Award"). The Award will be payable in four instalments, as follows:

Instalment Date	Award
Employment commencement date ("Start Date")	INR 2,00,000
First anniversary of the Start Date	INR 1,00,000
Second anniversary of the Start Date	INR 3,00,000
Third anniversary of the Start Date	INR 3,00,000

Each instalment of the Award ("Instalment") will be paid, at the latest, in the pay run in the month following the relevant Instalment Date (less applicable withholdings and deductions) conditional upon your performance and conduct being satisfactory to the Firm and also upon your being in employment with the Firm, and not under notice for any reason whatsoever, as at the relevant Instalment Date.

If either (a) the Firm terminates your employment for reasons other than redundancy (as determined by the Firm); or (b) you resign or give notice of resignation for any reason whatsoever, and in either case within 12 months of payment of an Instalment, you will repay the gross Instalment on demand and in any event prior to your last day of employment¹. This Sign-On Bonus will not constitute part of your Total Reward.

¹[1] Clarification on local income tax adjustment: Irrespective of whether the amounts are repaid in the same India Financial Year ("FY") as they were received or are repaid in a different FY to the FY in which they were received, the Firm will not be able to make any Income Tax related adjustment – to Gross Income or Income Tax. However, in both cases the Firm will provide the Employee with an acknowledgment towards the repayment. The Employee will need to liaise with the local income tax department in his/her personal capacity to re-claim income tax paid on the gross amount returned, as may be allowable".

Benefits

You will be entitled to the following benefits:

- Provident Fund contributions of 12% of your basic salary, as shown in the CTC chart above.
- Expenses incurred by you, your spouse and children (up to 25 years) for treatment of an illness while confined to a hospital or nursing home, for any illness, disease or injury which in the normal course would require care and treatment at a hospital or nursing home, will be paid for in accordance with Morgan Stanley's Hospital Plus Plan, subject to a total annual limit of INR 1,600,000 per family (INR 400,000 is automatically allocated while the next INR 1,200,000 gets allocated from an Organization Floater, based on the firm's discretion).
- Gratuity and other benefits (including accident insurance and life insurance) in accordance with legal requirements and Morgan Stanley's policies in effect, and as may be amended from time to time.

You will also be entitled to paid annual leave of 23 working days each calendar year (January 1 to December 31), prorated for any partial year of employment.

As indicated above, you may be employed in the Firm's offices in either Mumbai or Bengaluru. You may be eligible for relocation assistance in respect of your move from your home to your assigned work location. If applicable, Human Resources will provide you with details of the available relocation benefits.

Nothing in this letter should be construed as a guarantee of any particular level of benefits or of your participation in any benefit plan. The Firm and its affiliates reserve the right to amend, modify or terminate, in its or their sole discretion, all benefit and compensation plans in effect from time to time.

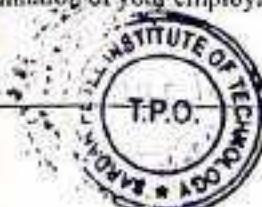

Obligation to Observe Rules and Policies

Regular office hours at Morgan Stanley are 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. Morgan Stanley reserves the right from time to time to assign you to work in such shifts as required for business reasons. Additionally, your services are subject to transfer from one establishment to another, from one department to another, from one section to another, from one Morgan Stanley group company to another (company in this case refers to associate or subsidiary companies that are in existence as of today and that may come into existence any time in future anywhere in India or abroad).

Please note that as a condition of your employment with the Firm you will be bound by the India Employee Handbook, the Morgan Stanley Code of Conduct and other policies relating to your employment as may be issued, updated, varied and supplemented ("Morgan Stanley Policies"). For the avoidance of doubt, this includes the Firm's Global Employee Trading and Investing Policy, which places certain restrictions on your personal security dealings, brokerage accounts, and outside business interests, as well as on the personal security dealings and brokerage accounts of your spouse, dependents and any other persons to whose financial support you or your spouse contribute or whose investment decisions you or your spouse could otherwise influence. Any violation of Morgan Stanley Policies may subject you to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal.

A copy of the Employee Handbook is enclosed herewith. On the final page you will find an acknowledgment form that you are to complete and return to Human Resources. In addition you will receive a copy of the Code of Conduct electronically after you commence your employment and your continued employment is conditional upon you completing an electronic acknowledgement on receipt of this document.

In accordance with Morgan Stanley's Code of Conduct, you acknowledge that in the course of your employment with the Firm or after termination of your employment, you are not permitted to make any unauthorized use of documents or other information, which are confidential, trade secret or proprietary information ("Confidential Information"). Likewise, you may not bring onto Morgan Stanley premises any Confidential Information relating to any prior employers' business.

Probation and Notice

Your employment is subject to a probationary period as described in the Employee Handbook. The notice period for termination of your employment is 7 days during the initial probationary period and 14 days during any extended probationary period. The Firm reserves the right to provide payment in lieu of notice in either case.

After the probationary period, either you or the Firm may terminate your employment for any reason with 60 days' notice. The Firm reserves the right to provide payment in lieu of notice. The Firm further reserves the right to require you, for part or all of the notice of termination period for which you remain an employee, not to perform any duties and remain away from Morgan Stanley premises, although the Firm will continue to maintain your salary and other contractual benefits for this period. You may not commence employment or take any action in preparation to commence employment with any company or other business during this period.

Additional steps

Your employment is contingent upon your successfully completing your current studies (Bachelor degree/Masters degree/PhD) and providing the Firm with graduation/degree certificates and such other evidence of your successful completion of your current studies as the Firm may require. The evidence must be provided within 6 months of the commencement of your employment.

Your employment is also contingent upon a number of additional steps in the employment process including, but not limited to, a background check and the procurement of any necessary licenses or permits (including a visa, if required) required for your employment. The Firm reserves the right to adjust your proposed starting date or details pertaining to the contract based on the completion of these steps.

- To facilitate the pre-employment screening process, you are required to complete the relevant background check profile forms and submit personal credentials to the Firm's Corporate Security team. You will receive the relevant forms and instructions on this process via email shortly after we receive your acceptance of this offer. The Firm reserves the right to delay your start date in the event your background check is not timely completed. Pursuant to this check, you are also required to submit to Human Resources appropriate proof of successful completion of your present level of education.
- You are also required to show proof of citizenship and/or the appropriate right-to-work documentation on or before your first day of work. If you require a visa/work permit and do not currently have one, you are responsible to obtain one before you will be permitted to commence work. Please contact local Human Resources to arrange for your visa/work permit application.
- You must also procure any registration or licensing required by the relevant regulatory authority for a person filling your particular position. Please contact the Compliance Department if you need to confirm whether this will be required of you.

If you commence employment with the Firm prior to your provision of evidence of your successful completion of your current studies and/or satisfactory completion of the pre-employment screening process, your continued employment will remain conditional on the provision of such evidence/satisfactory completion of that process.

Execution and Contract Formation

This offer, as to its subject matter, contains a complete statement of all agreements between you and the Firm, constitutes the entire understanding between you and the Firm, and supersedes all prior or contemporaneous verbal or written agreements, understandings or communications (including, without limitation, any term sheet or other summary writing relating to your employment). You acknowledge that you have not relied on any assurance or representation not expressly stated in this offer letter. If there is any conflict with the benefit information included in this letter or any verbal representation and the plan documents or insurance contracts, the relevant plan documents or insurance documents control. The Firm reserves the right to review, modify or amend your terms and conditions of employment from time to time as circumstances may require.

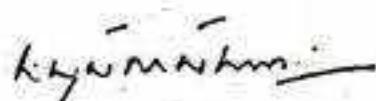

Your employment is governed by the laws of India and you and the Firm submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of its courts and tribunals.

We ask that you confirm your acceptance by clicking on the relevant button within the Firm's online Application Center and entering your name as an e-signature. We recommend you save a copy of this offer letter for your records.

In the event that we do not receive your acceptance on or before October 08, 2022, we will assume that you have declined the position. Accordingly, on that date this offer will lapse and will no longer be capable of acceptance by you. Further, the Firm's offer is conditional upon you commencing employment with the Firm on or before August 11, 2023 or such other date as may be agreed in writing by the Firm. Again, this offer will lapse if you are unable to commence employment on or before this date.

If you have questions regarding the above, please feel free to call Madhura Gidkar at 022 66411521 or Rajiv MG at 080 61047561 in the Human Resources Department.

Dear Aditya,

Confirming our discussions, we are pleased to offer you employment at Morgan Stanley Advantage Services Private Limited (the "Firm"). Those who have had the opportunity to meet with you look forward to your joining the Firm. Your position will be that of Analyst in Technology in either Mumbai or Bengaluru; you will be notified of your actual work location prior to your start date.

Total Reward

As an employee of the Firm you will receive an annual Total Reward comprising (1) Base Salary (as defined below) and (2) discretionary above base compensation which may be awarded at fiscal year-end (referred to below as "year-end bonus"). Your Total Reward is inclusive of compensation for all work performed, including any overtime.

Your discretionary year-end bonus, if any, may be payable partially in cash and partially in the form of long-term incentive compensation. There are further details about the conditions of long-term incentive awards below. Your Total Reward will be determined as a part of the compensation review process at the end of each fiscal year. In deciding whether to award any discretionary year-end bonus and the amount of any such bonus, the Firm may take account of factors including (but not limited to) business and market conditions, the profitability and performance of Morgan Stanley and your division, your individual performance, conduct (including compliance with the Firm's principles, policies and procedures) and potential, the strategic objectives of Morgan Stanley, your business unit and team and the associated value attributed to your role and whether you will be remaining in employment with the Firm. In order to be eligible for a year-end bonus award you must be employed and performing duties at the time bonuses are communicated to similarly situated employees and not have given or been given notice of termination prior to such date. Further details about the conditions of year-end bonus awards are contained in the India Employee Handbook. The cash portion of any discretionary year-end bonus is payable when year-end cash bonuses are paid to other similarly situated employees, and in no event later than March 15 in the year following the relevant fiscal year. All payments are subject to applicable withholdings and deductions.

For fiscal year 2023, your CTC (cost to company) consists of your Base Salary (in the components shown below) plus employer's contribution to Provident Fund. For your reference, our projection of the discretionary year-end bonus you can expect to earn this year, based on our expectations of your performance, is also stated below.

A.	Basic Salary	INR 6,50,000.00	per annum
B.	Allowances	INR 6,50,000.00	per annum
C.	BASE SALARY (A+B)	INR 13,00,000.00	per annum
D.	Provident Fund	INR 78,000.00	per annum
E.	TOTAL CTC (C+D)	INR 13,78,000.00	per annum
F.	Projected Discretionary Year-end Bonus	INR 1,95,000.00	per annum
PROJECTED TOTAL COMPENSATION (E+F)		INR 15,73,000.00	per annum

Morgan Stanley

Please note that the Allowances amount includes a fixed Conveyance Allowance of INR 19,200 p.a. and the balance would be Housing Rent Allowance. Leave Travel Allowance and contribution to National Pension Scheme are permissible under the current flexi compensation program which if opted for, would be from your balance Housing Rent allowance. All components of Base Salary (excluding Leave Travel Allowance (if any)) will be paid in monthly installments. Both your annual base salary and your discretionary year-end bonus, if any, will be prorated from your date of hire through the end of the fiscal year.

As mentioned above, consistent with Morgan Stanley's philosophy regarding employee equity ownership, under certain circumstances in the sole discretion of a committee of the Board of Directors (the "Committee"), you may receive part of any year-end bonus in the form of a long-term incentive award (such as Morgan Stanley restricted stock units and/or stock options or other incentive or equity-based awards in effect at the time) under one of the Morgan Stanley compensation plans. From time to time, we review the form and terms of the long-term incentive compensation and the percentage component that it constitutes of Total Reward with the Committee. Your actual award in any year, if any, will be consistent with the terms and conditions of the relevant long-term incentive compensation program at the time of the award and will be subject to certain restrictions and cancellation provisions (for example, your long-term incentive award, even if vested, is subject to cancellation under specified circumstances). All long-term incentive awards assume satisfactory performance and conduct and that you remained employed through the grant and vesting dates of the award.

Special Awards

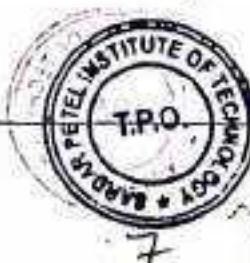

In addition to the foregoing, you will be eligible to receive a Sign On/Retention Award (the "Award"). The Award will be payable in four instalments, as follows:

Instalment Date	Award
Employment commencement date ("Start Date")	INR 2,00,000
First anniversary of the Start Date	INR 1,00,000
Second anniversary of the Start Date	INR 3,00,000
Third anniversary of the Start Date	INR 3,00,000

Each instalment of the Award ("Instalment") will be paid, at the latest, in the pay run in the month following the relevant Instalment Date (less applicable withholdings and deductions) conditional upon your performance and conduct being satisfactory to the Firm and also upon your being in employment with the Firm, and not under notice for any reason whatsoever, as at the relevant Instalment Date.

If either (a) the Firm terminates your employment for reasons other than redundancy (as determined by the Firm); or (b) you resign or give notice of resignation for any reason whatsoever, and in either case within 12 months of payment of an Instalment, you will repay the gross Instalment on demand and in any event prior to your last day of employment. This Sign-On Bonus will not constitute part of your Total Reward.

"[1] Clarification on local income tax adjustment: Irrespective of whether the amounts are repaid in the same India Financial Year ("FY") as they were received or are repaid in a different FY to the FY in which they were received, the Firm will not be able to make any Income Tax related adjustment – to Gross Income or Income Tax. However, in both cases the Firm will provide the Employee with an acknowledgment towards the repayment. The Employee will need to liaise with the local income tax department in his/her personal capacity to re-claim income tax paid on the gross amount returned, as may be allowable".

Benefits

You will be entitled to the following benefits:

- Provident Fund contributions of 12% of your basic salary, as shown in the CTC chart above.
- Expenses incurred by you, your spouse and children (up to 25 years) for treatment of an illness while confined to a hospital or nursing home, for any illness, disease or injury which in the normal course would require care and treatment at a hospital or nursing home, will be paid for in accordance with Morgan Stanley's Hospital Plus Plan, subject to a total annual limit of INR 1,600,000 per family (INR 400,000 is automatically allocated while the next INR 1,200,000 gets allocated from an Organization Floater, based on the firm's discretion).
- Gratuity and other benefits (including accident insurance and life insurance) in accordance with legal requirements and Morgan Stanley's policies in effect, and as may be amended from time to time.

You will also be entitled to paid annual leave of 23 working days each calendar year (January 1 to December 31), prorated for any partial year of employment.

As indicated above, you may be employed in the Firm's offices in either Mumbai or Bengaluru. You may be eligible for relocation assistance in respect of your move from your home to your assigned work location. If applicable, Human Resources will provide you with details of the available relocation benefits.

Nothing in this letter should be construed as a guarantee of any particular level of benefits or of your participation in any benefit plan. The Firm and its affiliates reserve the right to amend, modify or terminate, in its or their sole discretion, all benefit and compensation plans in effect from time to time.

Obligation to Observe Rules and Policies

Regular office hours at Morgan Stanley are 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. Morgan Stanley reserves the right from time to time to assign you to work in such shifts as required for business reasons. Additionally, your services are subject to transfer from one establishment to another, from one department to another, from one section to another, from one Morgan Stanley group company to another (company in this case refers to associate or subsidiary companies that are in existence as of today and that may come into existence any time in future anywhere in India or abroad).

Please note that as a condition of your employment with the Firm you will be bound by the India Employee Handbook, the Morgan Stanley Code of Conduct and other policies relating to your employment as may be issued, updated, varied and supplemented ("Morgan Stanley Policies"). For the avoidance of doubt, this includes the Firm's Global Employee Trading and Investing Policy, which places certain restrictions on your personal security dealings, brokerage accounts, and outside business interests, as well as on the personal security dealings and brokerage accounts of your spouse, dependents and any other persons to whose financial support you or your spouse contribute or whose investment decisions you or your spouse could otherwise influence. unauthorized use of documents or other information, which are confidential, trade secret or proprietary information ("Confidential Information"). Likewise, you may not bring onto Morgan Stanley premises any Confidential Information relating to any prior employers' business.

Probation and Notice

Your employment is subject to a probationary period as described in the Employee Handbook. The notice period for termination of your employment is 7 days during the initial probationary period and 14 days during any extended probationary period. The Firm reserves the right to provide payment in lieu of notice in either case.

After the probationary period, either you or the Firm may terminate your employment for any reason with 60 days' notice. The Firm reserves the right to provide payment in lieu of notice. The Firm further reserves the right to require you, for part or all of the notice of termination period for which you remain an employee, not to perform any duties and remain away from Morgan Stanley premises, although the Firm will continue to maintain your salary and other contractual benefits for this period. You may not commence employment or take any action in preparation to commence employment with any company or other business during this period.

Your employment is contingent upon your successfully completing your current studies (Bachelor degree/Masters degree/PhD) and providing the Firm with graduation/degree certificates and such other evidence of your successful completion of your current studies as the Firm may require. The evidence must be provided within 6 months of the commencement of your employment.

Your employment is also contingent upon a number of additional steps in the employment process including, but not limited to, a background check and the procurement of any necessary licenses or permits (including a visa, if required) required for your employment. The Firm reserves the right to adjust your proposed starting date or details pertaining to the contract based on the completion of these steps.

- To facilitate the pre-employment screening process, you are required to complete the relevant background check profile forms and submit personal credentials to the Firm's Corporate Security team. You will receive the relevant forms and instructions on this process via email shortly after we receive your acceptance of this offer. The Firm reserves the right to delay your start date in the event your background check is not timely completed. Pursuant to this check, you are also required to submit to Human Resources appropriate proof of successful completion of your present level of education.
- You are also required to show proof of citizenship and/or the appropriate right-to-work documentation on or before your first day of work. If you require a visa/work permit and do not currently have one, you are responsible to obtain one before you will be permitted to commence work. Please contact local Human Resources to arrange for your visa/work permit application.
- You must also procure any registration or licensing required by the relevant regulatory authority for a person filling your particular position. Please contact the Compliance Department if you need to confirm whether this will be required of you.

If you commence employment with the Firm prior to your provision of evidence of your successful completion of your current studies and/or satisfactory completion of the pre-employment screening process, your continued employment will remain conditional on the provision of such evidence/satisfactory completion of that process.

Company's products and/or services, to any person, firm, corporation, institution or other entity in competition with the business of the Company.

(c) Solicit Personnel: During the Employment Period and for a period of at least two (2) years after the Employment Period, you shall not solicit or attempt to influence any person employed or engaged by the Company (whether as an employee, consultant, advisor or in any other manner) to terminate or otherwise cease such employment or engagement with the Company or become the employee of or directly or indirectly offer services in any form or manner to himself or any person or entity which is a competitor of the Company.

You acknowledge and agree that the compensation stated in Annexure I of this appointment letter is sufficient consideration for you to agree to non-compete and non-solicitation.

You will not borrow or accept any money, gift, reward or compensation for your personal gains from or otherwise place yourself under pecuniary obligation to any person/client with whom, you may be having official dealings.

You acknowledge and agree that violation of the covenants and obligations with respect to non-compete and non-solicitation as set forth above will cause the Company, irreparable injury. Therefore, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to an interim injunction, restraining order or such other equitable relief as a court of competent jurisdiction may deem necessary or appropriate to restrain you from committing any violation of the covenants and obligations. These injunctive remedies are cumulative and are in addition to any other rights and remedies that the Company may have against you as provided under laws.

You will have access to the employee portal which will have Company's Code of Conduct, Privacy Policy Guide, IT Usage Policy, Safety and Environment policy and other policies of the company. You are required to go through the same and understand them. You agree to abide by the principles set out in the document, breach of which, can have serious consequences including dismissal from service.

If you are at any time found to be guilty of misconduct, commit any breach of this Agreement, or refuse or wilfully neglect to perform to the satisfaction of the Company or any of the Associated Companies in connection with whose business you may be engaged all or any of the duties devolving upon you under this Agreement, the Company may at once, without any previous notice, terminate your appointment. Unless in case of earlier termination of this appointment due to a plausible cause, you shall retire on your 60th birthday or the day immediately preceding such date, if your birthday does not fall on a working day.

This Agreement and all of your rights and obligations hereunder are personal to you and may not be transferred or assigned by you at any time. The Company may assign its rights under this agreement to any entity that assumes the Company's obligations hereunder in connection with any sale or transfer of all or a substantial portion of the Company's assets to such entity.

No provision of this Agreement shall be modified, waived or discharged unless the modification, waiver or discharge is agreed to in writing and signed by you and by an authorized officer of the Company (other than you). Notwithstanding the above, in the event of a change in role, grades, promotions or other changes made in your employment and informed to you by the authorised officer of the Company, the applicable policies to such change in role, grades, promotion or other employment changes (for e.g. Notice Policy, Reimbursement Policy) shall apply to you from the effective date of such change. To that extent, such change in applicable policies will be considered an amendment of this Agreement and your continued employment will be constituted as agreement to applicable policies from time to time.

No waiver by either party of any breach of, or of compliance with, any condition or provision of this Agreement by the other party shall be considered a waiver of any other condition or provision or of the same condition or provision at another time.

FAQ on PhonePe ESOP Plan

Q1. Can you explain the terms Grant, Vesting & Exercise?

- Grant means the grant of PhonePe Options to an employee (referred as 'Option Grantee') under the PSOP.
- PhonePe Option means an option Granted to an Option Grantee pursuant to the PSOP, each of which gives such Option Grantee the right, but not an obligation, to purchase or subscribe for one Share.
- Exercise is the fulfillment of the right whereby the option holder gets the option converted into a share by paying the exercise price.

Q2. What does the PhonePe stock option mean ?

Each PhonePe option that you are granted will entitle you, on exercise, to acquire one share of PhonePe Private Limited (India)

Q3. What is the current exercise price ?

The current exercise price is Zero, you will not have to pay anything while exercising PhonePe vested options.

Q4. What are the vesting conditions of the options

The vesting schedule and other conditions for the options will be as laid out in the stock agreement letter issued to you.

Q5. What is the expiry date of PhonePe ESOPs?

All PhonePe ESOPs will expire in 10 years from the date of grant.

Q6. Will ESOP Grants be taxed ?

As per Indian income-tax laws, any tax resident in India will be subject to tax on ESOPs as follows:

- On Grant : No Tax
- On Vesting : No Tax
- On Exercise of Options : Taxable as salary (perquisite) - the difference between the Fair Market Value (on exercise date) and exercise price is taxed as perquisite. The employer (PhonePe) will deduct tax (TDS) on this perquisite. This amount will be shown in the employee's Form 16 and would need to be included as part of total income from salary in the tax return.
- On sale of shares : The proceeds of the sales would be treated as capital gains at applicable rates. Capital gain is calculated as follows - Consideration on sale of shares less cost (i.e. fair market value treated as perquisite on exercise and subject to tax as salary). Tax rate for capital gains would depend on the period of holding of shares.

Q7. When can I sell my shares ?

- Once the options have vested you can sell the shares only on the listing of the company or during other liquidity window events before listing, that the Company may declare.
- You will be provided with access to an online portal to access your options.

Q8. What happens if an employee is on sabbatical leave ?

If an employee is on sabbatical all vested options till the day of sabbatical will remain as is, vesting of remaining options will pause and will resume from the day the employee has joined back the organization post sabbatical.

Q9. What happens to my options in case of my death, Incapacitation or termination ?

- In the event of the death of an employee while in employment, all the options granted to him/her till such date shall vest in the legal heirs or nominees of the deceased employee.
- In case the employee suffers a permanent incapacity while in employment, all the options granted to him/her as on the date of permanent incapacity, shall vest on that day.

- In the event of separation from PhonePe, all options unvested for an employee as on that day shall expire. The vested options will continue to be held by the employee (till the date of expiry of the ESOPs), unless found to be guilty of grave misconduct or moral turpitude (fraud, dishonesty, sexual harassment and other offences of a grave nature committed whilst at the Company).
- The company withholds the right to clawback any gains made by the employee through the ESOP program or cancel the vested options if the employee is found guilty of misconduct, moral turpitude or non-adherence to the clauses in the appointment letter and employment agreement.

Q10. When will I get to know the number of units allocated to me and the per unit value?

You will receive the stock grant letter within 90 days from the day of joining the organization post completing the necessary formalities. This letter will carry the number of units along with the per unit price.

Dear Atharva Mohite,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

Should you have queries in relation to your employment terms, your benefits or Company policies, please contact our HR Answers hotline at 000 800 440 5210 (local toll free) or +1 212-552-5100 (international).

Please be reminded your employment terms should be treated with the strictest confidence. To accept this offer of employment, please click on the 'Accept' button at the bottom of this page on or before 24-Mar-2023.

We are excited to welcome you to our Company and take this opportunity to wish you every success in taking this next step of your career with us.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:
Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

B1.1 Your employment is subject to:

- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
- b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
- c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.

B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.

B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.

B2. Remuneration

B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.

B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
- (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
- (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
- (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
- (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.

B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.

B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.

B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work.
- c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.

B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.

B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.

B8.4 In this paragraph B8:

a) "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.

b) "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.

c) "Restricted Client" means any person:

- who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
- with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
- but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- I. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- II. that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- III. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- IV. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- V. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- VI. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law,
- VII. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay,
- VIII. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor,
- IX. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:

- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
- (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.

B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.

B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the me@jpmc website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.

B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.

B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

- B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.
- B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary; and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3543, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure – 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users' Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments to which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195(2)(a) of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan's rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of J.P. Morgan:

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, retention and/or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me. I waive the right to inspect or approve any finished product of the Material, including written or electronic copy, wherein my or that of any person's likeness appears.

I will not hold J.P. Morgan liable or responsible for the Material that are lost, delayed, misdirected or incomplete or cannot be delivered for any technical or other reason. J.P. Morgan shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan – Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. Morgan Chase & Co, including its subsidiaries and affiliates (respectively or jointly) (JP Morgan) and shall not use, except for the purposes of the performance of my duties during my employment with J.P. Morgan, or disclose to any other party any Confidential Information (as such term is hereinafter defined) which may be disclosed to or created by me in connection with the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. As used herein, the term "Confidential Information" means any information which relates to confidential, proprietary and/or trade secret information in oral, demonstrative, written, electronic, graphic or machine readable form contained in any documents, manuals, diskettes and other storage medium including but not limited to internal controls, computer or data processing programs, algorithms, electronic data processing applications, routines, subroutines, techniques or systems, or information concerning the business or financial affairs and methods of operation or proposed methods of operation, accounts, transactions, proposed transactions or security procedures, know-how, inventions, training methods or other information relating to the business and other operations of either J.P. Morgan, any affiliate of J.P. Morgan, or any client, customer or vendor of J.P. Morgan and all copies and reproductions thereof, whether or not owned or developed by J.P. Morgan, except such information which is in the public domain at the time of its disclosure to me or which subsequently enters the public domain other than as a result of a breach of duty on my part. I agree that, upon J.P. Morgan written demand for whatever reason, I shall immediately deliver to J.P. Morgan any and all notes, drawings, documents, manuals, diskettes and other m copies or excerpts thereof and confirm to J.P. Morgan, in writing, the return or destruction of the same. I acknowledge that my right to retain and/or use the Confidential Information shall terminate forthwith upon J.P. Morgan written demand and I shall immediately cease to use the Confidential Information. The obligations imposed by this clause shall survive the term of my employment with J.P. Morgan with respect to the performance of services, or of my employment or assignment to render services in connection therewith. I understand and agree that any breach of these confidentiality obligations will cause J.P. Morgan irreparable damage and J.P. Morgan shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this paragraph by means of injunctive relief including specific performance.

Dear Adwait,

Following our recent discussions, we are delighted to extend an offer of employment to you.

Enclosed are a Summary of Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and Detailed Terms and Conditions which set out important conditions relating to your employment and which, together, form your employment terms with Barclays ("Employment Letter").

The Employment Letter refers to the Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) as these are a central part of everything we do. The Values as well as our purpose and behaviours, will have formed a key part of your selection process when being offered a role at Barclays. You will be expected to act in accordance with the Values as a Barclays employee, and in particular, to follow our Code of Conduct (known as the Barclays Way). More information on this, and how we 'live' the Values will be available prior to and on joining Barclays.

This offer is conditional upon you satisfying Barclays recruitment and screening conditions and procedures and where applicable, the appropriate regulatory approvals. To start the process you will need to complete an application form. If you have not already received it, you will receive a link to the site shortly.

On or before your first day of employment, you will need to provide written documentation which proves your eligibility to work in India. You will also need to sign one copy of your Employment Letter (enclosed) confirming that you have read, understood and accept the terms. You must return this on your first day of employment.

We look forward to welcoming you to Barclays.

Yours sincerely

Sarada Srinivas

Summary of Key Terms

Introduction to this Section

This section is intended as an "at a glance" summary of the key terms of the offer to you. You must, therefore, read these terms in conjunction with any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions which together comprise your Employment Letter.

Name	Adwait Ajaykumar Hegde
Employing Company	Barclays Global Service Centre Private Limited ("the Company")
Position	Your role will be Graduate, BA3 (or equivalent), or such other role as the Company reasonably decides from time to time.
Start Date	10 July 2023, or such other date agreed between us in writing, subject to the pre-employment conditions being met to the Company's satisfaction. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above. In addition to the terms set out elsewhere in the Agreement, this offer of employment is contingent upon successful completion of your current degree prior to your anticipated start date. Successful completion of your degree means that it is completed within the specified timelines highlighted in your application and that your final degree classification matches or exceeds the predicted results stated in your application to Barclays. It is your responsibility to inform our recruitment team immediately, if you suspect that your grades will be lower than those predicted. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above
Working Hours	Your hours of work will be an average of 40 per week. Rest intervals and breaks are separate from the 40 hours of work. The Company is operational 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, so depending on your business function, your working days and hours may involve day and night shifts, and working on weekends/weekly offs and holidays, as permitted under applicable laws. Your manager will inform you if you are required to work in a different shift. You will devote sufficient time to your duties. Subject to applicable laws, you may be required to work such additional hours as are required for the proper performance of your duties as per any applicable Company policy, which may require that you attend the office, or be available to fulfil your function, outside normal hours and days. Your working hours can be varied by the Company at its discretion, with reasonable notice and in accordance with applicable laws.
Initial Place of Work	You will initially be based in LTS – Barclays Global Service Centre, Gera Commerzone SEZ, Survey No.65, Village Kharadi Pune 411014. However, your place of work will be determined in line with the requirements of the scheme at Barclays' sole discretion. It is a condition of your employment that you agree that you may be required to work or travel to any branch or office (in India or overseas). Where you are required to work outside of India, additional terms and conditions may apply to your employment, which will be provided at the relevant time.
Probationary Period	Your employment is subject to a probationary period of 6 months, or such additional period as the company may in its discretion consider necessary.

Salary

Components	In INR Per Annum
Basic salary	462,000.00
House Rent Allowance	231,000.00
Flexible Benefit Plan (see further "Statutory and other Benefits" below)	462,000.00
Annual Salary	1,155,000.00
Provident Fund (Employer's Contribution)	55,440.00
Gratuity (per Company policy)	22,212.00
Total Fixed Pay	1,232,652.00

Salary will be payable on a monthly basis, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses, and other statutory deductions, and is currently paid on or around the 24th (or the prior working day if the 24th is not a working day) of each month. The estimated CTC above does not create any contractual right to any such payment.

You may be eligible to receive discretionary allowances as mentioned above or otherwise, subject to and in accordance with the Company's policy on such allowances / flexible benefit pay component of the salary, subject to amendment from time to time by the Company, to reflect changes in law, tax, or other reasons. These allowances may be reduced or withdrawn.

Your allowances will be paid along with your salary as mentioned above, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other statutory deductions.

Other Payments

The Company agrees to pay you a one-off non-pensionable scholarship and bursary payment of Rs.100,000.00 (the "Scholarship and Bursary Payment") in recognition of your studying costs. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be paid within 90 days from your date of joining Barclays. The payment will be made subject to applicable tax and / or other withholdings or deductions as required by law or regulation.

As agreed by you, this Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be subject to your compliance with the following requirements:

You will be required to repay the Scholarship and Bursary Payment net of any taxes or other deductions or withholdings as required by law or regulation within 30 days of any of the following occurring:

- you have terminated your employment voluntarily (or have given the Company notice to terminate your employment) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you are dismissed for gross misconduct or fundamental breach of contract or for a serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group (or you have been given notice to terminate your employment for these reasons) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you fail to satisfy the pre-employment conditions of as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company.

The Company may adjust this repayment amount from any amount payable to you by any Barclays Group company. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment should not be interpreted as giving rise to any right to or legitimate expectation of any other award, nor is it any assurance as to the level of any award which may be made to you in future, which will be at the Company's discretion.

You were also given an opportunity to join your employment without the Scholarship and Bursary Payment and therefore your liability to repay the amount, as has been mentioned above, in no case to be considered as a deterrent to restrict your employment for a specific term.

Qualifications/
Examinations

It is a condition of your employment and continued employment with the Company that you successfully complete any professional qualification and/or examination as may be required and notified to you by the Company from time to time, including without limitation any qualifications or examinations required by the Regulator. You will be expected to pass all exams within a predetermined period and/or within one or more sittings, which shall be set out in the Company policy.

Subject to the terms set out below and the Company policy, the Company will be responsible for the cost of any first attempts at any such qualification with our preferred provider, including study books and associated examination fees. You should refer to the Company policy for details.

If you do not pass any exam or obtain a qualification within the period specified or within the relevant number of attempts (which may in some cases only be one) the Company reserves the right to terminate your employment.

In the event that your employment is terminated for gross misconduct, or if you resign from the Company or otherwise terminate your employment or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, you will be required (except where a qualification or examination is required by the Regulator) to repay to the Company the following sums in full within 30 days:

- 100% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment at any time during your course of study, or within six months of completing your course of study, or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company; or
- 50% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment within six twelve months of completing your course of study.

Any such sums owed by you to the Company will be deducted from any sums due to you from the Company or, if such a deduction is not made, will be deemed to be due as a debt from you to the Company.

Discretionary Incentive Award

You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis, at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to you being eligible at the relevant time. Normally, awards are made in the first quarter, in respect of the previous financial year.

Statutory and Other Benefits

You will be eligible for various statutory benefits in accordance with the relevant laws. You will also be eligible to participate in the Company's benefits scheme, details of which are set out in the attached flyer which does not form part of your contract or have any contractual effect.

Any benefits are subject to the relevant policies/plans from time to time in force. The Company reserves the right to change the benefits or policies/plans from time to time.

If the Company pays or reimburses any expense on your joining the Company towards your relocation from your current place of stay to your place of posting as agreed between the Company and you, if your employment ends less than one year after the Start Date you confirm that you will pay to the Company (or alternatively Company may set-off against/ write off) any amount paid or reimbursed in respect of such relocation from the amount payable to you.

Annual Leave

You are entitled to avail annual leave which includes privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave entitlement in accordance with the applicable laws in the state of your Place of Work. Further details are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions and on your intranet.

Notice Period

Either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving two months written notice, however, the Company may terminate your employment with immediate effect in accordance with applicable Company policies.

Any reduction/ waiver to notice period shall be at the sole discretion of the Company. Company may adjust balance of annual leaves, while granting such reduction/ waiver.

Further information on Notice is included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Overtime

Employees who are eligible under applicable laws to be paid Overtime for work beyond normal working hours, will be paid for the same in accordance to the applicable State laws at your Place of Work.

Further details in regard to Overtime are included within the Additional Time Guidelines available on the company's Intranet.

Data Privacy

The Company processes employee information for legal, regulatory, administrative and other purposes related to your employment and the conduct of the business of the Barclays Group (the "Agreed Purposes"). Processing includes obtaining, holding, editing, destroying and disclosing employee information to any Barclays Group company and its employees and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, auditors, consultants, lawyer/ law firm, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) for the Agreed Purposes ("Processing" or "Process").

For the Agreed Purposes, the Company may transfer employee information to any Barclays Group company and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) in order to Process employee information for the Agreed Purposes.

You confirm that you will provide your employee information to the Company and consent to the Processing of employee information for the Agreed Purposes. This may include transfers to recipients based in another country to your place of employment (either within or outside the European Economic Area) with different levels of protection of your personal data to India.

You confirm that the Company and/or any Barclays Group company may monitor and/or record your use of office equipment, for example, e-mail, internet (including chats and blogs), telephones and mobile telephones for the purposes of compliance with Company procedures and policies, maintenance, security and regulatory requirements or as permitted by law.

Aforesaid clause/ conditions shall apply to information relating to your family members/ relatives with respect to Insurance policy, emergency contact details, etc., in accordance with prevailing Barclays' Company policy. It is your responsibility to inform such individuals that their data will be processed in this manner and to obtain their consent.

Confidentiality

It is important that you recognise that during your employment with the Company you will have access to, and be entrusted with, confidential information and trade secrets relating to the Company, the Barclays Group and any of our clients and customers. Both during and after your employment you must comply with all policies and procedures relating to confidentiality, confidential information and trade secrets and any stricter policy which applies to your role.

Post-Termination Restrictions

In protecting the interests of the Company, you must not, for a period of 3 months from the termination date of your employment:

- approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer/supplier of Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to your termination.
- solicit or entice, or attempt to solicit or entice away or engage or employ any director, officer or employee in the Barclays Group.

Full details of the restrictions you will be bound by are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Acceptance

In accepting the terms of this Employment Letter, you confirm that all information provided by you to us in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview) is true and not misleading. You further confirm that you will notify us of any change in that information between the date of this offer of employment and the Start Date and during the term of your employment with the Company, including any change in the information you provided during the pre-employment recruitment and screening process and any change in the circumstances of the termination of your employment with your current employer.

By accepting this offer, you accept that you are bound by the terms of this Employment Letter. This includes the Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions. By accepting this offer, you further accept that you are bound by all applicable policies, guidelines, processes and procedures as amended from time to time and that you shall ensure that you acquaint yourself with the terms of all such policies, guidelines, processes and procedures. This Employment Letter set out the complete and exclusive terms and conditions between you and the Company and supersedes all proposals or prior agreements, oral or written and all other communications between the parties relating to the subject matter of these terms. In the event of any conflict between the Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedule and the Detailed Terms and Conditions, the Detailed Terms and Conditions will prevail. In addition, by accepting this offer you will be deemed to confirm that you have received, read, understood, accepted and will comply with the requirements detailed in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Yours sincerely,

Detailed Terms and Conditions

Introduction

About the Detailed Terms and Conditions

The purpose of the Detailed Terms and Conditions is to provide you with the relevant information on what the Company and the Barclays Group expects from its employees.

The Detailed Terms and Conditions also set out a list of key practices, guidelines and processes that the Barclays Group has developed to reflect our values, purpose and behaviour and as part of our high performance culture and, in accordance with your contractual obligations, must be adhered to at all times. Further information and policies can be found on your own business unit intranet site.

It is important that we review our policies, practices, guidelines and processes to ensure that we stay at the leading edge, enabling us to be one of the most admired financial services companies in the world. From time to time, our policies and procedures do change and you must familiarise yourself with them on joining and periodically throughout your employment. References in the Detailed Terms and Conditions to a policy, practice, guideline and / or process generally are references to the relevant policy, practice, guideline and / or process in force at the relevant time.

 These detailed terms and conditions also refer to the Barclays Values which must be adhered to at all times. The Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) are set out on your own business unit intranet site.

You should also refer to Appendix 1 which sets out definitions of the terms used in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Your Detailed Terms and Conditions of Employment

1. Introduction to this Section

This section sets out your detailed terms and conditions of employment and should be read alongside your enclosed Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedules. These documents form your employment terms with the Company and are referred to in this document as "Employment Letter". By signing the Employment Letter you confirm that you have read, understood and accept the terms set out in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

2. Pre-employment and ongoing conditions

- 2.1 Your confirmation in the employment will be subject to successful completion of the Probationary Period as mentioned in the summary of terms or such additional period as the Company considers necessary in its absolute discretion. Your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically unless communicated otherwise in writing.
- 2.2 You understand that the Company's offer of employment is made to you subject to and conditional on the completion of certain pre-employment procedures and processes. You certify that the information that you have provided in connection with completion of the procedures and otherwise in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview stage) is true and accurate both at the time it is given and on the Start Date. The Company reserves the right to carry out screening checks on all employees, and such procedures may include but are not limited to:
 - (a) receipt of references and documentary proof that are satisfactory to the Company that you are legally entitled to reside and work in your country;
 - (b) completion of credit checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (c) where criminal record checks are applicable to your role, completion of those checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (d) if requested by the Company, a medical examination by the Company's medical advisers;
 - (e) where Regulator approval for your appointment is required and such approval is sought before your employment commences, such approval either (i) being obtained or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator; (iii) receipt of documentary proof that you hold the appropriate and relevant qualifications; and
 - (f) the Company receiving a signed copy of the Terms from you.
- 2.3 Whilst every effort will be made to complete all the checks and processes in the pre-employment procedures before your Start Date, this may not always be possible. In case you are employed prior to completion of the pre-employment procedure, the Company may terminate your employment at any time on minimum statutory notice if the check reports are not up to our satisfaction or the procedures are not completed within a reasonable period of time.
- 2.4 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your obtaining, holding and continuing to hold all applicable qualifications, licences and registrations as required by your role. Where Regulator approval for your role is required and such approval is sought after your employment commences, then your continued employment is conditional on such approval either: (i) being obtained; or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator (or other relevant regulatory body).
- 2.5 You shall be liable and responsible to inform and update your latest contact and address details, in the records of the Company, from time to time. Failure to comply may constitute gross negligence on your part.
- 2.6 You should not engage in any matter which would or could be anticipated to result in a conflict of interest between you and the Company.

2.7 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your successful completion of certain trainings (such as Communication & Culture and/or other process and policy trainings accreditations) that may be assigned to you by the Company from time to time. In case you remain absent for more than 2 days during these training programs or you become unable to qualify the trainings to the satisfaction of the Company, the Company shall have the sole discretion to take appropriate action including termination of your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii of the detailed terms and conditions of this Employment Letter. In case of your absence due to any personal emergency, your Line Manager shall on his/her sole discretion and upon evaluation of the reason of your absence, may recommend the Company to realign you for the next available training within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence. In case you are realigned for the next training as mentioned above, there may be possible change in process and/or compensation on account of such realignment. If for any reason you do not agree to the realignment terms or no such realignment is possible within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence, the Company shall have the sole discretion to terminate your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii.

3. Place of Work and Mobility

Your place of work is as set out in your Summary of Key Terms. However you may need to travel to other locations and offices as reasonably required in the performance of your duties. You confirm that you will travel to such places (both inside and outside

(a) as the Company may reasonably require from time to time. Should the Company need to permanently change your place of work, you will be given reasonable notice of any such change (acceptable in e-mail/ letter format).

Duties

During your employment with the Company you confirm that you will:

- (a) act in a manner consistent with and which supports our values, purpose and behaviours and in particular the Barclays Values;
- (b) devote the whole of your working time and attention to the business of the Company and the Barclays Group;
- (c) diligently and faithfully perform such duties and exercise such powers and functions as may reasonably be assigned to you by the Company in relation to its business and that of the Barclays Group to the best of your ability and with integrity, due skill, care and diligence;
- (d) use your best efforts to promote and protect the interests of the Company and the Barclays Group and not do anything to harm those interests;
- (e) comply with all reasonable requests, instructions and regulations given by the Company and the Barclays Group and promptly provide such explanations, information and assistance as to your activities in the business of the Company and the Barclays Group as they may reasonably need;
- (f) neither engage in any activities which would detract from the proper performance of your duties under the terms of this Employment Letter, nor (without the prior written consent of the Company) in any capacity including as director, shareholder, principal, consultant, agent, partner or employee engage or be concerned or interested directly or indirectly in any other trade, business or occupation whatsoever provided always that such activities are in compliance with Barclays policies on outside or external business interests. This paragraph will not prevent you holding for investment purposes only, shares or securities which do not exceed three per cent (3%) in nominal value of the share capital or stock of any class of any company quoted on a recognised stock exchange;
- (g) not engage or be interested in any activities which place you in a position where your interests conflict improperly with those of the Barclays Group, its clients, customers or shareholders. Barclays recognises that, on occasion, a conflict of interest may arise which is unavoidable. In such circumstances you must make your line manager and local compliance control room or compliance contact aware of the issue immediately. You must not act in relation to the matter, without their written direction or approval; and
- (h) report any actual or proposed unlawful activity or behaviour affecting the Barclays Group by you or any other employee, officer, contractor of the Barclays Group or any other person to your manager (or, if they are potentially involved in such unlawful activity or behaviour, to your HR Business Partner or a member of your Compliance team) immediately on becoming aware of it.

5. Salary and allowances

Your salary will be paid on a monthly basis on or around the last working day of each month and is subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other applicable withholdings. All tax liabilities arising out of your entire remuneration package, present or future, shall be borne by you. Your salary and any allowances will accrue on a daily basis and will be paid pro rata if you are employed for part of a month.

Your salary will be reviewed annually without commitment to increase. The Company may deduct from any payments to you any money owed by you to any Barclays Group company in accordance with the applicable laws.

Your acceptance to these terms shall confirm your consent to the Company making payment of your salary, compensation, award, incentive/bonus etc. by way of credit to bank account with the bank of Company's choice or via such other mode as the Company may deem appropriate.

6. Discretionary incentive award

- 6.1 You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis. The value, form, conditions of delivery and timing of any such awards are at the Company's discretion. This discretion includes the right to make the award or a proportion of the award in a form other than cash, including an award of Shares and to defer an element of an award under the terms of a Barclays Group incentive plan.
- 6.2 Any discretionary incentive award will only be made if, at that time, you are in employment and are not under notice (whether given or received) nor under suspension or investigation for a regulatory or disciplinary matter.
- 6.3 If you are subject to any investigation or disciplinary process at the time when communication, payment or making of any payment and/or award would otherwise occur, then the delivery of that payment and/or award will be suspended. If on conclusion of any investigation and/or disciplinary process, you are dismissed for gross misconduct or cause and / or have committed any serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group, then no payment and / or award will be made to you. If no disciplinary action (or disciplinary action short of dismissal) is taken against you, then a payment and / or award may be made to you after the conclusion of that process. However, the amount of any award and / or payment to which you are entitled may be reduced by the Company in its sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, any award and / or payment may be reduced to nil in such circumstances.
- 6.4 Notwithstanding paragraph 6.3, any unpaid or unvested award (or portion of an unpaid or unvested award) may be reduced (to nil if appropriate) at the Company's discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company may exercise its discretion including as a result of:
 - (a) Barclays PLC or any subsidiary's financial statements having been materially restated for the period for which the award was made other than restatement due to a change in accounting policy or to rectify a minor error; or
 - (b) Your actions having, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Company:
 - i. deliberately misled the management of the Company, the market and/or Barclays PLC shareholders regarding the financial performance of Barclays PLC or of any subsidiary;
 - ii. caused harm to the reputation of the Barclays Group;
 - iii. amounted to misconduct, negligence, incompetence or poor performance ("misconduct", "negligence", "incompetence", and "poor performance" as determined by the Remuneration Committee acting in good faith, following consultation with the Company); or
 - (c) The Barclays Group or any of its subsidiaries, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Risk Committee, has suffered a material failure of risk management.

- 6.5 Should the Company become aware that the amount of any award that has been paid or released to you was calculated on the basis of any false, incorrect or misstated information, then, the Company may, within one year of any such payment or release being made, request that you will repay as a debt to the Company the amount (or any part of the amount) as may be determined in the Company's sole discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. You confirm that in the event a repayment obligation arises the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your salary or any other

- amounts due to you (including in instalments) as it determines in its discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws.
- 6.6 A payment of cash and / or a release of Shares or other instruments under an award will be subject to tax and other applicable withholdings, taxes, duties, cesses, deductions and will be subject to the rules of any applicable incentive plan.
 - 6.7 Whether you are eligible to receive a discretionary incentive award, and if so, the amount shall be determined at the absolute discretion of the Company. You have no contractual right, whether express or implied, to receive an award at all, or an award of any particular amount, and the making of an award in any year does not give rise to any obligation on the Company to make an award in any future year. For the avoidance of doubt, your employment may be terminated by the Company at any time, for any reason, in accordance with clauses 18 or 19 of this Employment Letter and the exercise of that right to terminate is not limited or fettered by any term (express or implied).
 - 6.8 Within Barclays, certain (usually senior) roles are designated as 'Material Risk Taker' ("MRT") roles. Where you are a MRT for any particular year you will be notified of this during or following the end of the relevant year. At any time during the seven year period from the date on which any variable remuneration is awarded to you in respect of a period for which you are a MRT (the "Relevant Variable Remuneration"), if Barclays determines that:

- (a) your actions or omissions have, in the reasonable opinion of Barclays amounted to misbehaviour or material error; and / or
 - (b) Barclays or the relevant business unit has suffered a material failure of risk management,
- then, without prejudice to Barclays other remedies, Barclays may require that you repay an amount, not exceeding the value of the Relevant Variable Remuneration. The repayment shall be of such value as may be determined in Barclays discretion acting in good faith, to such Barclays Group Company and on such terms as Barclays may direct.

In respect of paragraph 6.8 (b) above, Barclays shall take into account your proximity to the applicable failure and your level of responsibility before any request for repayment is made. In respect of paragraphs (a) and (b) above, before any request for repayment is made, Barclays shall take into consideration whether you (i) have participated in, or were responsible for, conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Barclays Group or (ii) failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety.

For the avoidance of doubt, the whole or any part of the Relevant Variable Remuneration can be clawed back if Barclays makes its determination within seven years from the date that the Relevant Variable Remuneration was awarded to you even if an event falling within (a) or (b) above occurred prior to the date of award.

The determination of what constitutes "misbehaviour", "material error", "material failure of risk management", "significant losses" and "appropriate standards of fitness and propriety" shall be determined by Barclays acting in good faith.

You confirm that in the event Barclays makes a repayment determination, you shall repay the amount subject to that determination within the time period specified in the determination. You further confirm and provide authorisation for Barclays to deduct the appropriate repayment amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you, to the full extent permitted under local law, whether from Barclays or any other Barclays Group company.

You acknowledge that, (in addition to its rights at clause 16 (Amendments to terms and conditions of employment) the terms of this clause 6.8 may be amended by Barclays to the extent deemed reasonably necessary in order to comply with law, regulations or guidance published by any regulatory authority or other relevant authority from time to time.

This clause shall apply in addition to the general right of repayment set out in clause 6.5 of the Employment Letter.

7. Statutory and Other Benefits

- 7.1 You will be eligible for various statutory benefits as mentioned in the Summary of Key terms and in accordance with the relevant laws.
- 7.2 The Company operates or may operate a benefits programme for its employees and your benefits are/will set out in full in the attached benefits brochure (except the statutory benefits mentioned above, these benefits do not form part of your contract of employment or have any contractual or other legal effect).
- 7.3 The Company has the right at its absolute discretion to amend or withdraw the benefits at any time and without any compensation or notice to you and / or replace any benefit with an alternative at its discretion.
- 7.4 Participation in any benefits scheme is subject to the rules of the relevant schemes, which may vary from time to time, and is subject to you satisfying any applicable requirements of the insurers or third party providers (where relevant). Your participation may be excluded where, in Barclays opinion, cover can only be obtained on the basis that exceptional conditions or unusually high premiums are imposed or levied by the insurer or provider.

8. Annual Leave

- 8.1 Your annual leave entitlement is set out in the Summary of Key Terms. The Company's annual leave year currently runs from 1 January to the 31 December. The dates of the annual leave year may be changed. You are obliged to take all your annual leave entitlement in the relevant year, unless a policy/Handbook applicable to you states otherwise, in which case leave may only be carried over subject to and in accordance with those terms and applicable law. Your annual leave dates must be agreed in advance with your line manager. You will be allowed to carry your unutilised privileged leaves over to the next annual leave year, subject to the limit and restrictions as may be defined in the company policy and subject to the applicable laws. There is no provision of encashment of unutilised leave (including in case of termination of employment), except where such encashment is mandated by law applicable at the place of your employment at the relevant time.
- 8.2 If your employment begins during an annual leave year, your annual leave entitlement (plus any Bank or Public Holidays which fall during this period), will be calculated pro rata. During the probationary period you may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favour up until the time of taking such leave. Any unutilised leave at the time of cessation of employment shall lapse and any payment to be made in lieu of the unutilised leave shall be at the sole discretion of Barclays unless mandated by the applicable law. If you have taken more leave than your accrued entitlement, you shall be required to repay to the Company an amount equivalent to any holiday taken in excess of your pro rata holiday entitlement, and the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your final salary instalment or any other sum owed by the Company to you at the Termination Date.
- 8.3 In accordance with regulatory guidelines and the Company's policies, the Company may require you to go on a mandatory block leave.

9. Intellectual Property

- 9.1 For the purposes of this paragraph:

"Intellectual Property Rights" means (i) copyright and related rights, patents, know-how, confidential information, database rights, inventions and rights in trademarks and designs (whether registered or unregistered), (ii) applications for registration, and the right to apply for registration, for any of the same, and (iii) all other intellectual property rights and equivalent or similar forms of protection existing anywhere in the world;

"Invention" means any invention, idea, discovery, development, improvement or innovation made, whether or not patentable or capable of registration, and whether or not recorded in any medium; and

"Works" means all documents, materials, software, photographic or graphic works of any type, and other materials in any medium or format which are created or developed, or are in the process of being created or developed, or used (whether in final form or otherwise) by you or on your behalf or by the Company in the course of your employment with the Company or for the benefit of the Company and which are protected by, contain or relate to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.2 You will promptly disclose and deliver up to the Company all and any Works conceived, or made by you during and in the course of your employment (whether conceived, or made during normal working hours, in your normal place of work, or in conjunction with others, or otherwise). You confirm that you will provide the Company with all originals and copies of all correspondence, documents and other materials in whatever medium or form relating to or concerning the Works and the Intellectual Property Rights they contain.
- 9.3 You confirm that you will only use the Works to perform your obligations under Employment Letter and that you will not make personal copies of any Works other than for the purposes of your employment with the Company.
- 9.4 It is understood that all Intellectual Property Rights created by you in the course of your employment shall be "work for hire". You acknowledge that you have, and will have at all times while you are employed by the Company, a special obligation to further the interests of the undertakings of the Company, and that all Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works will automatically, on creation, belong to and vest in the Company absolutely to the fullest extent provided by law.
- 9.5 To the extent that the Works and Intellectual Property Rights do not vest in the Company or the Barclays Group automatically, you will hold such Works and Intellectual Property Rights on trust for the benefit of the Company until the Works and Intellectual Property Rights vest absolutely in the Company.
- 9.6 You confirm that you will immediately, upon request and at the Company's expense, provide all such documents and assistance as may be necessary to vest the Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works in the Company, to enable the Company to enjoy the full benefit of the Intellectual Property Rights; and to enable the Company to enforce its Intellectual Property Rights against third parties or defend claims brought against the Company in relation to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.7 By signing Employment Letter you accept and confirm to assign to the Company or a member of the Barclays Group (as specified by the Company) all current and future Intellectual Property Rights in the Works and any other proprietary rights capable of assignment by way of present assignment of future rights for the full term of such rights. You confirm that such assignment shall be perpetual, worldwide and royalty free. You also confirm that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 19(4) of the Copyright Act, 1957, such assignment in so far as it relates to copyrightable material shall not lapse nor the rights transferred therein revert to the Employee, even if the Company does not exercise the rights under the assignment within a period of one year from the date of assignment. You acknowledge and confirm that you shall waive any right to and shall not raise any objection or claims to the Copyright Board with respect to the assignment, pursuant to Section 19A of the Copyright Act, 1957.
- 9.8 You unconditionally and irrevocably waive your moral rights in relation to existing and future Works, including your right to be identified as the author of the Works and not to have the Works subject to derogatory treatment. You acknowledge that, except as may be expressly provided by law, no further remuneration or compensation other than that provided for under Employment Letter is or may become due to you.
- 9.9 When this Employment Letter expires or terminates, for whatever reason, you will immediately deliver up to the Company all Works in your possession or under your control, and under no circumstances may any Works be retained by you except with the prior written consent of the Company.
- 9.10 Without prejudice to any specific legal rights which you may otherwise have, you acknowledge that no further remuneration or compensation other than that expressly provided for in this Employment Letter will become due to you in respect of your compliance with this Section 9.

10. Confidentiality

- 10.1 During your employment with the Company or at any time afterwards, you must not disclose to any person or make use of any Confidential Information or trade secrets that you have obtained in the course of your employment. This includes information that you have acquired in the course of your employment concerning the business or affairs of the Company and/or any other Barclays Group company or our customers or clients. You are required to use your best efforts to prevent the unauthorised publication or disclosure of any such Confidential Information. Exceptions to this are the use of information for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter, where the Company has given written consent or disclosure is required by law, where the information is already in or comes into the public domain (other than by your unauthorised disclosure).
- 10.2 During your employment or at any time afterwards, you must not make any copy or record (whether recorded in writing, on computer disc, electronically or otherwise) of any Confidential Information, unless this is required for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter. Any such information belongs to the Barclays Group and must be returned by you either at any time during the course of your employment on the request of the Company and immediately on termination of your employment.
- 10.3 For the purposes of this Employment Letter, "Confidential Information" means information concerning the business, affairs, finance, clients or trade connections of the Company, any member of the Barclays Group, or any of its customers, clients, suppliers or agents. This includes but is not limited to:
- (a) commercially sensitive information or trade secrets;
 - (b) corporate and marketing strategy, business development plans, sales reports and research results;
 - (c) business methods and processes, technical information and know-how relating to the Barclays Group's business and which is not available to the public generally, including inventions, designs, programmes, techniques, database systems, formulae and ideas;
 - (d) business contacts, lists or details of clients and suppliers and details of contacts with them, their business or affairs, including client names and client contact details, financial and personal affairs, and trading history and methodology;
 - (e) information on employees and the terms and conditions of their employment, details of employee benefits, incentive schemes/plans, salary scales and/or current or anticipated trade union/employee disputes;

- (f) information or details of any actual, potential or threatened litigation, legal action, claim, dispute or arbitration against or with any member of the Barclays Group or any current or former director, officer or employee of the Barclays Group in such capacity and any information in respect of provisions for any such action;
- (g) budgets, management accounts, trading statements and other financial reports;
- (h) unpublished price sensitive information relating to shares or securities listed or dealt in on any recognised stock exchange; and
- (i) any other information which any member of the Barclays Group or any of its employees or consultants has identified (orally, in writing, or by its or their actions) as being secret or confidential in nature or which would reasonably be considered as confidential.

10.4 You shall not solicit business for the Company from any clients belonging to your previous employer/s in breach of your terms of employment with your previous employer. You shall not use any confidential information that came to your knowledge in the course of your previous employment/s while working with the Company. You undertake to indemnify the Company against any action that the Company may face on account of your actions in breach of your obligations to your previous employer/s.

11. Regulatory compliance and dealing codes

11.1 The nature of the Barclays Group's business is such that it is authorised and regulated by the appropriate Regulator.

11.2 It is your responsibility to know, understand and comply with all legal, regulatory and governance obligations, including the provisions of the Regulatory and Compliance policies that are relevant to you. If you are in any doubt as to your responsibilities in this regard or the rules which apply to you, you must contact the Compliance team within your business area.

11.3 If you are a Regulator approved person (or any equivalent status with any other regulator) you must comply with the Regulator's Statement of Principles and Code of Practice for Approved Persons (or meet the applicable standards). Failure to meet these Principles / Standards and / or to comply with this Code of Practice (or other applicable standards) may result in investigation by the regulator, applicable regulator and/or the Company, and / or disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company which may result in the termination of your employment.

11.4 You confirm that you will be bound by and will comply with the Barclays Group Share Dealing Code and with any more stringent dealing rules applicable to you or the area of the business in which you work. In particular, you agree not to make any investment, directly or indirectly, in any company or business which is a customer or client of the Barclays Group and which may in the reasonable opinion of the Company be expected to cause your personal or family interests to conflict with your duty to the Company in any respect.

11.5 Any incentives or compensation payable to you by any member of the Company or Group Company (under this Employment Letter or otherwise, including any guaranteed amounts and including, where applicable, the payment and settlement schedule and split of cash and Shares as set out in this Employment Letter) are subject to limitation or modification to the extent reasonably deemed necessary by the Company including in order to remain consistent with Barclays remuneration policy (as amended from time to time) or to comply with laws and regulations, including any regulations or guidance published by the Regulator from time to time.

12. Expenses

There may be occasions when you incur business expenses for instance, travelling to a training course or visiting another business location for a meeting. Any expenses must be pre-approved and claimed promptly and will be reimbursed to you in line with our procedures, a copy of which can be found on your intranet.

The Company at its sole discretion may bear certain expenses on your training, learning and developmental needs, subject to your acceptance of the terms and obligations as would be mentioned in the agreement ("Training Agreement") that may be executed with you.

As a consideration to the training expenses to be incurred by the Company, you may be asked to work with the Company for a certain period of time, post completion of the said trainings/ programs/courses, as the case may be and/or to compensate the Company by paying an agreed sum as liquidated damages. Your specific obligations will form part of the Training Agreement to be executed with you. For the execution of the Training Agreement, you may be asked to get a surety to undertake your obligations under the terms of the Training Agreement.

Unless otherwise agreed in the Training Agreement, any breach of the terms of the said Training Agreement, will be considered as the breach of the terms of this Letter.

13. Attendance at work

- 13.1 Your Summary of Key Terms will provide you with details of the particular working pattern that applies to you, and any specific arrangements that may apply regarding changes to this pattern. If you work full time, or for 8 hours or more on a given day, your normal working hours would additionally include up to a daily one hour break.
- 13.2 From time to time, the Company may need to vary your hours, days and times of work if this is necessary to accommodate the needs of the business or the absence of your colleagues. Should the Company need to vary your working hours, you will be given reasonable notice of any such changes.

14. Sickness Leave

- 14.1 If you are unable to work through ill health or injury you will be entitled to sick leave in accordance with the policy on Leave and Holidays, which can be found in the Company's Intranet. The Company reserves the right to only approve sick leave of more than two consecutive workdays if certified by a medical practitioner of the Company's choice, and you hereby confirm that you co-operate with such an examination and to authorise the full disclosure of any resulting report to Barclays.
- 14.2 The payment of salary and any allowances during periods of sickness will be subject to as prescribed under the applicable laws and you following the requirements regarding notification and certification of absence as set out in this Employment Letter, on your intranet and the Company being satisfied that you are unable to work due to illness or injury.

15. Other absences from work

Approval should be obtained in advance from your line manager for absence during working hours. If unexpected circumstances mean that this is not possible, you should inform your line manager as soon as possible. Absence without approval and / or explanation will be dealt with under the disciplinary procedure which could result in disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company and which may result in the termination of your employment.

16. Amendments to terms and conditions of employment

- 16.1 The Company reserves the right to review, revise, amend, replace or withdraw the contents of these Terms and introduce new policies, practices, guidelines and procedures from time to time to reflect the changing needs of the business or any changes in legislation or regulation from time to time.
- 16.2 For the avoidance of doubt, where the Company retains a discretion under these Terms (including but not limited to the discretion to make incentive award(s) to you, any matters considered in the decision whether to make such an award and the value, form, conditions and timing of delivery of any such award(s)) such discretion cannot be limited or fettered in any way other than by consent between you and the Company which is documented formally in writing on the Company's headed paper by an authorised member of the Human Resources Department.

17. Allocation of duties and transfer within the Barclays Group

You confirm that the Company will be entitled at any time and with [prior notice (where required by applicable law) to: (i) assign you to carry out such projects and/or duties commensurate with your abilities as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (ii) assign you on a temporary or permanent basis to undertake additional duties and/or different duties commensurate with your abilities within any part or parts of the Barclays Group as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (iii) second you on a temporary or permanent basis to work for any company in the Barclays Group or to a third party and/or (iv) transfer your employment and its rights and obligations to another company in the Barclays Group.

18. Leaving Barclays

- 18.1 Subject to paragraph 2 of these Detailed Terms and Conditions the Company and you may each terminate this Employment Letter in accordance with the "Notice" paragraph set out in your Summary of Key Terms. In addition:
- (a) either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving one month's written notice (or, if greater, the minimum notice according to local applicable law) during any probationary period that may apply to you as set out in your Summary of Key Terms;
- (b) your employment shall be conditional on your ability to start work on the agreed Start Date. If you are unable to do so, you will have no entitlement to receive any payment or compensation whatsoever from the Company or the Barclays Group.

(c) your employment may also be terminated by the Company without notice or pay in lieu of notice if you commit an act of gross misconduct (as may be defined under applicable Company policy from time to time which may include failure to comply with any policies and/or procedures including those referred to in the Detailed Terms and Conditions, lack of competence, serious breach of the Terms, including improper or unethical behaviour;

(d) Your contractual and normal retirement age is 60 years. On the day you attain that age, your employment shall end automatically without any need for either party to serve written notice; and

(e) the Company may (without notice, pay in lieu of notice or incurring any obligation to pay compensation) immediately terminate your employment if you:

- i. are convicted of any criminal offence (other than a minor offence which, in the opinion of the Company, does not affect your position as an employee of the Company); or
- ii. are guilty of any act of dishonesty or gross or serious misconduct or any conduct which brings or is intended to bring any member of the Barclays Group or yourself into disrepute or may damage the business or affairs of the Barclays Group; or
- iii. have been found by the Company to have materially or repeatedly breached or have not complied with the terms of this Employment Letter (or otherwise fail or refuse to carry out the duties assigned to you); or
- iv. have breached or otherwise failed the Barclays Group sanctions screening policy or processes; or
- v. cease to hold or fail to obtain any regulatory approvals or consents which are required for the effective discharge by you of any duties assigned to you under this Employment Letter; or
- vi. materially breach the rules of the Regulator; or
- vii. breach any Barclays Group rules on anti-bribery or anti-corruption;
- viii. don't obtain or maintain the accreditation(s) or qualifications that you are required to have (in the Company's opinion, or according to relevant regulators or professional bodies) to be able to work in your job profile
- ix. be repeatedly absent without leave or absent without leave for a period exceeding 14 days.

This sub paragraph is not exhaustive and does not restrict any other right which the Company may have (whether at common law or otherwise) to terminate your employment summarily.

18.2 You shall be liable to pay the Damages to the Company, in case you fail to serve the requisite notice as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms. These Damages shall be in addition to the payment of salary in lieu of notice period. In respect of the Damages, the Company reserves the right to set-off against/ write off as amount payable/ withhold from the salary and/or any allowances. Further, you shall not be relieved from your contractual notice period, unless expressly relieved in writing.

18.3 The termination of your employment will not affect any terms of this Employment Letter which are intended to operate after the termination date, including the paragraphs relating to Intellectual Property, Confidentiality and Post Termination Restrictions.

18.4 On termination of your employment, irrespective of the reason, or at any other time when asked by the Company, you will:

- (a) immediately return to the Company all vehicles, equipment and documents, whether electronic or otherwise, and any other property (of any kind) (security pass, business cards, etc) relating to the business of or belonging to the Barclays Group, together with all copies of any such documents that you have in your possession or under your control;
- (b) irretrievably delete any information relating to the business of the Company or the Barclays Group stored on any computer or storage device and all information derived from the same in your possession or control and held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
- (c) resign with immediate effect from any offices or appointments you hold within or connected to the Barclays Group; and
- (d) confirm in writing that you have complied fully with the terms of this paragraph and provide evidence of compliance as the Company may request.

19. Payment in lieu of notice

19.1 The Company reserves the right in its sole and absolute discretion to terminate your employment and your terms with immediate effect (whether or not notice has been given by either party) by giving notice in writing to you of its intention to make a payment in lieu of notice and, if it does so, the Company shall make you a payment in lieu of notice, equal to the salary which you would have been entitled to receive if you had worked during your Notice Period or, if your Notice Period has started, the unexpired portion (the "Payment in Lieu"). Where the Company elects to make a Payment in Lieu of some or all of your Notice Period, your employment shall terminate on the date specified by the Company, regardless of when the Payment in Lieu is paid.

19.2 Any Payment in Lieu will be paid less tax and any applicable withholdings. You will not be entitled to receive any payment in respect of holiday entitlement that would have accrued during the period for which the Payment in Lieu is made.

19.3 Any Payment in Lieu may be paid by the Company in accordance with the Company policies and subject to the applicable laws. Any Payment in Lieu may at the Company's discretion be paid as a lump sum within one month of the Termination Date or in equal monthly instalments from the date on which notice is served until what would have been the end of the Notice Period provided always that if after exercising its discretion to make a Payment in Lieu the Company becomes aware of any grounds that would permit it to summarily terminate your employment any payments due under this clause 19.3 will cease to be payable and the net value of any Payment in Lieu that has been received by you shall be repaid as a debt to the Company within 30 days of the Company notifying you of this repayment obligation.

20. Garden leave and suspension

20.1 The Company may suspend you at any time from the performance of all or any of your duties:

- (a) for the whole or any part of any applicable Notice Period; or
- (b) for such periods and on such terms as is necessary to allow any investigation to take place (including, but not limited to an investigation by a regulatory authority or an investigation under the Company's disciplinary procedure).

20.2 During any period of suspension, the Company will be under no obligation to provide work for or assign any duties to you and may require you not to attend any premises of any member of the Barclays Group (other than as a customer) and may require you to:

- (a) not speak to, contact or otherwise communicate with or engage with any director, consultant, agent, contractor or employee of any member of the Barclays Group other than to carry out your personal banking, or any person, firm or company who, at the date of such suspension or exclusion is a client or customer of any member of the Barclays Group unless they are members of your immediate family;
- (b) at any time to carry out such special projects or duties commensurate with your abilities as the Company shall in its absolute discretion determine;
- (c) meet with representatives from the Company in order to facilitate a handover of work and provide assistance with ongoing business activity; and
- (d) take any holiday which you have accrued.

20.3 During any period of suspension:

- (a) your employment with the Company and this Employment Letter will continue and you will continue to be bound by your obligations under it (except as expressly set out in this paragraph) including, but not limited to, your obligations of confidentiality, good faith and fidelity to the Company; and
- (b) you shall continue to receive your basic salary and all contractual benefits in the usual way.

21. Post termination restrictions

21.1 You confirm to the Company (for itself and as trustee and agent for each member of the Barclays Group) that you will not, whether directly or indirectly, on your own behalf or on behalf of or in conjunction with any other person, firm, company or other entity:

- (a) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or

was a customer, client or supplier of the Company or the Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings in the course of your employment with the Company or in respect of whom you were aware of material and confidential information, in both cases within the 12 month period immediately prior to the Termination Date. Nothing in this paragraph will prohibit you from seeking or doing business which is not in direct or indirect competition with the business of the Barclays Group; and

(b) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date solicit or entice away or attempt to solicit or entice away or employ or engage any director, officer or employee of executive status in the Barclays Group with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to the Termination Date. For the purposes of this paragraph "employee of executive status" will include without limitation any employee of the Barclays Group with a corporate grading Managing Director, Director, Vice President (or equivalent grades, or anything which replaces these grades) and any employees of the Barclays Group with a lower corporate grading where in the 12 months prior to the Termination Date, you have had line manager responsibilities in relation to that employee or they have had line manager responsibilities or have been engaged in work or projects which in the Company's reasonable opinion are key to its business and / or mean that they are in possession of material and confidential information relating to the Barclays Group.

21.2 Each of the restrictions contained in this paragraph are considered by the parties to be reasonable in all the circumstances as at the date of this Employment Letter. However, the parties acknowledge that if any one or more of such restrictions will be judged to be void as going beyond what is reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the interests of the Barclays Group, but would be enforceable if words were deleted or one or more of the duration, range of activities and area covered were reduced in scope, the restrictions will be deemed to apply with such modifications as may be necessary to make them valid and effective. Any such modification will not affect the validity of any other restriction contained in this Employment Letter and it is confirmed that each restriction in this paragraph will be construed as separate and individual restrictions.

21.3 You confirm that if, during either your employment with the Company or the period of the restrictions set out in this paragraph you receive an offer of employment or engagement, you will provide a copy of these restrictions to the offeror as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the offer.

22. Further terms

22.1 No omission to exercise or delay in exercising any right, power or remedy of the Company under this Employment Letter will constitute a waiver of that right, power or remedy.

22.2 During your employment:

(a) the Company may at its discretion require that you undergo screening, including for criminal record, sanctions list and/or credit reference checks from time to time. It is anticipated that any such screening would only be undertaken if required for regulatory purposes or in order to comply with the minimum standards for the role you are undertaking; and

(b) you should advise the Company should any of the circumstances as set out in paragraph 16.1(e) of this Employment Letter arise or be brought against you.

22.3 You acknowledge that in entering into these Terms you have not relied on any representation or undertaking by the Company whether oral or in writing, except as expressly incorporated into this Employment Letter.

22.4 You consent to the Company monitoring your use of all Company resources and its communication and electronic equipment (including without limitation the telephone, internet, blackberry, software applications and email systems) and information stored on the Company's computer equipment, as described in your local acceptable use policy in accordance with the Barclays Group procedure and / or guidance on electronic communications. A copy of the policy that applies to you can be found on your intranet.

22.5 You understand that you may, during your employment, be granted awards under the terms of one or more of the Company's long term incentive plans or any incentive or bonus plan operated by the Barclays Group. If, on termination of your employment, you lose any of the rights or benefits under any such plans you will not be entitled, by way of compensation for loss of office or otherwise, to any compensation for the loss of any rights under any such plans.

22.6 If your employment is terminated at any time by reason of any reconstruction or amalgamation of the Company or any Barclays Group company, whether by winding up or otherwise, and you are offered employment with any concern or undertaking involved in or resulting from the reconstruction or amalgamation on terms which (considered in their entirety) are no less favourable to any material extent than the terms of this Employment Letter, you shall have no claim against the Company or any such undertaking arising out of or in connection with the termination.

23. Certifications

23.1 You confirm and certify that:

- (a) you are not precluded or restricted by any term of any agreement, undertaking or court order or any obligation to any third party from entering into this Employment Letter or undertaking or properly performing any of the duties of your employment with the Company;
- (b) you will notify the Company of any change in circumstances around the termination of your employment with your previous employer between the date of this Employment Letter and the Start Date;
- (c) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation by any company or body into suspected bribery or corruption activity where either: (i) the investigation was concluded and your conduct found to amount to misconduct; or (ii) where the investigation was on-going and did not reach a conclusion because your employment (or engagement) with that company or body was terminated during the investigation (whether by mutual consent or by voluntary termination or otherwise);
- (d) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation into suspected criminal activity involving elements of dishonesty (including theft or fraud) or anti-competitive behaviour; and
- (e) you will not during your employment at the Company breach any third party's rights in respect of confidential information and/or intellectual property.

23.2 Any breach of these certifications will entitle Barclays to immediately terminate your employment.

24. Governing law

Your Terms are governed in accordance with the laws of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management. The parties irrevocably submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the competent courts of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management in relation to any legal action or proceedings that arise out of or in connection with this Employment Letter.

25. Key policies, procedures and practices

25.1 During your employment with the Company (and where applicable after your employment has terminated) you must comply with all of the Company's policies and procedures and any legal and/or statutory and/or regulatory obligations, including (but not limited to) Barclays Group policies and procedures on, and any other obligations relating to, anti-bribery and corruption. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action being taken against you.

25.2 You should familiarise yourself with all policies and procedures that apply to your grade and business area as set out on your intranet. The Code of Conduct and the policies, guidelines and procedures on the following issues are particularly important (although this is not intended as a comprehensive list):

- Any applicable Employee Handbook
- Anti Bribery and Corruption
- Regulator's Business Principles
- Disclosure obligations
- Data protection, confidential information and Chinese walls
- Equality and Diversity
- Managing people, including on various types of leave and our disciplinary and grievance policies
- Bullying, Harassment and Discrimination policy
- Prevention of Sexual Harassment at the Workplace
- Dress at Work
- Electronic and other forms of communication
- Personal account and share dealing
- Conflicts of interest and outside business interests and affiliations
- Market conduct
- Gifts and Entertainment
- Health and Safety
- Whistleblowing or Raising Concerns
- Substance Abuse

25.3 Unless otherwise stated, these policies, guidelines and procedures do not form part of this Employment Letter.

25.4 The disciplinary and grievance rules and procedures which are applicable to your employment are set out on your intranet. These rules and procedures do not form part of this Employment Letter. If you wish to appeal against a disciplinary decision you should apply in writing to your line manager or HR contact in accordance with the Company's disciplinary procedure. If you wish to raise a grievance please apply in writing to your line manager or HR contact in accordance with the Company's grievance procedure.

Time Commitment: You are committing to 48 hours per week during the semester. Please let us know as far in advance as possible on details in case you plan days and times off.

Nature of Internship: By signing below, you acknowledge that you have consented to participate in this unpaid internship. Note that if credit is available from your institute for participation in an internship, we are glad to work with you to meet any requirements for receiving credit. On successful completion of the internship program, you will be awarded with an Internship Certificate.

You further acknowledge that: (1) the internship is for your benefit to receive training and mentoring, and to provide valuable experience for future job selection, application, and performance in the field of Information Technology; (2) you agree to work under the close observation of mentors at the Company; (3) unless advised otherwise, interns are not entitled to a job at the conclusion of the internship period; (4) you are not entitled to wages or other compensation other than your experience and learning for the time spent as an intern for the Company; and (5) you agree that the internship does not create an "employment" relationship under the Fair Labor Standards Act or any other definition, and the FLSA's minimum wage and overtime provisions do not apply.

Place of Work: You would be working remotely via home office or college lab and will not be provided with any physical work place. The tasks assigned to you would be tracked using project management tools and through regular online status meeting through web conference.

At-Will Agreement: Your internship with the Company is "At-Will." Accordingly, this letter is not to be construed or interpreted as containing any guarantee of any particular level or nature of compensation, continuation of internship or future employment. As such, the recitation of certain time periods in this letter is solely for the purpose of defining this internship. At any time, you or the Company can end this agreement by giving written notice (including by email) to the other party. Whenever this agreement ends, the Confidentiality & Copyrights Assignments section below will continue to apply indefinitely.

Representations: You represent that: (1) you are not a party to any agreement that would prohibit you from entering into internship or employment with the Company; (2) no trade secret or proprietary information belonging to your previous employers will be disclosed by you at the Company and that no such information, whether in the form of documents, memoranda, software, drawings, etc., will be retained by you or brought with you to the Company; and (3) you have brought to the Company's attention and provided it with a copy of any agreement, order of any court or administrative body or any other similar item that may impact your internship at the Company, including but not limited to any non-disclosure, non-competition, non-solicitation, privately owned patent or proprietary rights, either domestic or foreign or invention assignment agreements containing future work restrictions.

Confidentiality & Copyrights Assignments: During your internship and (if your internship is discontinued for any reason whatsoever) thereafter, you agree to hold in strictest confidence, and not to use, except for the benefit of the Company to the extent necessary to perform obligations to the Company, and not to disclose to any person, firm, corporation or other entity, without written authorization from the Company in each instance, any Confidential Information (as defined below) that you obtain, access or create during the term of the internship, whether or not during working hours, until such Confidential Information becomes publicly and widely known and made generally available through no wrongful act of yours or of others who were under confidentiality obligations as to the item or items involved. You further agree not to make copies of such Confidential Information except as authorized by the Company and that you will not reverse engineer or attempt to derive the composition or underlying information, structure or ideas of any Confidential Information. The foregoing does not grant you a license in or to any of the Confidential information.

"Confidential Information" means information and physical material not generally known or available outside the Company and information and physical material entrusted to the Company in confidence by third parties. Confidential Information includes, without limitation: (i) Company Inventions (as defined below); (ii) technical data, trade secrets, know-how, research, product or service ideas or plans, software codes and designs, developments, inventions, laboratory notebooks, processes, formulas, techniques, biological materials, mask works, engineering designs and drawings, hardware configuration information, lists of, or information relating to, employees, interns and consultants of the Company (including, but not limited to, the names, contact information, jobs, compensation, and expertise of such interns, employees and consultants), lists of, or information relating to, suppliers and customers (including, but not limited to, customers of the Company on whom you called or with whom you became acquainted during the internship), price lists, pricing methodologies, cost data, market share data, marketing plans, licenses, contract information, business plans, financial forecasts, historical financial data, budgets or other business information disclosed to you by the Company either directly or indirectly, whether in writing, electronically, orally, or by observation.

"Inventions" means discoveries, developments, concepts, designs, ideas, know how, improvements, inventions, trade secrets and/or original works of authorship, whether or not patentable, copyrightable or otherwise legally protectable. You understand this includes, but is not limited to, any new product, machine, article of manufacture, biological material, method, procedure, process, technique, use, equipment, device, apparatus, system, compound, formulation, composition of matter, design or configuration of any kind, or any improvement thereon. You understand that "Company Inventions" means any and all Inventions that you may solely or jointly author, discover, develop, conceive, or reduce to practice during the period of the internship.

You further agree to assign to the Company, or its designee, all right, title, and interest in and to any and all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, concepts, improvements, designs, drawings, discoveries, algorithms, formulas, computer code, ideas, trademarks, or trade secrets, whether or not patentable or can be registered under patent, copyright or similar laws, related to the Company's business, which you solely or jointly conceive or develop or reduce to practice, or cause to be conceived or developed or reduced to practice, with the use of Company's equipment, supplies, facilities, assets, or Company Confidential Information, or which may arise out of any research or other activity created in the scope of this internship.

In consideration for your internship at the Company, and disclosure of the information, you also agree that: (1) on the end of your association with the Company, you will promptly return all Proprietary Information and all copies, extracts, and other objects or items in which it may be contained or embodied; (2) you will promptly notify the Company of any unauthorized release of Proprietary Information within your control; (3) you agree to follow the Company's strict policy that employees and interns must not disclose, either directly or indirectly, any information, including any of the terms of this letter, regarding compensation to any person, including other employees and interns of the Company; provided, however, that you may discuss the terms of this letter with members of your immediate family and any legal, tax or accounting specialists who provide you with individual legal, tax or accounting advice; and (4) you understand and agree that any breach by you of the provisions in this section could cause the Company to suffer irreparable harm and no adequate remedy at law would be available in respect thereof. Accordingly, you agree that upon any such breach, the Company shall be entitled to seek equitable relief, as well as such further relief as may be granted by a court of competent jurisdiction. Since you might work with data belonging to customers located in different parts of the globe you agree to abide by the data protection and privacy law and shall not share any customer data to anyone outside the organization by any electronic or non-electronic means.

Choice of Law: You hereby agree that this Agreement shall be construed in accordance with the Indian Judicial Law.

Miscellaneous: (1) If any term or provision of this Agreement shall be held illegal, unenforceable, or in conflict with any law governing this Agreement the validity of the remaining portions shall not be affected thereby; (2) the failure of either party to enforce its rights under this Agreement at any time for any period shall not be construed as a waiver of such rights; (3) neither party shall assign or transfer all or any part of its rights under this Agreement without the consent of the other party; (4) this letter reflects the entire agreement regarding the terms and conditions of your internship. Accordingly, it supersedes and completely replaces any prior oral or written communication on this subject; and (5) this letter may not be modified or amended except by a written agreement, signed by the Company and by you.

To confirm your acceptance of this offer, please sign this document by 26th Dec.2022. If this document is not signed and received by end of said date, the offer will be considered retracted.

Sincerely,

X

Dear Soham Shreenivas,

Following our recent discussions, we are delighted to extend an offer of employment to you.

Enclosed are a Summary of Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and Detailed Terms and Conditions which set out important conditions relating to your employment and which, together, form your employment terms with Barclays ("Employment Letter").

The Employment Letter refers to the Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) as these are a central part of everything we do. The Values as well as our purpose and behaviours, will have formed a key part of your selection process when being offered a role at Barclays. You will be expected to act in accordance with the Values as a Barclays employee, and in particular, to follow our Code of Conduct (known as the Barclays Way). More information on this, and how we "live" the Values will be available prior to and on joining Barclays.

This offer is conditional upon you satisfying Barclays recruitment and screening conditions and procedures and where applicable, the appropriate regulatory approvals. To start the process you will need to complete an application form. If you have not already received it, you will receive a link to the site shortly.

On or before your first day of employment, you will need to provide written documentation which proves your eligibility to work in India. You will also need to sign one copy of your Employment Letter (enclosed) confirming that you have read, understood and accept the terms. You must return this on your first day of employment.

We look forward to welcoming you to Barclays.

Yours sincerely

Summary of Key Terms

Introduction to this Section

This section is intended as an "at a glance" summary of the key terms of the offer to you. You must, therefore, read these terms in conjunction with any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions which together comprise your Employment Letter.

Name	Soham Shreenivas Belurgikar
Position	Your role will be Grads, BA3 (or equivalent), or such other role as the Company reasonably decides from time to time.
Start Date	10 July 2023, or such other date agreed between us in writing, subject to the pre-employment conditions being met to the Company's satisfaction. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above. In addition to the terms set out elsewhere in the Agreement, this offer of employment is contingent upon successful completion of your current degree prior to your anticipated start date. Successful completion of your degree means that it is completed within the specified timelines highlighted in your application and that your final degree classification matches or exceeds the predicted results stated in your application to Barclays. It is your responsibility to inform our recruitment team immediately, if you suspect that your grades will be lower than those predicted. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above
Working Hours	Your hours of work will be an average of 40 per week. Rest intervals and breaks are separate from the 40 hours of work. The Company is operational 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, so depending on your business function, your working days and hours may involve day and night shifts, and working on weekends/weekly offs and holidays, as permitted under applicable laws. Your manager will inform you if you are required to work in a different shift. You will devote sufficient time to your duties. Subject to applicable laws, you may be required to work such additional hours as are required for the proper performance of your duties as per any applicable Company policy, which may require that you attend the office, or be available to fulfil your function, outside normal hours and days. Your working hours can be varied by the Company at its discretion, with reasonable notice and in accordance with applicable laws.
Initial Place of Work	You will initially be based in LTS - Barclays Global Service Centre, Gera Commerzone SEZ, Survey No.85, Village Kharadi Pune 411014. However, your place of work will be determined in line with the requirements of the scheme at Barclays' sole discretion. It is a condition of your employment that you agree that you may be required to work or travel to any branch or office (in India or overseas). Where you are required to work outside of India, additional terms and conditions may apply to your employment, which will be provided at the relevant time.
Probationary Period	Your employment is subject to a probationary period of 6 months, or such additional period as the company may in its discretion consider necessary.

Salary

Components	In INR Per Annum
Basic salary	462,000.00
House Rent Allowance	231,000.00
Flexible Benefit Plan (see further "Statutory and other Benefits" below)	462,000.00
Annual Salary	1,155,000.00
Provident Fund (Employer's Contribution)	55,440.00
Gratuity (per Company policy)	22,212.00
Total Fixed Pay	1,232,652.00

Salary will be payable on a monthly basis, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses, and other statutory deductions, and is currently paid on or around the 24th (or the prior working day if the 24th is not a working day) of each month. The estimated CTC above does not create any contractual right to any such payment.

You may be eligible to receive discretionary allowances as mentioned above or otherwise, subject to and in accordance with the Company's policy on such allowances / flexible benefit pay component of the salary, subject to amendment from time to time by the Company, to reflect changes in law, tax, or other reasons. These allowances may be reduced or withdrawn.

Your allowances will be paid along with your salary as mentioned above, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other statutory deductions.

Other Payments

The Company agrees to pay you a one-off non-pensionable scholarship and bursary payment of Rs.100,000.00 (the "Scholarship and Bursary Payment") in recognition of your studying costs. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be paid within 90 days from your date of joining Barclays. The payment will be made subject to applicable tax and / or other withholdings or deductions as required by law or regulation.

As agreed by you, this Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be subject to your compliance with the following requirements:

You will be required to repay the Scholarship and Bursary Payment net of any taxes or other deductions or withholdings as required by law or regulation within 30 days of any of the following occurring:

- you have terminated your employment voluntarily (or have given the Company notice to terminate your employment) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you are dismissed for gross misconduct or fundamental breach of contract or for a serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group (or you have been given notice to terminate your employment for these reasons) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you fail to satisfy the pre-employment conditions of as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company.

The Company may adjust this repayment amount from any amount payable to you by any Barclays Group company. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment should not be interpreted as giving rise to any right to or legitimate expectation of any other award, nor is it any assurance as to the level of any award which may be made to you in future, which will be at the Company's discretion.

You were also given an opportunity to join your employment without the Scholarship and Bursary Payment and therefore your liability to repay the amount, as has been mentioned above, in no case to be considered as a deterrent to restrict your employment for a specific term.

Qualifications/
Examinations

It is a condition of your employment and continued employment with the Company that you successfully complete any professional qualification and/or examination as may be required and notified to you by the Company from time to time, including without limitation any qualifications or examinations required by the Regulator. You will be expected to pass all exams within a predetermined period and/or within one or more sittings, which shall be set out in the Company policy.

Subject to the terms set out below and the Company policy, the Company will be responsible for the cost of any first attempts at any such qualification with our preferred provider, including study books and associated examination fees. You should refer to the Company policy for details.

If you do not pass any exam or obtain a qualification within the period specified or within the relevant number of attempts (which may in some cases only be one) the Company reserves the right to terminate your employment.

In the event that your employment is terminated for gross misconduct, or if you resign from the Company or otherwise terminate your employment or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, you will be required (except where a qualification or examination is required by the Regulator) to repay to the Company the following sums in full within 30 days:

- 100% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment at any time during your course of study, or within six months of completing your course of study, or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company; or
- 50% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment within six twelve months of completing your course of study

Any such sums owed by you to the Company will be deducted from any sums due to you from the Company or, if such a deduction is not made, will be deemed to be due as a debt from you to the Company.

Discretionary Incentive Award

You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis, at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to you being eligible at the relevant time. Normally, awards are made in the first quarter, in respect of the previous financial year.

Statutory and Other Benefits

You will be eligible for various statutory benefits in accordance with the relevant laws. You will also be eligible to participate in the Company's benefits scheme, details of which are set out in the attached flyer which does not form part of your contract or have any contractual effect.

Any benefits are subject to the relevant policies/plans from time to time in force. The Company reserves the right to change the benefits or policies/plans from time to time.

If the Company pays or reimburses any expense on your joining the Company towards your relocation from your current place of stay to your place of posting as agreed between the Company and you, if your employment ends less than one year after the Start Date you confirm that you will pay to the Company (or alternatively Company may set-off against/ write off) any amount paid or reimbursed in respect of such relocation from the amount payable to you.

Annual Leave

You are entitled to avail annual leave which includes privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave entitlement in accordance with the applicable laws in the state of your Place of Work. Further details are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions and on your intranet.

Notice Period

Either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving two months written notice, however, the Company may terminate your employment with immediate effect in accordance with applicable Company policies.

Any reduction/ waiver to notice period shall be at the sole discretion of the Company. Company may adjust balance of annual leaves while granting such reduction/ waiver.

Further information on Notice is included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Overtime

Employees who are eligible under applicable laws to be paid Overtime for work beyond normal working hours, will be paid for the same in accordance to the applicable State laws at your Place of Work.

Detailed Terms and Conditions

Introduction

About the Detailed Terms and Conditions

The purpose of the Detailed Terms and Conditions is to provide you with the relevant information on what the Company and the Barclays Group expects from its employees.

The Detailed Terms and Conditions also set out a list of key practices, guidelines and processes that the Barclays Group has developed to reflect our values, purpose and behaviour and as part of our high performance culture and, in accordance with your contractual obligations, must be adhered to at all times. Further information and policies can be found on your own business unit intranet site.

It is important that we review our policies, practices, guidelines and processes to ensure that we stay at the leading edge, enabling us to be one of the most admired financial services companies in the world. From time to time, our policies and procedures do change and you must familiarise yourself with them on joining and periodically throughout your employment. References in the Detailed Terms and Conditions to a policy, practice, guideline and / or process generally are references to the relevant policy, practice, guideline and / or process in force at the relevant time.

These detailed terms and conditions also refer to the Barclays Values which must be adhered to at all times. The Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) are set out on your own business unit intranet site.

You should also refer to Appendix 1 which sets out definitions of the terms used in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Your Detailed Terms and Conditions of Employment

1. Introduction to this Section

This section sets out your detailed terms and conditions of employment and should be read alongside your enclosed Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedules. These documents form your employment terms with the Company and are referred to in this document as "Employment Letter". By signing the Employment Letter you confirm that you have read, understood and accept the terms set out in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

2. Pre-employment and ongoing conditions

- 2.1 Your confirmation in the employment will be subject to successful completion of the Probationary Period as mentioned in the summary of terms or such additional period as the Company considers necessary in its absolute discretion. Your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically unless communicated otherwise in writing.
- 2.2 You understand that the Company's offer of employment is made to you subject to and conditional on the completion of certain pre-employment procedures and processes. You certify that the information that you have provided in connection with completion of the procedures and otherwise in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview stage) is true and accurate both at the time it is given and on the Start Date. The Company reserves the right to carry out screening checks on all employees, and such procedures may include but are not limited to:
 - (a) receipt of references and documentary proof that are satisfactory to the Company that you are legally entitled to reside and work in your country;
 - (b) completion of credit checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (c) where criminal record checks are applicable to your role, completion of those checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (d) if requested by the Company, a medical examination by the Company's medical advisers;
 - (e) where Regulator approval for your appointment is required and such approval is sought before your employment commences, such approval either (i) being obtained or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator; (iii) receipt of documentary proof that you hold the appropriate and relevant qualifications; and
 - (f) the Company receiving a signed copy of the Terms from you.
- 2.3 Whilst every effort will be made to complete all the checks and processes in the pre-employment procedures before your Start Date, this may not always be possible. In case you are employed prior to completion of the pre-employment procedure, the Company may terminate your employment at any time on minimum statutory notice if the check reports are not up to our satisfaction or the procedures are not completed within a reasonable period of time.
- 2.4 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to you obtaining, holding and continuing to hold all applicable qualifications, licences and registrations as required by your role. Where Regulator approval for your role is required and such approval is sought after your employment commences, then your continued employment is conditional on such approval either: (i) being obtained; or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator (or other relevant regulatory body).
- 2.5 You shall be liable and responsible to inform and update your latest contact and address details, in the records of the Company, from time to time. Failure to comply may constitute gross negligence on your part.
- 2.6 You should not engage in any matter which would or could be anticipated to result in a conflict of interest between you and the Company.

2.7 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your successful completion of certain trainings (such as Communication & Culture and/or other process and policy trainings accreditations) that may be assigned to you by the Company from time to time. In case you remain absent for more than 2 days during these training programs or you become unable to qualify the trainings to the satisfaction of the Company, the Company shall have the sole discretion to take appropriate action including termination of your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii of the detailed terms and conditions of this Employment Letter. In case of your absence due to any personal emergency, your Line Manager shall on his/her sole discretion and upon evaluation of the reason of your absence, may recommend the Company to realign you for the next available training within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence. In case you are realigned for the next training as mentioned above, there may be possible change in process and/or compensation on account of such realignment. If for any reason you do not agree to the realignment terms or no such realignment is possible within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence, the Company shall have the sole discretion to terminate your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii.

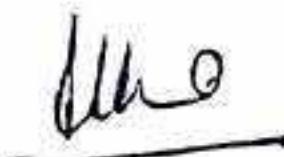

3. Place of Work and Mobility

Your place of work is as set out in your Summary of Key Terms. However you may need to travel to other locations and offices as reasonably required in the performance of your duties. You confirm that you will travel to such places (both inside and outside India) as the Company may reasonably require from time to time. Should the Company need to permanently change your place of work, you will be given reasonable notice of any such change (acceptable in e-mail/letter format).

4. Duties

4.1 During your employment with the Company you confirm that you will:

- (a) act in a manner consistent with and which supports our values, purpose and behaviours and in particular the Barclays Values;
- (b) devote the whole of your working time and attention to the business of the Company and the Barclays Group;
- (c) diligently and faithfully perform such duties and exercise such powers and functions as may reasonably be assigned to you by the Company in relation to its business and that of the Barclays Group to the best of your ability and with integrity, due skill, care and diligence;
- (d) use your best efforts to promote and protect the interests of the Company and the Barclays Group and not do anything to harm those interests;
- (e) comply with all reasonable requests, instructions and regulations given by the Company and the Barclays Group and promptly provide such explanations, information and assistance as to your activities in the business of the Company and the Barclays Group as they may reasonably need;
- (f) neither engage in any activities which would detract from the proper performance of your duties under the terms of this Employment Letter, nor (without the prior written consent of the Company) in any capacity including as director, shareholder, principal, consultant, agent, partner or employee engage or be concerned or interested directly or indirectly in any other trade, business or occupation whatsoever provided always that such activities are in compliance with Barclays policies on outside or external business interests. This paragraph will not prevent you holding for investment purposes only, shares or securities which do not exceed three per cent (3%) in nominal value of the share capital or stock of any class of any company quoted on a recognised stock exchange;
- (g) not engage or be interested in any activities which place you in a position where your interests conflict improperly with those of the Barclays Group, its clients, customers or shareholders. Barclays recognises that, on occasion, a conflict of interest may arise which is unavoidable. In such circumstances you must make your line manager and local compliance control room or compliance contact aware of the issue immediately. You must not act in relation to the matter, without their written direction or approval; and
- (h) report any actual or proposed unlawful activity or behaviour affecting the Barclays Group by you or any other employee, officer, contractor of the Barclays Group or any other person to your manager (or, if they are potentially involved in such unlawful activity or behaviour, to your HR Business Partner or a member of your Compliance team) immediately on becoming aware of it.

5. Salary and allowances

Your salary will be paid on a monthly basis on or around the last working day of each month and is subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other applicable withholdings. All tax liabilities arising out of your entire remuneration package, present or future, shall be borne by you. Your salary and any allowances will accrue on a daily basis and will be paid pro rata if you are employed for part of a month.

Your salary will be reviewed annually without commitment to increase. The Company may deduct from any payments to you any money owed by you to any Barclays Group company in accordance with the applicable laws.

Your acceptance to these terms shall confirm your consent to the Company making payment of your salary, compensation, award, incentive/ bonus etc. by way of credit to bank account with the bank of Company's choice or via such other mode as the Company may deem appropriate.

b. Discretionary Incentive award

- 6.1 You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis. The value, form, conditions of delivery and timing of any such awards are at the Company's discretion. This discretion includes the right to make the award or a proportion of the award in a form other than cash, including an award of Shares and to defer an element of an award under the terms of a Barclays Group incentive plan.
- 6.2 Any discretionary incentive award will only be made if, at that time, you are in employment and are not under notice (whether given or received) nor under suspension or investigation for a regulatory or disciplinary matter.
- 6.3 If you are subject to any investigation or disciplinary process at the time when communication, payment or making of any payment and/or award would otherwise occur, then the delivery of that payment and/or award will be suspended. If on conclusion of any investigation and/or disciplinary process, you are dismissed for gross misconduct or cause and / or have committed any serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group, then no payment and / or award will be made to you. If no disciplinary action (or disciplinary action short of dismissal) is taken against you, then a payment and / or award may be made to you after the conclusion of that process. However, the amount of any award and / or payment to which you are entitled may be reduced by the Company in its sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, any award and / or payment may be reduced to nil in such circumstances.
- 6.4 Notwithstanding paragraph 6.3, any unpaid or unvested award (or portion of an unpaid or unvested award) may be reduced (to nil if appropriate) at the Company's discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company may exercise its discretion including as a result of:
 - (a) Barclays PLC or any subsidiary's financial statements having been materially restated for the period for which the award was made other than restatement due to a change in accounting policy or to rectify a minor error; or
 - (b) Your actions having, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Company:
 - i. deliberately misled the management of the Company, the market and/or Barclays PLC shareholders regarding the financial performance of Barclays PLC or of any subsidiary;
 - ii. caused harm to the reputation of the Barclays Group;
 - iii. amounted to misconduct, negligence, incompetence or poor performance ("misconduct", "negligence", "incompetence", and "poor performance" as determined by the Remuneration Committee acting in good faith, following consultation with the Company); or
 - (c) The Barclays Group or any of its subsidiaries, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Risk Committee, has suffered a material failure of risk management.
- 6.5 Should the Company become aware that the amount of any award that has been paid or released to you was calculated on the basis of any false, incorrect or misstated information, then, the Company may, within one year of any such payment or release being made, request that you will repay as a debt to the Company the amount (or any part of the amount) as may be determined in the Company's sole discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. You confirm that in the event a repayment obligation arises the Company is entitled to deduct the appropriate amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you (including in instalments) as it determines in its discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws.

- 6.6 A payment of cash and / or a release of Shares or other instruments under an award will be subject to tax and other applicable withholdings, taxes, duties, cesses, deductions and will be subject to the rules of any applicable incentive plan.
- 6.7 Whether you are eligible to receive a discretionary incentive award, and if so, the amount shall be determined at the absolute discretion of the Company. You have no contractual right, whether express or implied, to receive an award at all, or an award of any particular amount, and the making of an award in any year does not give rise to any obligation on the Company to make an award in any future year. For the avoidance of doubt, your employment may be terminated by the Company at any time, for any reason, in accordance with clauses 18 or 19 of this Employment Letter and the exercise of that right to terminate is not limited or fettered by any term (express or implied).
- 6.8 Within Barclays, certain (usually senior) roles are designated as 'Material Risk Taker' ('MRT') roles. Where you are a MRT for any particular year you will be notified of this during or following the end of the relevant year. At any time during the seven year period from the date on which any variable remuneration is awarded to you in respect of a period for which you are a MRT (the "Relevant Variable Remuneration"), if Barclays determines that:

- (a) your actions or omissions have, in the reasonable opinion of Barclays amounted to misbehaviour or material error; and / or
- (b) Barclays or the relevant business unit has suffered a material failure of risk management, then, without prejudice to Barclays other remedies, Barclays may require that you repay an amount, not exceeding the value of the Relevant Variable Remuneration. The repayment shall be of such value as may be determined in Barclays discretion acting in good faith, to such Barclays Group Company and on such terms as Barclays may direct.

In respect of paragraph 6.8 (b) above, Barclays shall take into account your proximity to the applicable failure and your level of responsibility before any request for repayment is made. In respect of paragraphs (a) and (b) above, before any request for repayment is made, Barclays shall take into consideration whether you (i) have participated in, or were responsible for, conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Barclays Group or (ii) failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety.

For the avoidance of doubt, the whole or any part of the Relevant Variable Remuneration can be clawed back if Barclays makes its determination within seven years from the date that the Relevant Variable Remuneration was awarded to you even if an event falling within (a) or (b) above occurred prior to the date of award.

The determination of what constitutes "misbehaviour", "material error", "material failure of risk management", "significant losses" and "appropriate standards of fitness and propriety" shall be determined by Barclays acting in good faith.

You confirm that in the event Barclays makes a repayment determination, you shall repay the amount subject to that determination within the time period specified in the determination. You further confirm and provide authorisation for Barclays to deduct the appropriate repayment amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you, to the full extent permitted under local law, whether from Barclays or any other Barclays Group company.

You acknowledge that (in addition to its rights at clause 16 (Amendments to terms and conditions of employment) the terms of this clause 6.8 may be amended by Barclays to the extent deemed reasonably necessary in order to comply with law, regulations or guidance published by any regulatory authority or other relevant authority from time to time.

This clause shall apply in addition to the general right of repayment set out in clause 6.5 of the Employment Letter.

7. Statutory and Other Benefits

- 7.1 You will be eligible for various statutory benefits as mentioned in the Summary of Key terms and in accordance with the relevant laws.
- 7.2 The Company operates or may operate a benefits programme for its employees and your benefits are/will set out in full in the attached benefits brochure (except the statutory benefits mentioned above, these benefits do not form part of your contract of employment or have any contractual or other legal effect).
- 7.3 The Company has the right at its absolute discretion to amend or withdraw the benefits at any time and without any compensation or notice to you and / or replace any benefit with an alternative at its discretion.
- 7.4 Participation in any benefits scheme is subject to the rules of the relevant schemes, which may vary from time to time, and is subject to you satisfying any applicable requirements of the relevant third party providers (where relevant). Your participation may be excluded where, in Barclays opinion, cover can only be obtained on the basis that exceptional conditions or unusually high premiums are imposed or levied by the insurer or provider.

8. Annual Leave

- 8.1 Your annual leave entitlement is set out in the Summary of Key Terms. The Company's annual leave year currently runs from 1 January to the 31 December. The dates of the annual leave year may be changed. You are obliged to take all your annual leave entitlement in the relevant year, unless a policy/Handbook applicable to you states otherwise, in which case leave may only be carried over subject to and in accordance with those terms and applicable law. Your annual leave dates must be agreed in advance with your line manager. You will be allowed to carry your unutilised privileged leaves over to the next annual leave year, subject to the limit and restrictions as may be defined in the company policy and subject to the applicable laws. There is no provision of encashment of unutilised leave (including in case of termination of employment), except where such encashment is mandated by law applicable at the place of your employment at the relevant time.
- 8.2 If your employment begins during an annual leave year, your annual leave entitlement (plus any Bank or Public Holidays which fall during this period), will be calculated pro rata. During the probationary period you may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favour up until the time of taking such leave. Any unutilised leave at the time of cessation of employment shall lapse and any payment to be made in lieu of the unutilised leave shall be at the sole discretion of Barclays unless mandated by the applicable law. If you have taken more leave than your accrued entitlement, you shall be required to repay to the Company an amount equivalent to any holiday taken in excess of your pro rata holiday entitlement, and the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your final salary instalment or any other sum owed by the Company to you at the Termination Date.
- 8.3 In accordance with regulatory guidelines and the Company's policies, the Company may require you to go on a mandatory block leave.

9. Intellectual Property

- 9.1 For the purposes of this paragraph:

"Intellectual Property Rights" means (i) copyright and related rights, patents, know-how, confidential information, database rights, inventions and rights in trademarks and designs (whether registered or unregistered), (ii) applications for registration, and the right to apply for registration, for any of the same, and (iii) all other intellectual property rights and equivalent or similar forms of protection existing anywhere in the world;

"Invention" means any invention, idea, discovery, development, improvement or innovation made, whether or not patentable or capable of registration, and whether or not recorded in any medium; and

"Works" means all documents, materials, software, photographic or graphic works of any type, and other materials in any medium or format which are created or developed, or are in the process of being created or developed, or used (whether in final form or otherwise) by you or on your behalf or by the Company in the course of your employment with the Company or for the benefit of the Company and which are protected by, contain or relate to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.2 You will promptly disclose and deliver up to the Company all and any Works conceived, or made by you during and in the course of your employment (whether conceived, or made during normal working hours, in your normal place of work, or in conjunction with others, or otherwise). You confirm that you will provide the Company with all originals and copies of all correspondence, documents and other materials in whatever medium or form relating to or concerning the Works and the Intellectual Property Rights they contain.
- 9.3 You confirm that you will only use the Works to perform your obligations under Employment Letter and that you will not make personal copies of any Works other than for the purposes of your employment with the Company.
- 9.4 It is understood that all Intellectual Property Rights created by you in the course of your employment shall be "work for hire". You acknowledge that you have, and will have at all times while you are employed by the Company, a special obligation to further the interests of the undertakings of the Company, and that all Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works will automatically, on creation, belong to and vest in the Company absolutely to the fullest extent provided by law.
- 9.5 To the extent that the Works and Intellectual Property Rights do not vest in the Company or the Barclays Group automatically, you will hold such Works and Intellectual Property Rights on trust for the benefit of the Company until the Works and Intellectual Property Rights vest absolutely in the Company.
- 9.6 You confirm that you will immediately, upon request and at the Company's expense, provide all such documents and assistance as may be necessary to vest the Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works in the Company, to enable

the Company to enjoy the full benefit of the Intellectual Property Rights, and to enable the Company to enforce its Intellectual Property Rights against third parties or defend claims brought against the Company in relation to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.7 By signing Employment Letter you accept and confirm to assign to the Company or a member of the Barclays Group (as specified by the Company) all current and future Intellectual Property Rights in the Works and any other proprietary rights capable of assignment by way of present assignment of future rights for the full term of such rights. You confirm that such assignment shall be perpetual, worldwide and royalty free. You also confirm that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 19(4) of the Copyright Act, 1957, such assignment in so far as it relates to copyrightable material shall not lapse nor the rights transferred therein revert to the Employee, even if the Company does not exercise the rights under the assignment within a period of one year from the date of assignment. You acknowledge and confirm that you shall waive any right to and shall not raise any objection or claims to the Copyright Board with respect to the assignment, pursuant to Section 19A of the Copyright Act, 1957.
- 9.8 You unconditionally and irrevocably waive your moral rights in relation to existing and future Works, including your right to be identified as the author of the Works and not to have the Works subject to derogatory treatment. You acknowledge that, except as may be expressly provided by law, no further remuneration or compensation other than that provided for under Employment Letter is or may become due to you.
- 9.9 When this Employment Letter expires or terminates, for whatever reason, you will immediately deliver up to the Company all Works in your possession or under your control, and under no circumstances may any Works be retained by you except with the prior written consent of the Company.
- 9.10 Without prejudice to any specific legal rights which you may otherwise have, you acknowledge that no further remuneration or compensation other than that expressly provided for in this Employment Letter will become due to you in respect of your compliance with this Section 9.

10. Confidentiality

- 10.1 During your employment with the Company or at any time afterwards, you must not disclose to any person or make use of any Confidential Information or trade secrets that you have obtained in the course of your employment. This includes information that you have acquired in the course of your employment concerning the business or affairs of the Company and/or any other Barclays Group company or our customers or clients. You are required to use your best efforts to prevent the unauthorised publication or disclosure of any such Confidential information. Exceptions to this are the use of information for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter, where the Company has given written consent or disclosure is required by law, where the information is already in or comes into the public domain (other than by your unauthorised disclosure).
- 10.2 During your employment or at any time afterwards, you must not make any copy or record (whether recorded in writing, on computer disc, electronically or otherwise) of any Confidential Information, unless this is required for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter. Any such information belongs to the Barclays Group and must be returned by you either at any time during the course of your employment on the request of the Company and immediately on termination of your employment.
- 10.3 For the purposes of this Employment Letter, "Confidential Information" means information concerning the business, affairs, finance, clients or trade connections of the Company, any member of the Barclays Group, or any of its customers, clients, suppliers or agents. This includes but is not limited to:
- (a) commercially sensitive information or trade secrets;
 - (b) corporate and marketing strategy, business development plans, sales reports and research results;
 - (c) business methods and processes, technical information and know-how relating to the Barclays Group's business and which is not available to the public generally, including inventions, designs, programmes, techniques, database systems, formulae and ideas;
 - (d) business contacts, lists or details of clients and suppliers and details of contacts with them, their business or affairs, including client names and client contact details, financial and personal affairs, and trading history and methodology;
 - (e) information on employees and the terms and conditions of their employment, details of employee benefits, incentive schemes/plans, salary scales and/or current or anticipated trade union/employee disputes;

(f) information or details of any actual, potential or threatened litigation, legal action, claim, dispute or arbitration against or with any member of the Barclays Group or any current or former director, officer or employee of the Barclays Group in such capacity and any information in respect of provisions for any such action;

(g) budgets, management accounts, trading statements and other financial reports;

(h) unpublished price sensitive information relating to shares or securities listed or dealt in on any recognised stock exchange; and

(i) any other information which any member of the Barclays Group or any of its employees or consultants has identified (orally, in writing, or by its or their actions) as being secret or confidential in nature or which would reasonably be considered as confidential.

10.4 You shall not solicit business for the Company from any clients belonging to your previous employer/s in breach of your terms of employment with your previous employer. You shall not use any confidential information that came to your knowledge in the course of your previous employment while working with the Company. You undertake to indemnify the Company against any action that the Company may face on account of your actions in breach of your obligations to your previous employer/s.

11. Regulatory compliance and dealing codes

11.1 The nature of the Barclays Group's business is such that it is authorised and regulated by the appropriate Regulator.

11.2 It is your responsibility to know, understand and comply with all legal, regulatory and governance obligations, including the provisions of the Regulatory and Compliance policies that are relevant to you. If you are in any doubt as to your responsibilities in this regard or the rules which apply to you, you must contact the Compliance team within your business area.

11.3 If you are a Regulator approved person (or any equivalent status with any other regulator) you must comply with the Regulator's Statement of Principles and Code of Practice for Approved Persons (or meet the applicable standards). Failure to meet these Principles / Standards and / or to comply with this Code of Practice (or other applicable standards) may result in investigation by the regulator, applicable regulator and/or the Company, and / or disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company which may result in the termination of your employment.

11.4 You confirm that you will be bound by and will comply with the Barclays Group Share Dealing Code and with any more stringent dealing rules applicable to you or the area of the business in which you work. In particular, you agree not to make any investment, directly or indirectly, in any company or business which is a customer or client of the Barclays Group and which may in the reasonable opinion of the Company be expected to cause your personal or family interests to conflict with your duty to the Company in any respect.

11.5 Any incentives or compensation payable to you by any member of the Company or Group Company (under this Employment Letter or otherwise, including any guaranteed amounts and including, where applicable, the payment and settlement schedule and split of cash and Shares as set out in this Employment Letter) are subject to limitation or modification to the extent reasonably deemed necessary by the Company including in order to remain consistent with Barclays remuneration policy (as amended from time to time) or to comply with laws and regulations, including any regulations or guidance published by the Regulator from time to time.

12. Expenses

There may be occasions when you incur business expenses for instance, travelling to a training course or visiting another business location for a meeting. Any expenses must be pre-approved and claimed promptly and will be reimbursed to you in line with our procedures, a copy of which can be found on your intranet.

The Company at its sole discretion may bear certain expenses on your training, learning and developmental needs, subject to your acceptance of the terms and obligations as would be mentioned in the agreement ("Training Agreement") that may be executed with you.

As a consideration to the training expenses to be incurred by the Company, you may be asked to work with the Company for a certain period of time, post completion of the said trainings/ programs/courses, as the case may be and/or to compensate the Company by paying an agreed sum as liquidated damages. Your specific obligations will form part of the Training Agreement to be executed with you. For the execution of the Training Agreement, you may be asked to get a surety to undertake your obligations under the terms of the Training Agreement.

Unless otherwise agreed in the Training Agreement, any breach of the terms of the said Training Agreement, will be considered as the breach of the terms of this Letter.

13. Attendance at work

13.1 Your Summary of Key Terms will provide you with details of the particular working pattern that applies to you, and any specific arrangements that may apply regarding changes to this pattern. If you work full time, or for 8 hours or more on a given day, your normal working hours would additionally include up to a daily one hour break.

13.2 From time to time, the Company may need to vary your hours, days and times of work if this is necessary to accommodate the needs of the business or the absence of your colleagues. Should the Company need to vary your working hours, you will be given reasonable notice of any such changes.

14. Sickness Leave

14.1 If you are unable to work through ill health or injury you will be entitled to sick leave in accordance with the policy on Leave and Holidays, which can be found in the Company's Intranet. The Company reserves the right to only approve sick leave of more than two consecutive workdays if certified by a medical practitioner of the Company's choice, and you hereby confirm that you co-operate with such an examination and to authorise the full disclosure of any resulting report to Barclays.

14.2 The payment of salary and any allowances during periods of sickness will be subject to as prescribed under the applicable laws and you following the requirements regarding notification and certification of absence as set out in this Employment Letter, on your intranet and the Company being satisfied that you are unable to work due to illness or injury.

15. Other absences from work

Approval should be obtained in advance from your line manager for absence during working hours. If unexpected circumstances mean that this is not possible, you should inform your line manager as soon as possible. Absence without approval and / or explanation will be dealt with under the disciplinary procedure which could result in disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company and which may result in the termination of your employment.

16. Amendments to terms and conditions of employment

16.1 The Company reserves the right to review, revise, amend, replace or withdraw the contents of these Terms and introduce new policies, practices, guidelines and procedures from time to time to reflect the changing needs of the business or any changes in legislation or regulation from time to time.

16.2 For the avoidance of doubt, where the Company retains a discretion under these Terms (including but not limited to the discretion to make incentive award(s) to you, any matters considered in the decision whether to make such an award and the value, form, conditions and timing of delivery of any such award(s)) such discretion cannot be limited or fettered in any way other than by consent between you and the Company which is documented formally in writing on the Company's headed paper by an authorised member of the Human Resources Department.

17. Allocation of duties and transfer within the Barclays Group

You confirm that the Company will be entitled at any time and with [prior notice (where required by applicable law) to: (i) assign you to carry out such projects and/or duties commensurate with your abilities as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (ii) assign you on a temporary or permanent basis to undertake additional duties and/or different duties commensurate with your abilities within any part or parts of the Barclays Group as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (iii) second you on a temporary or permanent basis to work for any company in the Barclays Group or to a third party and/or (iv) transfer your employment and its rights and obligations to another company in the Barclays Group.

18. Leaving Barclays

18.1 Subject to paragraph 2 of these Detailed Terms and Conditions the Company and you may each terminate this Employment Letter in accordance with the "Notice" paragraph set out in your Summary of Key Terms. In addition:

(a) either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving one month's written notice (or, if greater, the minimum notice according to local applicable law) during any probationary period that may apply to you as set out in your Summary of Key Terms;

(b) your employment shall be conditional on your ability to start work on the agreed Start Date. If you are unable to do so, you will have no entitlement to receive any payment or other benefit from the Company or the Barclays Group;

(c) your employment may also be terminated by the Company without notice or pay in lieu of notice if you commit an act of gross misconduct (as may be defined under applicable Company policy from time to time which may include failure to comply with any policies and/or procedures including those referred to in the Detailed Terms and Conditions, lack of competence, serious breach of the Terms including improper or unethical behaviour;

(d) Your contractual and normal retirement age is 60 years. On the day you attain that age, your employment shall end automatically without any need for either party to serve written notice; and

(e) the Company may (without notice, pay in lieu of notice or incurring any obligation to pay compensation) immediately terminate your employment if you:

- i. are convicted of any criminal offence (other than a minor offence which, in the opinion of the Company, does not affect your position as an employee of the Company); or
- ii. are guilty of any act of dishonesty or gross or serious misconduct or any conduct which brings or is intended to bring any member of the Barclays Group or yourself into disrepute or may damage the business or affairs of the Barclays Group; or
- iii. have been found by the Company to have materially or repeatedly breached or have not complied with the terms of this Employment Letter (or otherwise fail or refuse to carry out the duties assigned to you); or
- iv. have breached or otherwise failed the Barclays Group sanctions screening policy or process; or
- v. cease to hold or fail to obtain any regulatory approvals or consents which are required for the effective discharge by you of any duties assigned to you under this Employment Letter; or
- vi. materially breach the rules of the Regulator; or
- vii. breach any Barclays Group rules on anti-bribery or anti-corruption;
- viii. don't obtain or maintain the accreditation(s) or qualifications that you are required to have (in the Company's opinion, or according to relevant regulators or professional bodies) to be able to work in your job profile
- ix. be repeatedly absent without leave or absent without leave for a period exceeding 14 days.

This sub paragraph is not exhaustive and does not restrict any other right which the Company may have (whether at common law or otherwise) to terminate your employment summarily.

18.2 You shall be liable to pay the Damages to the Company, in case you fail to serve the requisite notice as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms. These Damages shall be in addition to the payment of salary in lieu of notice period. In respect of the Damages, the Company reserves the right to set-off against/ write off as amount payable withhold from the salary and/or any allowances. Further, you shall not be relieved from your contractual notice period, unless expressly relieved in writing.

18.3 The termination of your employment will not affect any terms of this Employment Letter which are intended to operate after the termination date, including the paragraphs relating to Intellectual Property, Confidentiality and Post Termination Restrictions.

18.4 On termination of your employment, irrespective of the reason, or at any other time when asked by the Company, you will:

- (a) immediately return to the Company all vehicles, equipment and documents, whether electronic or otherwise, and any other property (of any kind) (security pass, business cards, etc) relating to the business of or belonging to the Barclays Group, together with all copies of any such documents that you have in your possession or under your control;
- (b) irretrievably delete any information relating to the business of the Company or the Barclays Group stored on any computer or storage device and all information derived from the same in your possession or control and held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
- (c) resign with immediate effect from any offices or appointments you hold within or connected to the Barclays Group; and
- (d) confirm in writing that you have complied fully with the terms of this paragraph and provide evidence of compliance as the Company may request.

19. Payment in lieu of notice

19.1 The Company reserves the right in its sole and absolute discretion to terminate your employment and your terms with immediate effect (whether or not notice has been given by either party) by giving notice in writing to you of its intention to make a payment in lieu of notice and, if it does so, the Company shall make you a payment in lieu of notice, equal to the salary which you would have been entitled to receive if you had worked during your Notice Period or, if your Notice Period has started, the unexpired portion (the "Payment in Lieu"). Where the Company elects to make a Payment in Lieu of some or all of your Notice Period, your employment shall terminate on the date specified by the Company, regardless of when the Payment in Lieu is paid.

19.2 Any Payment in Lieu will be paid less tax and any applicable withholdings. You will not be entitled to receive any payment in respect of holiday entitlement that would have accrued during the period for which the Payment in Lieu is made.

19.3 Any Payment in Lieu may be paid by the Company in accordance with the Company policies and subject to the applicable laws. Any Payment in Lieu may at the Company's discretion be paid as a lump sum within one month of the Termination Date or in equal monthly instalments from the date on which notice is served until what would have been the end of the Notice Period provided always that if after exercising its discretion to make a Payment in Lieu the Company becomes aware of any grounds that would permit it to summarily terminate your employment any payments due under this clause 19.3 will cease to be payable and the net value of any Payment in Lieu that has been received by you shall be repaid as a debt to the Company within 30 days of the Company notifying you of this repayment obligation.

20. Garden leave and suspension

20.1 The Company may suspend you at any time from the performance of all or any of your duties:

- (a) for the whole or any part of any applicable Notice Period; or
- (b) for such periods and on such terms as is necessary to allow any investigation to take place (including, but not limited to an investigation by a regulatory authority or an investigation under the Company's disciplinary procedure).

20.2 During any period of suspension, the Company will be under no obligation to provide work for or assign any duties to you and may require you not to attend any premises of any member of the Barclays Group (other than as a customer) and may require you to:

- (a) not speak to, contact or otherwise communicate with or engage with any director, consultant, agent, contractor or employee of any member of the Barclays Group other than to carry out your personal banking, or any person, firm or company who, at the date of such suspension or exclusion is a client or customer of any member of the Barclays Group unless they are members of your immediate family;
- (b) at any time to carry out such special projects or duties commensurate with your abilities as the Company shall in its absolute discretion determine;
- (c) meet with representatives from the Company in order to facilitate a handover of work and provide assistance with ongoing business activity; and
- (d) take any holiday which you have accrued.

20.3 During any period of suspension:

- (a) your employment with the Company and this Employment Letter will continue and you will continue to be bound by your obligations under it (except as expressly set out in this paragraph) including, but not limited to, your obligations of confidentiality, good faith and fidelity to the Company; and
- (b) you shall continue to receive your basic salary and all contractual benefits in the usual way.

21. Post termination restrictions

21.1 You confirm to the Company (for itself and as trustee and agent for each member of the Barclays Group) that you will not, whether directly or indirectly, on your own behalf or on behalf of or in conjunction with any other person, firm, company or other entity:

(a) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer, client or supplier of the Company or the Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings in the course of your employment with the Company or in respect of whom you were aware of material and confidential information, in both cases within the 12 month period immediately prior to the Termination Date. Nothing in this paragraph will prohibit you from seeking or doing business which is not in direct or indirect competition with the business of the Barclays Group; and

(b) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date solicit or entice away or attempt to solicit or entice away or employ or engage any director, officer or employee of executive status in the Barclays Group with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to the Termination Date. For the purposes of this paragraph "employee of executive status" will include without limitation any employee of the Barclays Group with a corporate grading Managing Director, Director, Vice President (or equivalent grades, or anything which replaces these grades) and any employees of the Barclays Group with a lower corporate grading where in the 12 months prior to the Termination Date, you have had line manager responsibilities in relation to that employee or they have had line manager responsibilities or have been engaged in work or projects which in the Company's reasonable opinion are key to its business and / or mean that they are in possession of material and confidential information relating to the Barclays Group.

21.2 Each of the restrictions contained in this paragraph are considered by the parties to be reasonable in all the circumstances as at the date of this Employment Letter. However, the parties acknowledge that if any one or more of such restrictions will be judged to be void as going beyond what is reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the interests of the Barclays Group, but would be enforceable if words were deleted or one or more of the duration, range of activities and area covered were reduced in scope, the restrictions will be deemed to apply with such modifications as may be necessary to make them valid and effective. Any such modification will not affect the validity of any other restriction contained in this Employment Letter and it is confirmed that each restriction in this paragraph will be construed as separate and individual restrictions.

21.3 You confirm that if, during either your employment with the Company or the period of the restrictions set out in this paragraph you receive an offer of employment or engagement, you will provide a copy of these restrictions to the offeror as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the offer.

22. Further terms

22.1 No omission to exercise or delay in exercising any right, power or remedy of the Company under this Employment Letter will constitute a waiver of that right, power or remedy.

22.2 During your employment:

(a) the Company may at its discretion require that you undergo screening, including for criminal record, sanctions list and/or credit reference checks from time to time. It is anticipated that any such screening would only be undertaken if required for regulatory purposes or in order to comply with the minimum standards for the role you are undertaking; and

(b) you should advise the Company should any of the circumstances as set out in paragraph 18.1(e) of this Employment Letter arise or be brought against you.

22.3 You acknowledge that in entering into these Terms you have not relied on any representation or undertaking by the Company whether oral or in writing, except as expressly incorporated into this Employment Letter.

22.4 You consent to the Company monitoring your use of all Company resources and its communication and electronic equipment (including without limitation the telephone, internet, blackberry, software applications and email systems) and information stored on the Company's computer equipment, as described in your local acceptable use policy in accordance with the Barclays Group procedure and / or guidance on electronic communications. A copy of the policy that applies to you can be found on your intranet.

22.5 You understand that you may, during your employment, be granted awards under the terms of one or more of the Company's long term incentive plans or any incentive or bonus plan operated by the Barclays Group. If, on termination of your employment, you lose any of the rights or benefits under any such plans you will not be entitled, by way of compensation for loss of office or otherwise, to any compensation for the loss of any rights under any such plans.

22.6 If your employment is terminated at any time by reason of any reconstruction or amalgamation of the Company or any Barclays Group company, whether by winding up or otherwise, you will not be offered employment with any concern or undertaking involved in or resulting from the reconstruction or amalgamation on terms which (considered in their entirety) are no less favourable to any material extent than the terms of this Employment Letter, you shall have no claim against the Company or any such undertaking arising out of or connected with the termination.

23. Certifications

23.1 You confirm and certify that:

- (a) you are not precluded or restricted by any term of any agreement, undertaking or court order or any obligation to any third party from entering into this Employment Letter or undertaking or properly performing any of the duties of your employment with the Company;
- (b) you will notify the Company of any change in circumstances around the termination of your employment with your previous employer between the date of this Employment Letter and the Start Date;
- (c) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation by any company or body into suspected bribery or corruption activity where either: (i) the investigation was concluded and your conduct found to amount to misconduct; or (ii) where the investigation was on-going and did not reach a conclusion because your employment (or engagement) with that company or body was terminated during the investigation (whether by mutual consent or by voluntary termination or otherwise);
- (d) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation into suspected criminal activity involving elements of dishonesty (including theft or fraud) or anti-competitive behaviour; and
- (e) you will not during your employment at the Company breach any third party's rights in respect of confidential information and/or intellectual property.

23.2 Any breach of these certifications will entitle Barclays to immediately terminate your employment.

24. Governing law

Your Terms are governed in accordance with the laws of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management. The parties irrevocably submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the competent courts of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management in relation to any legal action or proceedings that arise out of or in connection with this Employment Letter.

25. Key policies, procedures and practices

25.1 During your employment with the Company (and where applicable after your employment has terminated) you must comply with all of the Company's policies and procedures and any legal and/or statutory and/or regulatory obligations, including (but not limited to) Barclays Group policies and procedures on, and any other obligations relating to, anti-bribery and corruption. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action being taken against you.

25.2 You should familiarise yourself with all policies and procedures that apply to your grade and business area as set out on your intranet. The Code of Conduct and the policies, guidelines and procedures on the following issues are particularly important (although this is not intended as a comprehensive list):

- Any applicable Employee Handbook
- Anti Bribery and Corruption
- Regulator's Business Principles
- Disclosure obligations
- Data protection, confidential information and Chinese walls
- Equality and Diversity
- Managing people, including on various types of leave and our disciplinary and grievance policies

- Personal account and share dealing
- Conflicts of interest and outside business interests and affiliations
- Market conduct
- Gifts and Entertainment
- Health and Safety

- Whistleblowing or Raising Concerns
- Substance Abuse

25.3 Unless otherwise stated, these policies, guidelines and procedures do not form part of this Employment Letter.

25.4 The disciplinary and grievance rules and procedures which are applicable to your employment are set out on your intranet. These rules and procedures do not form part of this Employment Letter. If you wish to appeal against a disciplinary decision you should apply in writing to your line manager or HR contact in accordance with the Company's disciplinary procedure. If you wish to raise a grievance please apply in writing to your line manager or HR contact in accordance with the Company's grievance procedure.

Dear Yash,

Confirming our discussions, we are pleased to extend to you a formal offer of employment at MSCI Services Private Limited (the "Firm"). Those who have had the opportunity to meet with you look forward to your joining the Firm. Your position will be that of an Analyst in the Technology & Data Department.

TOTAL COMPENSATION

MSCI's compensation philosophy is based on the concept of Total Compensation.

Your Total Compensation will consist of a base salary, participation in the discretionary bonus plan as determined by the Firm in its sole discretion and subject to the terms and conditions of the discretionary bonus plan as in force from time to time.

Historically, discretionary year-end bonus awards have been made after the end of the fiscal year to which they relate. It is expressly agreed that a discretionary bonus at any point in time does not create an obligation of, or entitlement to, future year-end bonus payouts by the Firm.

Any discretionary bonus that may be awarded to you in your first year of employment will be prorated to reflect the date you commence employment. All payments are subject to applicable withholdings and deductions.

In your first year of employment, your actual Total Cash Compensation will be pro-rated based on your actual length of service as determined by your start date. Your Total Cash Compensation will be determined in INR.

Your CTC (cost to company) consists of your base salary (in the components shown below) plus employer's contribution to Provident Fund and Gratuity accrual (Defined Benefit):

Components	Amount
A. Basic Salary	880,044.00	INR p.a.
B. House Rent Allowance (includes optional Leave Travel Allowance)	413,556.00	INR p.a.
C. Meal Allowance	26,400.00	INR p.a.
D. Base Salary	1,320,000.00	INR p.a.
E. Firm's contribution to Provident Fund	105,605.00	INR p.a.
F. Gratuity accrual (Defined Benefit)	42,310.00	INR p.a.

Your Basic salary is calculated as 2/3 of your Base salary. House Rent Allowance is calculated as Base salary minus the sum of Basic salary and Meal allowances. All components of base salary will be paid in monthly installments.

Annual Incentive Plan: You will be eligible to participate in MSCI's Annual Incentive Plan (AIP) with a cash bonus ("Bonus") target of INR 66,000 / 5% of your base salary, prorated based on the date you commence employment provided you commence employment with MSCI on or before October 31st 2023. All new hires who commence employment after October 31st will not be eligible to receive an AIP bonus until the following calendar year. Any discretionary bonus payment that may be awarded to you will be prorated to reflect the date you commence employment and will be subject to any tax and social security deductions as the Company considers is required by law.

Payments, if any, under the Annual Incentive Plan are not guarantees or commitments to pay, unless otherwise stated, and are subject to the Firm's performance as well as your individual performance as determined by your manager. From time to time, we review the form and terms of our incentive plans and we reserve the right to amend, change or cancel our plans (or elements thereof) as the Company determines necessary. You will be notified of any such changes by the Company. Any incentive award, including any discretionary bonus award referred to above is also contingent upon satisfactory performance and conduct as assessed by the Company and on you remaining an active employee performing duties on behalf of MSCI at the time of any discretionary bonus payment.

From time to time, we review the form and terms of our incentive plans and we reserve the right to amend, change or cancel our plans (or elements thereof) as the Firm determines necessary. You will be notified of any such changes by the Firm.

BENEFITS

You will be entitled to the following benefits:

- Provident Fund contributions of 12% of your basic salary as shown in the CTC chart above.
- Gratuity and other benefits in accordance with legal requirements and the Firm's policies in effect, and as may be amended from time to time.
- Expenses incurred by you, your spouse and children (up to 21 years) for treatment of an illness, disease or injury while confined to a hospital or nursing home, for any illness, disease or injury which in the normal course would require care and treatment at a hospital or nursing home for a minimum of 24 hours, will be paid for in accordance with the Firm's Group Mediclaim program, subject to a total annual limit of Rs. 600,000 per family under family floater scheme or such other limit established from time to time.
- Personal Accident Insurance for a sum which equals three times (or such multiple determined by the Firm from time to time) your annual base salary.
- Life insurance which, in the event of your death due to any cause whilst an employee of MSCI, pays to your dependants a lump sum benefit amount of three times your annual base salary (subject to successful clearance of medical underwriting if applicable as per the insurance company's guidelines).

Other benefits include annual leave of 23 working days in any calendar year (January 1 to December 31). Please refer to Annexure I for details on other benefits.

Nothing in this letter should be construed as a guarantee of any particular level of benefits or of your participation in any benefit plan. The Firm and its affiliates reserve the right to amend, modify or terminate, in its sole discretion, all benefit and compensation plans in effect from time to time.

OBLIGATION TO OBSERVE RULES AND POLICIES

Regular office hours at the Firm are 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. However, the Firm reserves its right from time to time to assign you to work in such shifts as required for business reasons. Additionally, you may be required to work from Firm's office or your home depending on your role and the business needs of the Firm, and in accordance with the Firm's Future of Work Policy, as amended from time to time. Your services are subject to transfer from one establishment to another, from one department to another, from one section to another, in existence as of today and that may come into existence any time in future anywhere in India or abroad.

Please note that as a condition of your employment with the Firm you will be bound by the India Employee Handbook, the MSCI Code of Conduct, and such other policies relating to your employment as may exist, be issued, updated, varied and supplemented by the Firm. In the event of any conflict between those policies and this letter, this letter shall take precedence, unless the policy has been introduced or modified after this letter was issued. Any violation of the rules contained in the India Employee Handbook, the Code of Conduct or related policies and procedures may subject you to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal. In addition you will be required to read the Employee Handbook electronically after you commence your employment and will be expected to return an acknowledgement form to Human Resources that you will find on the final page.

In accordance with the Firm's Code of Conduct, you acknowledge that in the course of your employment with the Firm or after termination of your employment, you are not permitted to make any unauthorized use of documents or other information, which are confidential or proprietary information of Firm or its clients or employees. Likewise, you may not bring onto Firm premises any confidential documents/information relating to your prior employers' business. You understand and agree that as a condition of employment, unless you are granted a waiver in writing by the Legal and Compliance Department you may be required, upon the commencement of employment, to transfer any brokerage/securities accounts that you may influence or control to a designated institution for surveillance and review by the MSCI Legal and Compliance Department.

DATA PRIVACY

The Firm may disclose personal data relating to you to (i) any of its affiliates, subsidiaries and to its parent company; or (ii) any potential purchasers of any of the Firm's business; or (iii) any party to whom the Firm proposes to transfer any of its rights and/or responsibilities under any agreement it may have with you; or (iv) to any other third party, for any of the purposes set out below.

This offer of employment is conditional upon the successful completion of a background investigation, as set out herein below. This background check may be carried out by a third party service provider and therefore, any information that the Firm may need from you would be shared with such third party third party service provider and you confirm that you do not have any objection to the same.

Such personal data may be collected and processed by the Firm and the abovementioned third parties for several purposes as may be determined by the Firm, including but not limited to, administration of employment, wages and benefits, performance assessment, reference to third parties, general administration, any other purposes as may be required by applicable law or for any other legitimate business purpose. The particulars of the same will be communicated to you from time to time.

PROBATION AND OTHER CONTINGENCIES

Your employment will be probationary for the first 3 months. Either the Firm or you may at any time during the period of probation or at its conclusion terminate your employment, upon fourteen days written notice or payment of fourteen days of base salary in lieu of notice. This probation may be extended for an additional 3 months at the discretion of the management. The relevant notice period in the event of any extension shall be 30 days. Your continued service with the Firm will be confirmed in writing on the successful completion of the probation period.

After the probationary period, either you or the Firm may terminate your employment for any reason with 60 days' notice or payment of 60 days base salary in lieu of notice. The Firm reserves the right to change the above mentioned notice period at any time during your employment and upon its communication you will be required to serve such notice period. The Firm reserves the right to require you, for part or all of the notice of termination period, not to perform any duties and remain away from the Firm's premises, although the Firm will continue to maintain your salary and other contractual benefits for this period. You may not commence or prepare to commence employment with or provide services to any company or other business during this period.

ADDITIONAL STEPS

This offer is contingent upon a number of additional steps in the employment process including, but not limited to:

- Any registration or licensing required by the relevant regulatory authority.
- Appropriate proof of successful completion of your present level of education.
- Successful completion of a background check of your employment history and references.
- Credit and criminal check
- Appropriate proof of citizenship and/or the appropriate right-to-work documentation. If you require a visa/work permit and do not currently have one, you are responsible to obtain one before you will be permitted to commence work. Please contact local Human Resources in case you require a visa/work permit.

EXECUTION AND CONTRACT FORMATION

This offer, as to its subject matter, contains a complete statement of all agreements between you and the Firm, constitutes the entire understanding between you and the Firm, and supersedes all prior or contemporaneous verbal or written agreements, understandings or communications (including, without limitation, any term sheet or other summary writing relating to your employment). You acknowledge that you have not relied on any assurance or representation not expressly stated in this offer letter. If there is any conflict with the benefit information included in this letter or any verbal representation and the Plan documents or insurance contracts, the Plan documents or insurance documents control.

Your employment is governed by the laws of India. The Parties agree to the exclusive jurisdiction and venue of the civil courts in Mumbai for the resolution of all disputes arising under this contract of employment.

MSCI

We are looking forward to your joining the Firm. We ask that you confirm your acceptance by signing and dating this offer letter in the places designated below and returning this letter to the HR Department, retaining the additional copy for your reference. In the event that we do not receive your acceptance within 5 business days of the date of this letter we will assume that you have declined the position. Accordingly, on that date this offer will lapse and will no longer be capable of acceptance by you. Your signature below confirms that you are not subject to any contractual or other restriction or obligation (including a non-competition agreement) that is inconsistent with you accepting this offer of employment and performing your duties other than what you have already disclosed.

If you have questions regarding the above, please feel free to call Vernon Fernandes in the Human Resources Department at Vernon.Fernandes@msci.com or Sabrina Khatri on Sabrina.Khatri@msci.com if you have any questions on any of the above.

Sincerely,

For and behalf of MSCI Services Private Limited

I. Statement of purpose

This MSCI Employee Trading Policy (the "Policy") aims to prevent the appearance, and reality, of legal, business and ethical conflicts of interest, and to guard against the potential misuse of confidential information.

It is essential to you, as well as to the reputation and success of MSCI Inc. ("MSCI" or "the Firm"), that you understand this Policy and strictly adhere to it. This Policy supplements, but does not replace, the requirements set forth in the MSCI Code of Conduct, including any region-specific or other applicable supplements to the Code of Conduct. To the extent there is any conflict between this Policy and any other Firm policies or procedures that are applicable to you in each case you are subject to the most restrictive policies and procedures.

The Firm encourages long term investing by employees and strongly discourages short term and speculative trading. You may not engage in personal trading on a scale or of a kind that could distract you from your business responsibilities.

In order to engage in approved trading under this Policy, you must:

- trade only permitted products and securities;
- obtain any required approvals;
- make all required disclosures;
- refrain from trading any securities on a Restricted List;
- refrain from trading during any applicable Trading Blackout Period; and
- comply with applicable Holding Periods.

MSCI expects its employees to recognize and comply with the spirit of this Policy in addition to literal compliance with its terms. Therefore, you must also:

- avoid conduct that may give rise to an appearance of impropriety or of a conflict of interest, and
- never trade on the basis of material, non-public information.

If you have any questions about this Policy's meaning or application, please contact the MSCI Legal and Compliance Department.

II. Who is subject to the policy?

The Firm has implemented a Information Wall, or information barrier, around personnel who are involved in (or who have systems or information access relating to) the design, construction or maintenance of the MSCI Equity Indices. Such personnel are commonly referred to as being "Inside the Wall" or "ITW". All other personnel are commonly referred to as being "Outside the Wall" or "OTW". The Information Wall consists of physical separation as well as policies and procedures designed to regulate the flow of ITW information.

This Policy applies to all MSCI personnel (excluding ESG) who are Outside the Wall of the MSCI Equity Index business.

This Policy applies to all of your personal accounts, as well as all other accounts that you could reasonably be expected to be able to exercise influence or control (whether or not you actually have such influence or control). Examples of accounts you could reasonably be expected to influence or control and therefore are subject to this Policy include (but are not limited to) the following:

- all accounts of your spouse or domestic partner;
- all accounts of your, your spouse's or your domestic partner's dependent children;
- all trust accounts for which you act as trustee or which you otherwise guide or influence;
- all arrangements similar to trust accounts that benefit you directly or indirectly; and
- all corporate, partnership or custodian accounts controlled, directly or indirectly, by you.

If you are not sure whether you are Outside the Wall of the MSCI Equity Index business, consult the MSCI Compliance Department. Inside the Wall personnel are subject to a different Employee Trading Policy. ESG personnel are also subject to a different Employee Trading Policy.

III. Trading and account rules

A. THE COMPLIANCE PORTAL

MSCI maintains an online Compliance Portal. The Compliance Portal is used to make certifications and disclosures and to obtain approvals, as required by this Policy and the Code of Conduct. In some cases, brokerage account trading may also be monitored through the Compliance Portal.

B. PERMITTED PRODUCTS

You may trade in securities and financial instruments that are not prohibited by this Policy, the Code of Conduct or otherwise, subject to all the relevant restrictions set forth herein and therein.

All trades are subject to the following requirements:

- you must pre-clear securities against the Firm's Restricted List immediately prior to placing a trade;
- you must comply with the applicable Holding Period requirements;
- transactions in MSCI stock or options must take place in a disclosed, approved brokerage account;
- you must avoid any appearance of impropriety or of any conflict of interest; and
- you must not trade, or recommend that others trade, in a security or other instrument while in possession of material, non-public information about the security or instrument.

C. TRADING RESTRICTIONS

The following restrictions are in addition to any other prohibitions or restrictions set forth in the Code of Conduct or any other applicable policies:

1. Restricted List: You may not trade securities while they are on the Firm's Restricted List. You must pre-clear securities against the Firm's Restricted List, using the Compliance Portal (Comply Sci) page, immediately prior to placing a trade to confirm that the security is not restricted. Securities can be placed on the Restricted List for a variety of reasons, and in some cases can remain on the Restricted List for a long period of time. The Firm is not obligated to explain why a security is on the Restricted List, or to indicate when a security might come off the Restricted List. Exceptions to the Restricted List prohibition are rarely granted and only in exceptional circumstances. Price decline of a security is not a legitimate basis for requesting an exception to the Restricted List prohibition.
2. Stop or Limit Orders: You may not place stop or limit orders, except for same-day orders only.
3. OTC Derivatives: You may not trade in over-the-counter derivatives contracts, such as OTC options, futures, forwards, warrants or swaps.
4. Transactions in MSCI Inc. Securities: Trading in securities of MSCI Inc. is subject to the conditions and requirements set forth in the Supplement for

Information Classification: CONFIDENTIAL

Transactions in MSCI Inc. Securities, including trading blackout periods, holding periods and other requirements.

5. Private Securities Transactions: You may not engage in any private securities transactions without pre-approval from the MSCI Compliance Department. To seek approval, submit a request using the Compliance Portal. Private securities transactions include investments in privately held corporations, limited partnerships, tax shelter programs and other privately offered interests. Private Securities Transactions. Refer to the MSCI Directorships, Outside Activities and Private Securities Transactions Policy for further details.

6. Publicly Listed Real Estate Products:

Real Estate Employees

Real Estate Employees are defined for purposes of this Policy as those employees involved in MSCI's Private Real Estate product line who have knowledge of or access to either of the following before they are made publicly available ("Non-Public Real Estate Data"):

- Information regarding the constituents of MSCI Private Real Estate Indexes (including "headline" or "standard indexes" as well as the "benchmark" indexes delivered as part of Enterprise Analytics)
- any client's or data provider's publicly listed real estate fund (including any Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT)) holdings information, including capital growth and rental income of portfolio properties, such as that contained in MSCI Private Real Estate products and services and /or data provider data.

Knowledge of or access to Non-Public Real Estate Data may allow an investor to trade on this information before such information is priced into a publicly listed real estate fund, a derivative of such fund, or a derivative or other investment vehicle linked to an MSCI Private Real Estate Index (including "headline" or "standard indexes" as well as the "benchmark" indexes delivered as part of Enterprise Analytics).

Restrictions

- Prohibitions

Real Estate Employees are prohibited from purchasing:

- any publicly listed real estate fund (including REITs);

- any fund, derivative or other investment vehicle linked to an MSCI Private Real Estate Index (including "headline" or "standard indexes" as well as the "benchmark" indexes delivered as part of Enterprise Analytics)

- Sale of Current Holdings

Sales or transfers by Real Estate Employees of previously acquired publicly listed real estate product or their shares must be pre-approved by the Compliance Department through the Firm's Compliance Portal.

7. Client Portfolios and Product Launches:

- You may not buy or sell securities or other instruments on the basis of knowledge of a client's portfolio, potential trading positions, model portfolio scenarios or any client or MSCI product launch or plans.
- You may not "piggyback" or "front run" any client trades or potential trades.

8. OTW Consultants, Interns and Temps Working On-site or with Systems Access:

- On request, you must disclose your brokerage and non-brokerage trading accounts to the MSCI Compliance Department and provide copies of your account statements and trade confirmations.
- On request, all trades must be pre-approved by the MSCI Compliance Department.
- On request, you must comply with the Restricted List and the Holding Period requirements.

D. ACCOUNTS

1. Brokerage Accounts.

Brokerage accounts do not need to be disclosed or maintained at a designated institution, except for accounts holding MSCI Inc. securities.

A brokerage account is any account that can hold or execute transactions in equity or debt securities, foreign exchange, commodities or derivatives.

For example, stock or bond trading accounts are brokerage accounts. Accounts that can hold or execute transactions in exchange traded funds or closed end funds are also brokerage accounts for purposes of this Policy. Money market and open-end mutual fund only accounts are not brokerage accounts for purposes of this Policy. If an account has a brokerage capability, even if you do not utilize it, it is considered a brokerage account for purposes of this Policy.

2. Accounts Holding MSCI Inc. Securities.

Any account holding MSCI securities is subject to the requirements of the Supplement for Transactions in MSCI Inc. Securities.

All employees receiving MSCI stock, RSUs or options as part of their MSCI compensation are provided an E*Trade account. MSCI stock and RSUs may only be held and traded through E*Trade or other designated brokers that report transactions to MSCI via the Compliance Portal for monitoring. Options in MSCI may only be transacted through the E*Trade account provided by the Firm. All transactions in MSCI Inc. securities must be pre-cleared and pre-approved via the Compliance Portal.

3. Non-Brokerage Accounts.

Examples of non-brokerage accounts include:

- Mutual Fund Only Accounts. Mutual fund only accounts do not have to be disclosed or maintained at a designated institution. Trading in a mutual fund only account, however, is subject to the Holding Period and Restricted List requirements of this Policy.
- Cash Accounts. Money market funds, insurance policies (including annuities), certificates of deposit (CDs), savings accounts and other cash management accounts are also not required to be disclosed or maintained at a designated institution. Additionally, the restrictions in this Policy such as Holding Periods do not apply to these types of instruments or accounts.
- Physical Share Certificates. If you hold securities in physical certificate form, you are not required to deposit them in a brokerage account. You may only sell those shares through a brokerage account, or by depositing the shares with the issuer of the security for sale if you have pre-cleared the security against the Restricted List.

4. Managed Accounts.

Generally. With prior authorization from the MSCI Compliance Department, you may open a managed account in which you grant full discretion to the manager or broker. Investments held in such fully discretionary managed accounts are not subject to the Holding Periods, Restricted List or other trading restrictions herein.

You may not hold MSCI Inc. stock in a managed account and you must so inform the manager or broker.

You must obtain pre-approval using the Compliance Portal prior to opening any managed account. You will need to provide the MSCI Compliance Department with a copy of the management agreement that establishes the manager or broker has full discretion over the account and that the account may not trade MSCI Inc. stock.

Full discretion means:

- you may not participate, directly or indirectly, in individual investment decisions;
- you may not be made aware of individual investment decisions before transactions are executed;
- you have no influence in the purchase or sale of specific securities; and
- you may establish general investment guidelines for the manager or broker (e.g., indicating industries in which you desire to invest, the type of securities you want to hold and your overall investment objectives), but the guidelines may not be changed so frequently so as to allow you to direct, or give the appearance that you are directing, the investments in the account (guidelines may not be changed more frequently than quarterly).

5. Automatic Investment Plans.

- You may participate in automatic investment plans (e.g., a scheduled, recurring $100 investment on the first day of every month in the same mutual fund) provided that you pre-clear the security against the Restricted List immediately prior to (i) the first time you purchase the security through the plan, (ii) your first election to reinvest and (iii) any decision to no longer invest/re-invest in the security.

Participation in the MSCI 401(k) or other Firm retirement or deferred compensation plan (or a spouse's or domestic partner's participation in his or her employer's plans), however, does not have to be disclosed as an automatic investment plan.

You may not invest in MSCI Inc. securities (MSCI) through an automatic investment plan unless pre-approved by the MSCI Compliance Department in accordance with the requirements set forth in the Supplement for Transactions in MSCI Inc. Securities.

6. ESPPs/ESOPs.

Investments held through an employee stock purchase plan or employee stock option plan from a previous employer, or by a spouse or domestic partner at his or her employer, are permitted; however, trades are subject to the Holding Periods and Restricted List (for sales).

7. Tax Deferral Accounts.

- You are not required to rollover tax deferral accounts such as a 401(k) account from a previous employer to an MSCI plan or account.
- Trading in any tax deferral account is subject to the restrictions described herein, including with respect to the Restricted List and Holding Periods.

8. No Pooled Investment Clubs.

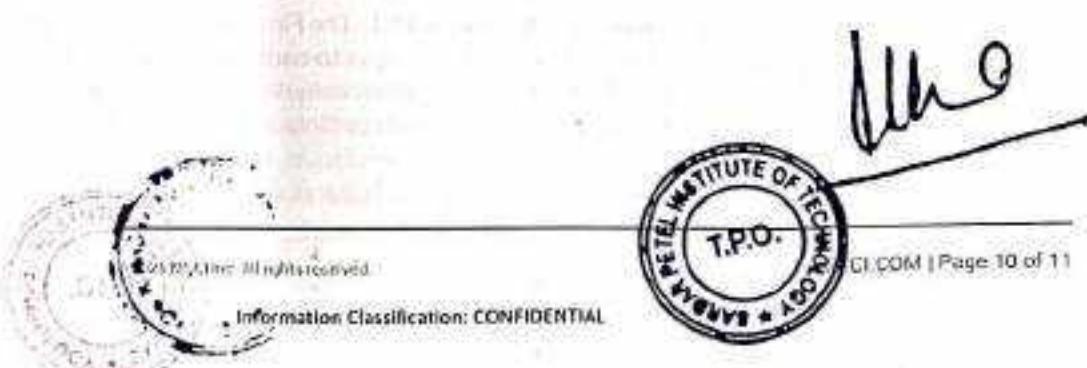

You may not participate in investment clubs in which members pool their assets to make investments in securities.

9. Additional Disclosure and Cooperation.

If requested, you will promptly provide the MSCI Compliance Department with documentation and any other requested information relevant to this Policy, such as trading activity, account holdings, account statements, trade confirmations and other account or trading information.

The Firm reserves the right to monitor your trading and investment activity. The Firm may request on your behalf, or require you to ensure, that duplicate account and trade confirmations and/or statements are sent to MSCI in the manner requested by the Firm. The Firm may also obtain trading and position data for your accounts either directly from the institution or from a third-party data collection vendor.

Transactions in your accounts may be reviewed by the Firm for a variety of factors such as frequency of trading, potential misuse of confidential information and conflicts of interest. The Firm also may provide information concerning transactions in your accounts to regulatory and governmental authorities.

E. TRADING BLACKOUT PERIODS

1. Blackouts for trading in MSCI Inc. Securities. MSCI Inc. securities are subject to trading blackouts surrounding quarterly earnings announcements by MSCI. The scheduled trading blackouts, which are subject to change:
 - Begin at the close of trading on the 5th day of the last month of each fiscal quarter (March 5, June 5, September 5 and December 5), and
 - End at the beginning of the third full trading day following each quarterly earnings release by MSCI.

Please see the Supplement for Transactions in MSCI Inc. Securities for more details.

2. Additional Trading Blackout Periods. Additional trading blackout periods may be announced from time to time.

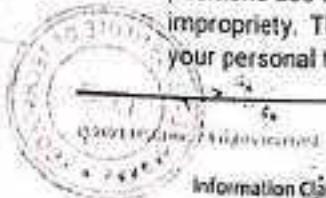

F. HOLDING PERIODS

1. All trades are subject to a minimum thirty (30) calendar day holding period or any longer holding period required by the relevant account or product.
2. Although you may trade listed derivatives such as listed equity options and listed index options, you may not trade any such instruments if by their terms they expire in less than 30 days. If the instrument has a term of greater than 30 days but is exercised (e.g., put or called) in less than 30 days by the counterparty, then you will not be in violation of the 30 day holding period requirement.
3. Transactions in MSCI Inc. securities have a 90 day holding period. For more details, see the Supplement for Transactions in MSCI Inc. Securities.

G. MISCELLANEOUS

1. Additional Requirements. The MSCI Compliance Department may modify this Policy and impose additional limitations or requirements on employee trading at any time, in its sole discretion.
2. Trading Privilege Removal. The Firm, in its sole discretion, reserves the right to cancel or instruct you to cancel any trade, without prior notice to you and at your expense. Additionally, the Firm may require you to freeze your positions due to potential conflicts of interest or the possible appearance of impropriety. The Firm may also, in its sole discretion, suspend or revoke your personal trading privileges at any time.

Information Classification: CONFIDENTIAL

3. Definitions of "Buy," "Sell" and "Trade." As used in this Policy, the terms "buy," "sell" and "trade" and all derivations thereof include all transfers or exchanges, including gifts and charitable donations. For example, if you want to donate stock to a charity, unless otherwise approved by the General Counsel or his/her designee the donation must comply with all of the applicable terms of this Policy such as the Holding Periods and any notification and approval processes.
4. Inheritances and Gifts. If you inherit or are gifted any securities or other instruments or accounts covered by the terms of this Policy, you must make any necessary disclosures and transfers and take any other actions necessary to comply with the requirements of this Policy.

IV. Failure to comply

A. COMPANY DISCIPLINE

Violation of this Policy or insider trading or tipping laws may subject you to disciplinary action by the Firm up to and including termination for cause. A violation of this Policy is not necessarily a violation of law. The Firm's Policy is intended to be broader than the law. The Firm reserves the right to determine that specific conduct violates this Policy, whether or not the conduct also violates the law. It is not necessary for the Firm to await the filing or conclusion of a civil or criminal action against the alleged violator before taking disciplinary action.

Failure to comply with this Policy may (without limitation) result in one or more of the following as the Firm considers appropriate in the particular circumstances.

1. Cancellation or reversal of trades at your expense.¹
2. Accounting for and disgorgement of any profit from a transaction that violates the Policy.²
3. Revocation, suspension or restriction of trading privileges.

² "Profit" may be measured in a number of ways, including by comparing the actual purchase or sale price of the transaction that violated this Policy with the purchase or sale price of the instrument at the beginning of the period when a transaction would not violate this Policy. For example, if a sale resulting in proceeds of $100 occurred before the expiration of the applicable holding period would have resulted in proceeds of $90, profit from the transaction could be measured at $10.

4. Termination, suspension from employment (with or without pay), reprimand or such other disciplinary action as the Firm considers appropriate in the circumstances.
5. Criminal, civil, or regulatory proceedings and penalties, including damages, fines and sanctions.

B. REPORTING VIOLATIONS

Any person who violates this Policy or any applicable laws governing Insider trading or tipping, or knows of any such violation by any other person must report the violation immediately to the General Counsel. Upon learning of any such violation, the General Counsel will determine whether the Firm should release any material non-public information, or whether the Firm should report the violation the SEC or other appropriate governmental authority.

V. Questions

Questions regarding this Policy may be directed to the MSCI Compliance Department.

Dear Vedanth Raja,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

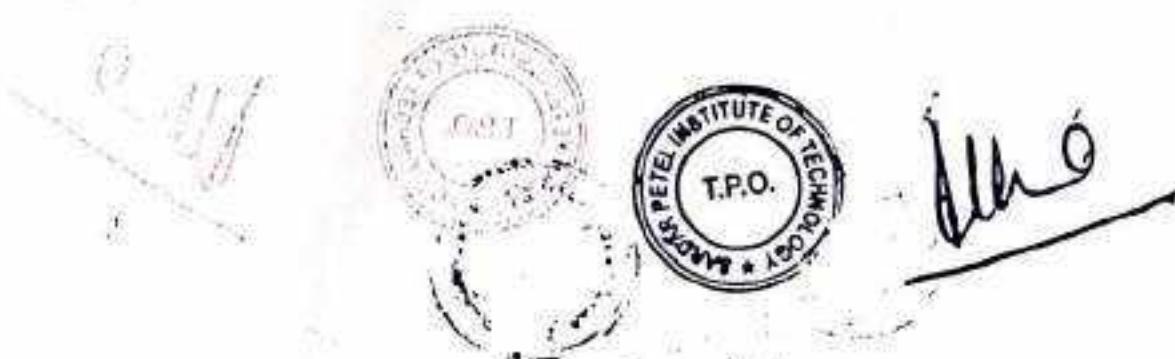

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

Should you have queries in relation to your employment terms, your benefits or Company policies, please contact our HR Answers hotline at 000 800 440 5210 (local toll free) or +1 212-552-5100 (international).

Please be reminded your employment terms should be treated with the strictest confidence. To accept this offer of employment, please click on the 'Accept' button at the bottom of this page on or before 24-Mar-2023.

We are excited to welcome you to our Company and take this opportunity to wish you every success in taking this next step of your career with us.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:
Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR 1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

- B1.1 Your employment is subject to:
- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
 - b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
 - c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.
- B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.
- B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.
- B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.
- B2. Remuneration
- B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.
- B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.
- B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any

and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

- B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
 - iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
 - v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.
- B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:
- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
 - (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
 - (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
 - (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
 - (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
 - (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
 - (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.
- B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.
- B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.
- B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.
- B4.6 During any Notice Period:
- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
 - b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work.
 - c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

- B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.
- B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.
- B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.
- B8.4 In this paragraph B8:
- "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.
 - "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.
 - "Restricted Client" means any person:
 - who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
 - with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
 - but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Uma", is written over a solid black horizontal line.

d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company;
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

- B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:
- the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
 - the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.
- B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.
- B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the me@jpme website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.
- B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

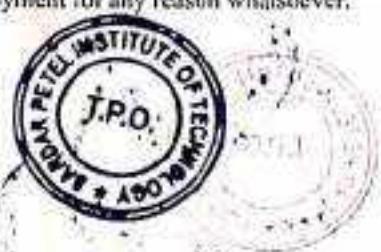

- B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

- B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

- B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.
- B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

- B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.
- B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

- B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- (b) You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- (c) Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understood, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary; and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure – 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users' Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments to which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195awa of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwlth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with to J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of to J.P. Morgan:

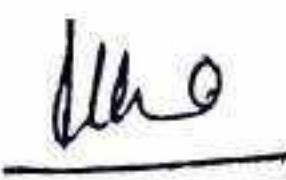

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, retention and /or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me. or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan – Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. Morgan Chase & Co, including its subsidiaries and affiliates (respectively or jointly) (JP Morgan) and shall not use, except for the purposes of the performance of my duties during my employment with J.P. Morgan, or disclose to any other party any Confidential Information (as such term is hereinafter defined) which may be disclosed to or created by me in connection with the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. As used herein, the term "Confidential Information" means any information which relates to confidential, proprietary and/or trade secret information in oral, demonstrative, written, electronic, graphic or machine readable form contained in any documents, manuals, diskettes and other storage medium including but not limited to internal controls, computer or data processing programs, algorithms, electronic data processing applications, routines, subroutines, techniques or systems, or information concerning the business or financial affairs and methods of operation or proposed methods of operation, accounts, transactions, proposed transactions or security procedures, know-how, inventions, training methods or other information relating to the business and other operations of either J.P. Morgan, any affiliate of J.P. Morgan, or any client, customer or vendor of J.P. Morgan and all copies and reproductions thereof, whether or not owned or developed by J.P. Morgan, except such information which is in the public domain at the time of its disclosure to me or which subsequently enters the public domain other than as a result of a breach of duty on my part. I agree that, upon J.P. Morgan written demand for whatever reason, I shall immediately deliver to J.P. Morgan any and all notes, drawings, documents, manuals, diskettes and other m

copies or excerpts thereof and confirm to J.P. Morgan, in writing, the return or destruction of the same. I acknowledge that my right to retain and/or use the Confidential Information shall terminate forthwith upon J.P. Morgan written demand and I shall immediately cease to use the Confidential Information. The obligations imposed by this clause shall survive the term of my employment with J.P. Morgan with respect to the performance of services, or of my employment or assignment to render services in connection therewith. I understand and agree that any breach of these confidentiality obligations will cause J.P. Morgan irreparable damage and J.P. Morgan shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this paragraph by means of injunctive relief including specific performance.

Param Patil
Mumbai

Dear Param,

Further to our offer and your acceptance thereof, we have pleasure in appointing you as Software Engineer at our Pune, Maharashtra, India office effective 17 July 2023.

Your annual total cash compensation will be INR 1,925,000 [Rupees Nineteen Lakhs And Twenty Five Thousand Only]. Your compensation is mentioned in the attached Annexure-I.

You will be awarded ESOP worth INR 850,000 only under the PhonePe Stock Option Plan India 2022 (PSOP 2022). You will receive the stock grant letter within 90 days from the day of joining the organization post completing the necessary formalities. The grant letter would additionally contain the number of ESOP units and price/unit amounting to INR 850,000 only; the price/unit will be based on valuation as on joining date.

Additionally, you will be eligible for a joining bonus of INR 500,000. This amount will be recoverable in full in case of your cessation of employment for any reason whatsoever from the company prior to completion of the first year of such employment.

In case you choose to leave PhonePe within 12 months from date of joining then all the relocation expenses incurred on actuals will be recovered in your full and final settlement. These relocation expenses include the travel and accommodation expenses incurred towards you and family, expenses towards local conveyance and movement of goods.

Either you or the Company shall be entitled to terminate your employment at any time as per this Agreement. Any contrary representations that may have been made to you shall be superseded by this Agreement. This Agreement shall constitute the full and complete agreement between you and the Company on the nature of your employment, which may only be changed in an express written agreement signed by you and a duly authorized officer of the Company.

You may voluntarily resign from your employment at any time on giving to the Company 60 days prior written notice or pay salary in lieu thereof. However, the Company may at its sole discretion waive all or part of the notice or allow the employee to make payment to the Company in lieu of all or part of the notice period. In the event of promotion/role change for any reason, company's prevailing notice period policy as applicable to such new designation/role will apply.

Termination by the Company: Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the Company is entitled to terminate your employment by giving you 60 days written notice or payment in lieu thereof. The Company would have the flexibility to either allow you to leave employment prior to the completion of any notice period upon payment of salary in lieu of such unserved notice period.

Probation - For a period of one (1) month from your date of joining the company you shall be under probation. At the end of the probation your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed unless you have been issued a communication from the Company in writing extending your probation for a period decided by the Company. During the probation period, either party may terminate the employment at anytime, without assigning any reason, upon written notice to the other party of not less than seven (7) days or on payment of salary in lieu of the said notice period. Unless stated otherwise, there would not be any change in the terms of employment on confirmation.

This offer of appointment is subject to positive feedback on your reference checks and conditional upon successful background checks (which may include criminal checks, verification of previous employment, education verification, credit check and appropriate identification verification) being conducted either by the company or an appropriate third party, and the results of such background checks being favorable in the company's reasonable opinion. If this condition is not satisfied, then this offer of appointment will be void or will become void, on notice by the company. If the terms & conditions are acceptable to you, kindly send us an acceptance mail at the earliest and confirm your date of joining.

Your work week may be five days or six days a week as per company policy applicable to your area of function, for such hours as are necessary to suit the Company's requirements and for the proper discharge of your duties. You may also be required to attend duties on Public Holidays as per the exigencies of work and as permissible under applicable law. Ordinarily, your work week will not exceed 48 hours except in cases of exigency, in which case you will be informed by your supervisor of the need to work additional hours in compliance with the applicable laws.

You represent and warrant to the Company that you are under no obligations or commitments, whether contractual or otherwise, that are materially inconsistent with your obligations under this Agreement. In connection with your Employment, you shall not use or disclose any trade secrets or other proprietary information or intellectual property in which you or any other person has any right, title or interest and your Employment will not infringe or violate the rights of any other person. You represent and warrant to the Company that you have returned all property and confidential information belonging to any prior employer, other than confidential information that has become generally known to the public or within the relevant trade industry.

You shall serve the Company in India in connection with the business either of the Company or one of the Associated Companies as the Company may at any time or from time to time direct. ("Associated Companies" shall mean and include any and every Company in which at least 25% in the aggregate of the Ordinary Share Capital is for the time being held by or in the beneficial ownership of the Company and/or any of its associated companies.)

You shall not have any claim whatever against the Company or any of its Associated Companies for any extra service, unless for such payment (if any) as may have been expressly agreed to in writing prior to such services being rendered.

During the employment period, if you are required to travel or stay outside your location specified above, you shall be entitled to reimbursement of reasonable expenses as per the travel policy of the Company, applicable from time to time.

You shall not, during the continuance of this engagement, be engaged, concerned, or interested directly or indirectly, in any other occupation, business or employment whatever without the previous consent in writing of the Company, but shall devote your time, attention and abilities exclusively to the performance of your duties hereunder and shall in all respects obey and conform to the Company's orders and regulations, and well and faithfully serve the Company, and use best endeavours to promote the interests hereof, and of the business in which you shall for the time being be engaged during such time as you may be engaged in connection with the business of any of the Associated Companies you shall at all times readily conform to obey and execute all lawful orders which may be issued to you by such Associated Company.

You shall not, unless directed by the company, either during the continuance of this engagement or thereafter disclose, divulge, or communicate to any person or persons whatsoever any information of a secret or confidential character relating to the trade or business of the Company or of the Associated Companies or to the strategies, plans, methods, process, appliances, machinery or plant used by them, or by any of them or to any activities or experiments made by them, or any of them, or by any persons in their employ, or relating to the prices paid or charged by, or the customers or suppliers of the Company or its Associated Companies.

All Intellectual Property rights in any work or material developed/co developed/conceptualized directly or indirectly by you during the course of your employment shall be considered 'Works made for Hire' under the Intellectual Property laws and shall belong to and be the property of the Company and you confirm and accept that you shall not be entitled to claim any rights over any such Intellectual Property. If required by the Company, during or after the Employment Period, you shall assign and transfer in favour of the Company or, at the request of the Company, in favour of any of its subsidiary, affiliate or customers, all Intellectual Property rights in such works or materials and shall execute such deeds and documents, as the Company may require, to effectually vest in the Company, any of its subsidiary, affiliate or customers as the Company may require, any and all Intellectual Property rights and benefits in such works or materials. In performance of your duties and responsibilities you shall not use or infringe any intellectual Property or rights of the Company or of any other third party's.

You shall, at the request and cost of the Company, take all necessary steps to procure the granting of Letters of Patent in India and similar protection abroad in the Joint names of the Company and yourself in respect of such invention, and upon such Letters of Patent and/or similar protection being granted, shall, at the request and cost of the Company, execute all assignments, licenses, and other documents required by the Company to deal with the said Letters of Patent and/or similar protection in such manner as the Company may think fit. Should the Company so desire the said invention shall not be made the subject of Letters of Patent or similar protection, but shall be worked by the Company, and all or any of its Associated Companies as a secret process, and in such case you undertake not to disclose, divulge or communicate any information relating to such invention to any other person or persons whatsoever.

All the provisions hereinbefore contained regarding any invention or patent shall apply to any design which during the continuance of this Agreement, you shall become entitled to register, the registration thereof being deemed to be equivalent to the grant of Letters of Patent, and any other necessary changes being made.

If at any time hereafter it shall be agreed between the Company and yourself that an alteration shall be made in your salary, duties or place of employment, such alteration shall not affect the other terms of this Agreement, except as may be expressly agreed on.

You shall not do or indulge in any of the following, without the prior written consent of the Company:

(a) Compete: During the Employment Period and for a period of at least 6 (Six) months after the Employment Period, you shall not directly or indirectly carry on, assist, engage in, be concerned or participate in any business/activity (whether directly or indirectly, as a partner, shareholder, principal, agent, director, affiliate, employee, consultant or in any other capacity or manner whatsoever) which is similar to the business of the Company nor engage in any activity that conflicts with your obligations to the Company.

(b) Solicit Business: During the Employment Period and for a period of at least two (2) years after the Employment Period, you shall not solicit, endeavour to solicit, influence or attempt to influence any client, existing or prospective customers or other person, directly or indirectly, to purchase his product in lieu of Company's products and/or services, to any person, firm, corporation, institution or other entity in competition with the business of the Company.

(c) Solicit Personnel: During the Employment Period and for a period of at least two (2) years after the Employment Period, you shall not solicit or attempt to influence any person employed or engaged by the Company (whether as an employee, consultant, advisor or in any other manner) to terminate or otherwise cease such employment or engagement with the Company or become the employee of or directly or indirectly offer services in any form or manner to himself or any person or entity which is a competitor of the Company.

You acknowledge and agree that the compensation stated in Annexure I of this appointment letter is sufficient consideration for you to agree to non-compete and non-solicitation.

You will not borrow or accept any money, gift, reward or compensation for your personal gains from or otherwise place yourself under pecuniary obligation to any person/client with whom, you may be having official dealings.

You acknowledge and agree that violation of the covenants and obligations with respect to non-compete and non-solicitation as set forth above will cause the Company, irreparable injury. Therefore, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to an interim injunction, restraining order or such other equitable relief as a court of competent jurisdiction may deem necessary or appropriate to restrain you from committing any violation of the covenants and obligations. These injunctive remedies are cumulative and are in addition to any other rights and remedies that the Company may have against you as provided under laws.

You will have access to the employee portal which will have Company's Code of Conduct, Privacy Policy Guide, IT Usage Policy, Safety and Environment policy and other policies of the company. You are required to go through the same and understand them. You agree to abide by the principles set out in the document, breach of which, can have serious consequences including dismissal from service.

If you are at any time found to be guilty of misconduct, commit any breach of this Agreement, or refuse or wilfully neglect to perform to the satisfaction of the Company or any of the Associated Companies in connection with whose business you may be engaged all or any of the duties devolving upon you under this Agreement, the Company may at once, without any previous notice, terminate your appointment. Unless in case of earlier termination of this appointment due to a plausible cause, you shall retire on your 60th birthday or the day immediately preceding such date, if your birthday does not fall on a working day.

This Agreement and all of your rights and obligations hereunder are personal to you and may not be transferred or assigned by you at any time. The Company may assign its rights under this agreement to any entity that assumes the Company's obligations hereunder in connection with any sale or transfer of all or a substantial portion of the Company's assets to such entity.

No provision of this Agreement shall be modified, waived or discharged unless the modification, waiver or discharge is agreed to in writing and signed by you and by an authorized officer of the Company (other than you). Notwithstanding the above, in the event of a change in role, grades, promotions or other changes made in your employment and informed to you by the authorised officer of the Company, the applicable policies to such change in role, grades, promotion or other employment changes (for e.g. Notice Policy, Reimbursement Policy) shall apply to you from the effective date of such change. To that extent, such change in applicable policies will be considered an amendment of this Agreement and your continued employment will be constituted as agreement to applicable policies from time to time.

No waiver by either party of any breach of, or of compliance with, any condition or provision of this Agreement by the other party shall be considered a waiver of any other condition or provision or of the same condition or provision at another time.

FAQ on PhonePe ESOP Plan

Q1. Can you explain the terms Grant, Vesting & Exercise?

- Grant means the grant of PhonePe Options to an employee (referred as 'Option Grantee') under the PSOP.
- PhonePe Option means an option Granted to an Option Grantee pursuant to the PSOP, each of which gives such Option Grantee the right, but not an obligation, to purchase or subscribe for one Share.
- Exercise is the fulfilment of the right whereby the option holder gets the option converted into a share by paying the exercise price.

Q2. What does the PhonePe stock option mean ?

Each PhonePe option that you are granted will entitle you, on exercise, to acquire one share of PhonePe Private Limited (India)

Q3. What is the current exercise price ?

The current exercise price is Zero, you will not have to pay anything while exercising PhonePe vested options.

Q4. What are the vesting conditions of the options

The vesting schedule and other conditions for the options will be as laid out in the stock agreement letter issued to you.

Q5. What is the expiry date of PhonePe ESOPs?

All PhonePe ESOPs will expire in 10 years from the date of grant

Q6. Will ESOP Grants be taxed ?

As per Indian income-tax laws, any tax resident in India will be subject to tax on ESOPs as follows:

- On Grant : No Tax
- On Vesting : No Tax
- On Exercise of Options : Taxable as salary (perquisite) - the difference between the Fair Market Value (on exercise date) and exercise price is taxed as perquisite. The employer (PhonePe) will deduct tax (TDS) on this perquisite. This amount will be shown in the employee's Form 16 and would need to be included as part of total income from salary in the tax return
- On sale of shares : The proceeds of the sales would be treated as capital gains at applicable rates. Capital gain is calculated as follows - Consideration on sale of shares less cost (i.e. fair market value treated as perquisite on exercise and subject to tax as salary). Tax rate for capital gains would depend on the period of holding of shares.

Q7. When can I sell my shares ?

- Once the options have vested you can sell the shares only on the listing of the company or during other liquidity window events before listing, that the Company may declare.
- You will be provided with access to an online portal to access your options

Q8. What happens if an employee is on sabbatical leave ?

If an employee is on sabbatical all vested options till the day of sabbatical will remain as is, vesting of remaining options will pause and will resume from the day the employee has joined back the organization post sabbatical.

Q9. What happens to my options in case of my death, Incapacitation or termination ?

- In the event of the death of an employee while in employment, all the options granted to him/her till such date shall vest in the legal heirs or nominees of the deceased employee.
- In case the employee suffers a permanent incapacity while in employment, all the options granted to him/her as on the date of permanent incapacitation, shall vest on that day

- In the event of separation from PhonePe, all options unvested for an employee as on that day shall expire. The vested options will continue to be held by the employee (till the date of expiry of the ESOPs), unless found to be guilty of grave misconduct or moral turpitude (fraud, dishonesty, sexual harassment and other offences of a grave nature committed whilst at the Company).
- The company withholds the right to clawback any gains made by the employee through the ESOP program or cancel the vested options if the employee is found guilty of misconduct, moral turpitude or non-adherence to the clauses in the appointment letter and employment agreement.

Q10. When will I get to know the number of units allocated to me and the per unit value?

You will receive the stock grant letter within 90 days from the day of joining the organization post completing the necessary formalities. This letter will carry the number of units along with the per unit price.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR 1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

B1.1 Your employment is subject to:

- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
- b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
- c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.

B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.

B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.

B2. Remuneration

B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.

B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any

and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

- B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
- (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
- (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
- (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
- (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.

B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.

B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.

B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work.
- c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial masters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.

B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.

B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.

B8.4 In this paragraph B8:

a) "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.

b) "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.

c) "Restricted Client" means any person:

- i) who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
- ii) with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
- iii) but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

- d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of such restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

- B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:
- the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
 - the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.
- B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.
- B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the me@jpme website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.
- B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

- B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

- B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

- B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.
- B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

Umo

- B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.
- B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

- B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter).

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary; and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure – 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users: Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments to which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195awa of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of J.P. Morgan:

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, retention and /or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me, I waive the right to inspect or approve any finished product of the Material, including written or electronic copy, wherein my or that of any person's likeness appears.

I will not hold J.P. Morgan liable or responsible for the Material that are lost, delayed, misdirected or incomplete or cannot be delivered for any technical or other reason. J.P. Morgan shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan – Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. Morgan Chase & Co, including its subsidiaries and affiliates (respectively or jointly) (JP Morgan) and shall not use, except for the purposes of the performance of my duties during my employment with J.P. Morgan, or disclose to any other party any Confidential Information (as such term is hereinafter defined) which may be disclosed to or created by me in connection with the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. As used herein, the term "Confidential Information" means any information which relates to confidential, proprietary and/or trade secret information in oral, demonstrative, written, electronic, graphic or machine readable form contained in any documents, manuals, diskettes and other storage medium including but not limited to internal controls, computer or data processing programs, algorithms, electronic data processing applications, routines, subroutines, techniques or systems, or information concerning the business or financial affairs and methods of operation or proposed methods of operation, accounts, transactions, proposed transactions or security procedures, know-how, inventions, training methods or other information relating to the business and other operations of either J.P. Morgan, any affiliate of J.P. Morgan, or any client, customer or vendor of J.P. Morgan and all copies and reproductions thereof, whether or not owned or developed by J.P. Morgan, except such information which is in the public domain at the time of its disclosure to me or which subsequently enters the public domain other than as a result of a breach of duty on my part. I agree that, upon J.P. Morgan written demand for whatever reason, I shall immediately deliver to J.P. Morgan any and all notes, drawings, documents, manuals, diskettes and other files copies or excerpts thereof and confirm to J.P. Morgan, in writing, the return or destruction of the same. I acknowledge that my right to retain and/or use the Confidential Information shall terminate forthwith upon J.P. Morgan written demand and I shall immediately cease to use the Confidential Information. The obligations imposed by this clause shall survive the term of my employment with J.P. Morgan with respect to the performance of services, or of my employment or assignment to render services in connection therewith. I understand and agree that any breach of these confidentiality obligations will cause J.P. Morgan irreparable damage and J.P. Morgan shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this paragraph by means of injunctive relief including specific performance.

Dear Prathmesh Waghmode,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

Should you have queries in relation to your employment terms, your benefits or Company policies, please contact our HR Answers hotline at 000 800 440 5210 (local toll free) or +1 212-552-5100 (international).

Please be reminded your employment terms should be treated with the strictest confidence. To accept this offer of employment, please click on the 'Accept' button at the bottom of this page on or before 24-Mar-2023.

We are excited to welcome you to our Company and take this opportunity to wish you every success in taking this next step of your career with us.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:
Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

B1.1 Your employment is subject to:

- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
- b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
- c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints;
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.

B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.

B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.

B2. Remuneration

B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.

B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

- B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
- (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
- (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
- (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
- (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.

B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.

B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.

B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work.
- c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

- B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.
- B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.
- B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.
- B8.4 To this paragraph B8:
- "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.
 - "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.
 - "Restricted Client" means any person:
 - who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
 - with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
 - but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "M. S. R.", is written over a stylized arrow that points to the right.

- d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.3 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:

- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
- (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.

B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.

B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the mc@jpmc website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.

B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.

B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

- B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.
- B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

- B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary; and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure - 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users' Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments to which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195mwa of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain, or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of J.P. Morgan:

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, retention and /or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me. I waive the right to inspect or approve any finished product of the Material, including written or electronic copy, wherein my or that of any person's likeness appears.

I will not hold J.P. Morgan liable or responsible for the Material that are lost, delayed, misdirected or incomplete or cannot be delivered for any technical or other reason. J.P. Morgan shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan - Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. Morgan Chase & Co, including its subsidiaries and affiliates (respectively or jointly) (JP Morgan) and shall not use, except for the purposes of the performance of my duties during my employment with J.P. Morgan, or disclose to any other party any Confidential Information (as such term is hereinafter defined) which may be disclosed to or created by me in connection with the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. As used herein, the term "Confidential Information" means any information which relates to confidential, proprietary and/or trade secret information in oral, demonstrative, written, electronic, graphic or machine readable form contained in any documents, manuals, diskettes and other storage medium including but not limited to internal controls, computer or data processing programs, algorithms, electronic data processing applications, routines, subroutines, techniques or systems, or information concerning the business or financial affairs and methods of operation or proposed methods of operation, accounts, transactions, proposed transactions or security procedures, know-how, inventions, training methods or other information relating to the business and other operations of either J.P. Morgan, any affiliate of J.P. Morgan, or any client, customer or vendor of J.P. Morgan and all copies and reproductions thereof, whether or not owned or developed by J.P. Morgan, except such information which is in the public domain at the time of its disclosure to me or which subsequently enters the public domain other than as a result of a breach of duty on my part. I agree that, upon J.P. Morgan written demand for whatever reason, I shall immediately deliver to J.P. Morgan any and all notes, drawings, documents, manuals, diskettes and other m copies or excerpts thereof and confirm to J.P. Morgan, in writing, the return or destruction of the same. I acknowledge that my right to retain and/or use the Confidential Information shall terminate forthwith upon J.P. Morgan written demand and I shall immediately cease to use the Confidential Information. The obligations imposed by this clause shall survive the term of my employment with J.P. Morgan with respect to the performance of services or of my employment or assignment to render services in connection therewith. I understand and agree that any breach of these confidentiality obligations will cause J.P. Morgan irreparable damage and J.P. Morgan shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this paragraph by means of injunctive relief including specific performance.

Consent for Use, Transfer and Verification of Personal Data

1. This consent is for collecting, using, holding, receiving, possessing, storing, dealing, transferring, disclosing or handling ("Use") your Personal Information (defined below) (including your Sensitive Personal Data or Information(defined below)) from you (collectively, "Personal Data") in connection and during your employment with J. P. Morgan Services India Private Limited ("Company")("Consent").
2. Dear Sakshi Gadegaonkar,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

Should you have queries in relation to your employment terms, your benefits or Company policies, please contact our IHR Answers hotline at 000 800 440 5210 (local toll free) or +1 212-552-5100 (international).

Please be reminded your employment terms should be treated with the strictest confidence. To accept this offer of employment, please click on the 'Accept' button at the bottom of this page on or before 24-Mar-2023.

We are excited to welcome you to our Company and take this opportunity to wish you every success in taking this next step of your career with us.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

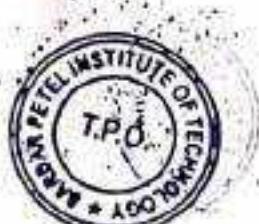

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:
Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR 1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

- B1.1 Your employment is subject to:
- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
 - b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
 - c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.
- B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.
- B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.
- B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.
- B2. Remuneration
- B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.
- B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.
- B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any

and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

- B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period;
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
- (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
- (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
- (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
- (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.

B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.

B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.

B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work.
- c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

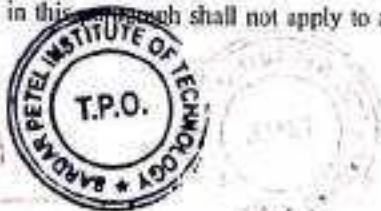

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

- B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.
- B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.
- B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.
- B8.4 In this paragraph B8:
- "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.
 - "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.
 - "Restricted Client" means any person:
 - who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
 - with whose customs or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
 - but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of such restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

- B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:
- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
 - (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.
- B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.
- B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the me@jpmc website, as amended from time-to-time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.
- B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

- B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

- B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

- B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.
- B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.

B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

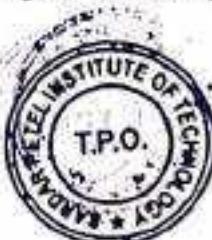

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts.
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts.
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade.

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary; and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure – 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users: Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments to which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195(2)(a) of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of J.P. Morgan:

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, retention and/or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me. I waive the right to inspect or approve any finished product of the Material, including written or electronic copy, wherein my or that of any person's likeness appears.

I will not hold J.P. Morgan liable or responsible for the Material that are lost, delayed, misdirected or incomplete or cannot be delivered for any technical or other reason. J.P. Morgan shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan – Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. Morgan Chase & Co. including its subsidiaries and affiliates (respectively or jointly) (JP Morgan) and shall not use, except for the purposes of the performance of my duties during my employment with J.P. Morgan, or disclose to any other party any Confidential Information (as such term is hereinafter defined) which may be disclosed to or created by me in connection with the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. As used herein, the term "Confidential Information" means any information which relates to confidential, proprietary and/or trade secret information in oral, demonstrative, written, electronic, graphic or machine readable form contained in any documents, manuals, diskettes and other storage medium including but not limited to internal controls, computer or data processing programs, algorithms, electronic data processing applications, routines, subroutines, techniques or systems, or information concerning the business or financial affairs and methods of operation or proposed methods of operation, accounts, transactions, proposed transactions or security procedures, know-how, inventions, training methods or other information relating to the business and other operations of either J.P. Morgan, any affiliate of J.P. Morgan, or any client, customer or vendor of J.P. Morgan and all copies and reproductions thereof, whether or not owned or developed by J.P. Morgan, except such information which is in the public domain at the time of its disclosure to me or which subsequently enters the public domain other than as a result of a breach of duty on my part. I agree that, upon J.P. Morgan written demand for whatever reason, I shall immediately deliver to J.P. Morgan any and all notes, drawings, documents, manuals, diskettes and other m

copies or excerpts thereof and confirm to J.P. Morgan, in writing, the return or destruction of the same. I acknowledge that my right to retain and/or use the Confidential Information shall terminate forthwith upon J.P. Morgan written demand and I shall immediately cease to use the Confidential Information. The obligations imposed by this clause shall survive the term of my employment with J.P. Morgan with respect to the performance of services, or of my employment or assignment to render services in connection therewith. I understand and agree that any breach of these confidentiality obligations will cause J.P. Morgan irreparable damage and J.P. Morgan shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this paragraph by means of injunctive relief including specific performance.

Dear Vidhi Raghwan,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

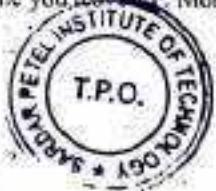

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:
Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR 1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

B1.1 Your employment is subject to:

- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
- b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
- c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints;
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.

B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.

B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

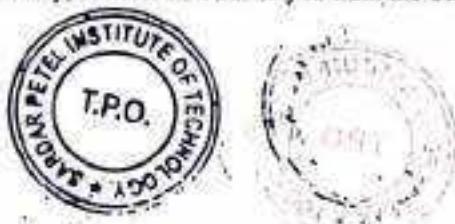

B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.

B2. Remuneration

B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.

B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any and all withholding or deduction (or, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

- B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
- (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
- (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
- (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
- (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.

B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.

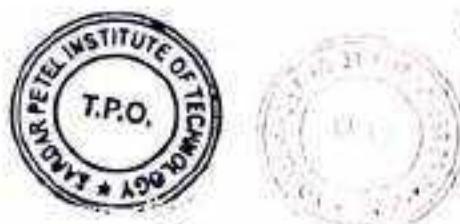

B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.

B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work;
- c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

- B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.
- B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.
- B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.
- B8.4 In this paragraph B8:
- "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.
 - "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.
 - "Restricted Client" means any person:
 - who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
 - with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
 - but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

- d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

- B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:
- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
 - (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.
- B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.
- B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the me@jpmc website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.
- B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

- B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

- B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

- B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.
- B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.

B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary; and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure – 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users' Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195awa of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of J.P. Morgan:

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, reiteration and /or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me. I waive the right to inspect or approve any finished product of the Material, including written or electronic copy, wherein my or that of any person's likeness appears.

I will not hold J.P. Morgan liable or responsible for the Material that are lost, delayed, misdirected or incomplete or cannot be delivered for any technical or other reason. J.P. Morgan shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan – Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. Morgan Chase & Co, including its subsidiaries and affiliates (respectively or jointly) (JP Morgan) and shall not use, except for the purposes of the performance of my duties during my employment with J.P. Morgan, or disclose to any other party any Confidential Information (as such term is hereinafter defined) which may be disclosed to or created by me in connection with the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. As used herein, the term "Confidential Information" means any information which relates to confidential, proprietary and/or trade secret information in oral, demonstrative, written, electronic, graphic or machine readable form contained in any documents, manuals, diskettes and other storage medium including but not limited to internal controls, computer or data processing programs, algorithms, electronic data processing applications, routines, subroutines, techniques or systems, or information concerning the business or financial affairs and methods of operation or proposed methods of operation, accounts, transactions, proposed transactions or security procedures, know-how, inventions, training methods or other information relating to the business and other operations of either J.P. Morgan, any affiliate of J.P. Morgan, or any client, customer or vendor of J.P. Morgan and all copies and reproductions thereof, whether or not owned or developed by J.P. Morgan, except such information which is in the public domain at the time of its disclosure to me or which subsequently enters the public domain other than as a result of a breach of duty on my part. I agree that, upon J.P. Morgan written demand for whatever reason, I shall immediately deliver to J.P. Morgan any and all notes, drawings, documents, manuals, diskettes and other m

copies or excerpts thereof and confirm to J.P. Morgan, in writing, the return or destruction of the same. I acknowledge that my right to retain and/or use the Confidential Information shall terminate forthwith upon J.P. Morgan written demand and I shall immediately cease to use the Confidential Information. The obligations imposed by this clause shall survive the term of my employment with J.P. Morgan with respect to the performance of services, or of my employment or assignment to render services in connection therewith. I understand and agree that any breach of these confidentiality obligations will cause J.P. Morgan irreparable damage and J.P. Morgan shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this paragraph by means of injunctive relief including specific performance.

Dear Manvita Joshi,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

Should you have queries in relation to your employment terms, your benefits or Company policies, please contact our HR Answers hotline at 000 800 440 5210 (local toll free) or +1 212-552-5100 (international).

Please be reminded your employment terms should be treated with the strictest confidence. To accept this offer of employment, please click on the 'Accept' button at the bottom of this page on or before 24-Mar-2023.

We are excited to welcome you to our Company and take this opportunity to wish you every success in taking this next step of your career with us.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:
Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR 1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

B1.1 Your employment is subject to:

- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
- b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
- c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints.
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.

B1.2 Whilst you, and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.

B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.

B2. Remuneration

B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.

B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any

and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice-President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
- (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
- (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
- (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
- (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.

B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.

B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.

B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work;
- c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6 Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

- B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.
- B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.
- B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.
- B8.4 In this paragraph B8:
- "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.
 - "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.
 - "Restricted Client" means any person:
 - who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
 - with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
 - but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:

- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
- (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.

B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.

B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the rue@jpmc website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.

B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.

B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

- B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.
- B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "John Doe", is written over a horizontal blue ink line.

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code:

of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary; and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting/oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure – 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users: Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments to which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195saw of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwlth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of J.P. Morgan:

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, retention and/or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me. I waive the right to inspect or approve any finished product of the Material, including written or electronic copy, wherein my or that of any person's likeness appears.

I will not hold J.P. Morgan liable or responsible for the Material that are lost, delayed, misdirected or incomplete or cannot be delivered for any technical or other reason. J.P. Morgan shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan – Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

October 03, 2022

Yash Devendra Patel
Sardar Patel Institute of Technology

Dear Yash,

Confirming our discussions, we are pleased to offer you employment at Morgan Stanley Advantage Services Private Limited (the "Firm"). Those who have had the opportunity to meet with you look forward to your joining the Firm. Your position will be that of Analyst in Technology in either Mumbai or Bengaluru; you will be notified of your actual work location prior to your start date.

Total Reward

As an employee of the Firm you will receive an annual Total Reward comprising (1) Base Salary (as defined below) and (2) discretionary above base compensation which may be awarded at fiscal year-end (referred to below as "year-end bonus"). Your Total Reward is inclusive of compensation for all work performed, including any overtime.

Your discretionary year-end bonus, if any, may be payable partially in cash and partially in the form of long-term incentive compensation. There are further details about the conditions of long-term incentive awards below. Your Total Reward will be determined as a part of the compensation review process at the end of each fiscal year. In deciding whether to award any discretionary year-end bonus and the amount of any such bonus, the Firm may take account of factors including (but not limited to) business and market conditions, the profitability and performance of Morgan Stanley and your division, your individual performance, conduct (including compliance with the Firm's principles, policies and procedures) and potential, the strategic objectives of Morgan Stanley, your business unit and team and the associated value attributed to your role and whether you will be remaining in employment with the Firm. In order to be eligible for a year-end bonus award you must be employed and performing duties at the time bonuses are communicated to similarly situated employees and not have given or been given notice of termination prior to such date. Further details about the conditions of year-end bonus awards are contained in the India Employee Handbook. The cash portion of any discretionary year-end bonus is payable when year-end cash bonuses are paid to other similarly situated employees, and in no event later than March 15 in the year following the relevant fiscal year. All payments are subject to applicable withholdings and deductions.

For fiscal year 2023, your CTC (cost to company) consists of your Base Salary (in the components shown below) plus employer's contribution to Provident Fund. For your reference, our projection of the discretionary year-end bonus you can expect to earn this year, based on our expectations of your performance, is also stated below.

A.	Basic Salary	INR 6,50,000.00	per annum
B.	Allowances	INR 6,50,000.00	per annum
C.	BASE SALARY (A+B)	INR 13,00,000.00	per annum
D.	Provident Fund	INR 78,000.00	per annum
E.	TOTAL CTC (C+D)	INR 13,78,000.00	per annum
F.	Projected Discretionary Year-end Bonus	INR 1,95,000.00	per annum
PROJECTED TOTAL COMPENSATION (E+F)		INR 15,73,000.00	per annum

Morgan Stanley

Please note that the Allowances amount includes a fixed Conveyance Allowance of INR 19,200 p.a. and the balance would be Housing Rent Allowance. Leave Travel Allowance and contribution to National Pension Scheme are permissible under the current flexi compensation program which if opted for, would be from your balance Housing Rent allowance. All components of Base Salary (excluding Leave Travel Allowance (if any)) will be paid in monthly installments. Both your annual base salary and your discretionary year-end bonus, if any, will be prorated from your date of hire through the end of the fiscal year.

As mentioned above, consistent with Morgan Stanley's philosophy regarding employee equity ownership, under certain circumstances in the sole discretion of a committee of the Board of Directors (the "Committee"), you may receive part of any year-end bonus in the form of a long-term incentive award (such as Morgan Stanley restricted stock units and/or stock options or other incentive or equity-based awards in effect at the time) under one of the Morgan Stanley compensation plans. From time to time, we review the form and terms of the long-term incentive compensation and the percentage component that it constitutes of Total Reward with the Committee. Your actual award in any year, if any, will be consistent with the terms and conditions of the relevant long-term incentive compensation program at the time of the award and will be subject to certain restrictions and cancellation provisions (for example, your long-term incentive award, even if vested, is subject to cancellation under specified circumstances). All long-term incentive awards assume satisfactory performance and conduct and that you remained employed through the grant and vesting dates of the award.

Special Awards

In addition to the foregoing, you will be eligible to receive a Sign On/Retention Award (the "Award"). The Award will be payable in four instalments, as follows:

Instalment Date	Award
Employment commencement date ("Start Date")	INR 2,00,000
First anniversary of the Start Date	INR 1,00,000
Second anniversary of the Start Date	INR 3,00,000
Third anniversary of the Start Date	INR 3,00,000

Each instalment of the Award ("Instalment") will be paid, at the latest, in the pay run in the month following the relevant Instalment Date (less applicable withholdings and deductions) conditional upon your performance and conduct being satisfactory to the Firm and also upon your being in employment with the Firm, and not under notice for any reason whatsoever, as at the relevant Instalment Date.

If either (a) the Firm terminates your employment for reasons other than redundancy (as determined by the Firm); or (b) you resign or give notice of resignation for any reason whatsoever, and in either case within 12 months of payment of an Instalment, you will repay the gross Instalment on demand and in any event prior to your last day of employment1. This Sign-On Bonus will not constitute part of your Total Reward.

"[1] Clarification on local income tax adjustment: Irrespective of whether the amounts are repaid in the same India Financial Year ("FY") as they were received or are repaid in a different FY to the FY in which they were received, the Firm will not be able to make any Income Tax related adjustment – to Gross Income or Income Tax. However, in both cases the Firm will provide the Employee with an acknowledgment towards the repayment. The Employee will need to liaise with the local income tax department in his/her personal capacity to re-claim income tax paid on the gross amount returned, as may be allowable".

Benefits

You will be entitled to the following benefits:

- Provident Fund contributions of 12% of your basic salary, as shown in the CTC chart above.
- Expenses incurred by you, your spouse and children (up to 25 years) for treatment of an illness while confined to a hospital or nursing home, for any illness, disease or injury which in the normal course would require care and treatment at a hospital or nursing home, will be paid for in accordance with Morgan Stanley's Hospital Plus Plan, subject to a total annual limit of INR 1,600,000 per family (INR 400,000 is automatically allocated while the next INR 1,200,000 gets allocated from an Organization Floater, based on the firm's discretion).
- Gratuity and other benefits (including accident insurance and life insurance) in accordance with legal requirements and Morgan Stanley's policies in effect, and as may be amended from time to time.

You will also be entitled to paid annual leave of 23 working days each calendar year (January 1 to December 31), prorated for any partial year of employment.

As indicated above, you may be employed in the Firm's offices in either Mumbai or Bengaluru. You may be eligible for relocation assistance in respect of your move from your home to your assigned work location. If applicable, Human Resources will provide you with details of the available relocation benefits.

Nothing in this letter should be construed as a guarantee of any particular level of benefits or of your participation in any benefit plan. The Firm and its affiliates reserve the right to amend, modify or terminate, in its or their sole discretion, all benefit and compensation plans in effect from time to time.

Obligation to Observe Rules and Policies

Regular office hours at Morgan Stanley are 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. Morgan Stanley reserves the right from time to time to assign you to work in such shifts as required for business reasons. Additionally, your services are subject to transfer from one establishment to another, from one department to another, from one section to another, from one Morgan Stanley group company to another (company in this case refers to associate or subsidiary companies that are in existence as of today and that may come into existence any time in future anywhere in India or abroad).

Please note that as a condition of your employment with the Firm you will be bound by the India Employee Handbook, the Morgan Stanley Code of Conduct and other policies relating to your employment as may be issued, updated, varied and supplemented ("Morgan Stanley Policies"). For the avoidance of doubt, this includes the Firm's Global Employee Trading and Investing Policy, which places certain restrictions on your personal security dealings, brokerage accounts, and outside business interests, as well as on the personal security dealings and brokerage accounts of your spouse, dependents and any other persons to whose financial support you or your spouse contribute or whose investment decisions you or your spouse could otherwise influence. Any violation of Morgan Stanley Policies may subject you to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal.

A copy of the Employee Handbook is enclosed herewith. On the final page you will find an acknowledgment form that you are to complete and return to Human Resources. In addition you will receive a copy of the Code of Conduct electronically after you commence your employment and your continued employment is conditional upon you completing an electronic acknowledgement on receipt of this document.

In accordance with Morgan Stanley's Code of Conduct, you acknowledge that in the course of your employment with the Firm or after termination of your employment, you are not permitted to make any unauthorized use of documents or other information, which are confidential, trade secret or proprietary information ("Confidential Information"). Likewise, you may not bring onto Morgan Stanley premises any Confidential Information relating to any prior employers' business.

Probation and Notice

Your employment is subject to a probationary period as described in the Employee Handbook. The notice period for termination of your employment is 7 days during the initial probationary period and 14 days during any extended probationary period. The Firm reserves the right to provide payment in lieu of notice in either case.

After the probationary period, either you or the Firm may terminate your employment for any reason with 60 days' notice. The Firm reserves the right to provide payment in lieu of notice. The Firm further reserves the right to require you, for part or all of the notice of termination period for which you remain an employee, not to perform any duties and remain away from Morgan Stanley premises, although the Firm will continue to maintain your salary and other contractual benefits for this period. You may not commence employment or take any action in preparation to commence employment with any company or other business during this period.

Additional steps

Your employment is contingent upon your successfully completing your current studies (Bachelor degree/Masters degree/PhD) and providing the Firm with graduation/degree certificates and such other evidence of your successful completion of your current studies as the Firm may require. The evidence must be provided within 6 months of the commencement of your employment.

Your employment is also contingent upon a number of additional steps in the employment process including, but not limited to, a background check and the procurement of any necessary licenses or permits (including a visa, if required) required for your employment. The Firm reserves the right to adjust your proposed starting date or details pertaining to the contract based on the completion of these steps.

- To facilitate the pre-employment screening process, you are required to complete the relevant background check profile forms and submit personal credentials to the Firm's Corporate Security team. You will receive the relevant forms and instructions on this process via email shortly after we receive your acceptance of this offer. The Firm reserves the right to delay your start date in the event your background check is not timely completed. Pursuant to this check, you are also required to submit to Human Resources appropriate proof of successful completion of your present level of education.
- You are also required to show proof of citizenship and/or the appropriate right-to-work documentation on or before your first day of work. If you require a visa/work permit and do not currently have one, you are responsible to obtain one before you will be permitted to commence work. Please contact local Human Resources to arrange for your visa/work permit application.
- You must also procure any registration or licensing required by the relevant regulatory authority for a person filling your particular position. Please contact the Compliance Department if you need to confirm whether this will be required of you.

If you commence employment with the Firm prior to your provision of evidence of your successful completion of your current studies and/or satisfactory completion of the pre-employment screening process, your continued employment will remain conditional on the provision of such evidence/satisfactory completion of that process.

Execution and Contract Formation

This offer, as to its subject matter, contains a complete statement of all agreements between you and the Firm, constitutes the entire understanding between you and the Firm, and supersedes all prior or contemporaneous verbal or written agreements, understandings or communications (including, without limitation, any term sheet or other summary writing relating to your employment). You acknowledge that you have not relied on any assurance or representation not expressly stated in this offer letter. If there is any conflict with the benefit information included in this letter or any verbal representation and the plan documents or insurance contracts, the relevant plan documents or insurance documents control. The Firm reserves the right to review, modify or amend your terms and conditions of employment from time to time as circumstances may require.

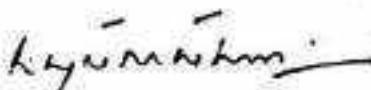

Your employment is governed by the laws of India and you and the Firm submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of its courts and tribunals.

We ask that you confirm your acceptance by clicking on the relevant button within the Firm's online Application Center and entering your name as an e-signature. We recommend you save a copy of this offer letter for your records.

In the event that we do not receive your acceptance on or before October 08, 2022, we will assume that you have declined the position. Accordingly, on that date this offer will lapse and will no longer be capable of acceptance by you. Further, the Firm's offer is conditional upon you commencing employment with the Firm on or before August 11, 2023 or such other date as may be agreed in writing by the Firm. Again, this offer will lapse if you are unable to commence employment on or before this date.

If you have questions regarding the above, please feel free to call Madhura Girkar at 022 66411521 or Rajiv MG at 080 61047561 in the Human Resources Department.

Sincerely,
For and behalf of Morgan Stanley Advantage Services Private Limited

Dear Sahil:

Confirming our discussions, we are pleased to extend to you a formal offer of employment at Institutional Shareholder Services India Private Limited (the "Firm"). Those who have had the opportunity to meet with you look forward to your joining the Firm. Your position will be that of a JUNIOR ANALYST for DEVELOPMENT.

For fiscal year 2023, your annual base salary will be INR 1,199,219 paid in monthly installments, pro-rated from your date of hire through the end of the fiscal year. Your monthly base salary will be one-twelfth of your annualized amount, and will be paid in INR.

You may be eligible to receive an annual discretionary bonus. Any bonus would be at ISS' sole discretion, would generally be contingent on both individual and Company performance and would also be pro-rated from the date you commence employment. Any bonus would only be earned if you remain employed through, and do not give notice of termination of your employment prior to, the date of payment of the bonus. All payments are subject to applicable withholdings and deductions.

For the fiscal year 2023, your CTC (cost to company) consists of your base salary (in the components shown below) plus employer's contribution to Provident Fund and Gratuity accrual (Defined Benefit):

Components	Amount
A. Basic Salary	599,610	INR p.a.
B. Housing Allowance (includes optional Leave Travel Allowance)	539,010	INR p.a.
C. Other Allowance	54,200	INR p.a.
D. Meal Allowance	26,400	INR p.a.
E. Base Salary	1,199,219	INR p.a.
F. Firm's contribution to Provident Fund	71,953	INR p.a.
G. Gratuity accrual (Defined Benefit)	28,827	INR p.a.
Cost to Company	1,300,000	INR p.a.

Your Basic salary is calculated as 1/2 of your Base salary. Housing Allowance is calculated as Base salary minus the sum of Basic salary, Meal allowance and Other Allowance. All components of base salary will be paid in monthly installments. Your annual base salary and your discretionary year-end bonus, if any, will be prorated from your date of hire through the end of ISS's 2023 fiscal year.

As mentioned above, consistent with the Firm's philosophy regarding employee equity ownership, under certain circumstances in the sole discretion of a committee of the Board of Directors (the "Committee"), you may receive part of any year-end bonus in the form of a long-term incentive award (such as ISS restricted stock units and/or stock options or other incentive or equity-based awards in effect at the time) under one of the Firm's compensation plans. From time to time, we review the form and terms of the long-term incentive compensation and the percentage component that it constitutes of Total Reward with the Committee. Your actual award in any year, if any, will be consistent with the terms and conditions of the relevant long-term incentive compensation program at the time of the award and will be subject to certain restrictions and cancellation provisions (for example, your long-term incentive award, even if vested, is subject to cancellation under specified circumstances). All long-term incentive awards assume satisfactory performance and conduct and that you remained employed through the vesting dates of the award.

Benefits

You will be entitled to the following benefits:

- Provident Fund contributions of 12% of your basic salary, as shown in the CTC chart above.
- Gratuity and other benefits in accordance with legal requirements and the Firm's policies in effect, and as may be amended from time to time.
- Expenses incurred by you, your spouse and children (up to 21 years) for treatment of an illness, disease or injury while confined to a hospital or nursing home; for any illness, disease or injury which in the normal course would require care and treatment at a hospital or nursing home for a minimum of 24 hours, will be paid for in accordance with the Firm's Group Medical claim program, subject to a total annual limit of Rs. 600,000 per family under family floater scheme or such other limit established from time to time.
- Personal Accident Insurance for a sum which equals three times (or such multiple determined by the Firm from time to time) your annual base salary.
- Life insurance which, in the event of your death due to any cause whilst an employee of ISS, pays to your dependents a lump sum benefit amount of three times your annual base salary (subject to successful clearance of medical underwriting if applicable as per the insurance company's guidelines).

Other benefits include annual leave of 23 working days in any calendar year (January 1 to December 31). Please refer to Annexure I for details on other benefits.

Nothing in this letter should be construed as a guarantee of any particular level of benefits or of your participation in any benefit plan. The Firm and its affiliates reserve the right to amend, modify or terminate, in its sole discretion, all benefit and compensation plans in effect from time to time.

Obligation to Observe Rules and Policies

Regular office hours at the Firm are 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. However, the Firm reserves its right from time to time to assign you to work in such shifts as required for business reasons. Additionally, your services are subject to transfer from one establishment to another, from one department to another, from one section to another, in existence as of today and that may come into existence any time in future anywhere in India or abroad.

Please note that as a condition of your employment with the Firm you will be bound by the India Employee Handbook, the ISS Code of Conduct, and such other policies relating to your employment as may exist, be issued, updated, varied and supplemented by the Firm. In the event of any conflict between those policies and this letter, this letter shall take precedence, unless the policy has been introduced or modified after this letter was issued. Any violation of the rules contained in the India Employee Handbook, the Code of Conduct or related policies and procedures may subject you to disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal. A copy of the Code of Conduct is enclosed herewith. In addition, you will be required to read the Employee Handbook electronically after you commence your employment and will be expected to return an acknowledgement form to Human Resources that you will find on the final page.

In accordance with the Firm's Code of Conduct, you acknowledge that in the course of your employment with the Firm or after termination of your employment, you are not permitted to make any unauthorized use of documents or other information, which are confidential or proprietary information of Firm or its clients or employees. Likewise, you may not bring onto Firm premises any confidential documents/information relating to your prior employers' business. You understand and agree that as a condition of employment, unless you are granted a waiver in writing by the Legal and Compliance Department you may be required, upon the commencement of employment, to transfer any brokerage/securities accounts that you may influence or control to a designated institution for surveillance and review by the ISS Legal and Compliance Department.

The Firm may disclose personal data relating to you to (i) any of its affiliates, subsidiaries and to its parent company; or (ii) any potential purchasers of any of the Firm's business; or (iii) any party to whom the Firm proposes to transfer any of its rights and/or responsibilities under any agreement it may have with you; or (iv) to any other third party, for any of the purposes set out below.

Such personal data may be collected and processed by the Firm and the abovementioned third parties for several purposes as may be determined by the Firm, including but not limited to, administration of employment, wages and benefits, performance assessment, reference to third parties, general administration, any other purposes as may be required by applicable law or for any other legitimate business purpose. The particulars of the same will be communicated to you from time to time.

Termination and Other Contingencies

Either you or the Firm may terminate your employment for any reason with 60 days' written notice. The Firm shall have the option to terminate your services by paying you 60 days base salary in lieu of notice. In the event that you do not serve the required notice period of 60 days without prior written approval / consent of the Firm, you shall be in breach of this Agreement and the Firm shall be entitled (in addition to a claim for damages and without prejudice to all other remedies in law or equity available to it) to equitable relief by way of an order of specific performance, injunction or other order to enforce this clause. The Firm reserves the right to change the abovementioned notice period at any time during your employment and upon its communication you will be required to serve such notice period. The Firm reserves the right to require you, for part or all of the notice of termination period, not to perform any duties and remain away from the Firm's premises, although the Firm will continue to maintain your salary and other contractual benefits for this period. You may not commence or prepare to commence employment with or provide services to any company or other business during this period.

Annexure 1: Other Terms and Conditions of Employment

The Terms and Conditions contained herein are not exhaustive and you should keep yourself updated of the same through Enfusion's company intranet (Confluence) and other communication sent to employees from time to time. By accepting the offer and agreeing to join the services of the Company, you agree with the Company as follows:

1. Work Rules & Code of Conduct

- (a) Enfusion's Code of Conduct: The Company looks forward to the application of the best of your skills and experience, while in service. In addition, it is a condition of this offer and your acceptance that your performance will be in accordance with Enfusion's Code of Conduct is to observance of applicable legal requirements where the Company conducts business.
- (b) Salary: Your salary and other benefits, as well as other employment-related terms and information, are set out in Annexure 2 hereto.
- (c) Probation: You will be on probation for a period of six (6) months from the date of joining (the probation may be extended for a maximum period of six (6) months by the company at its sole discretion). Upon completion of 6 months from the date of joining, unless explicitly informed about extension of the probation period, you shall be deemed confirmed. For a person whose immediate previous employment is with any of the SonicWall group of companies, this clause shall not be applicable.
- (d) Restraint: In addition, for a period of one year after termination of employment with the Company, you shall not approach or communicate with any customers of the Company, nor solicit or endeavor to take away from the Company, the business or any customers or clients of the Company. You further agree not to, for a period of one year after termination of employment with the Company, approach any employee of the Company or communicate with any employee of the Company with the effect of enticing, or attempting to entice any employee away from the Company.
- (e) Retirement: You shall retire on the attainment of fifty-eight (58) years of age unless specifically communicated by the company in writing to continue in service beyond this age.
- (f) Relocation Bonus: The terms of the Relocation Bonus, if applicable, will be stated at the end of this document in Annexure 2.
- (g) Training: The Company may also send you abroad for the purpose of specific skills training relevant to your employment with the Company. If your employment with the Company ends for any reason within the first twelve (12) months of you being sent abroad for specific skills training, you will repay to the Company, all of the costs paid to you or incurred on your behalf for this training. The company reserves the right to review the skills required to perform the job and may introduce new trainings and certifications needed to impart the new skills and ways to measure the same. You shall undergo such trainings and certifications when needed and continue to successfully upgrade your skills and capabilities needed to perform the job effectively at expected levels.

- (h) Recovery of Dues: In the event of any financial recovery to be made from you, the Company shall also be entitled to offset payment of any prorated allowance advances against salary due and to withhold amounts that may be required by relevant authorities. These repayment obligations cannot be waived except by a written communication by the Company.
- (i) Secondary Employment and Outside Business Ventures: While in the employment of the Company, you shall not undertake employment with any other Company on a temporary or part-time basis or offer your services with or without pay to any person, legal entity or public authority or to be occupied in your own business without the prior written consent of the Company.
- (j) Correctness of Information: This appointment is based on the information supplied by you in your application for employment. This appointment will be treated as "null and void" if any material error, in the management opinion, is discovered and/or due to non-disclosure of relevant information about you, to the company. There is no employment contract or any other contractual obligation to which the Employee is subject, which prevents the Employee from entering into this Contract or from performing fully the Employee's duties under this Contract.
- (k) Notice Period: In the event, you voluntarily resign from the Company during your employment term (including your Probation Period), you will be required to serve a notice period of 60 days at the Company. During your notice period, you would be expected not to take time off(s) with the exception of an emergency situation. During your notice period, in case you avail time off(s); your notice period may be extended by the number of days you avail time off. This will be done at the discretion of the management and will mainly be based on business need.
- (l) Service Rules: For all other matters, not specified herein, you shall be governed by the company's policies, conditions of service, service rules and amendments made and communicated from time to time.
- (m) Employee Shift Allowance Policy: As part of your employment with Enfusion, you will be subject to Enfusion's Employee Shift Allowance Policy (a copy of which can be found on Enfusion's internal Confluence page). The purpose of this policy is to provide direction to Enfusion employees and determine any shift allowance eligibility and payment criteria for Enfusion employees who are required to work in shifts (with shifts being defined as hours put in outside the traditional IST working time). If required for business reasons, Enfusion may change your work schedule to require you to work in shifts. Enfusion will provide at least 15 days notice of any change to your work schedule which requires you to work in shifts or changes your shift. This policy is applicable for regular, full-time employees employed at 100% FTE basis on the payroll of Enfusion. The following are not eligible for shift allowance: interns, trainees, contractors, part-time employees, and temporary staff. Further information regarding this policy can be found on Confluence.

2. Confidentiality Obligation

You will not use, publish, misappropriate or disclose any "Confidential or Proprietary Information", during or after your employment, except as required in the performance of your assignment for the Company or as authorized in writing by the Company. Such Information shall include what you learn or originate during your employment which is not available or readily ascertainable from public sources, and includes such information disclosed by others in confidence to the Company. If in doubt, you will promptly consult your supervisor. Confidential and Proprietary Information includes, but is not necessarily limited to, the information described in subparagraphs below.

- (a) Computer products, Company processes and device strategies planned or under development, including device specifications, system architecture, logic designs, circuit implementations and plans for unannounced and announced products;
- (b) Software products in use, planned or under development, including operating systems adaptations or enhancements, language compilers, interpreters and translators, system design and evaluation tools, and application programs;
- (c) Information relating to Company employees; actual and anticipated relationships between the Company and other companies; sales levels, profit levels, pricing and other unpublished financial data; and budget, staffing, compensation, equipment and related plans; (d) Information relating to the Company's customer and vendor relationships. This includes performance requirements, development and delivery schedules, device and product pricing and quantities, and other information communicated to the Company by customers or vendors.

You will not use in your work or disclose to the Company any confidential or proprietary information of a third party unless the Company first receives written authorization from the third party allowing the use or disclosure of such information and unless the Company agrees in writing to receive such information on terms acceptable to the Company. You will abide by the restrictions imposed on the disclosure and use of such third-party information.

You acknowledge that a violation of the provisions of this Agreement dealing with Confidential and Proprietary Information and Intellectual property may cause significant harm to the Company and that remedies at law may be inadequate to protect against a breach of such provisions. Accordingly, you agree that the Company shall be entitled, in addition to any other relief available to it, to the granting of injunctive relief without proof of actual damages or the requirement to establish the inadequacy of any of the other remedies available to it. You agree not to assert any defense in proceedings regarding the granting of any injunction or specific performance based on the availability to the Company of any other remedy.

For a period of one (1) year after leaving the Company's employment, you will give written notice to the new employer of your obligations regarding Intellectual Property, Confidential and Proprietary Information, Non-Solicitation and Non-Competition. For a period of one (1) year after termination of this Contract for whatever cause, you shall not solicit or endeavor to take away from the Company the business of any customers or clients of the Company.

(iii) Information relating to future plans of Enfusion, its affiliates, its customers and other third parties, such as but not limited to: marketing strategies; new product research pending projects and proposals; proprietary production processes; research and development strategies; and similar items.

Release includes disclosure to any person, oral exchange, and application to situations abroad of personal knowledge or technical experience. If you have any doubts regarding whether particular information is Controlled Technology or Software, please consult your manager, Enfusion's Legal Department, or Enfusion's Export Compliance Organization.

5. Intellectual Property and Copyright

While you are an employee of the Company, you will promptly disclose to the Company, all intellectual Property developed by you, solely or jointly with others, in the course of your employment. Intellectual Property includes each discovery, idea, improvement, or invention you create, conceive, develop or discover, alone or with others, which relates to the Company's business or results from the use of the Company's equipment, supplies, facilities, or information. All Intellectual Property, in whatever form, is the Company's property. You will assign to and agree to assign to the Company and its nominees, without additional compensation, all of your worldwide and perpetual rights in Intellectual Property. You will assist the Company in all ways, including giving evidence and executing any documents deemed helpful or necessary by the Company to establish, perfect, and register worldwide, at the Company's expense, such rights in Intellectual Property. You will not do anything in conflict with the Company's rights in Intellectual Property and will cooperate fully to protect Intellectual Property against misappropriation or infringement by third parties. If you come across any cases of infringement of the rights of the Company in its Intellectual Property, you will promptly notify the Company of such infringement and assist the Company in all ways to protect its Intellectual Property.

You hereby agree that the Company will be the copyright owner in all works of every kind and description created or developed by you, solely or jointly with others, in connection with any employment with the Company. If requested to, and at no further expense to the Company, you will execute in writing any acknowledgments or assignments of copyright ownership of such Copyrightable Works as may be appropriate for preservation of the worldwide and perpetual ownership in the Company and its nominees of such copyrights.

You further agree that the Company may use your name, voice, picture or likeness in the Company's advertising, training advertisement and other materials without payment or separate compensation to you both during and following your employment with the Company.

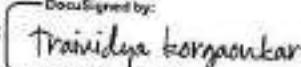

On the date when your employment with the Company ends, you will promptly deliver to a designated representative of the Company all originals and copies of all materials, documents and property of the Company which are in your possession or control. You will also cooperate in conducting exit interviews with a designated representative of the Company.

I accept this agreement.

GOLDMAN SACHS SERVICES PRIVATE LIMITED – HYDERABAD

This Statement sets out the terms and conditions of your employment with Goldman Sachs Services Private Limited – Hyderabad ("GSSPL" or "the firm"). This statement, together with your offer letter, constitutes your contract of employment with GSSPL. In addition, the India Employee Handbook as amended from time to time contains the policies and procedures with which you will be expected to comply. If there is a conflict between the provisions of this Statement and the Employee Handbook, this Statement will prevail. This Statement replaces and supersedes all other agreements, written or oral, with respect to its subject matter. GSSPL reserves the right to amend this Statement if necessary to comply with applicable law.

1. Employee: Manthan Juthani

2. Employer and Job Title

2.1 You will be employed as an Analyst by Goldman Sachs Services Private Limited – Hyderabad ("GSSPL" or "the firm") or in any other commensurate capacity as the firm may decide. Although you will be employed by the firm, the firm shall be permitted to supply your services to other entities from time to time controlling, controlled by or under common control with GSSPL (GSSPL together with such entities, collectively defined as "Goldman Sachs"). During your employment by the firm, you shall (unless prevented by ill health or accident or by virtue of absence on vacation/holiday or absence otherwise authorised by the firm) devote your time, attention and abilities to the business of Goldman Sachs. You shall at all times act in the best interests of Goldman Sachs and shall accept any additional office or position without further remuneration in any Goldman Sachs entity at any time and, in that event, you shall execute all such documents and agreements as the firm may consider reasonably necessary for this purpose.

2.2 You are required to work exclusively for the firm unless you obtain prior written consent from the firm in respect of your involvement in outside employment or business activities.

3. Date of Employment

3.1 Your employment (and your period of continuous employment) with GSSPL will be communicated to you in writing by the firm. The start date shall be no later than July 24, 2023. Your employment with GSSPL will be subject to an initial probationary period of 180 days from the commencement of your employment. Subject to your performance during the probationary period, the firm reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to extend the probationary period for such period of time as it sees fit (the initial 180 day period and any extension to it, being the "Probationary Period"). During the probationary period you or the firm may terminate your employment on 24 hours written notice. At the expiry of the probationary period, unless otherwise communicated to you by the firm at its sole discretion, your employment with the firm will be deemed to be confirmed, subject to continued satisfactory job performance and the rest of this agreement, including Paragraph 9.

3.2 Notwithstanding the other provisions of this Statement, your employment will automatically terminate on your 58th birthday unless extended by the firm by written agreement.

4. Compensation

4.1 Your basic salary will be INR 875,000 per annum, payable monthly, less tax or other withholdings and applicable deductions as required by law or in accordance with firm policy.

4.2 You will receive a housing allowance of 40% of your annual basic salary which will be INR 350,000 per annum payable monthly less tax or other withholdings as required by law.

4.3 You will receive transport allowance at the rate of INR 19,200 per annum payable monthly less tax or other withholdings as required by law.

4.4 The firm will make contributions towards the Employees' Provident Fund Scheme of 12% of your annual basic salary which will be INR 105,000. You will also be required to pay 12% of your annual basic salary towards the provident fund. Such contributions will be deducted by the firm from your basic salary.

4.5 You will receive a special allowance of INR 400,800 per annum less tax or other withholdings as required by law.

4.6 In summary, your minimum per annum cost to company for fiscal year 2023 (fiscal year refers to January 01 - December 31 of the relevant year) will be INR 1,750,000. Since you will be joining the firm after the beginning of fiscal year 2023, your total compensation will be pro-rated for the actual time of your active employment during the fiscal year. When Goldman Sachs determines your per annum total compensation, it will take into account your annualized Goldman Sachs cost to company and not any salary you may have received from a former employer. All amounts paid to you will be subject to applicable deductions.

4.7 In addition as soon as practicable after commencing employment with the firm you will receive a one-time payment of INR 300,000 which you may use to cover any relocation costs as necessary, payable less tax or other withholdings as required by law. Should you leave the firm for any reason or cease active employment before 18 months from the commencement of your employment, you will be expected to reimburse the firm in the amount of INR 300,000.

4.8 If you are an active employee as at fiscal year-end 2023, and have been in active employment at some time during the fiscal year you may be eligible to receive discretionary compensation. Since you will be joining the firm after the beginning of fiscal year 2023, any discretionary compensation will be pro-rated for the actual time of your active employment during the fiscal year. When Goldman Sachs determines your per annum total compensation, it will take into account your annualized Goldman Sachs cost to company and not any salary you may have received from a former employer. All amounts paid to you will be subject to applicable deductions.

4.9 For years subsequent to 2023, your compensation will be reviewed at least annually; each person's compensation may be influenced by, among other things, his or her performance, his or her anticipated contributions and the firm's results. Discretionary compensation is not a part of the salary of the employee even if paid consistently over a period of years. Discretionary compensation, if any, will be payable in the subsequent fiscal year, on a date and in a manner to be determined by the firm.

4.10 Consistent with other similarly compensated employees, all or part of any discretionary compensation that you may receive in 2023 or future years may be satisfied with cash and/or a non-cash award (which may vest in the future), at the firm's sole discretion. In the event of a non-cash award, the firm will determine value, the nature of the equity interest and other conditions that are attached to the award. Such other conditions may include (but not be limited to) vesting conditions, an increased period of notice of termination of employment, and the like, and the firm's decision in this regard will be final. You should be aware that by accepting a change to your notice period as a condition of receiving a non-cash award, you would be accepting a permanent change to your terms and conditions of employment.

5. Place of Work

5.1 The firm's registered office is located in Bengaluru, although you may be required to work in any of the firm's other offices in India. You are currently required to work in the branch office of the firm, which is currently located at Octave 3, Salapuria Satva Knowledge City, Hi-Tec City, Hyderabad.

5.2 During your employment, you may be required to travel within India and around the world on business for the firm. You may also be required to work on a temporary basis in any of the firm's international offices either for training purposes or to provide short term cover in that office. In such circumstances the firm will provide you with appropriate assistance.

5.3 The firm may require you to travel to a location other than your primary work location or work from/in any of the firm's other offices as may be required by the firm (i.e. 'business travel'), which may generate immigration, regulatory compliance and/or tax requirements that you or the firm will be required to fulfill. Depending on the location and purpose of your trip, you may be required to obtain a business and/or employment visa before undertaking your trip. Employees must also ensure that either the appropriate licenses or registrations are in place before business travel occurs or that an exemption allows you to be accompanied by an individual who holds the appropriate licenses/registrations for the country of travel to conduct your proposed activities. The firm does not protect or otherwise reimburse business visitors for any tax and/or social security obligations that may arise from your business travel and you will be responsible for any personal tax and/or social security payable by you in the location of travel, including any tax return preparation. To the extent required by local law, the firm will withhold or deduct any applicable payroll taxes, social security or similar obligations (including but not limited to any taxes arising from approved business travel) from your compensation. In accordance with these requirements, please ensure your citizenship and travel documents are up to date in HCM or You. For more information regarding business travel, please refer to the Global Business Traveller Tax Policy, available in the Travel Risk Assessment Resource Center under @Work >Travel portal on the GSWeb.

6. Hours of Work

6.1 Your minimum weekly hours of work are 40 per week with a 5 day week, but you will be required to work such additional hours as are necessary to meet the business demands of your job. Your compensation is comprehensive and inclusive of all work done by you.

6.2 You may be required to work either on day or on night shifts and which shift pattern you will be required to work, will be determined by and communicated to you by your manager. Your hours of work, days of work and shift timings may be subject to variation depending on the schedule operated by your Department, for which you will be notified of from time to time. If your pattern of work is varied, you will be informed in writing of any change. You may be eligible for a shift allowance subject to the shift pattern you are required to work. You should note that your entitlement to paid holiday and shift allowance may decrease or increase in the event that your pattern of work is altered.

7. Annual Vacation and Holidays

7.1 You will be entitled to such a number of annual vacation days as set out in the "Vacation, Holidays and Other paid time off" policy of the India Employee Handbook. This will be pro-rated in your first and last years of service and details of the pro-rated entitlement will be set out in the India Employee Handbook.

7.2 In addition, you will be entitled to 10 days paid public holidays details of which will be provided to you at the start of each holiday year and which may be subject to change on an annual basis.

7.3 On the termination of your employment you will be paid in respect of any accrued but untaken vacation. If you have exceeded your accrued vacation entitlement, you hereby consent to the excess being deducted from any sums due to you by the firm on termination.

7.4 You may be required by the firm to take any outstanding vacation entitlement during your notice period.

7.5 Further details about vacation entitlement, including how to book vacation, are contained in the India Employee Handbook. Details of authorised vacation other than vacation entitlement are also found in the India Employee Handbook.

8. Sickness

8.1 If you are absent due to sickness and, provided that you comply with the firm's notification procedures as set out in the India Employee Handbook, you may be paid your salary and usual benefits and allowances at the firm's discretion (less any state benefits that you may claim and any applicable deductions) and usual benefits and allowances at the firm's discretion. Further details of sickness absence and sick pay are detailed in the India Employee Handbook.

8.2 Entitlement to the firm's sick pay scheme is at the firm's discretion and subject to the firm's right to terminate your employment at any time in accordance with the firm's notice provisions set out in paragraph 9 below.

8.3 In connection with your absence, the firm may require you to undergo a medical examination by its nominated doctor or consultant. The firm may also elect, with your consent, to consult your own doctor.

9. Notice Entitlement

9.1 Subject to sub-paragraph 9.2 below and / or other than during the Probationary Period (if applicable), the minimum period of notice that the Firm will give you to terminate your employment is 30 days. The minimum period of written notice that you are required to give the Firm is 30 days.

9.2 Notwithstanding sub-paragraph 9.1, the Firm reserves the right to terminate your contract without any notice if it has reasonable grounds to believe that you are guilty of serious or gross misconduct (which shall, without limitation, include any breach of any of the provisions of this contract of employment), in which case no notice or pay in lieu of notice will be due.

9.3 The Firm reserves the right to require you to remain at home and/or not to undertake all or any of your duties of employment and/or not to contact certain clients or colleagues during part or all of any period of notice of termination of your employment (whether given by you or the Firm), provided that your cost to company is paid and contractual benefits are provided in the usual way. For the avoidance of doubt, you will continue to be bound by your duties and obligations to the Firm until the end of the notice period.

9.4 Instead of a period of notice pursuant to sub-paragraph 9.1 above or any other period of notice applicable to your employment at the relevant time, the Firm may, at its discretion, elect to pay you a sum equivalent to the cost to company (but not benefits) which you would have received during your notice period.

10. Termination Gratuity

10.1 You will be entitled to Gratuity in accordance with the Payment of Gratuity Act 1972 provided you meet the eligibility criteria set out therein. Further details are provided in the India Employee Handbook.

10.2 In considering any payments due to you on termination of employment whether discretionary or not the firm will deem any Gratuity due to you as being inclusive of or in lieu of any payments due to you on termination of employment.

11. Benefits and Allowances

11.1 The firm offers a number of discretionary benefits to employees during employment. There is no contractual entitlement to these benefits and these may be withdrawn or varied at any time. Detailed below is a summary of the benefits currently available and the provision of any such benefit will be subject always to the rules and/or policy (as amended from time to time) governing the provision of such benefit.

11.2 The firm will provide medical insurance cover for hospitalisation treatment, subject to any underwriting requirements or limits imposed by the insurer. Coverage is provided for 5 family members (which can be your spouse, children or dependent parents), if applicable.

11.3 The firm will provide accidental death insurance cover, which will pay a benefit of three times your annual cost to company to your beneficiaries, and life insurance cover of three times your annual cost to company. This insurance cover will be subject to any underwriting requirements or limits imposed by the insurer.

12. Discipline and Grievance

12.1 The firm's disciplinary policy is contained in the Employee Handbook. Whilst the disciplinary process does not form part of your contract of employment, the disciplinary rules do. Disciplinary sanctions may include oral or written warnings and the firm reserves the right to terminate your employment (with or without notice or payment in lieu of notice, at the discretion of the firm), transfer you to another position, to demote you or to impose a financial penalty, if appropriate. If it appears that you have committed an act of serious or gross misconduct, you may be suspended from your duties, pending the outcome of the firm's investigation into the alleged misconduct.

12.2 If you are dissatisfied with a disciplinary decision taken against you, you should contact Human Capital Management, which will arrange for your concern to be raised with the appropriate person.

12.3 If you have a grievance, you may raise the matter with the person you report to either in writing or in person or you may use the firm's formal grievance procedure, details of which are set out in the Employee Handbook.

13. Deductions

13.1 You agree as a term of your employment with the firm that the firm shall be entitled at any time during your employment, or in any event on termination, to deduct from your actual total compensation any monies due from you to the firm, including but not limited to:

- any debt or advance for the time being owed by you to the firm or to any Goldman Sachs entity;
- any deduction relating to leave or holiday taken in excess of entitlement as at the date of the termination of employment;
- any deduction in respect of costs incurred by the firm or the cost of repairing damage to the firm's property caused by you (and of recovering the same);
- any deduction in respect of employee contributions towards benefits provided by you to the firm; and
- any other money owed by you to the firm.

14. Confidential and Proprietary Information

14.1 In connection with your employment by the firm, you may have access to non-public information and materials, including but not limited to information and materials describing or relating to the business and financial affairs, personnel matters, operating procedures, organisational responsibilities, marketing matters, and policies or procedures of Goldman Sachs or its Managing Directors, employees, clients or other third parties; or the personal affairs of Managing Directors or employees ("Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials"). With respect to such Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials, you agree that:

- Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials shall be used only as authorised and only for the purposes intended by Goldman Sachs; and
- you will hold all Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials in strict confidence and, except for the above authorised uses, will not, nor will you permit any agent to give, disclose, copy, reproduce, sell, assign, license, market or transfer Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials to any person, firm or corporation, including any Managing Director or employee of Goldman Sachs who does not have a need to know or see the Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials. This provision applies to authorised writings of any kind containing such information or materials, including books and articles; and
- unless you have prior written authorisation from Goldman Sachs, you will not publicise, disclose or allow disclosure of any information about Goldman Sachs, its present or former Managing Directors, employees, agents or clients, its business and financial affairs, personnel matters, operating procedures, organisation responsibilities, marketing matters and policies or procedures, or any aspects of your candidacy for employment or your tenure as an employee of the firm or of the termination of such employment, with any reporter, author, producer or similar person or entity, or take any other action seeking to publicise or disclose any such information in any way likely to result in such information being made available to the general public in any form, including books, articles or writings of any other kind, as well as film, videotape, audiotape or any other medium; and

- while employed by the firm, you will not disclose or use without authorisation any information concerning persons or entities other than Goldman Sachs that is confidential or proprietary to them, nor will you use information in any manner that would constitute a violation of any undertaking or agreement with a prior employer or third party; and
- upon the termination of your employment (or earlier if requested by the firm), you will return to Goldman Sachs all originals and copies of documents and other materials relating to Goldman Sachs or containing or derived from Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials that are in your possession or control, accompanied, if requested, by a certificate signed by you and satisfactory to Goldman Sachs to the effect that all such Confidential and Proprietary Information and Materials have been returned.

14.2 You hereby irrevocably assign to Goldman Sachs, its successors and assigns, and Goldman Sachs shall have exclusive ownership rights, including, without limitation, all patent, copyright and trade secret rights, with respect to any work, including, but not limited to, any invention, discoveries, concepts, ideas or information, conceived by you in the course of your employment with Goldman Sachs, and all documents, data and other information of any kind including, incorporating, based upon or derived from the foregoing, including reports and notes prepared by you. Such work will be the property of Goldman Sachs, shall be considered a work made for hire and may not be used for any purposes other than the benefit of Goldman Sachs. Any and all such property and material containing such property shall be delivered to Goldman Sachs on request and in any event at the termination of your employment by the firm, and no copies thereof shall be retained by you unless the prior written consent of Goldman Sachs is obtained with respect thereto. You will cooperate fully with Goldman Sachs to establish, protect or confirm Goldman Sachs' exclusive rights in such work or to enable it to transfer legal title together with any patents that may be issued. A certificate evidencing compliance with this provision shall, if requested, be provided to Goldman Sachs.

14.3 The obligations set out in this paragraph shall survive the termination of your employment. You hereby acknowledge that any violation, breach or other failure on your part to comply with these obligations could materially and irreparably injure Goldman Sachs and its business in a manner inadequately compensable in damages, and that Goldman Sachs may seek and obtain injunctive relief against the breach or threatened breach of these obligations in addition to any other legal remedies that may be available.

15. Compliance

15.1 You must review and comply with the policies and procedures outlined in the India employee Handbook. Also, you will be expected to comply with the firm's code of business conduct and ethics and applicable policies published in the firm's compendium of policies. Specifically, on Personal Compliance policies, as related to maintaining Brokerage accounts, Demat accounts, Investment accounts (Collectively, "Covered Accounts") and making Private Investments, you and your related persons must disclose and obtain appropriate pre approval, which is subject to the firm's discretion. If you wish to maintain Brokerage / Demat account(s), they need to be held with a designated broker approved by Goldman Sachs. India based employees are allowed to only open and maintain the covered account(s) exclusively with a GS Designated Broker (Kotak Securities Ltd. / Zerodha Securities Private Limited / Interactive Brokers LLC) or any other broker that the firm may designate from time to time after seeking appropriate approval from Compliance. There are also division specific policies around personal trading, which you will need to adhere to. As for personal outside activities, you will be required to pre-clear your existing and all future external engagements and the firm reserves the right to not approve / allow any external engagement / activity at its discretion. Notwithstanding the generality of the foregoing, in general, the firm will not approve 'for profit' directorship, or any activities that could cause conflict to your role or reputational risk to the firm.

16. Regulatory Authorities

16.1 It is a condition of your employment to comply with the rules of any organization by which Goldman Sachs is regulated, or with whom Goldman Sachs may be registered as amended from time to time.

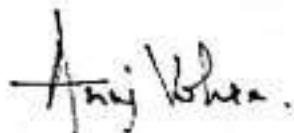

17. Miscellaneous

17.1 The terms and conditions of this contract of employment shall be governed and interpreted according to the laws of India. Any dispute, controversy or claim arising out of or in connection with this contract of employment shall be finally settled under the Rules of Arbitration of the International Chamber of Commerce. The seat of arbitration shall be Bengaluru. The language of arbitration shall be English.

VERIFICATION OF EMPLOYEE DETAILS AUTHORISATION

In signing below I confirm that the information I will be providing in the on-line forms will be complete, accurate and true. I understand that this offer of employment is conditional upon the verification, to the firm's entire satisfaction, of any or all of the information I will be supplying and that if any of the information I provide is found to be misleading, false or otherwise inaccurate, the firm may in its sole discretion withdraw this offer of employment or, if I have already commenced employment with the firm, take disciplinary action (up to and including dismissal) against me.

I understand that the firm and/or any persons or organisation acting on the firm's behalf (which may include third parties outside the Goldman Sachs group) (hereinafter, "you") may, to the extent permitted by law, procure, process and store information from any individual, company, institution or other body which you consider necessary or desirable for the assessment of my suitability for employment. I understand and agree that this will include the verification of the information I will be providing in the on-line forms and may well include the obtaining of documents and/or information covered by various data protection laws, of investigative and consumer credit reports which may contain information regarding my background, character, legal history, credit worthiness and personal reputation. I also understand and agree that you may perform reference checks of my employment (including any current employment unless I have otherwise instructed).

I acknowledge that undertaking verification of the information provided in response to the questionnaire and the additional background screening process is necessary to satisfy the firm as to my suitability for employment with the firm, and to help protect the firm against potential reputational, legal and economic risks. I also acknowledge that if my employment is subject to regulatory supervision, such verification and background screening may be necessary for regulatory purposes.

I also agree that, during the course of my employment with the firm, a consumer or investigative report may be procured in connection with subsequent employment decisions. I understand that you agree that you will not use or publish any such documents and/or information save as is reasonably required by the firm in respect of my application for employment by it. I authorise you to carry out all such investigations as are described above. I hereby explicitly consent to the processing by you of personal data (including sensitive personal data) and understand and accept that this data may be transferred to and processed outside the country. I understand that, upon my written request, I will be advised of the name and address of each consumer reporting agency from which a consumer report or investigative report may have been obtained.

I confirm that in carrying out such enquiries and investigations you are entitled to and will rely upon the consents and authorities I have given. I further agree that you and any person or entity supplying information shall incur no liability whatsoever in respect of any document or information supplied as a result of or obtained through such inquiries and investigations. This shall be the case whether the content of any such document obtained is accurate or inaccurate and/or any information is true or untrue.

Dear Mubashir Hasan,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

Should you have queries in relation to your employment terms, your benefits or Company policies, please contact our HR Answers hotline at 000 800 440 5210 (local toll free) or +1 212-552-5100 (international).

Please be reminded your employment terms should be treated with the strictest confidence. To accept this offer of employment, please click on the 'Accept' button at the bottom of this page on or before 24-Mar-2023.

We are excited to welcome you to our Company and take this opportunity to wish you every success in taking this next step of your career with us.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:
Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR 1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

B1.1 Your employment is subject to:

- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
- b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
- c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.

B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.

B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.

B2. Remuneration

B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.

B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any

and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

- B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:
- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
 - By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
- (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
- (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
- (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
- (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix; or
- (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.

B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.

B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.

B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work.
- c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards card and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

- B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.
- B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.
- B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.
- B8.4 In this paragraph B8:
- "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.
 - "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.
 - "Restricted Client" means any person:
 - who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
 - with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;
 - but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

A handwritten signature, appearing to read "Uma", is written over a horizontal line.

d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

- B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:
- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
 - (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.
- B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.
- B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the me@jpnc website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.
- B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

- B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

- B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

- B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.
- B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

- B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.
- B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Uma", written over a horizontal line.

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts.
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade.

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interests to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary, and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure – 1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users: Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Dear Harshad Chandrakant,

Following our recent discussions, we are delighted to extend an offer of employment to you.

Enclosed are a Summary of Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and Detailed Terms and Conditions which set out important conditions relating to your employment and which, together, form your employment terms with Barclays ("Employment Letter").

The Employment Letter refers to the Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) as these are a central part of everything we do. The Values as well as our purpose and behaviour, will have formed a key part of your selection process when being offered a role at Barclays. You will be expected to act in accordance with the Values as a Barclays employee, and in particular, to follow our Code of Conduct (known as the Barclays Way). More information on this, and how we "live" the Values will be available prior to and on joining Barclays.

This offer is conditional upon you satisfying Barclays' recruitment and screening processes and procedures and where applicable, the appropriate regulatory approvals. To start the process you will need to complete an application form, if you have not already received it, you will receive a link to the site shortly.

On or before your first day of employment, you will need to provide written documentation which proves your eligibility to work in India. You will also need to sign one copy of your Employment Letter (enclosed) confirming that you have read, understood and accept the terms. You must return this on your first day of employment.

We look forward to welcoming you to Barclays.

Yours sincerely,

Sonada Shrinivas

Summary of Key Terms

Introduction to this Section

This section is intended as an "at a glance" summary of the key terms of the offer to you. You must, therefore, read these terms in conjunction with any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions which together comprise your Employment Letter.

Name	Harith Chedalalani Banerjee
Employing Company	Barclays Global Service Centre Private Limited ("The Company")
Position	Your role will be Graduate Analyst, BA3 (or equivalent), or such other role as the Company reasonably decides from time to time.
Start Date	10 July 2023, or such other date agreed between us in writing, subject to the pre-employment conditions being met to the Company's satisfaction. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
	In addition to the terms set out elsewhere in the Agreement, this offer of employment is contingent upon successful completion of your current degree prior to your anticipated start date. Successful completion of your degree means that it is completed within the specified timelines highlighted in your application and that your final degree classification matches or exceeds the predicted results stated in your application to Barclays. It is your responsibility to inform our recruitment team immediately, if you suspect that your grades will be lower than these predicted. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
Working Hours	Your hours of work will be an average of 40 per week. Rest intervals and breaks are separate from the 40 hours of work. The Company is operational 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, so depending on your business function, your working days and hours may involve day and night shifts, and working on weekends/weekly offs and holidays, as permitted under applicable laws. Your manager will inform you if you are required to work in a different shift.
	You will devote sufficient time to your duties. Subject to applicable laws, you may be required to work such additional hours as are required for the proper performance of your duties as per any applicable Company policy, which may require that you attend the office, or be available to fulfil your function outside normal hours and days. Your working hours can be varied by the Company at its discretion, with reasonable notice and in accordance with applicable laws.
Initial Place of Work	You will initially be based in LTS - Barclays Global Service Centre, Gera Commerce, SEZ, Survey No.62, Village Khareli, Pune – 411034.
	However, your place of work will be determined in line with the requirements of the scheme at Barclays' sole discretion. It is a condition of your employment that you agree that you may be required to work or travel to any branch or office (in India or overseas). Where you are required to work outside of India, additional terms and conditions may apply to your employment, which will be provided at the relevant time.
Probationary Period	Your employment is subject to a probationary period of 6 months, or such additional period as the company may in its discretion consider necessary.

Components	In INR Per Annum
Basic salary	462,000.00
House Rent Allowance	231,000.00
Flexible Benefit Plan (see further "Statutory and other Benefits" below)	462,000.00
Annual Salary	1,155,000.00
Provident Fund (Employee's Contribution)	55,440.00
Garntry (per Company policy)	22,212.00
Total Fixed Pay	1,232,652.00

Salary will be payable on a monthly basis, subject to applicable taxes, duties, classes, and other statutory deductions, and is currently paid on or around the 24th (or the prior working day if the 24th is not a working day) of each month. The estimated CTC above does not create any contractual rights for new employees.

You may be eligible to receive discretionary allowances, as mentioned above or otherwise, subject to and in accordance with the Company's policy on such allowances / flexible benefit plan component of the salary, subject to amendment from time to time by the Company, to reflect changes in law, tax, or other reasons. These allowances, if any, will be paid in addition to the basic salary.

Your allowances will be paid along with your salary as mentioned above, subject to applicable laws. An amount equivalent to the allowances will be deducted from your salary.

Other References

The Company agrees to pay you a one-off non-pensionable scholarship and bursary payment of Rs.100000/- (the "Scholarship and Bursary Payment") in recognition of your studying costs. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be paid within 90 days from your date of joining Barclays. The payment will be made subject to applicable tax and / or other withholdings as applicable.

As agreed by you, this Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be subject to your compliance with the following requirements: You will be required to repay the Scholarship and Bursary Payment net of any taxes or other deductions or withholdings as required by law.

- * you have terminated your employment voluntarily (or have given the Company notice to terminate your employment) within 12 months of your start date; or
 - * you are dismissed for gross misconduct or fundamental breach of contract or for a serious breach of the Risk and Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group (or you have been given notice to terminate your employment for these reasons) within 12 months of your start date; or
 - * you fail to satisfy the pre-employment conditions of as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company.

The Company may adjust this repayment amount from any amount payable to you by any Barclays Group company. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment should not be interpreted as giving rise to any right to or legitimate expectation of any other award, nor is it any assurance as to the level of any award which may be made to you in future, which will be at the discretion of the Company.

You were also given an opportunity to join your employment without the scholarship and Itinerary Payment and therefore your liability to repay the amount, as has been mentioned above, in no case to be considered as a detriment to restrict your employment for a specific term.

Qualitative Experiments

It is a condition of your employment and continued employment with the Company that you successfully complete any professional qualification and/or examination as may be required and notified to you by the Company from time to time, including without limitation any qualifications or examinations required by the Regulator. You will be expected to pass all exams within a predetermined timescale and/or within one or more attempts, which shall be set out in the Company's rules.

Subject to the terms set out below and the Company policy, the Company will be responsible for the cost of any first, second or any such qualification with our preferred provider, including study books and associated examination fees. You should refer to the Company policy for details.

If you do not pass any exam or obtain a qualification within the period specified or within the relevant number of attempts (which may in some cases only be one), the student becomes liable to payment.

In the event that your employment is terminated for gross misconduct, or if you resign from the Company or otherwise terminate your employment or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, you will be required (except where a qualification or examination is required by the Board) to, in respect of the Company, the following, within 10 business days:

- 100% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment at any time during your course of study, or within six months of completing your course of study, or if you leave the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company; or
 - 50% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment within six – twelve months of completing your course of study.

Any such sums owing by you to the Company will be deducted from any sums due to you from the Company or, if such a deduction is not made, will be deemed to be due as a debt from you to the Company.

Discretionary Interventions

You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary increase, on an annual basis, at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to you being eligible at the relevant time. Increases are made in the first quarter, in respect of the previous financial year.

You are entitled to annual leave which includes privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave entitlement in accordance with the applicable laws in the state of your Place of Work. Further details are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions and on your internet.

Notice Period:

Either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving six months written notice, however, the Company may terminate your employment with immediate effect in accordance with applicable Company policies.

Any reduction/ waiver to notice period shall be at the sole discretion of the Company. Company may adjust balance of annual leaves, while granting such reduction/ waiver.

Further information on Notice is included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Overtime:

Employees who are eligible under applicable laws to be paid overtime for work beyond normal working hours, will be paid for the same in accordance to the applicable State laws at your Place of Work. Further details in regard to Overtime are included within the Additional Time Guidelines available on the company's Intranet.

Data Privacy:

The Company processes employee information for legal, regulatory, administrative and other purposes related to your employment and the conduct of the business of the Barclays Group (the "Agreed Purposes"). Processing includes obtaining, holding, using, destroying and disclosing employee information to any Barclays Group company and its employees and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, auditors, consultants, law/firm, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) for the Agreed Purposes ("Processing" or "Process").

For the Agreed Purposes, the Company may transfer employee information to any Barclays Group company and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) in order to Process employee information for the Agreed Purposes.

You confirm that you will provide your employee information to the Company and consent to the Processing of employee information for the Agreed Purposes. This may include transfers to recipients based in another country to your place of employment (either within or outside the European Economic Area) with different levels of protection of your personal data to India.

You confirm that the Company and/or any Barclays Group company may monitor and/or record your use of office equipment, for example, e-mail, internet (including chats and blogs), telephones and mobile telephones for the purposes of compliance with Company procedures and policies, maintenance, security and regulatory requirements or as permitted by law.

Alleged claim/ conditions shall apply to information relating to your family members/ relatives with respect to insurance policy, emergency contact details, etc., in accordance with prevailing Barclays' Company policy. It is your responsibility to inform such individuals that their data will be processed in this manner and to obtain their consent.

Confidentiality:

It is important that you recognise that during your employment with the Company you will have access to, and be entrusted with, confidential information and trade secrets relating to the Company, the Barclays Group and any of our clients and customers. Both during and after your employment you must comply with all policies and procedures relating to confidentiality, confidential information and trade secrets and any stricter policy which applies to your role.

Post-Termination Restrictions:

In protecting the interests of the Company, you must not, for a period of 3 months from the termination date of your employment:

- * approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or organization who is or was a customer/supplier of Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to your termination.
- * solicit or entice, or attempt to solicit or entice away or engage or employ any director, officer or employee in the Barclays Group

Full details of the restrictions you will be bound by are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Detailed Terms and Conditions

Introduction

About the Detailed Terms and Conditions

The purpose of the Detailed Terms and Conditions is to provide you with the relevant information on what the Company and the Barclays Group expects from its employees.

The Detailed Terms and Conditions also set out a list of key practices, guidelines and processes that the Barclays Group has developed to reflect our values, purpose and behaviour and as part of our high performance culture and, in accordance with your contractual obligations, must be adhered to at all times. Further information and policies can be found on your own business unit intranet site.

It is important that we review our policies, practices, guidelines and processes to ensure that we stay at the leading edge, enabling us to be one of the most admired financial services companies in the world. From time to time, our policies and procedures do change and you must familiarise yourself with them on joining and periodically throughout your employment. References in the Detailed Terms and Conditions to a policy, practice, guideline and / or process generally are references to the relevant policy, practice, guideline and / or process in force at the relevant time.

These detailed terms and conditions also refer to the Barclays Values which must be adhered to at all times. The Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) are set out on your own business unit intranet site.

You should also refer to Appendix 1, which sets out definitions of the terms used in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Your Detailed Terms and Conditions of Employment1. Introduction to this Section

This section sets out your detailed terms and conditions of employment and should be read alongside your enclosed Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedules. These documents form your employment terms with the Company and are referred to in this document as "Employment Letter". By signing the Employment Letter you confirm that you have read, understood and accept the terms set out in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

2. Pre-employment and ongoing conditions

- 2.1 Your confirmation in the Employment Letter will be subject to successful completion of the Probationary Period as mentioned in the Summary of terms or such additional period as the Company considers necessary in its absolute discretion. Your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically unless communicated otherwise in writing.
- 2.2 You understand that the Company's offer of employment is made to you subject to and conditional on the completion of certain pre-employment procedures and processes. You certify that the information that you have provided in connection with completion of the procedures and otherwise in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview stage) is true and accurate both at the time it is given and on the Start Date. The Company reserves the right to carry out screening checks on all employees, and such procedures may include but are not limited to:
 - (a) receipt of references and documentary proof that are satisfactory to the Company that you are legally entitled to reside and work in your country;
 - (b) completion of credit checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (c) where criminal record checks are applicable to your role, completion of those checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (d) if requested by the Company, a medical examination by the Company's medical adviser;
 - (e) where Regulator approval for your appointment is required and such approval is sought before your employment commences, such approval either (i) being obtained or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator; (ii) receipt of documentary proof that you hold the appropriate and relevant qualifications; and
 - (f) the Company receiving a signed copy of the Terms from you.
- 2.3 Whilst every effort will be made to complete all the checks and processes in the pre-employment procedures before your Start Date, this may not always be possible. In case you are employed prior to completion of the pre-employment procedure, the Company may terminate your employment at any time on minimum statutory notice if the check reports are not up to our satisfaction or the procedures are not completed within a reasonable period of time.
- 2.4 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to you obtaining, holding and continuing to hold all applicable qualifications, licences and registrations as required by your role. Where Regulator approval for your role is required and such approval is sought after your employment commences, then your continued employment is conditional on such approval either (i) being obtained, or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator (or other relevant regulatory body).
- 2.5 You shall be liable and responsible to inform and update your usual contact and address details, in the records of the Company, from time to time. Failure to comply may constitute gross negligence on your part.
- 2.6 You should not engage in any matter which would or could be anticipated to result in a conflict of interest between you and the Company.

2.7 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your successful completion of certain trainings (such as Communication & Culture and/or other process and policy trainings accreditation) that may be assigned to you by the Company from time to time. In case you remain absent for more than 2 days during these training programs or you become unable to qualify the trainings to the satisfaction of the Company, the Company shall have the sole discretion to take appropriate action including termination of your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (b) viii of the detailed terms and conditions of this Employment Letter. In case of your absence due to any personal emergency, your Line Manager shall in his/her sole discretion and upon evaluation of the reason of your absence, may recomment the Company to realign you to the next available training within a period of 20 days of your returning from absence. In case you are realigned to the next training as mentioned above, there may be possible change in process and/or compensation on account of such realignment. If for any reason you do not agree to the realignment terms or no such assignment is possible within a period of 20 days of your returning from absence, the Company shall have the sole discretion to terminate your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (b) viii.

3. Place of Work and Mobility

Your place of work is as set out in your Summary of Key Terms. However you may need to travel to other locations and offices as reasonably required in the performance of your duties. You confirm that you will travel to such places (both inside and outside India) as the Company may reasonably require from time to time. Should the Company need to permanently change your place of work, you will be given reasonable notice of any such change (acceptable in e-mail/letter format).

4. Duties

A.1 During your employment with the Company you confirm that you will:

- (a) act in a manner consistent with and which supports our values, purpose and behaviours and in particular the Barclays Values;
- (b) devote the whole of your working time and attention to the business of the Company and the Barclays Group;
- (c) diligently and faithfully perform such duties and exercise such powers and functions as may reasonably be assigned to you by the Company in relation to its business and that of the Barclays Group to the best of your ability and with integrity, due skill, care and diligence;
- (d) use your best efforts to promote and protect the interests of the Company and the Barclays Group and not do anything to harm those interests;
- (e) comply with all reasonable requests, instructions and regulations given by the Company and the Barclays Group and promptly provide such explanations, information and assistance as to your activities in the business of the Company and the Barclays Group as they may reasonably need;
- (f) neither engage in any activities which would detract from the proper performance of your duties under the terms of this Employment Letter, nor (without the prior written consent of the Company) in any capacity including as director, shareholder, principal, consultant, agent, partner or employee engage or be concerned or interested directly or indirectly in any other trade, business or occupation whatsoever provided always that such activities are in compliance with Barclays policies on outside or external business interests. This paragraph will not prevent you holding for investment purposes only shares or securities which do not exceed three per cent (3%) in nominal value of the share capital or stock of any class of any company quoted on a recognised stock exchange;
- (g) not engage or be interested in any activities which place you in a position where your interests conflict improperly with those of the Barclays Group, its clients, customers or shareholders. Barclays recognises that, on occasion, a conflict of interest may arise which is unavoidable. In such circumstances you must make your line manager and local compliance control room or compliance contact aware of the issue immediately. You must not act in relation to the matter, without their written direction or advice, and
- (h) report any actual or suspected unlawful activity or behaviour affecting the Barclays Group by you or any other employee, officer, contractor of the Barclays Group or any other person to your manager (or, if they are potentially involved in such unlawful activity or behaviour, to your HR Business Partner or a member of your Compliance team) immediately on becoming aware of it.

5. Salary and allowances

Your salary will be paid on a monthly basis on or around the last working day of each month and is subject to applicable taxes, dues, cesses and other applicable withholdings. All taxabilities arising out of your entire remuneration package, present or future, shall be borne by you. Your salary and any allowances will accrue on a daily basis and will be paid pro rata if you are employed for part of a month.

Your salary will be reviewed annually without commitment to increase. The Company may deduct from any payments to you any money owed by you to any Barclays Group company in accordance with the applicable laws.

Your acceptance to these terms shall confirm your consent to the Company making payment of your salary, compensation, award, incentive bonus etc. by way of credit to bank account with the bank of Company's choice or via such other mode as the Company may deem appropriate.

6. Discretionary incentive awards

- 6.1 You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis. The value, form, conditions of delivery and timing of any such awards are at the Company's discretion. This discretion includes the right to make the award or a proportion of the award in a form other than cash, including an award of Shares and to defer an element of an award under the terms of a Barclays Group incentive plan.
- 6.2 Any discretionary incentive award will only be made if, at that time, you are in employment and are not under notice (whether given or received) nor under suspension or investigation for a regulatory or disciplinary matter.
- 6.3 If you are subject to any investigation or disciplinary process at the time when communication, payment or making of any payment and/or award would otherwise occur, then the delivery of that payment and/or award will be suspended. If on conclusion of any investigation and/or disciplinary process, you are dismissed for gross misconduct or cause and / or have committed any serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group, then no payment and / or award will be made to you. If no disciplinary action (or disciplinary action short of dismissal) is taken against you, then a payment and / or award may be made to you after the conclusion of that process. However, the amount of any award and / or payment to which you are entitled may be reduced by the Company in its sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, any award and / or payment may be reduced to nil in such circumstances.
- 6.4 Notwithstanding paragraph 6.3, any unpaid or unvested award (or portion of an unpaid or unvested award) may be reduced (to nil if appropriate) at the Company's discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company may exercise its discretion including as a result of:
 - (a) Barclays PLC or any subsidiary's financial statements having been materially restated for the period for which the award was made other than restatement due to a change in accounting policy or to rectify a minor error; or
 - (b) Your actions having, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Company:
 - i. deliberately misled the management of the Company, the market and/or Barclays PLC shareholders regarding the financial performance of Barclays PLC or of any subsidiary;
 - ii. caused harm to the reputation of the Barclays Group;
 - iii. amounted to misconduct, negligence, incompetence or poor performance ("misconduct", "negligence", "incompetence", and "poor performance" as determined by the Remuneration Committee acting in good faith, following consultation with the Company); or
 - iv. The Barclays Group or any of its subsidiaries, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Risk Committee, has suffered a material failure of risk management.
- 6.5 Should the Company become aware that the amount of any award that has been paid or released to you was calculated on the basis of any false, incorrect or misleading information, then, the Company may, within one year of any such payment or release being made, request that you will repay as a debt to the Company the amount (or any part of the amount) as may be determined in the Company's sole discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. You confirm that in the event a repayment obligation arises the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you (including in instalments) as it determines in its discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws.
- 6.6 A payment of cash and / or a release of Shares or other instruments under an award will be subject to tax and other applicable withholdings, taxes, dues, cesses, deductions and will be subject to the rules of any applicable incentive plan.
- 6.7 Whether you are eligible to receive a discretionary incentive award, and if so, the amount shall be determined at the absolute discretion of the Company. You have no contractual right, whether express or implied, to receive an award at all, or an award of any particular amount, and the making of any award in any year does not give rise to any obligation on the Company to make an award in any future year. For the avoidance of doubt, your employment may be terminated by the Company at any time, for any reason, in accordance with clauses 38 or 39 of the Employment Letter and the exercise of that right to terminate is not limited or fettered by any limit (express or implied).
- 6.8 Within Barclays, certain (possibly senior) roles are designated as "Material Risk Taker" (MRT) roles. Where you are a MRT for any particular year you will be pushed off pension or following the end of the relevant year. An increase during the seven year period from the date on which any variable remuneration is awarded to you in respect of a period prior to which you are a MRT (the "Relevant Variable Remuneration"), if Barclays determines that:
 - (a) your actions or omissions have, in the reasonable opinion of Barclays amounted to misconduct, negligence, incompetence, and / or poor performance;

(b) Barclays or the relevant business unit has suffered a material failure of risk management, then, without prejudice to Barclays' other remedies, Barclays may require that you repay an amount, not exceeding the value of the Relevant Variable Remuneration. The repayment shall be of such value as may be determined in Barclays' discretion acting in good faith, to such Barclays Group Company and on such terms as Barclays may direct.

In respect of paragraph 1, (b) above, Barclays shall take into account your proximity to the applicable failure and your level of responsibility before any required repayment is made. In respect of paragraphs (a) and (b) above, before any request for repayment is made, Barclays shall take into consideration whether you (i) have participated in, or were responsible for, conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Barclays Group or (ii) failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety.

For the avoidance of doubt, the whole or any part of the Relevant Variable Remuneration can be clawed back if Barclays makes its determination within seven years from the date that the Relevant Variable Remuneration was awarded to you even if an event falling within (a) or (b) above occurred prior to the date of award.

The determination of what constitutes "misbehaviour", "material error", "material failure of risk management", "significant losses" and "appropriate standards of fitness and propriety" shall be determined by Barclays acting in good faith.

You confirm that in the event that Barclays makes a repayment determination, you shall repay the amount subject to that determination within the time period specified in the determination. You further confirm and provide authorisation for Barclays to deduct the appropriate repayment amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you, to the full extent permitted under local law, whether from Barclays or any other Barclays Group company.

You acknowledge that (in addition to its rights at clause 16 (Amendments to terms and conditions of employment)) the terms of this clause 6.6 may be amended by Barclays to the extent deemed reasonably necessary in order to comply with law, regulations or guidance published by any regulatory authority or other relevant authority from time to time.

This clause shall apply in addition to the general right of repayment set out in clause 6.5 of the Employment Letter.

7. Statutory and Other Benefits

7.1 You will be eligible for various statutory benefits as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms and in accordance with the relevant laws.

7.2 The Company operates (or may operate) a benefits programme for its employees and your benefits are/will be set out in full in the attached benefits brochure (except the statutory benefits mentioned above). These benefits do not form part of your contract of employment or have any contractual or other legal effect.

7.3 The Company has the right, at its absolute discretion to amend or withdraw the benefits at any time and without any compensation or notice to you and/or replace any benefit with an alternative at its discretion.

7.4 Participation in any benefits scheme is subject to the rules of the relevant schemes, which may vary from time to time, and is subject to you satisfying any applicable requirements of the insurers or third party providers (where relevant). Your participation may be excluded where, in Barclays' opinion, cover can only be obtained on the basis that exceptional conditions or unusually high premiums are imposed or levied by the insurer or provider.

8. Annual Leave

8.1 Your annual leave entitlement is set out in the Summary of Key Terms. The Company's annual leave year currently runs from 1 January to the 31 December. The date of the annual leave year may be changed. You are obliged to take all your annual leave entitlement in the relevant year, unless a policy/handbook applicable to you states otherwise, in which case leave may only be carried over subject to and in accordance with those terms and applicable law. Your annual leave dates must be agreed in advance with your line manager. You will be allowed to carry your unused privileged leaves over to the next annual leave year, subject to the limit and restrictions as may be defined in the company policy and subject to the applicable laws. There is no provision of encashment of unutilised leave (including in case of termination of employment), except where such encashment is mandated by law applicable at the place of your employment at the relevant time.

8.2 If your employment begins during an annual leave year, your annual leave entitlement (plus any Bank or Public Holidays which fall during this period), will be calculated pro rata. During the probationary period you may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favour up until the time of taking such leave. Any unused leave at the time of cessation of employment shall lapse and any payment to be made in lieu of the unused leave shall be at the sole discretion of Barclays unless mandated by the applicable law. If you have taken more leave than your accrued entitlement, you shall be required to repay to the Company an amount equivalent to any holiday taken in excess of your pro rata holiday entitlement, and the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your final salary instalment or any other sum owing by the Company to you at the Termination Date.

8.3 In accordance with regulatory guidelines and the Company's policies, the Company may require you to go on a mandatory block leave.

9. Intellectual Property

9.1 For the purposes of this paragraph:

"Intellectual Property Rights" means (i) copyright and related rights, patents, know-how, confidential information, database rights, trademarks and rights in trade marks and designs (whether registered or unregistered), (ii) applications for registration, and the right to apply for registration, for any of the same, and (iii) all other intellectual property rights and equivalent or similar forms of protection existing anywhere in the world.

"Invention" means any invention, idea, discovery, development, improvement or innovation made, whether or not patentable or capable of registration, and whether or not recorded in any medium, and

"Works" means all documents, materials, software, photographic or graphic works of any type, and other materials in any medium or format which are created or developed, or are in the process of being created or developed, or used (whether in final form or otherwise) by you or on your behalf or by the Company in the course of your employment with the Company or for the benefit of the Company and which are protected by, contain or relate to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.2 You will promptly disclose and deliver up to the Company all and any Works conceived, or made by you during and in the course of your employment (whether conceived, or made during normal working hours, in your normal place of work, or in conjunction with others, or otherwise). You confirm that you will provide the Company with all originals and copies of all correspondence, documents and other materials in whatever medium or form relating to or concerning the Works and the Intellectual Property Rights they contain.
- 9.3 You confirm that you will only use the Works to perform your obligations under Employment Letter and that you will not make personal copies of any Works other than for the purposes of your employment with the Company.
- 9.4 It is understood that all Intellectual Property Rights created by you in the course of your employment shall be "work for hire". You acknowledge that you have, and will have at all times while you are employed by the Company, a special obligation to further the interests of the undertakings of the Company, and that all Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works will automatically, on creation, belong to and vest in the Company absolutely to the fullest extent provided by law.
- 9.5 To the extent that the Works and Intellectual Property Rights do not vest in the Company or the Barclays Group automatically, you will hold such Works and Intellectual Property Rights on trust for the benefit of the Company until the Works and Intellectual Property Rights vest absolutely in the Company.
- 9.6 You confirm that you will immediately, upon request and at the Company's expense, provide all such documents and assistance as may be necessary to vest the Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works in the Company, to enable the Company to enjoy the full benefit of the Intellectual Property Rights, and to enable the Company to enforce its Intellectual Property Rights against third parties in defend claims brought against the Company in relation to any Intellectual Property Rights.
- 9.7 By signing Employment Letter you accept and confirm to assign to the Company or a member of the Barclays Group (as specified by the Company) all current and future Intellectual Property Rights in the Works and any other proprietary rights capable of assignment by way of present assignment of future rights for the full term of such rights. You confirm that such assignment shall be perpetual, worldwide and royalty free. You also confirm that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 19(6) of the Copyright Act, 1957, such assignment in so far as it relates to copyrightable material shall not lapse nor the rights transferred revert to the Employee, even if the Company does not exercise the rights under the assignment within a period of one year from the date of assignment. You acknowledge and confirm that you shall waive any right to and shall not raise any objection or claims to the Copyright Board with respect to the assignment, pursuant to Section 19A of the Copyright Act, 1957.
- 9.8 You unconditionally and irrevocably waive your moral rights in relation to existing and future Works, including your right to be identified as the author of the Works and not to have the Works subject to derogatory treatment. You acknowledge that, except as may be expressly provided by law, no further remuneration or compensation other than that provided for under Employment Letter is or may become due to you.
- 9.9 When this Employment Letter expires or terminates, for whatever reason, you will immediately deliver up to the Company all Works in your possession or under your control, and under no circumstances may any Works be retained by you except with the prior written consent of the Company.
- 9.10 Without prejudice to any specific legal rights which you may otherwise have, you acknowledge that no further remuneration or compensation other than that expressly provided for in this Employment Letter will become due to you in respect of your compliance with this Section 9.

10. Confidentiality

10.1 During your employment with the Company or at any time afterwards, you must not disclose to any person or make use of any Confidential Information or trade secrets that you have obtained in the course of your employment. This includes information that you have acquired in the course of your employment concerning the business or affairs of the Company and/or any other Barclays Group company or our customers or clients. You are required to use your best efforts to prevent the unauthorised publication or disclosure of any such Confidential Information. Exceptions to this are the use of information for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter, where the Company has given written consent or disclosure is required by law, where the information is already in or comes into the public domain (other than by your unauthorised disclosure).

10.2 During your employment or at any time afterwards, you must not make any copy or record (whether recorded in writing, on computer disc, electronically or otherwise) of any Confidential Information, unless this is required for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter. Any such information belongs to the Barclays Group and must be returned by you either at any time during the course of your employment on the request of the Company and immediately on termination of your employment.

10.3 For the purposes of this Employment Letter, "Confidential Information" means information concerning the business, affairs, finance, clients or trade connections of the Company, any member of the Barclays Group, or any of its customers, clients, suppliers or agents. This includes but is not limited to:

- (a) commercially sensitive information or trade secrets;
- (b) corporate and marketing strategy, business development plans, sales reports and research results;
- (c) business methods and processes, technical information and know-how relating to the Barclays Group's business and which is not available to the public generally, including inventions, designs, programmes, techniques, database systems, formulae and ideas;
- (d) business contacts, lists or details of clients and suppliers and details of contacts with them, their business or affairs, including client names and client contact details, financial and personal affairs, and trading history and methodology;
- (e) information on employees and the terms and conditions of their employment, details of employee benefits, incentive schemes/plans, salary scales and/or current or anticipated trade union employer disputes;

Your Contract

4.3.29 PM
4.2 The Summary of Terms and Conditions of Employment and you (including the relevant section of your contract and the Contract being referred to in this document) shall be deemed to have been read and understood by you.

(b) information or details of any actual, potential or threatened litigation, legal action, claim, dispute or arbitration against or with any member of the Barclays Group or any current or former director, officer or employee of the Barclays Group in such capacity and any information in respect of provisions for any such action;

(c) budgets, management accounts, trading statements and other financial reports;

(d) unpublished price sensitive information relating to shares or securities listed or dealt in on any recognised stock exchange; and

(e) any other information which any member of the Barclays Group or any of its employees or consultants has identified (orally, in writing, or by its or their actions) as being secret or confidential in nature or which would reasonably be considered as confidential.

11.4 You shall not solicit business for the Company from any clients belonging to your previous employer in breach of your terms of employment with your previous employer. You shall not use any confidential information that came to your knowledge in the course of your previous employment while working with the Company. You undertake to indemnify the Company against any action that the Company may face on account of your actions in breach of your obligations to your previous employer.

11. Regulatory Compliance and Dealing codes

11.1 The nature of the Barclays Group's business is such that it is authorised and regulated by the appropriate Regulator.

11.2 It is your responsibility to know, understand and comply with all legal, regulatory and governance obligations, including the provisions of the Regulatory and Compliance policies that are relevant to you. If you are in any doubt as to your responsibilities in this regard or the rules which apply to you, you must contact the Compliance team within your business area.

11.3 If you are a Regulator approved person (or any equivalent status with any other regulator) you must comply with the Regulator's Statement of Principles and Code of Practice for Approved Persons (or meet the applicable standards). Failure to meet these Principles / Standards and / or to comply with this Code of Practice (or other applicable standard) may result in investigation by the regulator, applicable regulator and/or the Company, and / or disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company which may result in the termination of your employment.

11.4 You confirm that you will be bound by and will comply with the Barclays Group Share Dealing Code and with any more stringent dealing rules applicable to you or the area of the business in which you work. In particular, you agree not to make any investment, directly or indirectly, in any company or business which is a customer or client of the Barclays Group and which may in the reasonable opinion of the Company be expected to cause your personal or family interests to conflict with your duty to the Company in any respect.

11.5 Any incentives or compensation payable to you by any member of the Company or Group Company (under this Employment Letter or otherwise, including any guaranteed amounts and including, where applicable, the payment and settlement schedule and split of cash and Shares as set out in this Employment Letter) are subject to limitation or modification to the extent reasonably deemed necessary by the Company including in order to remain consistent with Barclays remuneration policy (as amended from time to time) or to comply with laws and regulations, including any regulations or guidance published by the Regulator from time to time.

12. Expenses

There may be occasions when you incur business expenses for instance, travelling to a training course or visiting another business location for a meeting. Any expenses must be pre-approved and claimed promptly and will be reimbursed to you in line with our procedures, a copy of which can be found on your intranet.

The Company in its sole discretion may bear certain expenses on your training, learning and developmental needs, subject to your acceptance of the terms and obligations as would be mentioned in the agreement ("Training Agreement") that may be executed with you.

As a consideration to the training expenses to be incurred by the Company, you may be asked to work with the Company for a certain period of time, post completion of the said training/ programme/courses, as the case may be and/or to compensate the Company by paying an agreed sum as liquidated damages. Your specific obligations will form part of the Training Agreement to be executed with you. For the execution of the Training Agreement, you may be asked to get a surety to undertake your obligations under the terms of the Training Agreement.

Unless otherwise agreed in the Training Agreement, any breach of the terms of the said Training Agreement, will be considered as the breach of the terms of this Letter.

13. Attendance at work

13.1 Your Summary of Key Terms will provide you with details of the particular working pattern that applies to you, and any specific arrangements that may apply regarding changes to this pattern. If you work full time, or for 8 hours or more on a given day, your normal working hours would additionally include up to a daily one hour break.

13.2 From time to time, the Company may need to vary your hours, days and times of work if this is necessary to accommodate the needs of the business or the absence of your colleagues. Should the Company need to vary your working hours, you will be given reasonable notice of any such changes.

14. Sick/Health Leave

14.1 If you are unable to work through ill health or injury you will be entitled to sick leave in accordance with the policy on Leaves and Holidays, which can be found in the Company's intranet. The Company reserves the right to only approve sick leave of more than two consecutive workdays if certified by a medical practitioner of the Company's choice, and you hereby confirm that you co-operate with such an examination and to authorise the full disclosure of any resulting report to Barclays.

Your Contract

14.2 The payment of salary and any allowances during periods of sickness will be subject to as prescribed under the applicable laws and you following the requirements regarding notification and certification of absence as set out in this Employment Letter, on your instruction and the Company being satisfied that you are unable to work due to illness or injury.

15. Other absences from work

Approval should be obtained in advance from your line manager for absence during working hours. If unexpected circumstances mean that this is not possible, you should inform your line manager as soon as possible. Absence without approval and/or explanation will be dealt with under the disciplinary procedure which could result in disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company and which may result in the termination of your employment.

16. Amendments to terms and conditions of employment

16.1 The Company reserves the right to review, revise, amend, replace or withdraw the contents of these Terms and introduce new policies, practices, guidelines and procedures from time to time to reflect the changing needs of the business or any changes in legislation or regulation from time to time.

16.2 For the avoidance of doubt, where the Company retains a discretion under these Terms (including but not limited to the discretion to make incentive award(s) to you, any matters considered in the decision whether to make such an award and the value, form, conditions and timing of delivery of any such award(s)) such discretion cannot be limited or altered in any way other than by consent between you and the Company which is documented formally in writing on the Company's headed paper by an authorised member of the Human Resources Department.

17. Allocation of duties and transfer within the Barclays Group

You confirm that the Company will be entitled at any time and with prior notice (where required by applicable law) to: (i) assign you to carry out such projects and/or duties commensurate with your abilities as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (ii) assign you on a temporary or permanent basis to undertake additional duties and/or different duties commensurate with your abilities within any part or parts of the Barclays Group as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (iii) second you on a temporary or permanent basis to work for any company in the Barclays Group or to a third party; and/or (iv) transfer your employment and its rights and obligations to another company in the Barclays Group.

18. Leaving Barclays

18.1 Subject to paragraph 2 of these Detailed Terms and Conditions the Company and you may each terminate this Employment Letter in accordance with the "Notice" paragraph set out in your Summary of Key Terms. In addition:

- (a) either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving one month's written notice (or, if greater, the minimum notice according to local applicable law) during any probationary period that may apply to you as set out in your Summary of Key Terms;
- (b) your employment shall be conditional on your ability to start work on the agreed Start Date. If you are unable to do so, you will have no entitlement to receive any payment or other benefit whatsoever from the Company or the Barclays Group;
- (c) your employment may also be terminated by the Company without notice or pay in lieu of notice if you commit an act of gross misconduct (as may be defined under applicable Company policy from time to time which may include failure to comply with any policies and/or procedures including those referred to in the Detailed Terms and Conditions, lack of competence, serious breach of the Terms including improper or unethical behaviour);
- (d) Your contractual and normal retirement age is 60 years. On the day you attain that age, your employment shall end automatically without any need for either party to serve written notice; and
- (e) the Company may (without notice, pay in lieu of notice or incurring any obligation to pay compensation) immediately terminate your employment if you:
 - i. are convicted of any criminal offence (other than a minor offence which, in the opinion of the Company, does not affect your position as an employee of the Company); or
 - ii. are guilty of any act of dishonesty or gross or serious misconduct or any conduct which brings or is intended to bring any member of the Barclays Group or yourself into disrepute or may damage the business or affairs of the Barclays Group; or
 - iii. have been found by the Company to have materially or repeatedly breached or have not complied with the terms of this Employment Letter (or otherwise fail or refuse to carry out the duties assigned to you); or
 - iv. have breached or otherwise failed the Barclays Group sanctions screening policy or process; or
 - v. cease to hold or fail to obtain any regulatory approvals or consents which are required for the effective discharge by you of any duties assigned to you under this Employment Letter; or
 - vi. materially breach the rules of the Regulator; or
 - vii. fail to meet any Barclays Group rules on anti-bribery or anti-corruption;
 - viii. lose (obtain or maintain the accreditation(s) or qualifications that you are required to have (in the Company's opinion or according to relevant regulators or professional bodies) to be able to work in your job profile;
 - ix. be regularly absent (other than leave or absent without leave for a period exceeding 14 days).

This sub-paragraph is not exhaustive and does not restrict any other rights which the Company may have (whether at common law or otherwise) to terminate your employment summarily.

These Damages shall be in addition to the payment of salary in lieu of notice period. In respect of the Damages, the Company receives the right to cancel agreed wage off an amount payable withheld from the salary and/or any allowances. Further, you shall not be relieved from your contractual notice period, unless expressly relieved in writing.
- 18.3 The termination of your employment will not affect any terms of this Employment Letter which are intended to operate after the termination date, including the paragraphs relating to Intellectual Property, Confidentiality and Post-Employment Restrictions.
- 18.4 On termination of your employment, irrespective of the reason, or at any other time when asked by the Company, you will:
- (a) immediately return to the Company all vehicles, equipment and documents, whether electronic or otherwise, and any other property (of any kind) (security pass, business cards, etc) relating to the business of or belonging to the Barclays Group, together with all copies of any such documents that you have in your possession or under your control;
 - (b) irreversibly delete any information relating to the business of the Company or the Barclays Group stored on any computer or storage device and all information derived from the same in your possession in control and held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
 - (c) resign with immediate effect from any offices or appointments you hold within or connected to the Barclays Group; and
 - (d) confirm in writing that you have complied fully with the terms of this paragraph and provide evidence of compliance as the Company may request.

19. Payment in lieu of notice

- 19.1 The Company reserves the right in its sole and absolute discretion to terminate your employment and your terms with immediate effect (whether or not notice has been given by either party) by giving notice in writing to you of its intention to make a payment in lieu of notice and, if it does so, the Company shall make you a payment in lieu of notice, equal to the salary which you would have been entitled to receive if you had worked during your Notice Period or, if your Notice Period has started, the unexpired portion (the "Payment in Lieu"). When the Company elects to make a Payment in Lieu of some or all of your Notice Period, your employment shall terminate on the date specified by the Company, regardless of when the Payment in Lieu is paid.

- 19.2 Any Payment in Lieu will be paid less tax and any applicable withholdings. You will not be entitled to receive any payment in respect of holiday entitlement that would have accrued during the period for which the Payment in Lieu is made.

- 19.3 Any Payment in Lieu may be paid by the Company in accordance with the Company policies and subject to the applicable laws. Any Payment in Lieu may at the Company's discretion be paid as a lump sum within one month of the Termination Date or in equal monthly installments from the date on which notice is served until what would have been the end of the Notice Period provided always that if it after exercising its discretion to make a Payment in Lieu the Company becomes aware of any grounds that would permit it to summarily terminate your employment any payments due under this clause 19.3 will cease to be payable and the net value of any Payment in Lieu that has been received by you shall be repaid as a debt to the Company within 30 days of the Company notifying you of this repayment obligation.

20. Disqualification and suspension

- 20.1 The Company may suspend you at any time from the performance of all or any of your duties:

- (a) for the whole or any part of any applicable Notice Period; or
 - (b) for such periods and on such terms as is necessary to allow any investigation to take place (including, but not limited to, an investigation by a regulatory authority or an investigation under the Company's disciplinary procedure).
- 20.2 During any period of suspension, the Company will be under no obligation to provide work for or assign any duties to you and may require you not to attend any premises of any member of the Barclays Group (other than as a customer) and may require you to:
- (a) not speak to, contact or otherwise communicate with or engage with any director, consultant, agent, contractor or employee of any member of the Barclays Group other than to carry out your personal banking, or any person, firm or company who, at the date of such suspension or exclusion is a client or customer of any member of the Barclays Group unless they are members of your immediate family;
 - (b) at any time to carry out such special projects or duties commensurate with your abilities as the Company shall in its absolute discretion determine;
 - (c) meet with representatives from the Company in order to facilitate a handover of work and provide assistance with ongoing business activity; and
 - (d) take any holiday which you have accrued.

- 20.3 During any period of suspension:

- (a) your employment with the Company and this Employment Letter will continue and you will continue to be bound by your obligations under it (except as expressly set out in this paragraph) including, but not limited to, your obligations of confidentiality, good faith and fidelity to the Company; and
- (b) you shall continue to receive your basic salary and all contractual benefits in the usual way.

21. Post-termination restrictions

- 21.1 You confirm to the Company (for itself and as trustee and agent for each member of the Barclays Group) that you will not, whether directly or indirectly, on your own behalf or on behalf of or in conjunction with any other person, firm, company or other entity;

(a) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an A/P or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer, client or supplier of the Company or the Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings in the course of your employment with the Company or in respect of whom you were aware of material and confidential information, in both cases within the 12 month period immediately prior to the Termination Date. Nothing in this paragraph will prohibit you from seeking or doing business which is not in direct or indirect competition with the business of the Barclays Group; and

(b) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an A/P or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date solicit or entice away or attempt to solicit or entice away or employ or engage any director, officer or employee of executive status in the Barclays Group with whom you had material dealings within the 12 month period immediately prior to the Termination Date. For the purposes of this paragraph "employee of executive status" will include without limitation any employee of the Barclays Group with a corporate grading Managing Director, Director, Vice President (or equivalent grades, or anything which replaces these grades) and any employee of the Barclays Group with a lower corporate grading where in the 12 months prior to the Termination Date, you have had line manager responsibilities in relation to that employee or they have had line manager responsibilities or have been engaged in work or projects which in the Company's reasonable opinion are key to its business and for which they are in possession of material and confidential information relating to the Barclays Group.

21.2 Each of the restrictions contained in this paragraph are considered by the parties to be reasonable in all the circumstances as at the date of this Employment Letter. However, the parties acknowledge that if any one or more of such restrictions will be judged to be void as going beyond what is reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the interests of the Barclays Group, but would be enforceable if words were deleted or one or more of the duration, range of activities and area covered were reduced in scope, the restrictions will be deemed to apply with such modifications as may be necessary to make them valid and effective. Any such modification will not affect the validity of any other restriction contained in this Employment Letter and it is confirmed that each restriction in this paragraph will be construed as separate and individual restrictions.

21.3 You confirm that, during either your employment with the Company or the period of the restrictions set out in this paragraph you receive an offer of employment or engagement, you will provide a copy of these restrictions to the offeror as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the offer.

22. Further terms

22.1 No omission to exercise or delay in exercising any right, power or remedy of the Company under this Employment Letter will constitute a waiver of that right, power or remedy.

22.2 During your employment:

(a) the Company may at its discretion require that you undergo screening, including for criminal record, sanctions list and/or credit/referencing checks from time to time. It is anticipated that any such screening would only be undertaken if required for regulatory purposes or in order to comply with the minimum standards for the role you are undertaking; and

(b) you should advise the Company should any of the circumstances as set out in paragraph 18.1(a) of this Employment Letter arise or be brought against you.

22.3 You acknowledge that in entering into these Terms you have not relied on any representation or undertaking by the Company whether oral or in writing, except as expressly incorporated into this Employment Letter.

22.4 You consent to the Company monitoring your use of all Company resources and its communication and electronic equipment (including without limitation the telephone, Internet, blackberry, software applications and email systems) and information stored on the Company's computer equipment, as described in your local acceptable use policy in accordance with the Barclays Group procedure and / or guidance on electronic communications. A copy of the policy that applies to you can be found on your intranet.

22.5 You understand that you may, during your employment, be granted awards under the terms of one or more of the Company's long term incentive plans or any incentive or bonus plan operated by the Barclays Group. If, on termination of your employment, you lose any of the rights or benefits under any such plans you will not be entitled, by way of compensation for loss of office or otherwise, to any compensation for the loss of any rights under any such plans.

22.6 If your employment is terminated at any time by reason of any reconstruction or amalgamation of the Company or any Barclays Group company, whether by winding up or otherwise, and you are offered employment with any concern or undertaking involved in or resulting from the reconstruction or amalgamation on terms which (considered in their entirety) are no less favourable to any material extent than the terms of this Employment Letter, you shall have no claim against the Company or any such undertaking arising out of or connected with the termination.

23. Certifications:

23.1 You confirm and certify that:

(a) you are not precluded or restricted by any term of any agreement, undertaking or court order or any obligation to any third party from entering into this Employment Letter or undertaking or properly performing any of the duties of your employment with the Company;

(b) you will notify the Company of any changes in circumstances around the termination of your employment with your previous employer between the date of issue of this Employment Letter and the Start Date;

(c) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation by any company or body into suspected bribery or corruption activity where either: (i) the investigation was concluded and your conduct found to amount to misconduct; or (ii) where the investigation was on-going and did not reach a conclusion because your employment (or engagement) with that company or body was terminated during the investigation (whether by mutual consent or by voluntary termination or otherwise);

Employment Agreement

Dear Malhar,

We are pleased to offer you employment on the terms and conditions set out below. Your employment will be with Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd (the "Company"). Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd is a company within the Deutsche Bank AG Group of Companies ("Group").

1. General Information

These terms and conditions outlined in this employment letter ("Agreement") as amended from time to time, together with the Company's "General Terms and Conditions of Service" as laid out in Schedule I of this Employment Agreement and as laid out in the Company's India Employee Handbook ("the Handbook"), the Deutsche Bank Group's Code of Conduct and all applicable regulations and policies of the Company, form the basis of your employment.

You are also expected to comply with all other applicable Company's regulations and policies (such as the Company's India Employee Handbook and the Code of Business Conduct and Ethics), and any other policies or procedures specific to your business or infrastructure unit. These policies and requirements are considered by the Company to be reasonable and lawful directions that you are required to comply with under the terms of your employment with the Company. You should therefore familiarize yourself with, and abide by, all applicable Company regulations and policies.

If there are any inconsistencies between the terms of this Employment Agreement and the provisions of the Handbook as at the date of your acceptance of this Employment Agreement, the terms of this Employment Agreement shall prevail. However, please note that any subsequent variations by the Company to any terms, conditions, rules or regulations (including the terms set out in the Handbook) generally governing the members of the Company's staff will prevail and be applicable to you.

2. Position

Your corporate title will be Analyst.

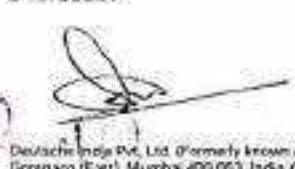

Your functional title will be Graduate Analyst.

Your local grade as per the internal grading system will be Grade 6.

During your employment, you may be required to perform work for other companies within the Group.

3. Employment Location

Schedule I: General Terms and Conditions of Service

1. Leaves

(a) Annual Leave - Your annual leave entitlement will be in accordance with the Company policy. The annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated in your first year or in any incomplete year.

(b) Sick Leave - Sick leave will be granted as per Company policy.

(c) Parental Leave and related benefits - The Company offers a gender neutral parental leave policy for new parents to better manage their responsibilities. The leave duration and the benefits mentioned below are in accordance with The Maternity Benefits Act, 1961:

- i. Parental Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver. The mother is assumed to be the primary caregiver of the child.
- ii. Adoption/ Surrogacy Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver
- iii. Maternity Expenses: Maternity related medical expenses are provided as per the Group Hospitalization policy

More details on number of days and various types of leaves are available in the Employee Handbook.

2. Termination:

(a) Termination with Notice

From the commencement of your employment, the Company or you may terminate your employment by giving a notice in writing for a period as stated in clause "Notice Period" in this Employment Agreement. The Company may choose to terminate your employment immediately or by a period of notice shorter than the stipulated notice period by making a payment to you equal to your fixed pay for all or part of the notice period in lieu of that notice. For the avoidance of doubt, this does not confer any entitlement on your part to receive, nor impose any obligation on the Company, to make such a payment.

If the Company or you have given notice of the termination of your employment, the Company may direct you not to perform any of your duties, to remain away from the Company's premises and/or not to contact clients or other employees of the Company for all or part of the notice period. During this time, you will remain employed by the Company and therefore remain subject to your conditions of employment and you will continue to receive your salary and contractual benefits during the notice period.

(b) Termination without Notice

The Company may terminate your employment immediately and without notice or payment in the event that:

- you are guilty of serious misconduct
- you are guilty of a serious breach of the employment rules as set out in the Handbook
- you breach any fundamental term or condition of your employment
- you intentionally disobey a lawful and reasonable direction of the Company
- you conduct yourself in a way which, in the Company's reasonable opinion, may bring any member of the Group into disrepute
- you are convicted of a serious criminal offence or a criminal offence which, in the Company's opinion, consists of your ability to perform your duties, or
- the results of any background checks or searches conducted by the Company are deemed unsatisfactory to it in its absolute discretion

(c) Consequences of Termination of your Employment

If your employment is terminated for any reason:

- before you leave the Company, you must return all of the Company's property and confidential information and you must not retain any copies, extracts or reproductions of all or any part of that property or confidential information;
- you will continue to be bound by your employment obligations to the Company relating to the Company's confidential information and Intellectual Property (as defined in the Intellectual Property clause below);
- you must not make any statements (whether verbally or in writing) or do anything which might damage the reputation of the Group or interfere with the Group's relationships with its clients and customers; and
- you will resign from all or any offices which you may hold as a director or otherwise with the Company or a Group company and from all other appointments or offices which you hold as nominee or representative thereof. If you fail to do so within seven days from the termination of your employment, the Company is irrevocably authorized to appoint another person in your name and on your behalf to do any acts or things necessary or desirable to effect the same.

(d) Retirement Age

The age of retirement with the Company is completion of 62 years.

(e) Non-Solicitation Obligations

During the course of your employment and after the termination of your employment, you shall be subject to the terms and covenants as set out below.

As you are likely to obtain in the course of your employment with the Company, trade secrets and/or other confidential information and since you have and/or are likely to obtain during the course of your employment with the Company personal knowledge and influence over customers and clients of the Company, for the protection by the Group of its businesses and, in particular, its confidential information, customer and client connections and the maintenance of a stable workforce, you agree and covenant with the Company and the Group collectively as set out below.

I. Non-Solicitation

- you shall not during your employment and during a period of twelve (12) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit or entice away or endeavor to solicit or entice away or assist any other person, whether by means of the supply of names or expressing views on suitability or otherwise howsoever to solicit or entice away, from the Group any individual:
 - who is an employee or director of any member of the Group (of Grades 1 to 4 in accordance with the Group's internal grading structure or the equivalent category of employees under the Group's internal grading structure as amended from time to time); or
 - who is contracted to render services to the Company and/ or any member of the Group; and in either case with whom you have had business dealings during the twelve month period immediately preceding the termination of your employment with the Company, whether or not any such person would commit a breach of contract by reason of his leaving service

Malhar Bangdiwala

- B. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit, interfere with or entice away or attempt to solicit, interfere with or entice away any person who is a Restricted Client; and
- C. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person have business dealings, directly or indirectly, with any person who is a Restricted Client.
- D. However, you are not prohibited by any of these restrictions from seeking or doing business with a Restricted Client that is not in direct or indirect competition with the Restricted Business.

For the purposes of paragraphs 1(B) to 1(D) above, Restricted Business means the activities of the operating division or company of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services; and Restricted Client means any person, firm or company who or which on the date of termination of your employment or at any time during the twelve-month period immediately prior to the date of termination was a client or customer of the Group in respect of the Restricted Business and with whom or with which during that period you have had business dealings.

- II. You agree that having regard to the facts and matters set out above the covenants herein contained are reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the Bank's legitimate interest including the trade secrets and/or other confidential information of the Bank/Company and the Group.
- III. You acknowledge that the breach of any of the restrictions specified in paragraph 1 above by you will cause irreparable injury to the Company and/or the Group which could not be adequately compensated in monetary damages and shall entitle the Bank and/or the Group to all equitable remedies, including without limitation injunctive relief, specific performance and restraining orders. Equitable relief shall be in addition to all other remedies available to the Company and/or the Group.
- IV. The benefit of each agreement and obligation set out above may be assigned to and enforced by all successors or assignee for the time-being carrying on the business of the Group and such agreements and obligations shall operate and remain binding notwithstanding the termination of your employment.
- V. If any provision of these obligations after employment are determined to be illegal or unenforceable by any court of law or any competent governmental or other authority, the remaining obligations and the remainder of your contract of employment shall be severable and enforceable in accordance with their terms so long as your contract of employment without such terms or provisions does not fail of its essential purpose. You and the Company shall negotiate in good faith to replace any such illegal or unenforceable provisions with suitable substitute provisions, which will maintain as far as possible their purposes and the effect. If so required by the Company, you also agree to enter into separate covenants with any member of the Group to which you are assigned and to which you provide your services in a form identical to the covenants set out in this section in order to protect the legitimate business interests of the Group.
- VI. For the purposes of this section, the Company is entering into these restrictions with you on its own behalf and as agent for and/or as trustee of the business of the relevant member of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services.

VII. Notification of Restrictions

You agree that in the event of your receiving from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not) either during the continuance of your employment with the Company or during the continuance in force of all or any of the restrictions set out above you shall forthwith provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the post-termination restrictions set out above including details of any variations to them agreed with you on an individual basis; and if the offer is accepted, inform the Company of the identity of the person making the offer.

VIII. During and after the termination of your employment, you will not without the express written consent of the Company disclose or use any confidential information relating to the business or affairs of the Company or any company within the Group, or its or their clients, including without limitation lists of clients, suppliers and employees, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company or any entity within the Group.

3. Other Employment

You will not engage in any other remunerative employment or accept any appointment as a director of any company outside the Group without the Company's prior written approval and, unless otherwise agreed by the Company in writing, all fees or other remuneration in respect of any such appointment will be for the account of the Company.

You will not during your employment be directly or indirectly engaged or concerned in the conduct of any business other than the business of the Group without the prior permission of the Company.

4. Compliance

The Company's rules, regulations and directions relating to employees, including the Group's Code of Conduct, which are now or may hereafter be in force, will apply to you and will be strictly complied with by you. You should therefore acquaint yourself with all Company rules and policies, which are applicable to you.

In particular, the Company attaches great importance to security, compliance and fair dealing procedures and your attention is drawn to the rules set out in the Group's Compliance Policies. You may be asked to disclose information as deemed necessary to comply with local regulatory requirements arising from the Company's business activities (including records relating to investments held by you and your connected persons), or which are otherwise consistent with market best practices of the Company.

Where applicable, you will also be expected to comply with any local compliance requirements of our overseas offices and all requirements (including any professional qualifications and standards of conduct) for obtaining and maintaining the necessary registration and license (or such exemption from registration and license) for the performance of your duties. A breach of the Group's Compliance policies or local compliance rules is a disciplinary offence that may justify summary dismissal.

In addition, you will at all times be conversant with and comply with any rules and regulations applicable to your specific area of work, such as (where applicable) the Local Rules, Regulations and By-Laws. Violation of any of these rules, regulations or provisions may result in the immediate termination of your employment.

- Basic Salary: Your Basic Salary will be INR 600,000 per annum, payable monthly.
- Flexi Basket: Your Flexi Basket will be INR 900,000 per annum.
- Fixed Pay: Your Fixed Pay, which consists of your Basic Salary and Flexi Basket, will be INR 1,500,000 per annum.
- Retirements:

- Provident Fund: The Company/Bank will make a contribution towards your Provident Fund as per the requirements of the Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952.

If you are an International Worker or during your employment lifecycle, if you become an international worker by dint of having attained a citizenship of another country, your Provident Fund contribution will be computed on your Fixed Pay minus allowances allocated for specific purposes e.g. housing, car, leave travel, etc. The exact amount of the Provident Fund contribution will be determined basis your Flexi Basket allocations post your joining the Company/Bank, and the same may also vary basis changes in your Flexi Pay allocations in line with the statutory provisions.

You will also be required to make an equal contribution towards your Provident Fund.

- Gratuity: Gratuity will accrue as per requirements of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972.

Flexi Basket

You can select your own benefit(s) as per your personal preference from a wide range of benefits that are applicable for your grade.

The different Flexi Basket options currently available across grades include House Rent Allowance, Meal Coupons (Sodexo), Leave Travel Allowance, Learning Development Allowance, Children Education Allowance and Children Hostel Allowance. Other Flexi Basket benefits like Fuel for Personal Car and benefits under Car Lease scheme are available at select grades.

You can make necessary allocations towards your selected benefits from the Flexi Basket, as per policy guidelines. The amount in Flexi Basket that remains unallocated, i.e., not utilized towards any benefit, will be paid to you in cash, through monthly payroll net of taxes in the form of Balance Supplementary Allowance.

On joining, you will be invited to make your Flexi Basket election on the Deutsche Bank intranet (HR Online). You will receive an email from TM Payroll within 4-6 weeks of your joining explaining the election process and timelines. If you do not receive this election email within 6 weeks of your joining, please write to hrdirect at hr.direct@db.com and also notify your HR Business Advisor immediately.

Further details on Flexi Basket are available in the Handbook. Please refer to the Handbook or get in touch with your HR Business Advisor for a detailed list and the policies governing the provision of benefits.

If you join the Company part-way through a calendar or fiscal year, your Basic Salary and Flexi Benefits will be pro-rated, as applicable, to reflect the period of your service with the Company in the relevant year. Any payment of your salary or other sum due to you from the Company will be subject to any and all applicable withholding and/or other taxes payable and the Company will in such case be entitled to deduct or retain the amount of such tax from any sum payable to you. You will be solely responsible to pay all taxes and any other imposts as may be levied or assessed by any competent authority in any jurisdiction on any sums paid and/or other benefits provided to you by the Company.

You agree that the Company may deduct from your remuneration any sums due from you to the Company including, without limitation, your pension contributions (if any) and any overpayments, loans or advances made to you by the Company or any other company in the Group.

2. Variable Compensation

(a) Discretionary Variable Compensation

All employees are eligible to be considered for annual Discretionary Variable Compensation subject to the provisions set out below and the Variable Compensation Guiding Principles as each of these may be reviewed and amended from time to time at the discretion of the Company.

Dependent on your corporate title for the relevant performance year, you may be considered for Discretionary Variable Compensation based on a number of factors including but not limited to (in no particular order of importance) the performance of the Company and, as applicable, the specific contribution of its component business units, your individual personal contribution and the need to retain you in employment within the Company.

Based on your current corporate title, your eligibility for Discretionary Variable Compensation will be referred to as "Group Variable Compensation". Group Variable Compensation is discretionary variable compensation which is dependent on DB Group performance and is assessed and awarded in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company. You are not currently eligible to be considered for any Individual Variable Compensation. You may however be nominated for a Recognition Award.

Generally, Discretionary Variable Compensation is determined in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company and may be made wholly or partly in cash, restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or such other form as the Company may decide. The Company reserves the right to deliver a percentage (up to 100%) of all Discretionary Variable Compensation under, and subject to, any applicable DB compensation plans (restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide) that are in effect on the date Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded. Such plans may provide for forfeiture of awards under such plans in certain circumstances. Discretionary Variable Compensation may be awarded or paid in any currency at the Company's discretion.

Your Discretionary Variable Compensation, including any restricted compensation awards and cash amounts awarded to you, are subject to the global and regional compensation policies and applicable regulation as well as any applicable clawback provisions, which may require you to repay any awards or cash amounts delivered and paid to you.

For the avoidance of doubt, you do not have a contractual entitlement to receive Discretionary Variable Compensation and any such Discretionary Variable Compensation in a given year will be at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Moreover, you will not receive Discretionary Variable Compensation if (for whatever reason) on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded in a given year, you are not employed within the Company or if you are under notice to terminate your employment (whether notice was given by you or the Company) or if the Company considers your performance or conduct to have been unsatisfactory.

 Malhar Bangdiwala

If, on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is usually communicated and/or paid, you are subject to an investigation that may result in disciplinary (or other) action being taken against you, consideration of whether you are eligible for, and payment of, any Discretionary Variable Compensation will be delayed until the conclusion of that investigation and, if relevant, any subsequent disciplinary (or other) procedure. Although, for the avoidance of doubt, you will not be eligible for consideration of a Discretionary Variable Compensation if, at the conclusion of the disciplinary (or other) procedure, you are given notice of termination of employment.

You should note that if you work in a number of locations, generally for the purposes of tax reporting and withholding, the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded to you will be apportioned between the locations you have worked in during the relevant period. Depending on individual circumstances, participants may become subject to multiple withholding taxes including double taxation. By accepting this offer, you agree to comply with any arrangements specified by the Company for the payment of any taxation (in any jurisdiction) by virtue of the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation or portion thereof.

Any portion of Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded as a cash payment will usually be paid in March through the normal monthly payroll. Discretionary Variable Compensation in any other form, including an award under a DB compensation plan (restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide), will be payable when such awards vest and will be delivered in accordance with the applicable DB compensation plan rules and Award Statement(s).

3. Cash Sign-On Award

You will receive a one-off cash award, a "Sign-On Award," in the amount of INR 300,000. Payment of your Sign-On Award will be made in INR in the next available payroll after the later of (i) the commencement of your employment with the Company, and (ii) the date on which all conditions of this offer (as detailed in this letter) are satisfied. Any payments in relation to your Sign-On Award will be made less any deductions for tax and social security contributions as the Company may be required to withhold.

The Sign-On Award is subject to all requirements of, and will be structured to comply with, the Institutsvergütungsverordnung (InstitutsVergV) and any regional regulation that is applicable (as may be amended from time to time) including (amongst other provisions) the regulatory requirements set out in the Section 7 of the InstitutsVergV (as may be amended from time to time).

You will be required to repay the gross amount of the Sign-On Award if:

- the payment is made before you satisfy all the conditions of this offer and within six months of such payment being made to you, you subsequently fail to satisfy all or any of them, or
- you give notice to terminate your employment with the Company or you are dismissed for misconduct or capability within twelve months of the date the payment is made.

By accepting this offer you consent to the deduction of the gross amount of the payment of any Sign-On Award made to you from your salary or any emoluments or awards arising from your employment if the Sign-On Award becomes repayable to the Company in the above circumstances. If these are insufficient to recover the whole of the gross amount of the Sign-On Award, you agree to repay any remaining amount to the Company within 30 days.

4. Relocation

(a) Relocation Benefits

In accordance with the terms and conditions of appointment and if need arises out of job responsibility, employee is liable to relocate between various locations within India at the discretion of the Company. The relocation assistance is designed to assist employees in the new location.

Please refer to Employee Handbook for more details.

(b) Claw back of Relocation Benefits

If your employment is terminated (voluntarily i.e. by your resignation or involuntarily i.e. termination for a cause), within twelve (12) months from the employment commencement date at the new location, you will be required to pay back the cost borne by the Company (at gross) on account of the relocation i.e. travel, stay, and other relocation benefits, on a prorate basis. For every full month of service post relocation, the recovery will reduce by 1/12th the total recoverable amount. The above provisions will not apply in case of redundancy.

5. Confirmation on Exam

We understand that you are yet to appear for your final examinations/ backlog of examinations; if any. Basis the university / college schedule, you will complete the examinations and upon the results of the said examinations being declared, you will provide us with copies of the supporting documents thereof immediately or within 90 days of joining us, whichever is earlier. Any delay or failure in providing the documents mentioned, will lead to your employment agreement being terminated. If for any reason, you are not able to provide us with copies of the documents afore mentioned within the timelines mentioned, you will inform us of the reasons for such delays and also provide us with the estimated timelines within which time copies of the said documents will be made available to us. Should you fail to provide us with copies of the documents within the extended time lines, the organization will be entitled to terminate your employment with immediate effect.

Reference Total Compensation Statement

Name Malhar Bangdiwala
Location Pune

This statement is intended to inform you of your 2023 Reference Total Compensation, as defined herein. If you have any questions about this information, please contact your manager.

Your annualised Reference Total Compensation shall be INR 1,562,500 (based on a full-time working week and on the basis that you have been in employment for the entirety of the relevant performance year (1 January - 31 December)). Your actual Total Compensation for the relevant performance year will be based on, among other things, your actual working arrangements for that performance year.

Reference Total Compensation describes the reference value of annual Fixed Pay and Variable Compensation for an employee who remains eligible for Variable Compensation at the time Variable Compensation is made for the relevant year when all performance expectations on Group, divisional and, individual levels, as applicable, are determined to have been satisfied by the Company in its sole discretion and subject to the Group's affordability.

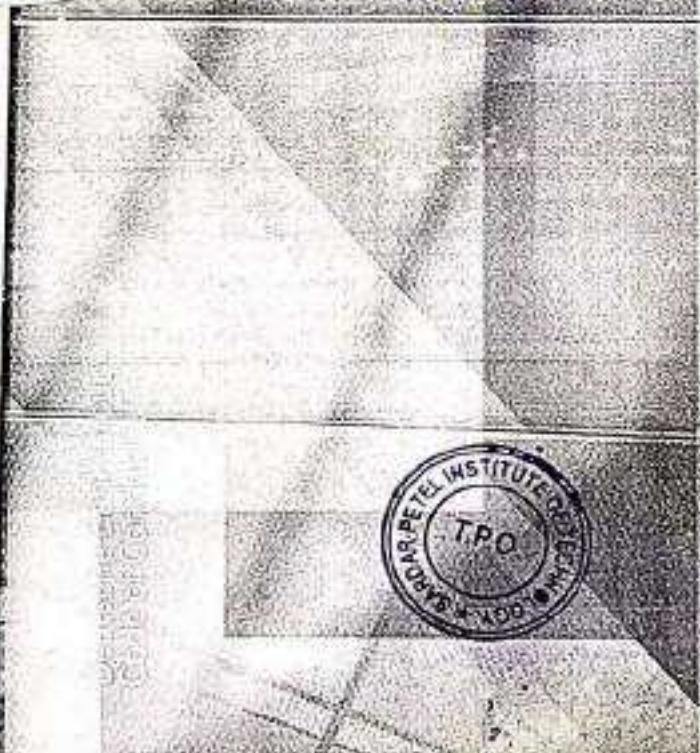

Reference Total Compensation is not, and should not be viewed as, any promise or guarantee to pay any particular level of Variable Compensation or Total Compensation. The actual Total Compensation may vary from (and be more or less than) Reference Total Compensation. Reference Total Compensation will be reviewed each year in the sole discretion of the Company.

For the avoidance of doubt, employees do not have a contractual entitlement to receive any Variable Compensation. Variable Compensation is determined at the absolute discretion of the Company (including, without limitation to, employee's conduct and performance) and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Employees must continue to be employed by the Company and not be under notice of termination of employment (for any reason and whether given by the Company or the individual) at the relevant date that Variable Compensation is awarded.

ALL COMPENSATION INFORMATION (INCLUDING THE INFORMATION IN THIS STATEMENT) IS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

Code of Conduct

Be on the right side.

U.S.
[Signature]

"We earn the trust of our clients, regulators, investors and each other by always acting with integrity and holding ourselves to high standards. Acting according to our Code of Conduct is vital for us to be a bank that achieves sustainable success."

Christian Sewing
Chief Executive Officer

A message from Christian Sewing, Chief Executive Officer

On behalf of the Management Board, I am pleased to present Deutsche Bank's Code of Conduct (the "Code"). The Code sets out our standards of behaviour and conduct to which we as a bank and all our employees are expected to adhere.

As a global company and diverse institution, it is challenging to set out in this Code one all-encompassing standard for the different working environments of each one of us. Nor can the Code address every situation that may arise in the legal and regulatory frameworks in which Deutsche Bank operates. We have a very broad range of businesses, from Retail and Asset Management in Germany and to Investment Banking and Wealth Management in the United States and Australia.

Therefore, the Code is not meant as a set of rules for specific situations, but as a general guide. The Code's success depends on each of us using our judgement to navigate what is sometimes a complex regulatory environment and seeking advice as appropriate. Critical matters should also be escalated promptly and appropriately.

As a bank, we have a responsibility to our clients, investors, communities and to each other. Earning and maintaining the trust of these stakeholders is fundamental.

Our Code of Conduct should be at the heart of everything we do. It is designed to ensure that we conduct ourselves ethically, with integrity and in accordance with Deutsche Bank's policies and procedures as well as the laws and regulations that apply to us worldwide. Underpinning all of this is a simple but basic principle that we should do what is right and proper – it is not enough to just go by what is allowed.

The Code also articulates what our bank stands for and what we want our overall culture to be. We want to foster an environment that is open and diverse, where staff opinions and "speaking up" are valued, and our employees' and the bank's success is built on respect, collaboration and community.

The Management Board and I expect our senior managers to be personally committed to putting this Code at the centre of all we do. We are driving a culture of ethical conduct. Acting according to these standards is vital for us to be a bank that achieves sustainable success.

Thank you.

Our values and beliefs

Our values

We aim to create an environment in which "speak up" and challenge are not just welcomed and respected, but are also a core part of our responsibilities, especially where actions or failures to act are inconsistent with this Code.

Integrity – We earn the trust of our clients, other stakeholders, communities and each other by acting with honesty and integrity and holding ourselves to high ethical standards. We seek to maintain open, credible, constructive and transparent relationships between ourselves, our clients and with our regulators.

Sustainable performance – Our bank is committed to generating sustainable value by responsibly balancing risk and return and by putting long-term success over short-term gain. We do so by implementing appropriate oversight, controls and governance.

Client centricity – We place clients at the centre of our activities. To be successful, we must understand the rapidly changing needs of our clients. We aim to provide solutions to support our clients in value creation. In providing our services, we deliver what we promise to our clients and treat our clients fairly.

Innovation – We continuously embrace new and better ways of doing things while fully taking account of potential risks. Innovation is essential to our success, but must be properly assessed in light of the interests of our clients and stakeholders, and must include assessment of financial, operational, regulatory and reputational risks.

Discipline – We accept responsibility and assign clear accountability. We honour our commitments and meet deadlines, targets and deliverables. We learn from our mistakes.

Partnership – We benefit from collaborating in an inclusive environment, where our diversity enriches our decision-making and idea-generation. We engage with and learn from others through open dialogue. We seek to work in a spirit of partnership, not just with our colleagues but also with our clients, stakeholders, political decision-makers and the wider community.

Applicability of and adherence to the Code, Compliance with applicable law and regulation

This Code sets out Deutsche Bank's Purpose, Values and Beliefs and minimum standards of conduct.

Our bank requires all employees and members of its Management Board to follow the letter and spirit of this Code as well as applicable policies and procedures ("policies"). All the latest versions of our bank's policies and this Code can be accessed on our bank's Policy Portal. All e-learning training materials can be accessed through Learning Hub.

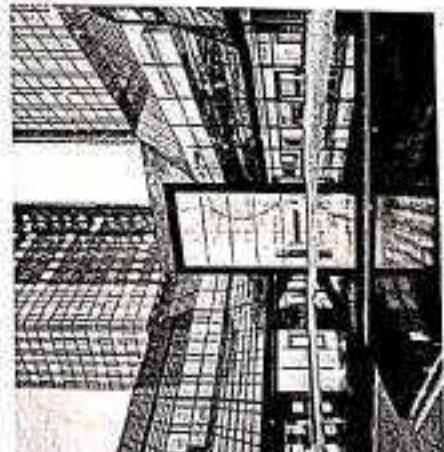

Our bank is also subject to the laws, rules and regulations of many jurisdictions in which we do business, either through a physical presence, holding a licence or due to the fact that our clients are based in that jurisdiction and therefore the laws of that country may also apply.

Our bank's tax affairs are managed in a way which aims to appropriately align the tax consequences of business operations with the economic, regulatory and commercial consequences of those business operations, with due regard being given to the potential perspective of the relevant tax authorities. Our bank operates a central framework and governance to ensure that in all material respects we are compliant with applicable tax laws, we file accurate tax returns, and we pay the amount of tax due. For further information, reference the Tax Strategy and the Tax Principles – Deutsche Bank Group.

Each of us is expected to be familiar with and comply with the applicable laws, rules and regulations, and with the standards that apply to our activities. Adherence with this Code is required regardless of your working location.

If you have any questions about the expected standards, laws, rules and regulations that apply to you, talk to your supervisor, Legal, Compliance, Anti-Financial Crime (AFC), Group Tax, Human Resources or other relevant function within our bank.

At the time you are hired, and periodically thereafter, you will be requested to acknowledge that you are aware of, understand and agree to comply with this Code and other policies. Regardless of such acknowledgement, this Code and other policies will be deemed to apply to you and you are asked to reflect on these principles in your daily work. Failure to comply with this Code, the policies and applicable laws and regulations will be viewed as a serious violation of your terms of employment and may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Valuing our employees and building trust in the workplace

Diversity and inclusion, equal opportunity, non-discrimination and building trust in the workplace

Mutual respect is the foundation to developing trust and to working in partnership. That is why we do not tolerate disrespectful behaviour, discrimination or harassment, including sexual harassment, or any threatening, hostile or abusive behaviour.

We work together without discrimination based upon an individual's race, colour, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, religion, disability, marital status, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, citizenship or any characteristic protected by law. We believe that diversity amongst employees with their varying perspectives, talents and contributions, enriches our interactions with clients, our work life, and the communities in which we live and work. We support our employees' talents and strive to be an employer of choice.

We comply with all applicable laws providing equal opportunity and advancement opportunities for all individuals.

We strive to resolve employment related complaints as quickly and as confidentially as possible and in a manner that is respectful to our employees.

We do not tolerate retaliation against anyone for making an employment-related complaint or cooperating with an investigation concerning discrimination or harassment.

Doing the right thing – acting ethically

We earn the trust of all our stakeholders by acting with integrity and holding ourselves to the highest ethical standards.

Acting with integrity

You must always act with integrity in your dealings with clients, colleagues, and stakeholders by adhering to this Code and applying its standards to everything that you do. You should raise concerns, ask questions and escalate matters, as necessary.

Ethical decision-making

Acting ethically is not only the right thing to do, but also the right way to do business – it serves the interests of our clients and stakeholders and is critical to achieving success in the longer term. In making decisions and determining the appropriate course of action, you must be guided by what is right and proper, not just by what is allowed or legal.

If there appears to be a conflict between this Code and local laws, rules or regulations, the more restrictive provisions apply. When you are faced with questions that go beyond those addressed in this Code, you should follow both the spirit of the Code and related bank policies that cover the issue. Escalate concerns to your supervisor, Legal Compliance, AFC or other relevant function, or report it through the Raise a Concern webpage on deNetwork or to the Integrity Hotline.

Taking personal responsibility

You are accountable for your actions or omissions, and will be held responsible for any improper or illegal acts. Your conduct may be reported to regulators, which could ultimately result in civil or criminal penalties or suspension or loss of your individual licence/registration, if applicable.

Abuse of position

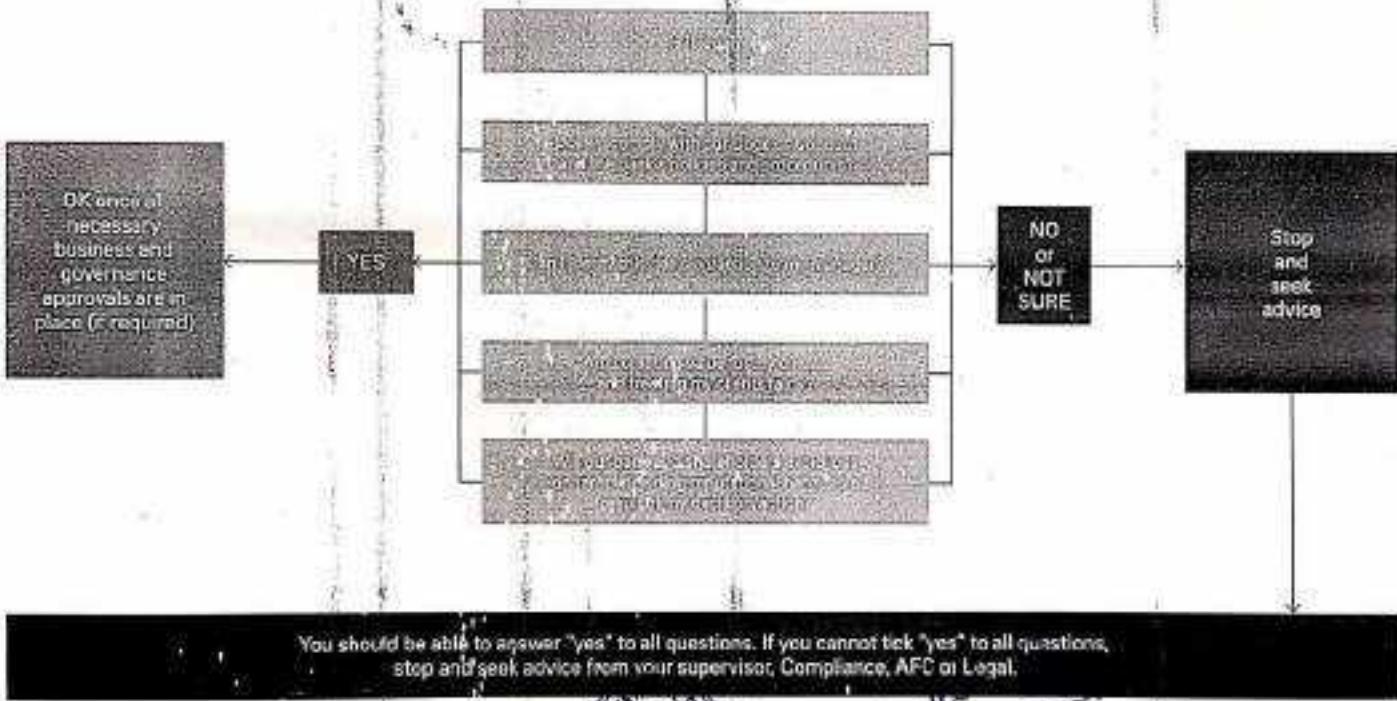

Where you are in a position to exercise influence, power or authority over an employee or decisions affecting that employee, you must always act exclusively in the interests of our bank and not be guided by personal interests. This applies even if you are not the manager of, or otherwise in a hierarchical working relationship with, that employee. Any abuse of your position, in whatever form, will not be tolerated. This includes using your position of influence, power or authority to harass (including sexually) or bully a fellow employee, as well as using your position to exercise inappropriate influence on behalf of, or show inappropriate favouritism towards, an individual with whom you have a close personal relationship or a family connection.²

² A close personal relationship includes an employee's romantic or sexual relationship; personal business; commercial or financial relationship; cohabitee; or financial dependent. A family connection is an employee's spouse, civil partner, domestic partner, children or step-children; mother or parent-in-law; sibling or sibling-in-law; grandparent; aunt; uncle; nephew/niece; or first cousin.

Decision-making tree

When faced with an ethical question or a challenging decision, you should ask yourself:

You should be able to answer "yes" to all questions. If you cannot tick "yes" to all questions, stop and seek advice from your supervisor, Compliance, AFC or Legal.

Responsibilities as a manager

If you are a manager, your employees will look to you to set an example and to demonstrate the standards set out in the Code. You are responsible for creating an inclusive and diverse work environment that attracts and retains the best employees and permits your team to innovate, problem solve and successfully execute. You need to encourage your team to speak up and you need to be a good listener, who is committed to supporting your employees in their work and development. Your people-development skills should be a priority. Each of us, especially leaders and managers must act with integrity and inspire trust.

As a manager, you are responsible for creating and maintaining an environment built on trust and safety, providing the foundation for giving and receiving regular feedback that is balanced, open and actionable.

At the same time, you supervise the activities and conduct of your employees and are required to have an appropriate control environment for your business, designed to adhere to applicable regulatory requirements. Part of that control environment includes encouraging individuals to ask questions and challenge, and setting the right tone in how to act.

Investment in skills and encouraging employees' professional and personal development are essential components of our bank's people agenda. This is reflected in the talent and development agenda, which helps to develop and nurture future leaders who are accountable, who champion the Code's standards and who inspire the best in their colleagues.

You should recognise and positively reinforce good behaviours as well as acting swiftly to investigate the case of inappropriate behaviours.

Note that you can be held responsible for the actions or omissions of those you supervise, particularly if you have not exercised the level of supervision expected by our bank and/or our regulators.

Risk awareness and acting as a risk manager

At Deutsche Bank, everyone of us has a role to play in building a stronger, more resilient and sustainable bank.

We aim to foster a culture of strong risk awareness and ownership, where all employees act as risk managers.

It is your responsibility to be aware of, understand and take a holistic view of the risks, which could result from your actions or decisions; and to manage those risks in line with the bank's risk appetite and risk management standards.

For further information, reference the Risk Management Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

What does it feel like doing... what can it mean in practice?

You should be aware of the potential risks you might face and how to manage them.

You should always consider what you can do to help others in your environment.

You should always be open to new ideas and show effective challenge.

What does it feel like you should be prepared for?

What does it feel like you should be forward-looking?

Remember, if it feels wrong, stop, say no and take a breakup.

Speaking up and raising concerns (including whistleblowing)

You are encouraged to raise all concerns, and you are expected to raise concerns related to possible violations of laws, rules, regulations, bank policies and conflicts of interest. Sometimes, these violations can also involve third parties, including our clients and/or vendors/suppliers. Regardless of business or other pressures, you are expected to raise concerns promptly.

Managers are required to foster an environment where employees feel free to speak up, which means to express their views, raise concerns and escalate any issues that could negatively affect our business, our clients or our people, confident that they will be heard, acknowledged, and addressed appropriately.

In addition, no one, at any level, has the authority to ask you to do something that is a breach of this Code or our existing policies or that is unethical or illegal. If you have any questions or concerns about a potential course of action, you should promptly escalate your questions or concerns.

For further information, reference the Racing Concepts (including Whistleblowing Policy – Deutsche Bank Group).

Non-retaliation
We aim to create an environment where every employee feels safe to speak up and raise concerns, including cases of potential misconduct, unethical behaviour or possible violations of law or policy, without fear of retaliation.

We prohibit retaliation against any individual for reporting concerns. We also prohibit retaliation against those who assist or cooperate in a subsequent investigation of such concerns. Retaliation means any adverse action taken against a person because they reported or cooperated in such an investigation.

Individuals who engage in retaliation are subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. Managers can also be held responsible for the behaviour of individuals under their supervision who engage in retaliatory actions.

There are various internal channels you can use to report potential misconduct or potential ethical concerns, including to your supervisor/Head of Department and/or to Carepliance, AFC, your HR Business Advisor, or Legal. You may also use the Raise a Concern webpage on dbNetwork or the Integrity Hotline, which is an electronic platform and telephone reporting system for raising concerns, and which can be used either anonymously or non-anonymously.

Protecting and handling confidential information

Our clients expect that we maintain the confidentiality of their information, whether that information relates to financial, personal or business matters. Our bank also expects that you maintain the confidentiality of its own information. Confidential information can be written, oral or electronic and includes a wide variety of data deriving from sources such as IT applications, strategies and customer lists. When in doubt, assume all information you receive is confidential. Inside information is a subset of confidential information and discussed later in the code.

You may not share, make available or disclose such confidential information to anyone inside or outside our bank, except on a "need to know" basis, i.e., with other staff who are involved in the transaction or providing the services and such disclosure is required for the proper execution of our bank's responsibilities. Sharing it more broadly, even with other employees, could be inconsistent with a client's expectations or in breach of legal requirements, including a confidentiality agreement with the client. Where information may be shared, you must limit the amount of information to what is required to achieve the stated business purpose and make sure the recipient knows that the information is confidential and subject to restrictions related to its use or dissemination.

Q&A

- Q1: A colleague asks me to share customer information from my former employer. She explains that this would be a great opportunity for the bank to acquire new customers, cross-sell financial products, and for her to meet her quarterly targets. Is this the right thing to do?
- A1: No. You must not disclose that information. Customer information of your former employer is that employer's confidential information and you have a legal obligation to protect the information, even after leaving that company. By disclosing the information, you are breaching this Code and exposing yourself and our bank to legal liabilities.
- Q2: Marie in Finance is working with the Deutsche Bank printers on the preparation of the bank's annual results. She has just reviewed the latest proof and forwards it to other colleagues involved for their review. Having pressed Send, she notices that in error, she has sent the document to a James O'Smith rather than James Smith. Has Marie acted illegally by sharing the bank's annual results in advance?
- A2: She has not intentionally leaked the information so this would not be a criminal offence. Nonetheless, there is a problem. What has happened is the inadvertent leak of inside information. It is crucial that Marie immediately escalates the issue to Compliance, who will advise her how to proceed.

It is never appropriate to share confidential information with family and/or friends. Even if you believe that a family member or friend will not misuse the information, it is not your information to share.

Data held by sensitive business areas are secured by Information Barriers (e.g., data relating to business areas classified as non-public are held behind the Information Barrier and are not accessible by other areas).

Restrictions on disclosing confidential information are not intended to, and should not, prevent employees from reporting or escalating any concerns or responding to questions or requests from relevant regulators, law enforcement agencies or their formally appointed agents, courts of law or our bank's monitors. For further information, reference the User and Handling of Client Confidential and Disclosing Bank Proprietary Information Policy – Global.

Also remember, information from prior employers (including information from the clients of prior employers) is confidential information and should not be shared without bank or bank employees – to do so is unethical, unless it has already been made public through no action of your own.

Conflicts of interest

Many of the major problems that have occurred in the industry, including here at our bank, involved conflicts of interest. A conflict of interest arises where one or more persons or entities have competing interests and the serving of one interest may involve detriment to another. As a global financial services provider, our business inevitably gives rise to actual, potential and perceived conflicts. Examples of potential conflicts include: In Markets, acting as principal with a client or as an agent between a buying and selling client; in Banking, acting on behalf of an issuer of securities while managing our responsibilities to underlying investors in those securities; in Asset Management and Wealth Management, being incentivised to create or sell products that may be to the detriment of our clients or the market.

- When identifying conflicts, be sensitive to the fact that conflicts can arise in a variety of relationships, including:
- Between our clients;
 - Between a client and our bank or our employees;
 - Between the bank and our employees;
 - Between a service provider and an employee or the bank; and
 - Between and among different groups within departments or divisions of our bank.

Deutsche Bank Group Code of Conduct

Q&A

- Q1. You are part of the COO function and you are selecting a new software supplier for the bank. Your spouse works for one of the vendors. Is this a conflict?
- A2. Yes, there is a potential conflict between you and the vendor because the fact that your spouse works for one of the vendors could be viewed as influencing your judgment. You should make sure that the bank is aware of the potential conflict, and you should not be involved in the selection of the vendor.
- Q3. An issuer client threatens to end its business relationship with our bank unless one of our research analysts takes a more positive view on its stock. Is this a potential conflict of interest?
- A4. Yes, this situation represents an actual conflict of interest between the bank and its client because according to the client's demands would compromise the objectivity and independence of the research output. Any such attempt, by a client, internal stakeholder or otherwise, must be escalated in accordance with the bank's policy.

- Q5. You work at a local branch in Berlin. You just received a call from a customer that is a small-sized business looking for some short-term working capital. The logical choice for the client is a short-term loan, but your colleague has suggested that you should pitch a credit card option, which would attract much higher fees for the bank. Should you advise the customer to opt for a credit card?
- A6. No. The best option for the customer is the loan. The suggestion that you should earn higher fees by recommending a credit card at the expense of the customer's needs is not appropriate and would be a failure to manage the conflict arising between the interests of the client and the bank.

to the Business Selection and Conflicts Office, Compliance, Human Resources or Legal so that they can be addressed appropriately. You should not abuse your position at our bank by, among other things, exercising inappropriate influence on behalf of, or showing inappropriate favouritism towards, an individual with whom you have a close personal relationship or a family connection.

Conflicts can be nuanced and, in dealing with potential conflicts, you should act with integrity and use good judgment in a manner consistent with this Code and our policies, and ask for guidance as necessary.

Financial crime prevention and detection

Anti-financial crime

Our bank advocates the development of sound regulations and internal procedures to combat financial crime, including tax evasion. These requirements are also intended to prevent our bank from committing or facilitating – intentionally or negligently – criminal offences.

You are personally accountable for adhering to all applicable statutory and regulatory responsibilities to prevent financial crime. To support you in meeting those obligations, our bank's Anti-Financial Crime (AFC) department is mandated by the Management Board to develop and implement policies, procedures and processes to minimise AFC risk within our bank, and enhance them on a continuous basis, at both global and local levels.

For further information, reference the Principles for the Management of Financial Crime Risks – Deutsche Bank Group.

Anti-money laundering/anti-terrorism financing

Money laundering is the intentional movement of cash and/or assets derived from illegal and criminal activities into the legal financial and business system. The attempt to disguise the true source or ownership of the funds, to disguise the ultimate disposition of the funds and to eliminate audit trails is part of the laundering process. Underlying crimes are defined by local laws and could comprise, for example, forgery, counterfeiting, extortion, human trafficking, robbery, drug crime as well as fraud, corruption, organised crime, or terrorism.

Terrorism financing is defined as the providing, depositing, distributing or collecting of funds, by any means, intended to be used, or knowing that they are to be wholly or partially used, for committing terrorist acts. It is not relevant whether such funds are of legal or illegal origin.

To combat money laundering and terrorism financing (together "AML"), our bank has developed a set of policies outlining its general AML standards and principles. You are required to adhere to these standards to protect our bank and its reputation from being misused for money laundering and/or terrorist financing or other illegal purposes.

For further information, refer to the Deutsche Bank Money Laundering Policy - URL: www.deutschebank.com/deutschebank/compliance/AML.aspx

Economic sanctions regulations & anti-boycott rules

National authorities and supranational organisations (e.g. the United Nations and the European Union) impose restrictive measures against targeted sectors as well as countries, organisations, groups, entities and individuals who infringe internationally accepted behaviours and norms, including those who have been identified as being involved in weapons proliferation etc.

- terrorists or supporters of terrorist organisations;
- violators of human rights; or
- being involved in bribery and corruption.

Such measures are more commonly known as embargoes or sanctions. Our bank has identified Prohibited and Restricted Special Risk Countries in order to better safeguard against sanctions risks.

You are required to comply with applicable embargoes and sanctions as well as our bank's requirements on Special Risk Countries. Non-compliance can expose our bank, as well as you personally, to civil, regulatory and criminal penalties, including substantial monetary fines and, in the case of individuals, prison. Non-compliance with embargoes and sanctions also poses a substantial reputational risk for our bank. It is also important to note that there are anti-boycott rules in place that prohibit against and counteract the effects of extra-territorial application of specific sanctions regulations imposed by other jurisdictions. If you have any concerns, consult with AFC before proceeding.

For further information, reference the Sanctions Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Q&A

- Q. A client calls Elias to let him know they will be exporting goods to a defunct company based in Russia. The client wants to know if we will support the transaction related to the shipment. Elias escalate this information to Regional Sanctions – what will likely be the outcome?
- A. We would need further information on the goods, transactions and end-user to understand what is involved and determine whether the transaction may violate applicable sanctions.

Key learning point: Sanctions can be broad-in-scope, so you need to understand the impact of sanctions on your business activities.

If in doubt: You must escalate your concern to your local AFC Team, Regional Sanctions & Embargoes Team or the Global AFC Sanctions & Embargoes Team.

Anti-bribery and corruption

Our bank is committed to complying with all applicable anti-bribery and corruption laws and regulations. Our bank expects transparency and integrity in all of its business dealings to avoid any improper advantage or the appearance of questionable conduct by its employees and associated third parties.

Bribery and corruption risks can arise in a number of areas that we deal with every day. Examples include: gifts and entertainment, interacting with public officials, kickbacks, use of third parties, provision of goods and services, hiring practices, and acquisitions. You are responsible for preventing, detecting, and reporting bribery and other forms of corruption in connection with our bank's business.

Bribery or corruption in any form is not tolerated by our bank – you and third parties associated with your business are prohibited from offering, promising, giving or authorizing, any form of solicitation, agreement to receive, or accepting anything that constitutes, or could be perceived as constituting bribery or corruption.

For further information, reference the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Q&A

- Q. Deutsche Bank operates globally and may require the support of agents in different jurisdictions to act on its behalf and provide local expertise. Could Deutsche Bank be liable for any bribes paid by Business Development Consultants (BDCs) or external advisors used to help the bank win business?

- A. Yes, Deutsche Bank could be liable for bribery paid by agents operating on behalf of the bank, like BDCs.

How can you reduce the risk? Due care and skills must be exercised when selecting and dealing with BDCs and other agents. Our bank's policies must always be followed. For further information, reference the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

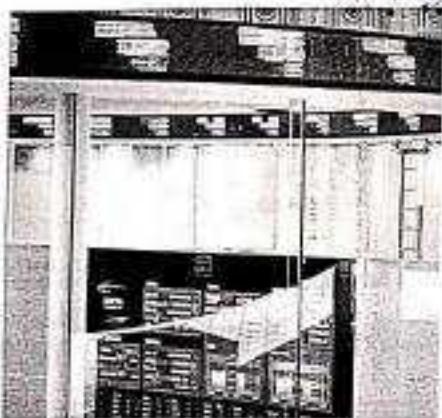

Anti-fraud

Fraud is defined as any intentional act or omission, including a misrepresentation which misleads or conceals, or attempts to mislead or conceal, in order to gain a personal or business advantage, or to avoid a personal/business disadvantage. Fraud may be committed by an individual, a group of individuals, or by one or more organisations.

If you have knowledge of fraudulent activity or potential fraudulent activity, have reason to suspect that fraud has occurred, or a fraud attempt may occur, you must immediately escalate to AFC by following the escalation process defined in the Anti-Fraud Policy. You are responsible for ensuring that you do not commit or contribute to fraud. For further information, reference the Anti-Fraud Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Fair and free markets

Market conduct, market manipulation and market abuse

Protecting the integrity of financial markets is critical to promoting fair and efficient markets and investor confidence; inappropriate market conduct undermines fairness, efficiency and confidence in the markets.

Market manipulation/market abuse can have a significant negative impact on our clients, the financial markets and our bank as a whole.

As such, all business conducted by our employees must be driven by legitimate reasons and must be conducted in a manner that avoids or minimises market disruption.

You must not engage in activities, practices or conduct that are manipulative, illegal, anticompetitive, or unethical, that exacerbate conflicts between or among our bank and its clients, that are contrary to industry standards or applicable regulations, or that are otherwise damaging to our bank's reputation.

Our bank has a policy in place to specifically address Market Conduct as well as standards for specific bank products. For further information, reference the Market Conduct Policy - Global.

Q&A

Q: You purchase 5,000 shares in XYZ Ltd. You then spread a rumour online that XYZ Ltd. is the subject of a takeover bid from Predator plc. The story spreads and makes its way into the media, causing the share price to rise significantly. You then make a profit by selling your shares. Shortly thereafter, Predator plc makes a formal statement denying the rumour and the share price of XYZ Ltd. falls back to its previous level. Have you done anything wrong?

A: Yes. You have engaged in market manipulation that has distorted the price of XYZ Ltd shares by spreading false rumours. This is illegal.

Abuse of information and insider trading

In the course of your work at our bank, you may come into possession of inside information, also referred to as material, non-public, price sensitive information (PSI or MNPI). While the definition may vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, inside information can be described as information which has not been made public, relating directly or indirectly to one or more issuers or to one or more financial instruments, and which, if it were made public, would likely have a material effect on the price of those financial instruments or on the price of related derivative financial instruments.

While you are in possession of confidential information, especially inside information, you are under a duty of confidentiality in respect of the information you receive and may only use or disclose such information with due authorization and on a need-to-know basis. Using such information for your personal gain or sharing with others who use it for their personal gain – so called “tipping” – is illegal and prohibited by the Code and our bank's policies.

For further information, reference the Information Barrier Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Q&A

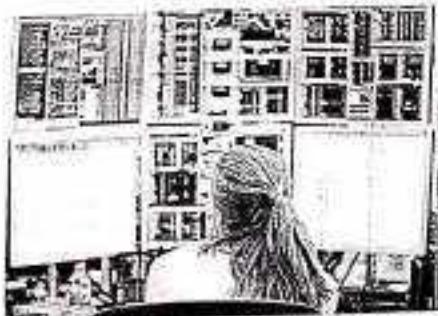

Q: I have learned that Deutsche Bank is considering the acquisition of a small, publicly-traded company. As an employee of the bank, may I acquire the stock of this company in anticipation of the acquisition? May I share this information with my cousin so that she can acquire the shares?

A: No. Trading on and tipping others who trade on inside information is illegal and a violation of this Code.

Whe

Antitrust

Ensuring that employees at all levels comply with applicable antitrust laws is a key priority of the bank. The financial sector is under close scrutiny from antitrust authorities and public prosecutors. Understanding the basic concepts of the antitrust rules and the limitations that they can impose on your activities, and being able to identify activities or conduct where there could be risk is critical for you and our bank.

Antitrust laws promote free competition by making certain anti-competitive practices illegal. The practices caught by antitrust laws encompass a wide range of market-distorting behaviour around the globe. This behaviour includes agreements and practices that restrict competition, trading in concert with a competitor, agreements with competitors on pricing, agreements to exclude others from a transaction, facilitating the exchange of competitively sensitive information, and violations of merger control rules.

Antitrust laws of certain countries in which we conduct business have broad extraterritorial scope and application. It is our policy to comply with all laws which prohibit anti-competitive conduct in the countries in which we operate.

The consequences of antitrust violations are serious and far-reaching. US, EU and other enforcement authorities vigorously prosecute anti-competitive conduct. Any infringement of antitrust laws can have serious consequences, including taxes, financial penalties for our bank and you. Multi-million euro fines have become routine for companies found guilty of infringing antitrust laws. Other serious consequences may also result from non-compliance with antitrust laws, including:

- Individual imprisonment or long-term disqualification;
- Paying compensation to affected parties;
- Reputational damage;
- Restrictions on business; and/or
- Void or unenforceable contracts.

For further information, reference the Antitrust Risk Management Framework Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Q&A

- Q. As a Deutsche Bank Swap trader, you contribute streaming of live prices to three trading venues that are used by the administrator of a daily benchmark. The benchmark is calculated off-tradable quotes from regulated, electronic, multilateral trading venues and represents the mid-price for Swaps (fixed leg) at a particular time of the day.

Early one morning a longstanding colleague, who now works for another bank, emails you with the following message:

"Hi Mate,

Need a favour from you. Can you nudge your GBP/EUR down a couple of bps on Trad-X today? I know you don't do much volume on that venue anyway so you're unlikely to be hit and it would be a great help to me. I can return the favour sometime in the future to help you out."

Is it acceptable to agree to the proposition?

- A. No. Any form of collusion among competitors in order to manipulate, or to attempt to manipulate or help facilitate some to manipulate, benchmarks, price fixes or reference rates capable of distorting the normal course of pricing is not acceptable.

Even if your attempt to influence the fix fails, the intention to influence normal market conditions is sufficient to make this behaviour illegal and be in violation of antitrust law.

Mr. 9

Treating clients fairly, communicating with clients, and handling customer complaints

Treating clients fairly

As a bank, we have defined ourselves as client centric, and part of our success is through creating value to our clients by the solutions we provide and services we offer. Critical to our strategy is delivering what we committed to our clients and treating them fairly and transparently.

In practical terms, it means that we may not take unfair advantage of anyone or disadvantage them through manipulation, concealment, abuse of confidential information, churning or using it improperly; misrepresentation of material facts or unfair dealings or practices.

For customer-facing employees, you should understand your customers' needs, expectations and interests in order to provide them with appropriate solutions that lead to the right outcomes for them based on their stated requirements, sophistication and attitude to risk.

You must always act fairly, honestly and transparently and avoid providing customers with undue preferential treatment, including over other clients.

Q&A

- Q: Theo works in a retail branch. He has been told that the incentive this year is a 5% pay rise if he meets the target before year end. An existing retail client visits the branch seeking to invest all of a small inheritance he received – he says this is his retirement money when he retires in a couple of years.

Theo advises him on a non-principal-protected product intended only for high net worth individuals, who are "sophisticated clients," for which he will receive a higher commission. He explains that they are similar to retail bonds but have a high coupon payout structure and states that they are not any riskier than bonds of a blue chip corporate.

- Were the rationale and risks of the product sold in line with the risk appetite of the retail client, i.e., was it suitable?
- Did he explain the product thoroughly?
- Was he truthful?
- Was his judgment clouded by his own personal interests?
- Should the bank have considered whether the incentive programme could influence bad outcome decisions?
- A: Theo mis-sold the product and misrepresented the importance of the risks embedded in the product. He did not consider whether this was a suitable product for the client and sold a product for which he would receive a higher commission and, therefore, a better chance of meeting a target set by the bank.

Communicating with clients

It is important when dealing with our clients that our communications – both oral and written, are fair, clear and accurate. Statements that can be viewed as misleading or that omit material information, including information important to making an investment decision – whether the client is retail, professional or institutional – can violate applicable law. Fair, clear and accurate communications protect the bank and you.

Under U.S. regulations there has been no focusing on communications with institutional investors in liquid instruments. Participants are required to have a high level of risk awareness regarding the securities to be purchased.

In the case of communications such as offering circulars and research, they promote market efficiency by ensuring that all market participants have the opportunity to act on information that is accurate, complete and not false or misleading.

All bank communications must meet certain minimum content standards and requirements, including specific information classification standards. In addition, specific requirements relating to certain categories of communications such as research, sales, marketing and advertising are the subject of supplemental policies.

For further information, reference the Business Communications Policy – Global.

Treating clients fairly, communicating with clients, and handling customer complaints (continued)

Customer complaints

A complaint means any expression of dissatisfaction or grievance, regardless of whether justified or not, from or on behalf of a customer or counterparty about our bank's provision of, or failure to provide, financial services (for example, the execution of any transaction, or the disposition of securities or funds). This may also include public relations matters regarding our bank's business practices that have the potential of damaging our bank's reputation, brand and market value. Complaints may be received from a complainant directly or through an authorized third party and can be transmitted via various means, including letter, telephone, email, or in person. They may also involve a demand, express or implied, for a payment or adjustment.

You must promptly refer all complaints to your supervisor. Actual or potential errors or complaints that could result in a client dispute must be referred to Legal and Compliance and any complaints, errors or inequities relating to customers that cause breaches of regulatory or legal requirements or obligations must be reported immediately to your supervisor, Legal and Compliance. All errors and complaints must be addressed as soon as practicable.

For further information, reference the Minimum Requirements for Handling and Recording of Complaints – Global.

Q&A

- Q. You have received a call from a client concerned that there are unusual transactions which they do not recognize on the account, and their statements are arriving much later than usual.
— Is this a complaint if you think the delays are due to system problems?
— Do you report the complaint to your supervisor immediately or only if the client complains again?
— Do you register this as a complaint for Complaints Handling process used by your business?

A. You report the complaint to your supervisor immediately and ensure that it is properly reflected as a complaint in your business' Complaint Handling procedures.

In most jurisdictions, there are requirements about responding to and reporting complaints. Further, complaints can be an indication of a broader problem. The sooner the problem is reported, the sooner the bank can take action.

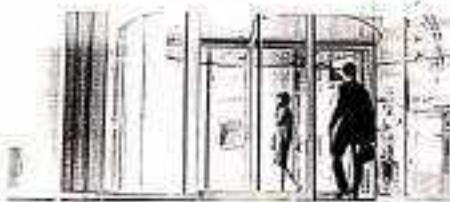

Protecting customer assets and accounts

The protection of customer assets and accounts is paramount. Each division is responsible for implementing policies necessary to ensure client monies and assets are appropriately safeguarded, and the dispositions of customer assets are only made by the holders of accounts, and in the case of custody accounts, by their agents on the basis of a power of attorney or by virtue of a court order or other official measures. Balances on customers' demand accounts and custody accounts with no known address may not be booked to revenue by our bank.

For further information, reference the MiFID II Safeguarding Client Assets and Funds (SCAF) Policy – Global and the Business Relationships with Interrupted Customer Contact (Uncollected Assets) Policy.

Employee related activities

Avoiding and disclosing personal conflicts of interests

Employees must disclose any potential conflict of interest. For example, if you have a close personal relationship with a vendor or a client, or you have a close personal relationship with your subordinate employee, then this will need to be disclosed. There are also other areas where our bank is required by law or due to the appearance of a conflict of interest to impose limitations and/or requirements on employees. These include:

- Business expenditure
- Personal account dealing (employee trading)
- Outside business interests
- Political contributions

Deutsche Bank Group - Code of Conduct

Pre-approvals are based on various thresholds set out in the policy referenced in the next paragraph.

For further information, reference the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Q&A

Q1. I am considering offering my colleague a gift in influence or expense. I am not sure if it is appropriate to do so. Is there any guidance available?

Q2. I am considering making an investment in my company's stock. Is this acceptable? What would be the best way to do this?

Q3. I am curious about the activity of my supervisor with my business contacts.

Q&A

Q1. You are to finalize a contract with a major supplier. You have suggested that you could sign the contract at an expensive new French restaurant in town that you have wanted to try. Is this a problem?

Q2. You take one of your most important clients to dinner on a regular basis. The client likes expensive restaurants and fine wine. If you forget, your client reminds you. Is there anything wrong with this?

A. You should neither accept nor provide excessive and/or frequent work-related entertainment. All work-related entertainment must comply with our bank's Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy. In both cases, the entertainment appears to affect impartial decision making leading to an unfair business advantage, putting both you and our bank at risk of breaching anti-bribery laws.

Personal account dealing (employee trading)

Our bank sets out a Personal Account Dealing Policy to meet legal and regulatory requirements, to avoid even the appearance of insider trading and/or potential conflict.

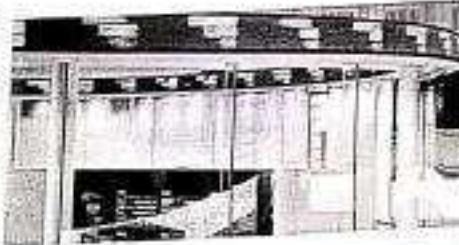

It is your responsibility not to trade on, or otherwise take advantage of inside information and not to put your personal interests over those of our bank or its clients when engaging in trading for your personal or related party accounts.

You should be familiar with the Personal Account Dealing Policy, which is designed so that personal investment activities are conducted appropriately.

Where required, you should notify Compliance of your personal trading accounts including those held at our bank or with a designated broker.

Where pre-clearance or approvals are required, you must obtain pre-clearance/approval via the Employee Trade Request Application, i.e., the CTRA system, prior to engaging in personal account trading. Personal trading accounts where you have fully delegated the investment decisions to a third party by means of a written discretionary management agreement and where you cannot exercise any influence or discretion are required to be disclosed, however, trading is not required to be pre-cleared.

There are minimum holding periods for investments which vary by location and division which are set out within the policy. For further information, reference the Personal Account Dealing Policy - Deutsche Bank Group.

Remember:

- You must prioritise the interests of our bank and its clients ahead of your own personal trading interest.
- As such, you are prohibited from:
 - Entering into transactions involving a conflict of interest between an employee and our bank or its clients;
 - Using your access to proprietary information or client information in any way to advantage your or anyone else's personal investing; and,
 - Entering into transactions that present potential reputational or regulatory risk to our bank.

Outside business interests

You are expected to devote your best efforts and abilities to our bank. Outside Business Interests are certain interests or activities undertaken by employees outside their role at or with our bank, whether or not compensated, that may create a potential conflict of interest. These are generally positions in external organisations such as directorships or partnerships, external other employment or appointments to public offices. Minimum standards have been set to avoid or manage conflicts with any Outside Business Interest and the duties of the employee. To protect our bank and its staff against reputational risk, avoid interference with your responsibilities to our bank, and to assist Compliance in the identification and prevention or mitigation of conflicts. You are required to disclose and obtain approval prior to engaging or agreeing to engage in an Outside Business Interest via GECCE.

For further information, reference the Outside Business Interests Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Criminal investigations

If you become the subject of any criminal investigation, you must inform without delay your local HR manager who will in turn notify Group HR, Legal, Compliance and AFO.

Political contributions

Our bank is a politically neutral organisation and does not engage in party political campaigning or make party political donations. Our bank conducts dialogue with governments on issues relevant to our businesses and any communication undertaken is honest and accurate.

Our bank permits its employees to be active in the political process. If you are involved in political activity in a personal capacity you have a responsibility to make sure that this is kept entirely separate from your duties as an employee and that our bank's funds or resources (including time) are not used for political purposes. It is not permitted for any employee to coerce or pressure other employees to make political contributions.

In certain jurisdictions, there are limitations, restrictions and reporting requirements on the exercise of political activities. In the US, such regulations apply to all US citizens and US permanent residents regardless of work location. Please contact local Compliance for advice prior to engaging in any political activities.

So that conflicts of interest are avoided, colleagues are expected to exercise discretion and not become involved in matters of political controversy that may compromise the interests of our bank and/or their role.

Any material political activity must be approved in advance by your supervisor and Compliance.

Communications, the media, social media and interactions with our regulators

Q&A

- Q. You have received a phone call from a journalist who is asking the whereabouts of a client. You met with the client in the morning and she told you she was travelling today to Eastern Europe for business. The journalist says that your client is in the middle of striking a very important business deal and promises that he will write a positive piece about Deutsche Bank if you help him out with the information he needs. You are not an authorised spokesperson for the bank. Is it appropriate to reveal your client's whereabouts?
- A. No. You must decline to speak to him and refer him to your local Press Office. Client information must be treated in confidence. It would be a major breach of trust to pass this information to anyone outside the bank.

You are not permitted to speak to the external media unless you have been approved and received formal training as an authorised Deutsche Bank spokesperson and media contacts should always be referred to or logged with your local Press Office.

Responding to media inquiries

Unless authorised to speak to the media, you must refer all media enquiries concerning business activity, clients, employees, officers or members of the Management Board or Supervisory Board of our bank to the appropriate Communications team.

If you plan to have or you had contact with a media representative you have to inform Corporate Communications in a timely manner.

You must not make any statements in the name of our bank or release any information or documents to the media either directly or through a third party, unless expressly authorised to do so by the appropriate Communications team.

For further information, reference the Media Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Electronic and voice communications

The use of electronic communication systems and the recording of voice communications can be subject to the laws and regulations of multiple jurisdictions. Principles have therefore been established to safeguard information and to set minimum requirements for appropriate access, monitoring and usage.

Only Deutsche Bank-approved communication devices and applications may be used for the conduct of any bank business whether by email, chat or other electronic messaging. If you are required to use recorded lines, you must comply with the Voice Recording Policy to ensure that your conversations are recorded. Participating in multi-party/multi-entity chat rooms and other public chat rooms in connection with any bank business or with our bank's equipment is generally prohibited (certain exceptions apply with relevant pre-approval).

Our bank is required to retain records relating to electronic and voice communications generated by employees and undertake surveillance of them. Additionally, electronic and voice communications may be subject to disclosure or other requirements in litigation, regulatory and law enforcement inquiries, internal investigations and/or other proceedings, and/or subject to monitoring or surveillance. Employees are expected to allow the Bank to meet legal retention requirements, and, where legally permitted, will be asked to provide DB electronic communications that appear to be related to a DB activity that occurred on a non-DB approved electronic communication system.

Our bank reserves the right to monitor, review, access, record and disclose information and data, which is created, sent, received, downloaded or stored on our bank's electronic or telephonic systems or on the bank's premises, subject to local data privacy restrictions.

For further information, reference the Electronic Communication Systems Policy – Deutsche Bank Group and the Use of Mobile and other End User Devices – Deutsche Bank Group.

Communications, the media, social media and interactions with our regulators (continued)

Social media

Recent years have shown a growth of social media services, which has fundamentally changed interpersonal communications, built online communities, and increased virtual interactions. Our reputation is dependent upon appropriate and professional media and public relations. In order to protect our reputation and brand, only authorised employees may set up and operate a social media channel in the name of our bank. This restriction does not apply to discussion of personal matters outside of work and on non-bank equipment.

You should always use good judgment in your use of social media and other online activities, even in connection with personal matters. Postings on internet and/or social media sites referencing our bank, your responsibilities, our clients or your bank colleagues may have an impact not only on you but our bank as well, and may constitute a breach of privacy laws, misuse of confidential information or other policies. Your social media activities are also governed by the laws applicable in the country where you work as an employee. The policies and guidelines of your respective division or the region in which you work also apply.

For questions about the use of social media, please contact Digital Communications.

For further information, reference the Media Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Deutsche Bank Group Code of Conduct

Interactions with supervisory authorities

Our bank is committed to act in an open and transparent way with all its Supervisory Authorities and to promote trust-based cooperation. Failure to do so could result in regulatory sanctions, reputational damage and/or significant financial penalties.

Relationships with the supervisory departments of our bank's Supervisory Authorities are managed by Regulation, Compliance, Country Management or other teams responsible for regulatory relationship and subject matter experts (representing the business divisions and infrastructure functions). Each Supervisory Authority generally has a bank Principal Point of Contact.

Any communications that are received by anyone other than the Principal Point of Contact should be escalated to Compliance or the relevant team responsible for regulatory relationship who will re-route the communication to the relevant Principal Point of Contact. Communication to the Supervisory Authorities by any department or individual other than the Principal Point of Contact should first be isolated and routed through the Principal Point of Contact. You must adhere to certain minimum standards in any interaction with our bank's Supervisory Authorities.

For further information, reference the Supervisory Authorities Engagement Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Deutsche Bank Group is committed to interact with our bank's Supervisory Authorities transparently. All interactions with our Supervisory Authorities should be conducted in a professional manner. Any communication with our Supervisory Authorities should be recorded. Please note that any communication with a view to establishing a formal relationship or what is expected in the course of the relationship, or relevant meetings, events, or other interactions, should be conducted in a formal manner. Please note that the communication, when presented to the relevant authority, must be consistent with the regulations and consistent with the relevant internal reporting requirements.

In addition, we are required to maintain the confidentiality of any examination or supervisory information received from Supervisory Authorities ("Confidential Supervisory Information"). The definition of Confidential Supervisory Information is broad and includes any information that is prepared by, or behalf of, or for the use of a Supervisory Authority, including information "related to", an examination, inspection, or visitation of an institution. The various Supervisory Authorities have similar, but not identical, requirements regarding the disclosure of Confidential Supervisory Information. However, as a general principle, Confidential Supervisory Information may not be disclosed to a third party, including an agent of our bank, without the express written consent of the relevant Supervisory Authority.

You should contact the relevant team responsible for regulatory relationship before sharing any regulatory information.

Sustainability and respecting human rights

We maintain sound governance in line with laws and internal guidelines. Well-established sustainability frameworks, such as the United Nations Global Compact and the United Nations Sustainability Development Goals, provide guidance for our thinking and actions.

We ensure that our internal and external commitments are safeguarded by adequate processes and controls. In this context we make the respect of human rights including the prevention of child labour, modern slavery and human trafficking a priority. The same accounts for combating climate change. We strive to be the employer-of-choice for present and future employees and to invest in society and create a positive impact. By supporting volunteering initiatives by our staff we serve our communities and encourage and support our employees in these efforts.

Our business operations conform to common sustainability requirements, for example, by screening out vendors and by managing and, where possible, minimizing our environmental impact. This includes our own carbon neutrality.

For further information, reference the Sustainability Policy – Deutsche Bank Group and the Reputational Risk Procedure.

In alignment with one of our core values "sustainable performance", and based on our sustainability principle, we are committed to considering the long-term effects of our activities and to generating sustainable value for our clients, employees, investors and society at large. This means that we consider and assess the direct and indirect economic, social and environmental aspects and impacts of our business decisions.

We strive to increase the positive impact of our business decisions and to support a sustainable future for society and the environment. We monitor and mitigate the possible negative impacts and we apply reasonable due diligence processes to balance and to solve emerging conflicts of interest and ethical situations.

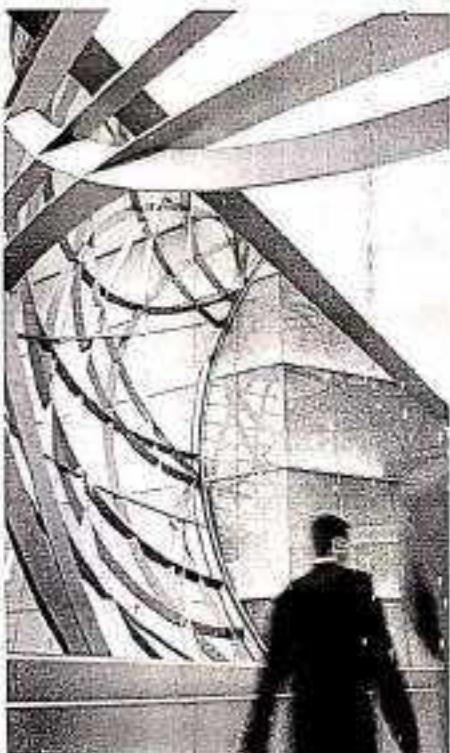

Deutsche Bank Group - Circular Carbon

You should ask yourself:

- Does a proposed business transaction or initiative present any risks to the environment or society?
 - Are the appropriate controls in place to manage the risks associated with the proposed transaction?
 - Are you focusing only on near-term results without looking at potential long-term risks?
 - Are you confident that your actions could stand up to public scrutiny?
 - Are you using your skills to build social capital and to benefit society?

Safeguarding our bank's interests

Information security

Each division is responsible for implementing policies necessary to observe banking secrecy laws and to maintain an appropriate level of information security. For further information, reference the Information Security Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

You must also take steps to ensure you follow these policies to protect information against loss, non-authorised changes and manipulation.

Protecting Deutsche Bank's assets

Our bank's assets include:

- Physical assets, such as office furnishings, equipment and supplies;
- Technology assets, such as hardware, software and information systems;
- Financial assets, such as cash, securities and credit cards;
- Our bank's name, its brand and its customer relationships;
- Information assets, such as intellectual property, including about products, services, systems and other data.

Our bank's assets should be used only for the conduct of our bank's business, except where otherwise provided by the Code or other bank policies. All physical and technology assets provided by our bank, whether used inside or outside the workplace are our bank's property and associated with your business use. Never sell, lend or give away any such assets, regardless of their condition or value unless you are authorized to do so. In general, you should not use our bank's assets for your personal activities though reasonable personal use is permitted. However, it should not interfere with your business obligations. Any work product created in the course of your work while at our bank is an asset of our bank. Assets including information, presentations, spreadsheets, models, applications, etc., that you create are our bank's property.

Data protection

The collection, use, retrieval and transfer of client information must comply with data protection laws, our policies and any contractual obligations. Client confidentiality – as discussed previously – is critical and you should seek to protect it at all times. You are prohibited from collecting, processing or using personal data unless authorised to do so. Personal data may only be obtained for lawful purposes and should be processed fairly and lawfully. Data should only be maintained for as long as necessary and should be relevant to the purpose for which it is collected. All data must be secured to prevent unauthorised access, alteration, transmission, publication, loss or damage. You must ensure that the competent Data Protection/Privacy Officer is informed of all new plans to process personal data in order to comply with regulatory requirements and avoid reputational risk. Errors, irregularities and breaches should be escalated promptly to your supervisor.

For further information, reference the Data Protection & Privacy Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Records

Maintaining accurate books and records is fundamental to meeting our legal, regulatory and business requirements. You are responsible for maintaining accurate and complete records and for complying with all the controls and policies our bank has in place.

You should never falsify any book, record or account that relates to the business of our bank, its customers, employees (including your own activities within our bank) or suppliers.

You must never dispose of records or information that may be relevant to pending or threatened litigation or a regulatory proceeding unless you are authorised to do so by the Legal Department. You must also comply with applicable record retention policies.

For further information, reference the Records Management Policy - Deutsche Bank Group.

Authority to act

Your authority to act on behalf of our bank is limited by various laws, rules, regulations, corporate charters, by-laws and board resolutions as well as our bank's policies. You need to be aware of those, how they impact your role, and of the responsibilities attached to it. You should never sign any documents or otherwise represent our bank, or authorise any action on our bank's behalf, unless you are specifically authorised and have the required knowledge to do so. You should know the limits of your authority and act within those limits.

Correspondence and documents containing legally binding statements must generally bear two authorized signatures of the bank.

For further information, reference the Internal Governance Policy - Deutsche Bank Group.

Five things to know if you're transferring from an external to an internal Deutsche Bank employee

1. Your Human Resources ID should not change. Everybody at Deutsche Bank has a life-long-ID. Your HR recruiter and Deutsche Bank sponsor/manager should know this when they start the process on Workday. For more information please refer to this Workday training.
2. You will keep all of your DeuBa/DBE/DBG account data, mails, tools, and applications if your change between external and internal employment is immediate (i.e. less than 30 days) and your email address stays the same. Please note: if for some reason or another your email address does need to be changed, data can be retrieved with a "data transfer request" via your line manager and dbsupport+.
3. Should you plan to take a longer break, your Deutsche Bank sponsor/new manager can amend the date via the dbAccessGate portal with an approval of the Chief BISO of your department. For more information please refer to this Workday training. In case of issues: Please open a ticket in dbsupport+ and ask for help from the "IAM_dbAccessGate_Ops"-team. For more help from dbAccessGate please visit their myDB page.
4. Please note that under your employment contract it is not permissible for you to upload any non-public Deutsche Bank data to any personal or non-Deutsche-Bank-compliant sites or databases. Non-compliance with this is a serious breach and may lead to consequences up to the termination of your contract as well as a claim of compensation by Deutsche Bank.
5. Should you need to share information prior to leaving Deutsche Bank as an external, please follow the standard hand over process of saving business sensitive data or messages. Forward any important emails to your Deutsche Bank sponsor/manager, save important messages or documents to your team-SharePoint or to the department file-share/network drive. Please contact dbsupport+ should you be in doubt.

Employment Agreement

Dear Arbaz,

We are pleased to offer you employment on the terms and conditions set out below. Your employment will be with Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd (the "Company"). Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd is a company within the Deutsche Bank AG Group of Companies ("Group").

1. General Information

These terms and conditions outlined in this employment letter ("Agreement") as amended from time to time, together with the Company's "General Terms and Conditions of Service" as laid out in Schedule 1 of this Employment Agreement and as laid out in the Company's India Employee Handbook ("the Handbook"), the Deutsche Bank Group's Code of Conduct and all applicable regulations and policies of the Company, form the basis of your employment.

You are also expected to comply with all other applicable Company's regulations and policies (such as the Company's India Employee Handbook and the Code of Business Conduct and Ethics), and any other policies or procedures specific to your business or infrastructure unit. These policies and requirements are considered by the Company to be reasonable and lawful directions that you are required to comply with under the terms of your employment with the Company. You should therefore familiarize yourself with, and abide by, all applicable Company regulations and policies.

If there are any inconsistencies between the terms of this Employment Agreement and the provisions of the Handbook as at the date of your acceptance of this Employment Agreement, the terms of this Employment Agreement shall prevail. However, please note that any subsequent variations by the Company to any terms, conditions, rules or regulations (including the terms set out in the Handbook) generally governing the members of the Company's staff will prevail and be applicable to you.

2. Position

Your corporate title will be Analyst.

Your functional title will be Graduate Analyst.

Your local grade as per the internal grading system will be Grade 6.

During your employment, you may be required to perform work for other companies within the Group.

3. Employment Location

Your employment will initially be based at Pune, although you may be required to perform your duties at other locations from time to time and to travel on Company's business when the need arises, including overseas.

Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd. (Formerly known as DBGI Global Services) is registered under Registration No. 100, Block B-4, B-5, Level 5, Nitin Knowledge Park, Off. Western Express Highway, Goregaon(East), Mumbai 400 063, India, CIN: U72900MH2005PTC131000

You will be required to work nine (9) hours per day Monday through Friday including a one (1) hour break for lunch. Further, depending on the workload and business requirements, at any given time, you may be required to work in shifts and/or during weekends. You may also be expected to travel to other locations at times outside of your official hours of work. More details are available in the employee handbook.

5. Remuneration

Details of your remuneration and other benefits are provided in Schedule II.

Your salary will be paid in equal installments on a monthly basis directly into your company account. If you join the Company partway through a calendar year, your fixed pay will be pro-rated to reflect the portion of the year that you have started working for the Company.

Any payment of your salary or other sum due to you from the Company will be subject to any and all applicable withholding and/or other taxes payable and the Company will in such case be entitled to deduct or retain the amount of such tax from any sum payable to you. You will be solely responsible to pay all taxes and any other imposts as may be levied or assessed by any competent authority in any jurisdiction on any sums paid and/or other benefits provided to you by the Company.

You agree that the Company may deduct from your remuneration any sums due from you to the Company including, without limitation, your pension contributions (if any) and any overpayments, loans or advances (if applicable) made to you by the Company or any other company in the Group.

6. Notice Period

Corporate Title	Notice Period (in days)
Up to Associate (Local Grade 5)	60
AVP (Local Grade 4) and above	90

The Notice Period changes from 60 days to 90 days upon promotion from local grade 5 to local grade 4, as per the Company policy.

7. Other Conditions

Our offer and your employment are subject to:

- a) You completing, signing and returning the following forms to HR by the applicable date:
 - Personal information form (PIF)
 - Acknowledgement on Information Security
- b) You being free from any obligations owed to a third party which might prevent you from starting work on the commencement date;
- c) The information provided by you in relation to your employment by the Company regarding your background and/or previous employment being complete, accurate and not misleading in all respects and all information obtained by the Company in respect of you being fully satisfactory to the Company; and
- d) You holding or being granted the necessary approvals, regulatory registrations and/or licenses from the appropriate authorities for the performance of your duties (including a valid employment pass or work permit where applicable) prior to the commencement of your employment. Should there be any delay in your being granted such approvals, regulatory registrations and/or licenses (including where applicable an employment pass or a work permit), or should your application(s) in respect of the foregoing be rejected, your employment with the Company cannot commence and the Company will not be liable for any payment to you.

Arbaz Ahmed Addewala

e) You having valid work authorization in India, including any one of the following:

- A valid Indian passport; or
- Voters id; or
- Notarized Nationality Declaration; or
- Overseas Citizen Of India card; or
- Work permit (Employment Visa) in the case of foreign passport holders

It is your responsibility to notify HR sufficiently well in advance in case of any change in your citizenship status or expiry of your work authorization documents.

The Bank reserves the right to alter your terms and conditions of employment at any time, including your duties and responsibilities.

This contract will be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India and the parties agree to submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Indian courts as regards any claim or matter arising under this contract.

Please indicate your acceptance of the above terms and conditions by signing and returning soft copy of this letter. This offer will remain open for your acceptance for 10 days, post which the validity of the offer will be at the discretion of the Company.

Yours sincerely,
Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd

Schedule I: General Terms and Conditions of Service

1. Leaves

(a) Annual Leave - Your annual leave entitlement will be in accordance with the Company policy. The annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated in your first year or in any incomplete year.

(b) Sick Leave - Sick leave will be granted as per Company policy.

(c) Parental Leave and related benefits – The Company offers a gender neutral parental leave policy for new parents to better manage their responsibilities. The leave duration and the benefits mentioned below are in accordance with The Maternity Benefits Act, 1961:

- i. Parental Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver. The mother is assumed to be the primary caregiver of the child
- ii. Adoption/ Surrogacy Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver
- iii. Maternity Expenses: Maternity related medical expenses are provided as per the Group Hospitalization policy

More details on number of days and various types of leaves are available in the Employee Handbook.

2. Termination

(a) Termination with Notice

From the commencement of your employment, the Company or you may terminate your employment by giving a notice in writing for a period as stated in clause "Notice Period" in this Employment Agreement. The Company may choose to terminate your employment immediately or by a period of notice shorter than the stipulated notice period by making a payment to you equal to your fixed pay for all or part of the notice period in lieu of that notice. For the avoidance of doubt, this does not confer any entitlement on your part to receive, nor impose any obligation on the Company, to make such a payment.

If the Company or you have given notice of the termination of your employment, the Company may direct you not to perform any of your duties, to remain away from the Company's premises and/or not to contact clients or other employees of the Company for all or part of the notice period. During this time, you will remain employed by the Company and therefore remain subject to your conditions of employment and you will continue to receive your salary and contractual benefits during the notice period.

(b) Termination without Notice

The Company may terminate your employment immediately and without notice or payment in the event that:

- you are guilty of serious misconduct
- you are guilty of a serious breach of the employment rules as set out in the Handbook
- you breach any fundamental term or condition of your employment
- you intentionally disobey a lawful and reasonable direction of the Company
- you conduct yourself in a way which, in the Company's reasonable opinion, may bring any member of the Group into disrepute
- you are convicted of a serious criminal offence or a criminal offence which, in the Company's opinion, consists of your ability to perform your duties, or
- the results of any background checks or searches conducted by the Company are deemed unsatisfactory to it in its absolute discretion.

(c) Consequences of Termination of your Employment

If your employment is terminated for any reason:

- a) before you leave the Company, you must return all of the Company's property and confidential information and you must not retain any copies, extracts or reproductions of all or any part of that property or confidential information;
- b) you will continue to be bound by your employment obligations to the Company relating to the Company's confidential information and Intellectual Property (as defined in the Intellectual Property clause below);
- c) you must not make any statements (whether verbally or in writing) or do anything which might damage the reputation of the Group or interfere with the Group's relationships with its clients and customers; and
- d) you will resign from all or any offices which you may hold as a director or otherwise with the Company or a Group company and from all other appointments or offices which you hold as nominee or representative thereof. If you fail to do so within seven days from the termination of your employment, the Company is irrevocably authorized to appoint another person in your name and on your behalf to do any acts or things necessary or desirable to effect the same.

(d) Retirement Age

The age of retirement with the Company is completion of 62 years.

(e) Non-Solicitation Obligations

During the course of your employment and after the termination of your employment, you shall be subject to the terms and covenants as set out below.

As you are likely to obtain in the course of your employment with the Company, trade secrets and/or other confidential information and since you have and/or are likely to obtain during the course of your employment with the Company personal knowledge and influence over customers and clients of the Company, for the protection by the Group of its businesses and, in particular, its confidential information, customer and client connections and the maintenance of a stable workforce, you agree and covenant with the Company and the Group collectively as set out below.

I. Non-Solicitation

- A. you shall not during your employment and during a period of twelve (12) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit or entice away or endeavor to solicit or entice away or assist any other person, whether by means of the supply of names or expressing views on suitability or otherwise howsoever to solicit or entice away, from the Group any individual:-
 - a. who is an employee or director of any member of the Group (of Grades 1 to 4 in accordance with the Group's internal grading structure or the equivalent category of employees under the Group's internal grading structure as amended from time to time); or
 - b. who is contracted to render services to the Company and/ or any member of the Group; and in either case with whom you have had business dealings during the twelve month period immediately preceding the termination of your employment with the Company, whether or not such person would commit a breach of contract by reason of his leaving service.

Arbaz Ahmed Addewala

- B. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit, interfere with or entice away or attempt to solicit, interfere with or entice away any person who is a Restricted Client; and
- C. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person have business dealings, directly or indirectly, with any person who is a Restricted Client
- D. However, you are not prohibited by any of these restrictions from seeking or doing business with a Restricted Client that is not in direct or indirect competition with the Restricted Business

For the purposes of paragraphs 1(B) to 1(D) above, Restricted Business means the activities of the operating division or company of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services; and Restricted Client means any person, firm or company who or which on the date of termination of your employment or at any time during the twelve-month period immediately prior to the date of termination was a client or customer of the Group in respect of the Restricted Business and with whom or with which during that period you have had business dealings.

- II. You agree that having regard to the facts and matters set out above the covenants herein contained are reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the Bank's legitimate interest including the trade secrets and/or other confidential information of the Bank/Company and the Group
- III. You acknowledge that the breach of any of the restrictions specified in paragraph 1 above by you will cause irreparable injury to the Company and/or the Group which could not be adequately compensated in monetary damages and shall entitle the Bank and/or the Group to all equitable remedies, including without limitation injunctive relief, specific performance and restraining orders. Equitable relief shall be in addition to all other remedies available to the Company and/or the Group
- IV. The benefit of each agreement and obligation set out above may be assigned to and enforced by all successors or assignee for the time-being carrying on the business of the Group and such agreements and obligations shall operate and remain binding notwithstanding the termination of your employment
- V. If any provision of these obligations after employment are determined to be illegal or unenforceable by any court of law or any competent governmental or other authority, the remaining obligations and the remainder of your contract of employment shall be severable and enforceable in accordance with their terms so long as your contract of employment without such terms or provisions does not fail of its essential purpose. You and the Company shall negotiate in good faith to replace any such illegal or unenforceable provisions with suitable substitute provisions, which will maintain as far as possible their purposes and the effect. If so required by the Company, you also agree to enter into separate covenants with any member of the Group to which you are assigned and to which you provide your services in a form identical to the covenants set out in this section in order to protect the legitimate business interests of the Group
- VI. For the purposes of this section, the Company is entering into these restrictions with you on its own behalf and as agent for and/or as trustee of the business of the relevant member of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services

VII. Notification of Restrictions

You agree that in the event of your receiving from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not) either during the continuance of your employment with the Company or during the continuance in force of all or any of the restrictions set out above you shall forthwith provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the post-termination restrictions set out above including details of any variations to them agreed with you on an individual basis; and if the offer is accepted, inform the Company of the identity of the person making the offer.

VIII. During and after the termination of your employment, you will not without the express written consent of the Company disclose or use any confidential information relating to the business or affairs of the Company or any company within the Group, or its or their clients, including without limitation lists of clients, suppliers and employees, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company or any entity within the Group.

3. Other Employment

You will not engage in any other remunerative employment or accept any appointment as a director of any company outside the Group without the Company's prior written approval and, unless otherwise agreed by the Company in writing, all fees or other remuneration in respect of any such appointment will be for the account of the Company.

You will not during your employment be directly or indirectly engaged or concerned in the conduct of any business other than the business of the Group without the prior permission of the Company.

4. Compliance

The Company's rules, regulations and directions relating to employees, including the Group's Code of Conduct, which are now or may hereafter be in force, will apply to you and will be strictly complied with by you. You should therefore acquaint yourself with all Company rules and policies, which are applicable to you.

In particular, the Company attaches great importance to security, compliance and fair dealing procedures and your attention is drawn to the rules set out in the Group's Compliance Policies. You may be asked to disclose information as deemed necessary to comply with local regulatory requirements arising from the Company's business activities (including records relating to investments held by you and your connected persons), or which are otherwise consistent with market best practices of the Company.

Where applicable, you will also be expected to comply with any local compliance requirements of our overseas offices and all requirements (including any professional qualifications and standards of conduct) for obtaining and maintaining the necessary registration and license (or such exemption from registration and license) for the performance of your duties. A breach of the Group's Compliance policies or local compliance rules is a disciplinary offence that may justify summary dismissal.

In addition, you will at all times be conversant with and comply with any rules and regulations applicable to your specific area of work, such as (where applicable) the local Rules, Regulations and By-Laws. Violation of any of these rules, regulations or provisions may result in the immediate termination of your employment.

5. Confidentiality

During your employment by the Company, you may learn trade secrets or confidential information, which relates to the Company and the Group. Unless you are required to do so in the proper performance of your duties, you must not:

- divulge or communicate to any person;
- use for your own purposes or for any purposes other than those of the Company or, as appropriate, any of its clients; or
- cause any unauthorized disclosure, through any failure to exercise due care and attention, of any trade secrets or confidential information relating to the Company (or any of the Group) or any of its or their clients. You must at all times use your best endeavors to prevent publication or disclosure of any trade secrets or confidential information

Confidential information includes but is not limited to lists of clients, suppliers, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company or any other company within the Group.

If you are unsure about the confidential nature of specific information, you must seek your manager's advice and clarification. You will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including summary dismissal for any unauthorized disclosure of confidential information belonging to or related to the Company or any Group company. You understand and agree that your obligation of confidentiality survives termination of your employment.

You will promptly on demand or in any event upon when you cease to be an employee of the Company, return all confidential information including but not limited to documents, records, computer disks or other property in your possession or under your control belonging to the Company or any Group company or the clients thereof and you will not retain any copies thereafter.

In the same way that the Company's and its Group's confidential information must be kept confidential, the Company expects you to keep confidential the confidential information of your previous employers. During your employment with the Company, you must not use proprietary material, trade secrets or other highly confidential information or property obtained by you because of any prior employment without written authorization from the relevant organization.

6. Intellectual Property

For the purposes of this agreement, "Intellectual Property Rights" means any and all existing and future intellectual or industrial property rights (whether registered or unregistered) including, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, all existing and future patents, copyrights, design rights, database rights, trade marks, Internet rights/domain names, know-how, confidential information and any and all applications for any of the foregoing and any and all rights to apply for any of the foregoing.

During your employment with the Company, you may either alone or in conjunction with others, generate or assist in the generation of documents, materials, designs, drawings, processes, formulae, computer coding, methodologies, confidential information and other works which relate to the business of the Company or any Group company or which are capable of being used or adapted for use therein or in connection therewith ("Works") and you agree that in respect of any such Works and all Intellectual Property Rights in relation thereto, you are obliged to further the interests of the Company and any Group company. Both the Works and the related Intellectual Property Rights will belong to and be the absolute property of the Company or any other person the Company may nominate.

You must immediately disclose to your Business Head all works and all related Intellectual Property Rights. You are required to assist the company and fully cooperate with it in every way to enforce the Company's right to execute whatever documents may be required to provide the Company with full ownership thereof.

7. Accountability

You shall properly, diligently and honestly perform all the duties, which the Company may assign to you from time to time and shall faithfully account for and deliver to the Company all monies, securities or other property belonging to the Company, which may come into your possession, custody or control.

8. Data Protection

By signing this statement, you acknowledge and agree that the Company is permitted to hold personal information about you as part of its personnel and other business records, and that the Company may use such information in the course of the Company's business. Please note that this may include transfer and storage of your personal information at offshore data storage facilities.

You agree that the Company may disclose information about you to other Group companies or third parties (including cross border transfers) if the Company considers that to do so is required for the proper conduct of the Company's business or that of any of its associates. This Clause applies to information held, used or disclosed in any medium.

Schedule II*1. Remuneration and Allowance Details

- a) Basic Salary: Your Basic Salary will be INR 600,000 per annum, payable monthly.
- b) Flexi Basket: Your Flexi Basket will be INR 900,000 per annum.
- c) Fixed Pay: Your Fixed Pay, which consists of your Basic Salary and Flexi Basket, will be INR 1,500,000 per annum.
- d) Retirals:

- i. Provident Fund: The Company/Bank will make a contribution towards your Provident Fund as per the requirements of the Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952.

If you are an International Worker or during your employment lifecycle, if you become an international worker by dint of having attained a citizenship of another country, your Provident Fund contribution will be computed on your Fixed Pay minus allowances allocated for specific purposes e.g. housing, car, leave travel, etc. The exact amount of the Provident Fund contribution will be determined basis your Flexi Basket allocations post your joining the Company/Bank, and the same may also vary basis changes in your Flexi Pay allocations in line with the statutory provisions.

You will also be required to make an equal contribution towards your Provident Fund.

- ii. Gratuity: Gratuity will accrue as per requirements of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972

Flexi Basket

You can select your own benefit(s) as per your personal preference from a wide range of benefits that are applicable for your grade.

The different Flexi Basket options currently available across grades include House Rent Allowance, Meal Coupons (Sodexo), Leave Travel Allowance, Learning Development Allowance, Children Education Allowance and Children Hostel Allowance. Other Flexi Basket benefits like Fuel for Personal Car and benefits under Car Lease scheme are available at select grades.

You can make necessary allocations towards your selected benefits from the Flexi Basket, as per policy guidelines. The amount in Flexi Basket that remains unallocated, i.e., not utilized towards any benefit, will be paid to you in cash, through monthly payroll net of taxes in the form of Balance Supplementary Allowance.

On joining, you will be invited to make your Flexi Basket election on the Deutsche Bank intranet (HR Online). You will receive an email from TM Payroll within 4-6 weeks of your joining explaining the election process and timelines. If you do not receive this election email within 6 weeks of your joining, please write to hrdirect at hr.direct@db.com and also notify your HR Business Advisor immediately.

Further details on Flexi Basket are available in the Handbook. Please refer to the Handbook or get in touch with your HR Business Advisor for a detailed list and the policies governing the provision of benefits.

If you join the Company part-way through a calendar or fiscal year, your Basic Salary and Flexi Benefits will be pro-rated, as applicable, to reflect the period of your service with the Company in the relevant year. Any payment of your salary or other sum due to you from the Company will be subject to any and all applicable withholding and/or other taxes payable and the Company will in such case be entitled to deduct or retain the amount of such tax from any sum payable to you. You will be solely responsible to pay all taxes and any other imposts as may be levied or assessed by any competent authority in any jurisdiction on any sums paid and/or other benefits provided to you by the Company.

You agree that the Company may deduct from your remuneration any sums due from you to the Company including, without limitation, your pension contributions (if any) and any overpayments, loans or advances made to you by the Company or any other company in the Group.

2. Variable Compensation

(a) Discretionary Variable Compensation

All employees are eligible to be considered for annual Discretionary Variable Compensation subject to the provisions set out below and the Variable Compensation Guiding Principles as each of these may be reviewed and amended from time to time at the discretion of the Company.

Dependent on your corporate title for the relevant performance year, you may be considered for Discretionary Variable Compensation based on a number of factors including but not limited to (in no particular order of importance) the performance of the Company and, as applicable, the specific contribution of its component business units, your individual personal contribution and the need to retain you in employment within the Company.

Based on your current corporate title, your eligibility for Discretionary Variable Compensation will be referred to as "Group Variable Compensation". Group Variable Compensation is discretionary variable compensation which is dependent on DB Group performance and is assessed and awarded in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company. You are not currently eligible to be considered for any Individual Variable Compensation. You may however be nominated for a Recognition Award.

Generally, Discretionary Variable Compensation is determined in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company and may be made wholly or partly in cash, restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or such other form as the Company may decide. The Company reserves the right to deliver a percentage (up to 100%) of all Discretionary Variable Compensation under, and subject to, any applicable DB compensation plans (restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide) that are in effect on the date Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded. Such plans may provide for forfeiture of awards under such plans in certain circumstances. Discretionary Variable Compensation may be awarded or paid in any currency at the Company's discretion.

Your Discretionary Variable Compensation, including any restricted compensation awards and cash amounts awarded to you, are subject to the global and regional compensation policies and applicable regulation as well as any applicable clawback provisions, which may require you to repay any awards or cash amounts delivered and paid to you.

For the avoidance of doubt, you do not have a contractual entitlement to receive Discretionary Variable Compensation and any such Discretionary Variable Compensation in a given year will be at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Moreover, you will not receive Discretionary Variable Compensation if (for whatever reason) on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded in a given year, you are not employed within the Company or if you are under notice to terminate your employment (whether notice was given by you or the Company) or if the Company considers your performance or conduct to have been unsatisfactory.

Arbaz Ahmed Addewala

If, on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is usually communicated and/or paid, you are subject to an investigation that may result in disciplinary (or other) action being taken against you, consideration of whether you are eligible for, and payment of, any Discretionary Variable Compensation will be delayed until the conclusion of that investigation and, if relevant, any subsequent disciplinary (or other) procedure. Although, for the avoidance of doubt, you will not be eligible for consideration of a Discretionary Variable Compensation if, at the conclusion of the disciplinary (or other) procedure, you are given notice of termination of employment.

You should note that if you work in a number of locations, generally for the purposes of tax reporting and withholding, the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded to you will be apportioned between the locations you have worked in during the relevant period. Depending on individual circumstances, participants may become subject to multiple withholding taxes including double taxation. By accepting this offer, you agree to comply with any arrangements specified by the Company for the payment of any taxation (in any jurisdiction) by virtue of the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation or portion thereof.

Any portion of Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded as a cash payment will usually be paid in March through the normal monthly payroll. Discretionary Variable Compensation in any other form, including an award under a DB compensation plan (restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide), will be payable when such awards vest and will be delivered in accordance with the applicable DB compensation plan rules and Award Statement(s).

3. Cash Sign-On Award

You will receive a one-off cash award, a "Sign-On Award," in the amount of INR 300,000. Payment of your Sign-On Award will be made in INR in the next available payroll after the later of (i) the commencement of your employment with the Company, and (ii) the date on which all conditions of this offer (as detailed in this letter) are satisfied. Any payments in relation to your Sign-On Award will be made less any deductions for tax and social security contributions as the Company may be required to withhold.

The Sign-On Award is subject to all requirements of, and will be structured to comply with, the Institutsvergütungsverordnung (InstitutsVergV) and any regional regulation that is applicable (as may be amended from time to time) including (amongst other provisions) the regulatory requirements set out in the Section 7 of the InstitutsVergV (as may be amended from time to time).

You will be required to repay the gross amount of the Sign-On Award if:

- the payment is made before you satisfy all the conditions of this offer and within six months of such payment being made to you, you subsequently fail to satisfy all or any of them, or
- you give notice to terminate your employment with the Company or you are dismissed for misconduct or capability within twelve months of the date the payment is made.

By accepting this offer you consent to the deduction of the gross amount of the payment of any Sign-On Award made to you from your salary or any emoluments or awards arising from your employment if the Sign-On Award becomes repayable to the Company in the above circumstances. If these are insufficient to recover the whole of the gross amount of the Sign-On Award, you agree to repay any remaining amount to the Company within 30 days.

4. Relocation

(a) Relocation Benefits

In accordance with the terms and conditions of appointment and if need arises out of job responsibility, employee is liable to relocate between various locations within India at the discretion of the Company. The relocation assistance is designed to assist employees in the new location.

Please refer to Employee Handbook for more details.

(b) Claw back of Relocation Benefits

If your employment is terminated (voluntarily i.e. by your resignation or involuntarily i.e. termination for a cause), within twelve (12) months from the employment commencement date at the new location, you will be required to pay back the cost borne by the Company (at gross) on account of the relocation i.e. travel, stay, and other relocation benefits, on a prorate basis. For every full month of service post relocation, the recovery will reduce by 1/12th the total recoverable amount. The above provisions will not apply in case of redundancy.

5. Confirmation on Exam

We understand that you are yet to appear for your final examinations/ backlog of examinations, if any. Basis the university / college schedule, you will complete the examinations and upon the results of the said examinations being declared, you will provide us with copies of the supporting documents thereof immediately or within 90 days of joining us, whichever is earlier. Any delay or failure in providing the documents mentioned, will lead to your employment agreement being terminated. If for any reason, you are not able to provide us with copies of the documents afore mentioned within the timelines mentioned, you will inform us of the reasons for such delays and also provide us with the estimated timelines within which time copies of the said documents will be made available to us. Should you fail to provide us with copies of the documents within the extended time lines, the organization will be entitled to terminate your employment with immediate effect.

Reference Total Compensation Statement

Name Arbaz Ahmed Addewala
Location Pune

This statement is intended to inform you of your 2023 Reference Total Compensation, as defined herein. If you have any questions about this information, please contact your manager.

Your annualised Reference Total Compensation shall be INR 1,562,500 (based on a full-time working week and on the basis that you have been in employment for the entirety of the relevant performance year (1 January-31 December)). Your actual Total Compensation for the relevant performance year will be based on, among other things, your actual working arrangements for that performance year.

Reference Total Compensation describes the reference value of annual Fixed Pay and Variable Compensation for an employee who remains eligible for Variable Compensation at the time Variable Compensation is made for the relevant year when all performance expectations on Group, divisional and, individual levels, as applicable, are determined to have been satisfied by the Company in its sole discretion and subject to the Group's affordability.

Reference Total Compensation is not, and should not be viewed as, any promise or guarantee to pay any particular level of Variable Compensation or Total Compensation. The actual Total Compensation may vary from (and be more or less than) Reference Total Compensation. Reference Total Compensation will be reviewed each year in the sole discretion of the Company.

For the avoidance of doubt, employees do not have a contractual entitlement to receive any Variable Compensation. Variable Compensation is determined at the absolute discretion of the Company (including, without limitation to, employee's conduct and performance) and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Employees must continue to be employed by the Company and not be under notice of termination of employment (for any reason and whether given by the Company or the individual) at the relevant date that Variable Compensation is awarded.

ALL COMPENSATION INFORMATION (INCLUDING THE INFORMATION IN THIS STATEMENT) IS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

The term of your internship will be for a period of 5 Months, commencing on January 19, 2023 and ending on June 16, 2023. For the avoidance of doubt, the terms and conditions of internship set out herein will be effective from the date you commence your internship with BNPP.

2. Internship Allowance

2.1 You will receive an Internship allowance of INR 50,000 (less applicable deductions) per calendar month (pro-rated for any incomplete month of internship). You acknowledge and agree that you will not receive any other benefit (in cash or in kind) from BNPP.

2.2 You may be permitted, at the discretion of BNPP, to be absent from your internship for urgent personal reasons for a period not exceeding 10 working days, and no deduction from your internship allowance will be made provided you have obtained prior written permission from BNPP for such absence. For the avoidance of doubt, deduction from your internship allowance will be made in respect of any unauthorized absence.

3. Place of Internship

Your place of internship will be at our offices in Mumbai or such other location(s) within India as BNPP may require from time to time. During the course of your internship with BNPP, you may be assigned to any current or future divisions or departments of BNPP or its affiliates. You may also be required to travel within India or overseas as BNPP may request from time to time.

4. Hours of Internship

4.1 Your core internship hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday to Friday (including half an hour lunch break). Your normal rest day will be Sunday (or such other day scheduled as a rest day). Saturday will normally be a contractual day off (unless an alternative contractual day off is scheduled). BNPP reserves the right to adjust the internship hours at its discretion.

4.2 From time to time you may be required to perform your internship duties outside the abovementioned core hours in order to meet our business needs and your individual objectives. You acknowledge and agree that you will not receive additional payment for any internship duties you perform outside of the aforementioned core hours.

Mr. Q
for 1st

5. Confidentiality Obligations

- 5.1 At any time during your internship with BNPP and after termination of your internship with BNPP, you must not, without the prior written consent of BNPP, disclose or make use of any confidential information (as defined below) relating or belonging to BNPP or any of its affiliates, or their customers or clients.

"Confidential information" means details of customers and their requirements, details of suppliers and their terms of business, the prices charged to and terms of business with customers, marketing plans and sales forecasts, financial information, results and forecasts (save to the extent that these are included in published audited accounts), any proposals relating to the acquisition or disposal of a company or business or any part thereof or to any proposed expansion or contraction of activities, details of employees and officers and of the remuneration and other benefits paid to them, information relating to research activities, formulae and product lines, know-how, any information which you are told is confidential and any information which has been given to BNPP or any of its affiliates in confidence by customers, suppliers or other persons.

- 5.2 All notes, memoranda, records, lists of customers and suppliers and employees, correspondence, documents, computer and other discs and tapes, data listings, codes, designs and drawings and other documents and material whatsoever (whether made or created by you or otherwise) relating to the business of BNPP or any of its affiliates, and any copies of the same:

- (a) Shall be and remain the property of BNPP or the relevant affiliate; and
- (b) Shall be returned to BNPP or the relevant affiliate on demand and in any event upon termination of your internship.

- 5.3 All developments, productions, written work, inventions and improvements of inventions, whether patentable or not, made by you or to which you would have contributed in the course of your internship, and all industrial and intellectual property rights and copyrights made by you or to which you would have contributed in the course of your internship shall be and remain the exclusive property of BNPP or the relevant affiliate, and to the extent necessary you assign any potential rights relating thereto to BNPP. This includes without limitation all research and research products, "know-how" developed in whatever form and systems developments.

6. Restrictions on Intern

- 6.1 During your internship with BNPP and for a period of 6 months after the termination of your internship with BNPP, you must not, without the prior written consent of BNPP, directly or indirectly and whether on your own behalf or in conjunction with or on behalf of any other person:

- (a) solicit, engage, or otherwise endeavour to entice away any employees or agents of BNPP or any of its affiliates, or induce or persuade any such persons to cease working for, or representing, or doing business with BNPP or any of its affiliates;
- (b) canvass, solicit, contact or approach any BNPP's or any of its affiliates' clients, customers, suppliers or agents with whom or which you had dealings in the course of your internship with BNPP during the period of 12 months immediately preceding the date of termination of your internship, or have any business dealings with any such clients, customers, suppliers or agents.

- 6.2 You agree that the restrictions contained in clause 6.1 above are reasonable and necessary for the protection of the legitimate interests of BNPP and its affiliates; however, in the event that any such restrictions are held to be void but would be valid if part of their wording were deleted or the period of application reduced or the geographical scope narrowed, such restrictions shall apply with such modification as may be necessary to make it valid or effective.

- 6.3 The restrictions set out in clause 6 shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of this Agreement for any reason whatsoever.

7. Termination

- 7.1 BNPP may terminate this Agreement by giving 15 days' prior written notice or payment in lieu of 15 days' notice to you.
- 7.2 You may terminate this Agreement by giving 15 days' prior written notice to BNPP. In the event of your resignation, BNPP may terminate your internship immediately by making a payment in lieu of the remaining notice period.
- 7.3 Nothing in this Agreement shall otherwise limit either party's right to terminate this Agreement with or without notice in accordance with applicable laws.

8. Other Conditions

8.1 You acknowledge and agree that during your internship with BNPP:

- (a) You must not (save with the prior written consent of BNPP) directly or indirectly, and whether on your own behalf or in conjunction with or on behalf of any other person, be employed, engaged, concerned or interested in any other business or occupation, whether within India or elsewhere; and
 - (b) You must not act in conflict with BNPP's best interests or your obligations to BNPP. If you become aware of any actual or potential conflict of interest, you must immediately disclose such conflict of interest to BNPP.
- 8.2 You acknowledge and agree that you shall be wholly and solely responsible for fulfilling all your tax obligations, including without limitation declaration and payment of all taxes arising from your professional and personal income, wherever and whenever they arise.
- 8.3 BNPP reserves the right to vary any terms and conditions of your internship from time to time, to the extent permitted under applicable laws. You are required to comply with the Code of Conduct, compliance policies, and any other applicable policies, procedures and guidelines as issued and/or amended by BNPP from time to time. Application of such policies, procedures and guidelines is at BNPP's discretion, and BNPP reserves the right to change, amend, supplement, withdraw or discontinue its policies, procedures and guidelines at its discretion in accordance with applicable laws. You are responsible for keeping yourself up-to-date with the latest version of these policies, procedures and guidelines.

9. Data Privacy

You consent to BNPP and any of its affiliates holding and processing the data it collects in relation to you in the course of your internship, for the purpose of BNPP's administration and management of its staff and its business and for compliance with applicable laws, regulations and procedures, and to the transfer, storage and processing of such data in and outside India.

Please refer to BNPP's Privacy Policy Statement & Personal Information Collection Statement for further details relating to data privacy.

10. Third Party Rights

No one other than a party to this Agreement shall have any right to enforce any of its terms.

11. Entire Agreement

This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between you and BNPP, and shall supersede any prior written or oral agreement or understanding between you and BNPP in relation to the matters dealt with herein. You acknowledge and agree that you are not entering into this Agreement in reliance on any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly set out in this Agreement. No variations to the terms of this Agreement will be valid unless they are authorized in writing by BNPP.

12. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This Agreement and all aspects of your internship shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. In the event of any dispute, the matter shall be resolved in India and you shall submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of location as mentioned in clause 3.

This offer is conditional upon the following terms and may be withdrawn or rescinded without liability on the part of BNPP should any or all of them not be satisfied.

- BNPP receives satisfactory references about you from your college;
- You successfully complete background checks to the satisfaction of BNPP. In the event any matter is identified pursuant to such background checks which requires the consent of any regulatory authority, the offer is also subject to such consent;
- You will not be in breach of any contractual obligation from any other persons and are available to commence internship with BNPP on or before the commencement date mentioned in clause 1; and
- Your agreement to abide by the prescribed policies, procedures and guidelines of BNPP, as notified to you from time to time.

Please signify your agreement to the above by signing and returning the enclosed copy of this letter. This offer will be valid for 7 days from the date of this letter and will lapse if you have not returned an original signed copy of this letter to us on or before such expiry date.

Yours sincerely,
For and on behalf of Employment Agreement

Dear Yash,

We are pleased to offer you employment on the terms and conditions set out below. Your employment will be with Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd (the "Company"). Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd is a company within the Deutsche Bank AG Group of Companies ("Group").

1. General Information

These terms and conditions outlined in this employment letter ("Agreement") as amended from time to time, together with the Company's "General Terms and Conditions of Service" as laid out in Schedule 1 of this Employment Agreement and as laid out in the Company's India Employee Handbook ("the Handbook"), the Deutsche Bank Group's Code of Conduct and all applicable regulations and policies of the Company, form the basis of your employment.

You are also expected to comply with all other applicable Company's regulations and policies (such as the Company's India Employee Handbook and the Code of Business Conduct and Ethics), and any other policies or procedures specific to your business or infrastructure unit. These policies and requirements are considered by the Company to be reasonable and lawful directions that you are required to comply with under the terms of your employment with the Company. You should therefore familiarize yourself with, and abide by, all applicable Company regulations and policies.

If there are any inconsistencies between the terms of this Employment Agreement and the provisions of the Handbook as at the date of your acceptance of this Employment Agreement, the terms of this Employment Agreement shall prevail. However, please note that any subsequent variations by the Company to any terms, conditions, rules or regulations (including the terms set out in the Handbook) generally governing the members of the Company's staff will prevail and be applicable to you.

2. Position

Your corporate title will be Analyst.

Your functional title will be Graduate Analyst.

Your local grade as per the internal grading system will be Grade 6.

During your employment, you may be required to perform work for other companies within the Group.

3. Employment Location

Your employment will initially be based at Pune, although you may be required to perform your duties at other locations from time to time and to travel on Company's business when the need arises, including overseas.

4. Hours of Work

You will be required to work nine (9) hours per day Monday through Friday including a one (1) hour break for lunch. Further, depending on the workload and business requirements, at any given time, you may be required to work in shifts and/or during weekends. You may also be expected to travel to other locations at times outside of your official hours of work. More details are available in the employee handbook.

5. Remuneration

Details of your remuneration and other benefits are provided in Schedule II.

Your salary will be paid in equal installments on a monthly basis directly into your company account. If you join the Company partway through a calendar year, your fixed pay will be pro-rated to reflect the portion of the year that you have started working for the Company.

Any payment of your salary or other sum due to you from the Company will be subject to any and all applicable withholding and/or other taxes payable and the Company will in such case be entitled to deduct or retain the amount of such tax from any sum payable to you. You will be solely responsible to pay all taxes and any other imposts as may be levied or assessed by any competent authority in any jurisdiction on any sums paid and/or other benefits provided to you by the Company.

You agree that the Company may deduct from your remuneration any sums due from you to the Company including, without limitation, your pension contributions (if any) and any overpayments, loans or advances (if applicable) made to you by the Company or any other company in the Group.

6. Notice Period

Corporate Title	Notice Period (in days)
Up to Associate (Local Grade 5)	60
AVP (Local Grade 4) and above	90

The Notice Period changes from 60 days to 90 days upon promotion from local grade 5 to local grade 4, as per the Company policy.

7. Other Conditions

Our offer and your employment are subject to:

- a) You completing, signing and returning the following forms to HR by the applicable date:
 - Personal Information Form (PIF)
 - Acknowledgement on Information Security
- b) You being free from any obligations owed to a third party which might prevent you from starting work on the commencement date;
- c) The information provided by you in relation to your employment by the Company regarding your background and/or previous employment being complete, accurate and not misleading in all respects and all information obtained by the Company in respect of you being fully satisfactory to the Company; and
- d) You holding or being granted the necessary approvals, regulatory registrations and/or licenses from the appropriate authorities for the performance of your duties (including a valid employment pass or work permit where applicable) prior to the commencement of your employment. Should there be any delay in your being granted such approvals, regulatory registrations and/or licenses (including where applicable an employment pass or a work permit), or should your application(s) in respect of the foregoing be rejected, your employment with the Company cannot commence and the Company will not be liable for any payment to you.

(c) Parental Leave and related benefits - The Company offers a gender neutral parental leave policy for new parents to better manage their responsibilities. The leave duration and the benefits mentioned below are in accordance with The Maternity Benefits Act, 1961:

- i. Parental Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver. The mother is assumed to be the primary caregiver of the child
- ii. Adoption/ Surrogacy Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver
- iii. Maternity Expenses: Maternity related medical expenses are provided as per the Group Hospitalization policy

More details on number of days and various types of leaves are available in the Employee Handbook.

2. Termination

(a) Termination with Notice

From the commencement of your employment, the Company or you may terminate your employment by giving a notice in writing for a period as stated in clause "Notice Period" in this Employment Agreement. The Company may choose to terminate your employment immediately or by a period of notice shorter than the stipulated notice period by making a payment to you equal to your fixed pay for all or part of the notice period in lieu of that notice. For the avoidance of doubt, this does not confer any entitlement on your part to receive, nor impose any obligation on the Company, to make such a payment.

If the Company or you have given notice of the termination of your employment, the Company may direct you not to perform any of your duties, to remain away from the Company's premises and/or not to contact clients or other employees of the Company for all or part of the notice period. During this time, you will remain employed by the Company and therefore remain subject to your conditions of employment and you will continue to receive your salary and contractual benefits during the notice period.

(b) Termination without Notice

The Company may terminate your employment immediately and without notice or payment in the event that:

- you are guilty of serious misconduct
- you are guilty of a serious breach of the employment rules as set out in the Handbook
- you breach any fundamental term or condition of your employment
- you intentionally disobey a lawful and reasonable direction of the Company
- you conduct yourself in a way which, in the Company's reasonable opinion, may bring any member of the Group into disrepute
- you are convicted of a serious criminal offence or a criminal offence which, in the Company's opinion, consists of your ability to perform your duties, or
- the results of any background checks or searches conducted by the Company are deemed unsatisfactory to it in its absolute discretion.

(c) Consequences of Termination of your Employment

If your employment is terminated for any reason:

- a) before you leave the Company, you must return all of the Company's property and confidential information and you must not retain any copies, extracts or reproductions of all or any part of that property or confidential information;
- b) you will continue to be bound by your employment obligations to the Company relating to the Company's confidential information and Intellectual Property (as defined in the Intellectual Property clause below);
- c) you must not make any statements (whether verbally or in writing) or do anything which might damage the reputation of the Group or interfere with the Group's relationships with its clients and customers; and
- d) you will resign from all or any offices which you may hold as a director or otherwise with the Company or a Group company and from all other appointments or offices which you hold as nominee or representative thereof. If you fail to do so within seven days from the termination of your employment, the Company is irrevocably authorized to appoint another person in your name and on your behalf to do any acts or things necessary or desirable to effect the same.

(d) Retirement Age

The age of retirement with the Company is completion of 62 years.

(e) Non-Solicitation Obligations

During the course of your employment and after the termination of your employment, you shall be subject to the terms and covenants as set out below.

As you are likely to obtain in the course of your employment with the Company, trade secrets and/or other confidential information and since you have and/or are likely to obtain during the course of your employment with the Company personal knowledge and influence over customers and clients of the Company, for the protection by the Group of its businesses and, in particular, its confidential information, customer and client connections and the maintenance of a stable workforce, you agree and covenant with the Company and the Group collectively as set out below.

i. Non-Solicitation

- A. you shall not during your employment and during a period of twelve (12) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit or entice away or endeavor to solicit or entice away or assist any other person, whether by means of the supply of names or expressing views on suitability or otherwise howsoever to solicit or entice away, from the Group any individual:-
 - a. who is an employee or director of any member of the Group (of Grades 1 to 4 in accordance with the Group's internal grading structure or the equivalent category of employees under the Group's internal grading structure as amended from time to time); or
 - b. who is contracted to render services to the Company and/ or any member of the Group, and in either case with whom you have had business dealings during the twelve month period immediately preceding the termination of your employment with the Company, whether or not any such person would commit a breach of contract by reason of his leaving service.

- B. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit, interfere with or entice away or attempt to solicit, interfere with or entice away any person who is a Restricted Client; and
- C. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person have business dealings, directly or indirectly, with any person who is a Restricted Client.
- D. However, you are not prohibited by any of these restrictions from seeking or doing business with a Restricted Client that is not in direct or indirect competition with the Restricted Business

For the purposes of paragraphs 1(B) to 1(D) above, Restricted Business means the activities of the operating division or company of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services; and Restricted Client means any person, firm or company who or which on the date of termination of your employment or at any time during the twelve-month period immediately prior to the date of termination was a client or customer of the Group in respect of the Restricted Business and with whom or with which during that period you have had business dealings.

- II. You agree that having regard to the facts and matters set out above the covenants herein contained are reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the Bank's legitimate interest including the trade secrets and/or other confidential information of the Bank/Company and the Group.
- III. You acknowledge that the breach of any of the restrictions specified in paragraph 1 above by you will cause irreparable injury to the Company and/or the Group which could not be adequately compensated in monetary damages and shall entitle the Bank and/or the Group to all equitable remedies, including without limitation injunctive relief, specific performance and restraining orders. Equitable relief shall be in addition to all other remedies available to the Company and/or the Group.
- IV. The benefit of each agreement and obligation set out above may be assigned to and enforced by all successors or assignee for the time-being carrying on the business of the Group and such agreements and obligations shall operate and remain binding notwithstanding the termination of your employment.
- V. If any provision of these obligations after employment are determined to be illegal or unenforceable by any court of law or any competent governmental or other authority, the remaining obligations and the remainder of your contract of employment shall be severable and enforceable in accordance with their terms so long as your contract of employment without such terms or provisions does not fail of its essential purpose. You and the Company shall negotiate in good faith to replace any such illegal or unenforceable provisions with suitable substitute provisions, which will maintain as far as possible their purposes and the effect. If so required by the Company, you also agree to enter into separate covenants with any member of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services in a form identical to the covenants set out in this section in order to protect the legitimate business interests of the Group.
- VI. For the purposes of this section, the Company is entering into these restrictions with you on its own behalf and as agent for and/or as trustee of the business of the relevant member of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services.

VII. Notification of Restrictions

You agree that in the event of your receiving from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not) either during the continuance of your employment with the Company or during the continuance in force of all or any of the restrictions set out above you shall forthwith provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the post-termination restrictions set out above including details of any variations to them agreed with you on an individual basis; and if the offer is accepted, inform the Company of the identity of the person making the offer.

VIII. During and after the termination of your employment, you will not without the express written consent of the Company disclose or use any confidential information relating to the business or affairs of the Company or any company within the Group; or its or their clients, including without limitation lists of clients, suppliers and employees, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company or any entity within the Group.

3. Other Employment

You will not engage in any other remunerative employment or accept any appointment as a director of any company outside the Group without the Company's prior written approval and, unless otherwise agreed by the Company in writing, all fees or other remuneration in respect of any such appointment will be for the account of the Company.

You will not during your employment be directly or indirectly engaged or concerned in the conduct of any business other than the business of the Group without the prior permission of the Company.

4. Compliance

The Company's rules, regulations and directions relating to employees, including the Group's Code of Conduct, which are now or may hereafter be in force, will apply to you and will be strictly complied with by you. You should therefore acquaint yourself with all Company rules and policies, which are applicable to you.

In particular, the Company attaches great importance to security, compliance and fair dealing procedures and your attention is drawn to the rules set out in the Group's Compliance Policies. You may be asked to disclose information as deemed necessary to comply with local regulatory requirements arising from the Company's business activities (including records relating to investments held by you and your connected persons), or which are otherwise consistent with market best practices of the Company.

Where applicable, you will also be expected to comply with any local compliance requirements of our overseas offices and all requirements (including any professional qualifications and standards of conduct) for obtaining and maintaining the necessary registration and license (or such exemption from registration and license) for the performance of your duties. A breach of the Group's Compliance policies or local compliance rules is a disciplinary offence that may justify summary dismissal.

In addition, you will at all times be conversant with and comply with any rules and regulations applicable to your specific area of work, such as (where applicable) the local Rules, Regulations and By-Laws. Violation of any of these rules, regulations or provisions may result in the immediate termination of your employment.

5. Confidentiality

During your employment by the Company, you may learn trade secrets or confidential information, which relates to the Company and the Group. Unless you are required to do so in the proper performance of your duties, you must not:

- divulge or communicate to any person;
- use for your own purposes or for any purposes other than those of the Company or, as appropriate, any of its clients; or
- cause any unauthorized disclosure, through any failure to exercise due care and attention, of any trade secrets or confidential information relating to the Company (or any of the Group) or any of its or their clients. You must at all times use your best endeavors to prevent publication or disclosure of any trade secrets or confidential information

Confidential information includes but is not limited to lists of clients, suppliers, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company or any other company within the Group.

If you are unsure about the confidential nature of specific information, you must seek your manager's advice and clarification. You will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including summary dismissal for any unauthorized disclosure of confidential information belonging to or related to the Company or any Group company. You understand and agree that your obligation of confidentiality survives termination of your employment.

You will promptly on demand or in any event upon when you cease to be an employee of the Company, return all confidential information including but not limited to documents, records, computer disks or other property in your possession or under your control belonging to the Company or any Group company or the clients thereof and you will not retain any copies thereafter.

In the same way that the Company's and its Group's confidential information must be kept confidential, the Company expects you to keep confidential the confidential information of your previous employers. During your employment with the Company, you must not use proprietary material, trade secrets or other highly confidential information or property obtained by you because of any prior employment without written authorization from the relevant organization.

6. Intellectual Property

For the purposes of this agreement, "Intellectual Property Rights" means any and all existing and future intellectual or industrial property rights (whether registered or unregistered) including, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, all existing and future patents, copyrights, design rights, database rights, trade marks, internet rights/domain names, know-how, confidential information and any and all applications for any of the foregoing and any and all rights to apply for any of the foregoing.

During your employment with the Company, you may either alone or in conjunction with others, generate or assist in the generation of documents, materials, designs, drawings, processes, formulae, computer coding, methodologies, confidential information and other works which relate to the business of the Company or any Group company or which are capable of being used or adapted for use therein or in connection therewith ("Works") and you agree that in respect of any such Works and all Intellectual Property Rights in relation thereto, you are obliged to further the interests of the Company and any Group company. Both the Works and the related Intellectual Property Rights will belong to and be the absolute property of the Company or any other person the Company may nominate.

You must immediately disclose to your Business Head all works and all related Intellectual Property Rights. You are required to assist the company and fully cooperate with it in every way to enforce the Company's right to execute whatever documentation is required to provide the Company with full ownership thereof.

7. Accountability

You shall properly, diligently and honestly perform all the duties, which the Company may assign to you from time to time and shall faithfully account for and deliver to the Company all monies, securities or other property belonging to the Company, which may come into your possession, custody or control.

8. Data Protection

By signing this statement, you acknowledge and agree that the Company is permitted to hold personal information about you as part of its personnel and other business records, and that the Company may use such information in the course of the Company's business. Please note that this may include transfer and storage of your personal information at offshore data storage facilities.

You agree that the Company may disclose information about you to other Group companies or third parties (including cross border transfers) if the Company considers that to do so is required for the proper conduct of the Company's business or that of any of its associates. This Clause applies to information held, used or disclosed in any medium.

If you join the Company part-way through a calendar or fiscal year, your Basic Salary and Flexi Benefits will be pro-rated, as applicable, to reflect the period of your service with the Company in the relevant year. Any payment of your salary or other sum due to you from the Company will be subject to any and all applicable withholding and/or other taxes payable and the Company will in such case be entitled to deduct or retain the amount of such tax from any sum payable to you. You will be solely responsible to pay all taxes and any other imposts as may be levied or assessed by any competent authority in any jurisdiction on any sums paid and/or other benefits provided to you by the Company.

You agree that the Company may deduct from your remuneration any sums due from you to the Company including, without limitation, your pension contributions (if any) and any overpayments, loans or advances made to you by the Company or any other company in the Group.

2. Variable Compensation

(a) Discretionary Variable Compensation

All employees are eligible to be considered for annual Discretionary Variable Compensation subject to the provisions set out below and the Variable Compensation Guiding Principles as each of these may be reviewed and amended from time to time at the discretion of the Company.

Dependent on your corporate title for the relevant performance year, you may be considered for Discretionary Variable Compensation based on a number of factors including but not limited to (in no particular order of importance) the performance of the Company and, as applicable, the specific contribution of its component business units, your individual personal contribution and the need to retain you in employment within the Company.

Based on your current corporate title, your eligibility for Discretionary Variable Compensation will be referred to as "Group Variable Compensation". Group Variable Compensation is discretionary variable compensation which is dependent on DB Group performance and is assessed and awarded in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company. You are not currently eligible to be considered for any Individual Variable Compensation. You may however be nominated for a Recognition Award.

Generally, Discretionary Variable Compensation is determined in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company and may be made wholly or partly in cash, restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or such other form as the Company may decide. The Company reserves the right to deliver a percentage (up to 100%) of all Discretionary Variable Compensation under, and subject to, any applicable DB compensation plans (restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide) that are in effect on the date Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded. Such plans may provide for forfeiture of awards under such plans in certain circumstances. Discretionary Variable Compensation may be awarded or paid in any currency at the Company's discretion.

Your Discretionary Variable Compensation, including any restricted compensation awards and cash amounts awarded to you, are subject to the global and regional compensation policies and applicable regulation as well as any applicable clawback provisions, which may require you to repay any awards or cash amounts delivered and paid to you.

For the avoidance of doubt, you do not have a contractual entitlement to receive Discretionary Variable Compensation and any such Discretionary Variable Compensation in a given year will be at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Moreover, you will not receive Discretionary Variable Compensation if (for whatever reason) on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded in a given year, you are not employed within the Company or if you are under notice to terminate your employment (whether notice was given by you or the Company) or if the Company considers your performance or conduct to have been unsatisfactory.

If, on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is usually communicated and/or paid, you are subject to an investigation that may result in disciplinary (or other) action being taken against you, consideration of whether you are eligible for, and payment of, any Discretionary Variable Compensation will be delayed until the conclusion of that investigation and, if relevant, any subsequent disciplinary (or other) procedure. Although, for the avoidance of doubt, you will not be eligible for consideration of a Discretionary Variable Compensation if, at the conclusion of the disciplinary (or other) procedure, you are given notice of termination of employment.

You should note that if you work in a number of locations, generally for the purposes of tax reporting and withholding, the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded to you will be apportioned between the locations you have worked in during the relevant period. Depending on individual circumstances, participants may become subject to multiple withholding taxes including double taxation. By accepting this offer, you agree to comply with any arrangements specified by the Company for the payment of any taxation (in any jurisdiction) by virtue of the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation or portion thereof.

Any portion of Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded as a cash payment will usually be paid in March through the normal monthly payroll. Discretionary Variable Compensation in any other form, including an award under a DB compensation plan (restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide), will be payable when such awards vest and will be delivered in accordance with the applicable DB compensation plan rules and Award Statement(s).

3. Cash Sign-On Award

You will receive a one-off cash award, a "Sign-On Award," in the amount of INR 300,000. Payment of your Sign-On Award will be made in INR in the next available payroll after the later of (i) the commencement of your employment with the Company, and (ii) the date on which all conditions of this offer (as detailed in this letter) are satisfied. Any payments in relation to your Sign-On Award will be made less any deductions for tax and social security contributions as the Company may be required to withhold.

The Sign-On Award is subject to all requirements of, and will be structured to comply with, the Institutsvergütungsverordnung (InstitutsVergV) and any regional regulation that is applicable (as may be amended from time to time) excluding (amongst other provisions) the regulatory requirements set out in the Section 7 of the InstitutsVergV (as may be amended from time to time).

You will be required to repay the gross amount of the Sign-On Award if:

- the payment is made before you satisfy all the conditions of this offer and within six months of such payment being made to you, you subsequently fail to satisfy all or any of them, or
- you give notice to terminate your employment with the Company or you are dismissed for misconduct or capability within twelve months of the date the payment is made.

By accepting this offer you consent to the deduction of the gross amount of the payment of any Sign-On Award made to you from your salary or any emoluments or awards arising from your employment if the Sign-On Award becomes repayable to the Company in the above circumstances. If these are insufficient to recover the whole of the gross amount of the Sign-On Award, you agree to repay any remaining amount to the Company within 30 days.

4. Relocation

(a) Relocation Benefits

In accordance with the terms and conditions of appointment and if need arises out of job responsibility, employee is liable to relocate between various locations within India at the discretion of the Company. The relocation assistance is designed to assist employees in the new location.

Please refer to Employee Handbook for more details.

(b) Claw back of Relocation Benefits

If your employment is terminated (voluntarily i.e. by your resignation or involuntarily i.e. termination for a cause), within twelve (12) months from the employment commencement date at the new location, you will be required to pay back the cost borne by the Company (at gross) on account of the relocation i.e. travel, stay, and other relocation benefits, on a pro rata basis. For every full month of service post relocation, the recovery will reduce by 1/12th the total recoverable amount. The above provisions will not apply in case of redundancy.

5. Confirmation on Exam

We understand that you are yet to appear for your final examinations/ backlog of examinations, if any. Basis the university / college schedule, you will complete the examinations and upon the results of the said examinations being declared, you will provide us with copies of the supporting documents thereof immediately or within 90 days of joining us, whichever is earlier. Any delay or failure in providing the documents mentioned, will lead to your employment agreement being terminated. If for any reason, you are not able to provide us with copies of the documents afore mentioned within the timelines mentioned, you will inform us of the reasons for such delays and also provide us with the estimated timelines within which time copies of the said documents will be made available to us. Should you fail to provide us with copies of the documents within the extended time lines, the organization will be entitled to terminate your employment with immediate effect.

Reference Total Compensation Statement

Name Yash Brid
Location Pune

This statement is intended to inform you of your 2023 Reference Total Compensation, as defined herein. If you have any questions about this information, please contact your manager.

Your annualised Reference Total Compensation shall be INR 1,562,500 (based on a full-time working week and on the basis that you have been in employment for the entirety of the relevant performance year (1 January-31 December)). Your actual Total Compensation for the relevant performance year will be based on, among other things, your actual working arrangements for that performance year.

Reference Total Compensation describes the reference value of annual Fixed Pay and Variable Compensation for an employee who remains eligible for Variable Compensation at the time Variable Compensation is made for the relevant year when all performance expectations on Group, divisional and, individual levels, as applicable, are determined to have been satisfied by the Company in its sole discretion and subject to the Group's affordability.

Reference Total Compensation is not, and should not be viewed as, any promise or guarantee to pay any particular level of Variable Compensation or Total Compensation. The actual Total Compensation may vary from (and be more or less than) Reference Total Compensation. Reference Total Compensation will be reviewed each year in the sole discretion of the Company.

For the avoidance of doubt, employees do not have a contractual entitlement to receive any Variable Compensation. Variable Compensation is determined at the absolute discretion of the Company (including, without limitation to, employee's conduct and performance) and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Employees must continue to be employed by the Company and not be under notice of termination of employment (for any reason and whether given by the Company or the individual) at the relevant date that Variable Compensation is awarded.

ALL COMPENSATION INFORMATION (INCLUDING THE INFORMATION IN THIS STATEMENT) IS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

Deutsche Bank Group
Code of Conduct

"We earn the trust of our clients, regulators, investors and each other by always acting with integrity and holding ourselves to high standards. Acting according to our Code of Conduct is vital for us to be a bank that achieves sustainable success."

Christian Sewing
Chief Executive Officer

A message from Christian Sewing, Chief Executive Officer

On behalf of the Management Board, I am pleased to present Deutsche Bank's Code of Conduct (the "Code"). The Code sets out our standards of behaviour and conduct to which we as a bank and all our employees are expected to adhere.

As a global company and diverse institution, it is challenging to set out in the Code one all-encompassing standard for the different working environments of each one of us. Nor can the Code address every situation that may arise in the legal and regulatory frameworks in which Deutsche Bank operates. We have a very broad range of businesses, from Retail and Asset Management in Germany and to Investment Banking and Wealth Management in the United States and Australia.

Therefore, the Code is not meant as a set of rules for specific situations, but as a general guide. The Code's success depends on each of us using our judgment to navigate what is sometimes a complex regulatory environment and seeking advice as appropriate. Critical matters should also be escalated promptly and appropriately.

As a bank, we have a responsibility to our clients, investors, communities and to each other. Earning and maintaining the trust of these stakeholders is fundamental.

Our Code of Conduct should be at the heart of everything we do. It is designed to ensure that we conduct ourselves seriously, with integrity and in accordance with Deutsche Bank's policies and procedures as well as the laws and regulations that apply to us worldwide. Underpinning all of this is a simple but basic principle that we should do what is right and proper – it is not enough to just go by what is allowed.

The Code also articulates what our bank stands for and what we want our cultural culture to be. We want to live an environment that is open and diverse, where staff members and "building up" are valued, and our employees and the bank's success is built on respect, collaboration, and teamwork in serving our clients, shareholders and communities.

The Management Board and I expect our senior managers to be personally committed to putting this Code at the centre of all we do. We are driving a culture of ethical conduct. Acting according to these standards is vital for us to be a bank that achieves sustainable success.

Thank you,

Christian Sewing

Who

Our purpose

We are here to enable sustainable economic growth and societal progress by generating positive impact for our clients, our people, our investors and our communities.

We achieve this by being a leading European bank with a global reach. We value our German roots and remain committed to our international presence.

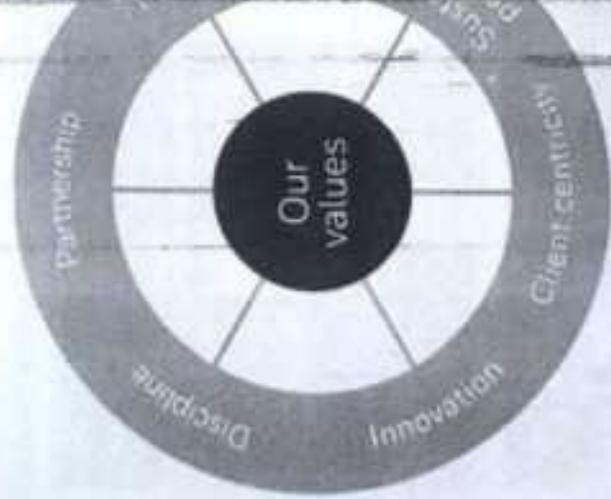

We serve stakeholders best by offering solutions to our clients and participating in value creation by them. In doing so, we seek to ensure that our bank is competitive and profitable while being underpinned by strong capital and liquidity. We are committed to a culture that appropriately aligns risks and rewards.

To deliver this, we aim to attract and develop talented individuals. We foster teamwork, partnerships and innovation, trusting that each of us will deliver to the expected standards.

Daimler-Benz Group, Ulm (Oberalbkreis)

Our values and beliefs

Our values

Integrity
We aim to create an environment in which "peak up" and challenge are not just welcomed and respected, but are also a core part of our responsibilities, especially where actions or failures to act are inconsistent with this Code.

Integrity – We earn the trust of our clients, other stakeholders, communities and each other by acting with honesty and integrity and holding ourselves to high ethical standards. We seek to maintain open, credible, constructive and transparent relationships between ourselves, our clients and with our regulators.

Sustainable performance – Our bank is committed to generating sustainable value by responsibly balancing risks and returns and by putting long-term success over short-term gain. We do so by implementing appropriate oversight, controls and governance.

Client centricity – We place clients at the centre of our activities. To be successful, we must understand the rapidly changing needs of our clients. We aim to provide solutions to support our clients in value creation. In providing our services, we deliver what we promise to our clients and treat our clients fairly.

Innovation – We continuously embrace new and better ways of doing things while fully taking account of potential risks. Innovation is essential to our success, but must be properly assessed in light of the interests of our clients and stakeholders, and must include assessment of financial, operational, regulatory and reputational risks.

Discipline – We accept responsibility and assign clear accountability. We honour our commitments and meet deadlines, targets and deliverables. We learn from our mistakes.

Partnership – We benefit from collaborating in an inclusive environment, where our diversity enriches our decision-making and idea-generation. We engage with and learn from others through open dialogue. We seek to work in a spirit of partnership, not just with our colleagues but also with our clients, stakeholders, political decision-makers and the wider community.

What does it mean for you in practice?

Applicability of and adherence to the Code; Compliance with applicable law and regulation.

This Code sets out Deutsche Bank's Purpose, Values, and Beliefs and minimum standards of conduct.

Our bank requires all employees and members of its Management Board to follow the letter and spirit of this Code, as well as applicable policies and procedures ("policies"). All the latest version of our bank's policies and the Code can be accessed on our bank's Intranet Portal. All e-learning training materials can be accessed through LearningHub.

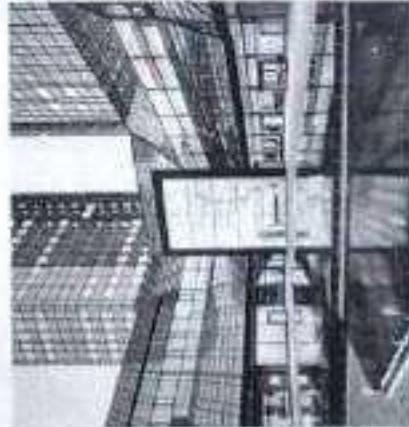

Our bank is also subject to the laws, rules and regulations of many jurisdictions in which we do business, either through a physical presence, holding a license or due to the fact that our clients are based in that jurisdiction and therefore the laws of that country may also apply.

Our bank's tax affairs are managed in a way which aims to appropriately align the tax consequences of business operations with the economic, regulatory and commercial consequences of those business operations, with due regard being given to the potential perspective of the relevant tax authorities. Our bank operates a central framework and governance to ensure that in all material respects we are compliant with applicable tax laws, we file accurate tax returns, and we pay the amount of tax due. For further information, refer to the Tax Strategy and the Tax Principles – Deutsche Bank Group.

Each of us is expected to be familiar with and comply with the applicable laws, rules and regulations, and with the standards that apply to our activities. Adherence with this Code is required regardless of your working location.

If you have any questions about the expected standards, laws, rules and regulations that apply to you, talk to your supervisor, Legal, Compliance, Anti-Financial Crime (AFC), Group Tax, Human Resources or other relevant function within our bank.

At the time you are hired, and periodically thereafter, you will be requested to acknowledge that you are aware of, understand and agree to comply with this Code and other policies. Regardless of such acknowledgement, this Code and other policies will be deemed to apply to you and you are asked to reflect on these principles in your daily work. Failure to comply with this Code, the policies and applicable laws and regulations will be viewed as a serious violation of your terms of employment and may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Valuing our employees and building trust in the workplace

Diversity and inclusion, equal opportunity, non-discrimination and building trust in the workplace

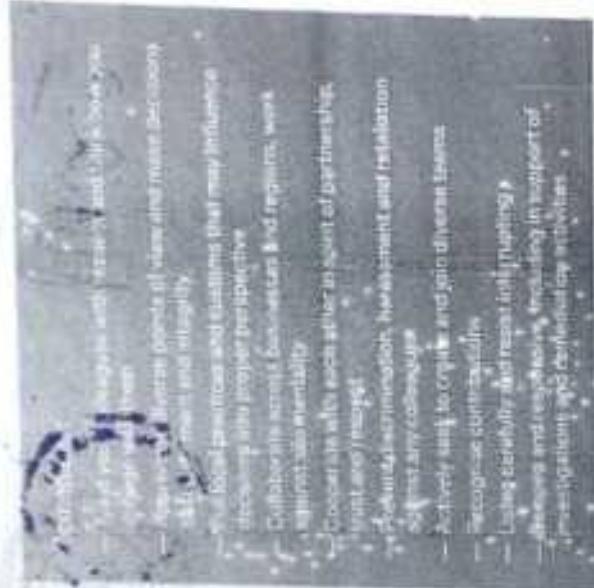

True respect is the foundation to developing trust and to working in partnership. That is why we do not tolerate discriminatory behaviour, discrimination or harassment, including sexual harassment, or any threatening, hostile or abusive behaviour.

We work together without discrimination based upon an individual's race, colour, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, religion, disability, marital status, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, citizenship or ancestry protected by law. We believe that diversity amongst employees with their varying perspectives, talents and contributions, enriches our interactions with clients, our own life, and the communities in which we live and work. We support our employees' talents and strive to be an employer of choice.

We comply with all applicable laws providing equal opportunity and advancement opportunities for all individuals.

We strive to resolve employment related complaints quickly and as confidentially as possible and in a manner that is respectful to our employees.

We do not tolerate retaliation against anyone for making an employment-related complaint or cooperating with an investigation concerning discrimination or harassment.

Doing the right thing – acting ethically

We earn the trust of all our stakeholders by acting with integrity and holding ourselves to the highest ethical standards.

Acting with integrity

You must always act with integrity in your dealings with clients, colleagues, and stakeholders by adhering to the Code and applying its standards to everything that you do. You should raise concerns, ask questions and escalate matters, as necessary.

Ethical decision-making

Acting ethically is not only the right thing to do, but also the right way to do business – it serves the interests of our clients and stakeholders and is critical to achieving success in the longer term. In making decisions and determining the appropriate course of action, you must be guided by what is right and proper, not just by what is allowed or legal.

If there appears to be a conflict between this Code and local, national or regulatory law, the more restrictive provisions apply. When you are faced with questions that go beyond those addressed in this Code, you should follow both the spirit of the Code and related bank policies that cover the issue. Escalate concerns to your supervisor, Legal Compliance, AFC or other relevant function, or report it through the Ethics & Concerns webpage on the bank's intranet or to the Integrity Hotline.

Taking personal responsibility

You are accountable for your actions or omissions, and will be held responsible for any improper or illegal acts you conduct. Any such conduct may be reported to regulators, which could ultimately result in civil or criminal penalties or suspension or loss of your individual license/registration, if applicable.

Abuse of position

Where you are in a position to exercise influence, control or authority over an employee or decisions affecting that employee, you must always act exclusively in the interest of our bank and not be guided by personal interests. This applies even if you are not the manager of, or otherwise in a hierarchical working relationship with, that employee. Any abuse of your position, in whatever form, will not be tolerated. This includes using your position of influence, power or authority to harass (including sexually) or bully a fellow employee, as well as using your position to exercise inappropriate influence on behalf of, or show inappropriate favouritism towards, an individual with whom you have a close personal relationship or a family connection.

Members' Vow for responsible for the standards

Woo

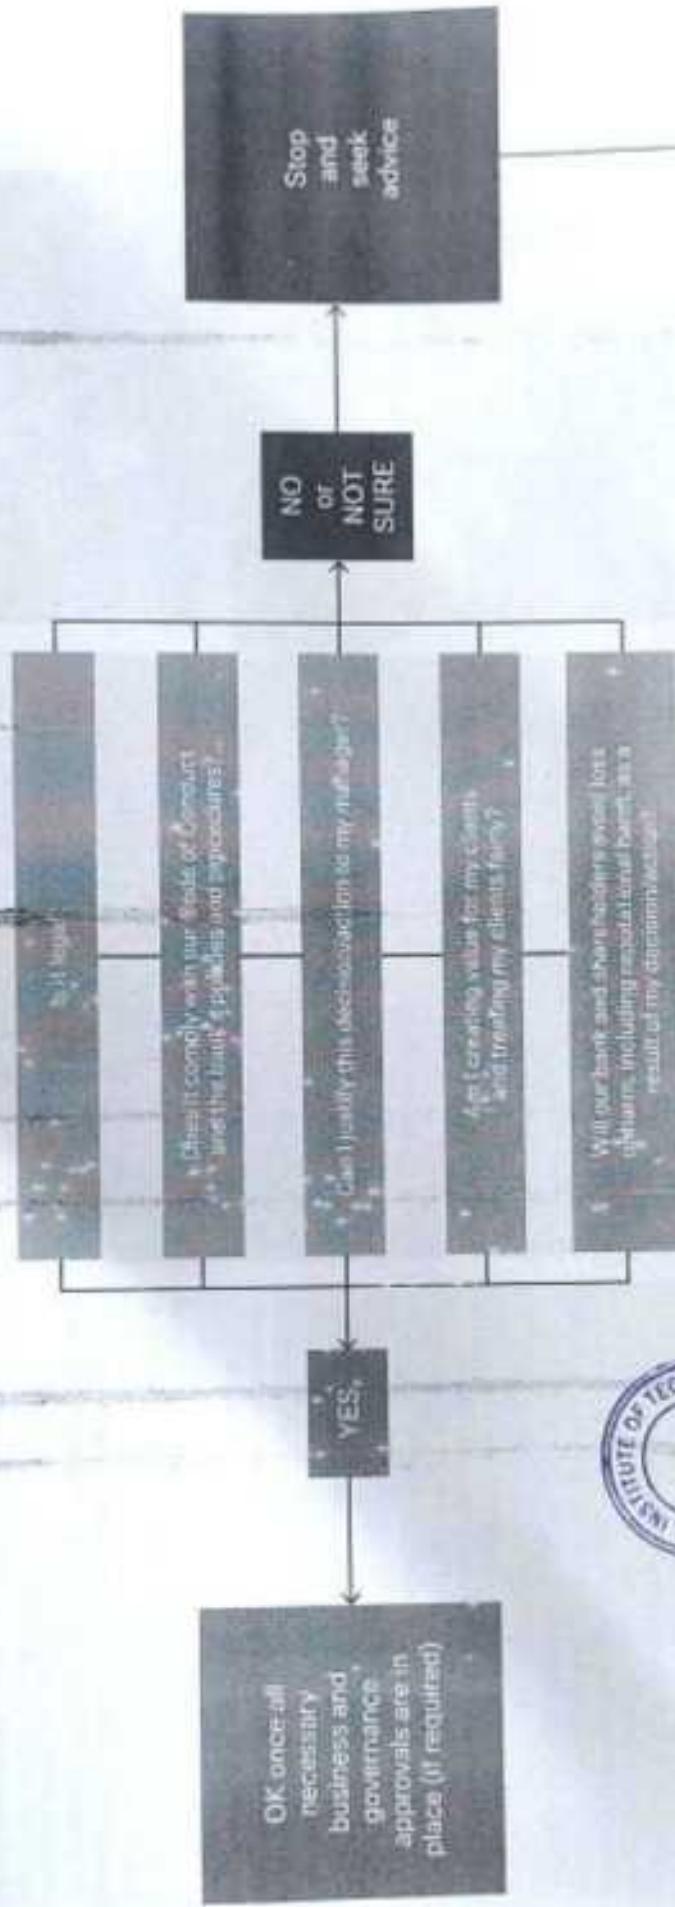

A close personal relationship includes an employee's romantic or sexual relationship, personal business, commercial or financial relationships, or financial dependent. A family connection is an employee's spouse, civil partner, domestic partner, children or step-children, parent or parent-in-law, sibling or sibling-in-law, grandparent, aunt, uncle, nephew, and niece.

Deutsche Bank Group Code of Conduct

Decision-making tree

When faced with an ethical question or a challenging decision, you should ask yourself:

You should be able to answer "yes" to all questions. If you cannot tick "yes" to all questions, stop and seek advice from your supervisor, Compliance, AFC or Legal.

Responsibilities as a manager

If you are a manager, your employees will look to you to set an example and to demonstrate the standards set out in the Code. You are responsible for creating an inclusive and diverse work environment that attracts and retains the best employees and permits your team to innovate, problem solve and successfully execute. You need to encourage your team to speak up and you need to be a good listener, who is committed to supporting your employees in their work and development. Your people-development skills should be a priority. Each of us, especially leaders and managers must act with integrity and inspire trust.

As a manager, you are responsible for creating and maintaining an environment built on trust and safety, providing the foundation for giving and receiving regular feedback that is balanced, open and accountable.

At the same time, you supervise the activities and conduct of your employees, and are required to have an appropriate control environment for your business, designed to adhere to applicable regulatory requirements. Part of that control environment includes encouraging individuals to ask questions and challenge, and setting the right tone in how to act.

Investment in skill and encouraging employees' professional and personal development are essential components of our bank's people agenda. This is reflected in the talent and development agenda, which helps to develop and nurture future leaders who are accountable, who champion the Code's standards and who inspire the best in their colleagues. You should recognise and positively reinforce good behaviours as well as acting swiftly to intervene in the case of inappropriate behaviours.

Note that you can be held responsible for the actions or omissions of those you supervise, particularly if you have not exercised the level of supervision expected by our bank and/or our regulators.

Remember to create an inclusive environment where people "speak up" and feel safe.

Risk awareness and acting as a risk manager

At Deutsche Bank, each one of us has a role to play in building a stronger, more resilient and sustainable bank.

We aim to foster a culture of strong risk awareness and ownership, where all employees act as risk managers.

It is your responsibility to be aware of, understand and take a holistic view of the risks, which could result from your actions or decisions, and to manage those risks in line with the bank's risk appetite and risk management standards.

For further information, reference the Risk Management Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Leading a risk manager: What does it mean in practice?

The role of a risk manager is to lead others to the same goal – to build a sustainable, efficient and predictable business. This should be done by communicating clearly with your team and by always being transparent and allowing them to challenge:

- What you do and what you should be doing
- Your own ambitions and goals
- Reasons for both 'right' and 'wrong' decisions made

Wno

Speaking up and raising concerns (including whistleblowing)

You are encouraged to raise all concerns, and you are expected to raise concerns related to possible violations of laws, rules, regulations, bonus policies and conflicts of interest. Sometimes, these violations can also involve third parties, including our clients and/or vendors/partners. Regardless of business or other pressures, you are expected to raise concerns promptly.

Managers are encouraged to foster an environment where employees feel free to speak up, which means to express their views, raise concerns and escalate any issues that could negatively affect our business, our clients or our people, confident that they will be heard, acknowledged, and addressed appropriately.

In addition, no one, at any level, has the authority to ask you to do something that is a breach of the Code or our existing policies or that is unethical or illegal. If you have any questions or concerns about a potential course of action, you should promptly escalate your questions or concerns.

How to speak up and raise concerns

We encourage you to speak up and raise concerns, including:

- Directly to your manager or supervisor;
- Through the Employee Concern Hotline;
- Through the Reporting System; or
- Through the Internal Audit Department.

There are various external channels you can use to report potential misconduct or potential ethical concerns, including:

- Your Risk Officer/Head of Department, Analyst to Compliance, AFC, your HR Business Advisor, or Legal. You may also use the Reporting System webpage on oblique.it or the Integrity Hotline, which is an anonymous platform and includes reporting forms for raising concerns, and which can be used either anonymously or non-anonymously.

Non-retaliation

We seek to create an environment where every employee feels safe to speak up and raise concerns, including cases of potential misconduct, unethrical behaviour or possible violations of law or policy, without fear of retaliation.

We prohibit retaliation against any individual for reporting concerns. We also prohibit retaliation against those who assist or cooperate in a subsequent investigation of such concerns. Retaliation means any adverse action taken against a person because they reported or compensated in such an investigation.

Individuals who engage in retaliation are subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment. Managers can also be held responsible for the behaviour of individuals under their supervision who engage in retaliatory actions.

Protecting and handling confidential information

Q&A

Q1: A colleague asks me to share customer information from my former employer. She explains that this would be a great opportunity for his bank to acquire new customers, close sell financial products, and for her to meet her quarterly targets. Is this the right thing to do?

A1: No. You must not disclose that information. Customer information of your former employer is that employer's confidential information and you have a legal obligation to protect the information, even after leaving that company. By disclosing the information, you are breaching this Code and exposing yourself and our bank to legal liabilities.

Our clients expect that we maintain the confidentiality of their information, whether that information relates to financial, personal or business matters. Our bank also expects that you maintain the confidentiality of its own information. Confidential information can be written, oral or electronic and includes a wide variety of data deriving from sources such as IT applications, strategies and customer lists. When in doubt, assume all information you receive is confidential. Inside information is a subset of confidential information and discussed later in the Code.

You may not share, make available or disclose such confidential information to anyone inside or outside our bank, except on a "need to know" basis. I.e., with other staff who are involved in the transaction or providing the services and such disclosure is required for the proper execution of our bank's responsibilities. Sharing it more broadly, even with other employees, could be inconsistent with a client's expectations or in breach of legal requirements, including a confidentiality agreement with the client. When information may be shared, you must limit the amount of information to what is required to achieve the stated business purpose and make sure the recipient knows that the information is confidential and subject to restrictions related to its use or dissemination.

It is never appropriate to share confidential information with family and/or friends. Even if you believe that a family member or friend will not misuse the information, it is not your information to share.

Data held by sensitive business areas are secured by Information Barriers (e.g. data relating to business areas classified as non-public are held behind the Information Barrier and are not accessible by other areas).

Restrictions on disclosing confidential information are not intended to, and should not, prevent employees from reporting or disclosing any concerns or responding to questions or requests from relevant regulators, law enforcement agencies, or their formally appointed agents, courts of law or our bank's auditors. For further information, refer to the Use and Handling of Client Confidential and Deutsche Bank Proprietary Information Policy – Global.

Also remember, information from prior employees (including information from the clients of prior employers) is confidential information and should not be shared with our bank or bank employees – to do so is unethical, unless it has already been made public through no action of your own.

Q2: Marie in Finance is working with the Deutsche Bank, pointers on the preparation of the bank's annual results. She has just received the latest proof and forwards it to other colleagues involved for their review. Having passed "Send", she notices that in anger, she has set at the document in a James-DSM in rather than JamesSmith. Has Marie acted illegally by sharing the bank's annual results in advance?

A2: She has not intentionally leaked this information so this would not be a criminal offence. Nonetheless, there is a problem. What has happened is the inadvertent leak of inside information. It is crucial that Marie immediately initiates the issue to Compliance, who will advise her how to proceed.

Conflicts of interest

Q&A

Q1. You are part of the COO function and you are selecting a new software supplier for the bank. Your spouse works for one of the vendors. Is this a conflict?

A1. Yes, there is a potential conflict between you and the vendor because the fact that your spouse works for one of the vendors could be viewed as influencing your judgment. You should make sure that the bank is aware of the potential conflict, and you should not be involved in the selection of the vendor.

Many of the major problems that have occurred in the industry, including here at our bank, involved conflicts of interest. A conflict of interest arises where one or more persons or entities have competing interests and one serving of one interest may involve detriment to another. As a global financial services provider, our business inevitably gives rise to actual, potential and perceived conflicts. Examples of potential conflicts include: in Markets, acting as principal with a client or as an agent, between a buying and selling client, in Banking, acting on behalf of an issuer of securities while managing our responsibilities to underwriting interests in those securities; in Asset Management and Wealth Management, being incentivised to create or sell products that may be to the detriment of one client or the market.

When identifying conflicts, be sensitive to the fact that conflicts can arise in a variety of relationships, including:

- Between our clients;
- Between a client and our bank or our employees;
- Between the bank and our employees;
- Between a service provider and an employee or the bank, and
- Between and among different group entities or business divisions of our bank.

the objectivity and independence of the research output. Any such attempt, by a client, internal stakeholder or otherwise, must be facilitated in accordance with the bank's policy.

Q3. You work at a local branch in Berlin. You just received a call from a customer that is a small-sized business looking for some short-term working capital. The logical choice for the client is a short-term loan, but your colleague has suggested that you should pitch a credit card option, which would attract much higher fees for the bank. Should you advise the customer to opt for a credit card?

A3. No. The best option for the customer is the loan. The suggestion that you should earn higher fees by recommending a credit card at the expense of the customer's needs is not appropriate and would be a failure to manage the conflict arising between the interests of the client and the bank.

to the Business Selection and Conflicts Office, Compliance, Human Resources or Legal so that they can be addressed appropriately. You should not abuse your position at our bank by, among other things, exercising inappropriate influence on behalf of, or showing inappropriate favouritism towards, an individual with whom you have a close personal relationship or a family connection.

Conflicts can be nuanced and, in dealing with potential conflicts, you should act with integrity and use good judgment in a manner consistent with this Code and our policies, and ask for guidance as necessary.

Financial crime prevention and detection

Anti-financial crime

Our bank advocates the development of sound regulations and internal procedures to combat financial crime, including tax evasion. These requirements are also intended to prevent our bank from committing or facilitating – intentionally or negligently – criminal offences.

You are personally accountable for adhering to all applicable statutory and regulatory responsibilities to prevent financial crime. To support you in meeting those obligations, our bank's Anti-Financial Crime (AFC) department is mandated by the Management Board to develop and implement policies, procedures and processes to minimise AFC risk within our bank, and enhance them on a continuous basis, at both global and local levels.

For further information, reference the Principles for the Management of Financial Crime Risks – Deutsche Bank Group.

Anti-money laundering/anti-terrorism financing

Money laundering is the intentional movement of cash and/or assets derived from illegal and criminal activities into the legal financial and/or business system. The attempt to disguise the true source or ownership of the funds, to disguise the ultimate disposition of the funds and to eliminate audit trails is part of the laundering process. Underlying crimes are defined by local laws and could comprise, for example, forgery, counterfeiting, extortion, corruption, organised crime, as well as fraud, human trafficking, robbery, drug crime or terrorism.

Terrorism financing is defined as the providing, dispensing, distributing or collecting of funds, by any means, intended to be used, or knowing that they are to be wholly or partially used, for committing terrorist acts. It is not relevant whether such funds are of legal or illegal origin.

To combat money laundering and terrorism financing (together, "AML"), our bank has developed a set of policies, including its General AML standards and principles. You are required to adhere to these standards to protect our bank and its reputation from being misused for money laundering and/or terrorist financing or other illegal purposes.

For further information, reference the Anti-Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Policy - Deutsche Bank Group.

Deutsche Bank Group Code of Conduct

Economic sanctions regulations &

anti-boycott rules

National authorities and supranational organisations (e.g. the United Nations and the European Union) impose restrictive measures against targeted sectors as well as countries, organisations, groups, entities and individuals who infringe internationally accepted behaviour's and norms, including those who have been identified as being involved in weapons proliferation etc.

— terrorists or supporters of terrorist organisations,

— violations of human rights, or

— being involved in bribery and corruption.

Such measures are more commonly known as embargoes or sanctions. Our bank has identified prohibited and restricted Special Risk Countries in order to better safeguard against sanctions risks.

You are required to comply with applicable embargoes and sanctions as well as our bank's requirements on Special Risk Countries. Non-compliance can expose our bank, as well as you personally, to civil, regulatory and criminal penalties, including substantial monetary fines and, in the case of individuals, prison. Non-compliance with embargoes and sanctions also poses a substantial reputational risk for our bank. It is also important to note that there are anti-boycott rules in place that protect against and counteract the effects of extra-territorial application of specific sanctions regulations imposed by other jurisdictions. If you have any concerns, consult with A&C before proceeding.

For further information, reference the Sanctions Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Q&A

Q A client calls E&S to let him know they will be exporting goods to a defiance company based in Russia. The client wants to know if we will support the transaction related to the shipment. E&S escalates this information to Regional Sanctions – what will likely be the outcome?

A We would need further information on the goods, transaction and end-user to understand what is involved and determine whether the transaction may violate applicable standbys.

K=Assuming point: Sanctions can be broad-in-scope so you need to understand the impact of sanctions on your business activities.

If in doubt, you must consult your division in your local A&C Team, Regional Sanctions & F-Tangents Team or the Global AFC Sanctions & Export Controls Team.

rules in place that protect against and counteract the effects of extra-territorial application of specific sanctions regulations imposed by other jurisdictions. If you have any concerns, consult with A&C before proceeding.

For further information, reference the Sanctions Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Q&A

Q Deutsche Bank operates globally and may require the support of agents in different jurisdictions to act on its behalf and provide local expertise. Could Deutsche Bank be liable for any bribes paid by Business Development Consultants (BDCs) or external advisors used to help the bank win business?

A Yes. Deutsche Bank could be liable for bribery paid by agents operating on behalf of the bank, like BDCs.

How can you reduce the risk? Due care and skills must be exercised when selecting and dealing with BDCs and other agents. Our bank's policies must always be followed. For further information, reference the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Anti-fraud

Fraud is defined as any intentional act of omission, including misrepresentation which misleads or conceals, or attempts to mislead or conceal, in order to gain a personal or business advantage, or to avoid a personal/business disadvantage. Fraud may be committed by an individual, a group of individuals, or by one or more of organisations.

If you have knowledge of fraudulent activity or potential fraudulent activity, have reason to suspect that fraud has occurred or a fraud attempt may occur, you must immediately escalate to A&C by following the escalation process defined in the Anti-Fraud Policy. You are encouraged to follow the information, reference the Anti-Fraud Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Fair and free markets

You must not engage in activities, practices or conduct that are manipulative, illegal, anticompetitive, or unethical, that exacerbate conflicts between or among our bank and/or its clients, that are contrary to industry standards or applicable regulations, or that are otherwise damaging to our bank's reputation.

Our bank has a policy in place to specifically address Market Conduct as well as standards for specific bank products. For further information, reference the Market Conduct Policy – Online.

Q&A

- Q You purchase 1,000 shares in XYZ Ltd. You then spread a rumour online that XYZ Ltd. is the subject of a takeover bid from Predator plc. The story spreads and makes its way into the media, causing the share price to rise significantly. You then make a profit by selling your shares. Shortly thereafter, Predator plc makes a formal statement denying the rumour and the share price of XYZ Ltd falls back to its previous level. Have you done anything wrong?

Market conduct, market manipulation and market abuse

Protecting the integrity of financial markets is critical to promoting fair and efficient markets and market confidence in legitimate market conduct underpins fairness, efficiency and confidence in the markets.

Market manipulation/market abuse can have a significant negative impact on our clients, the financial markets and our bank as a whole.

As such, all business conducted by our employees must be driven by legitimate reasons and must be conducted in a manner that avoids or minimises market disruption.

Abuse of information and insider trading

In the course of your work at our bank, you may come into possession of inside information (also referred to as material, non-public, price-sensitive information (PSI) or MNP). While the definition may vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, inside information can be described as information which has not been made public, relating directly or indirectly to one or more issuers or to one or more financial instruments, and which, if it were made public, would likely have a material effect on the prices of those financial instruments or on the price of related derivative financial instruments.

While you are in possession of confidential information, especially inside information, you are under a duty of confidentiality to inspect of the information you receive and may only use or disclose such information with due authorization and on a need to know basis. Using such information for your personal gain or sharing with others who use it for their personal gain – so called "tipping" – is illegal and prohibited by this Code and our bank's policies.

For further information, reference the Information Disclosure – Confidentiality and Group.

Q&A

- Q I have learned that Deutsche Bank is considering the acquisition of a small, publicly-traded company. As an employee of the bank, may I acquire the stock of this company in anticipation of the acquisition? May I share this information with my cousin so that she can acquire the shares?

- A No. Trading on and tipping others who trade on inside information is illegal and a violation of this Code.

Antitrust laws of certain countries in which we conduct business have broad extraterritorial scope and application. It is our policy to comply with all laws which prohibit anti-competitive conduct in the countries in which we operate.

The consequences of antitrust violations are serious and far-reaching. US, EU and other enforcement authorities vigorously prosecute anti-competitive conduct. Any infringement of antitrust laws can have serious consequences, including severe financial penalties for our bank and you. Multi-million euro fines have become routine for companies found guilty of infringing antitrust laws. Other serious consequences may also result from:

- Individual imprisonment or long-term disqualification;
- Paying compensation to affected parties;
- Reputational damage;
- Restrictions on business and/or
- Void of enforcement contracts.

Antitrust
Ensuring that employees at all levels comply with applicable antitrust laws is a key priority of the bank. The financial sector is under close scrutiny from antitrust authorities and public prosecutors. Understanding the basic concepts of the antitrust rules and the limitations that they can impose on your activities, and being able to identify activities of concern where there could be risk is critical for you and our bank.

Antitrust laws promote free competition by making certain anti-competitive practices illegal. The practices caught by antitrust laws encompass a wide range of market-distorting behaviour around the globe. This behaviour includes agreements and practices that restrict competition, trading in concert with a competitor, agreements with competitors on pricing, agreements to exclude others from a transaction, facilitating the exchange of competitively sensitive information, and violations of merger control rules.

Q&A

- Q. As a Deutsche Bank Swap trader, you contribute streaming of live prices to three trading venues that are used by the administrator of a daily benchmark. The benchmark is calculated off tradable quotes from regulated, electronic, multilateral trading venues and represents the mid-price for Swaps (fixed leg) at particular times of the day.

Early one morning a longstanding colleague, who now works for another bank, emails you with the following message:

"Hi Matey,

Need a favour from you. Can you nudge your GBP B/R down a couple of bps on Trax-X today? I know you don't do much volume on that venue anyway so you're unlikely to be hit and it would be a great help to me. I can return the favour sometime in the future to help you out."

Is it acceptable to agree to the proposition?

- A. No. Any form of collusion among competitors in order to manipulate, or to attempt to manipulate or help facilitate some to manipulate, benchmark price fixes or reference rates capable of distorting the normal course of pricing is not acceptable.

Even if your attempt to influence the fix fails, the intention to influence normal market conditions is sufficient to make this behaviour illegal and be in violation of antitrust law.

Treating clients fairly, communicating with clients, and handling customer complaints

Q&A

- Q. This works in a retail branch. He has been told that the incentive this year is a 0% fee rate if he meets the target before year end. An existing retail client visits the branch seeking to invest all of a small inheritance he received – he says this is his retirement money when he retires in a couple of years.

This advises him on a non-principal-protected product intended only for high net-worth individuals, who are "sophisticated clients," for which he will receive a higher commission. He explains that they are similar to retail bonds. It has a high coupon payout structure and states that they are not any riskier than bonds of a blue chip corporate.

Were the rationale and risks of the product sold in line with the risk appetite of the retail client, i.e., was it suitable?

Did he explain the product thoroughly?

Was he truthful?

Was his argument to reduce his own personal interests? Should he have considered whether the incentive programme could influence bad outcomes for clients?

- A. This illustrates the product and its represented the importance of the risks embedded in the product. He did not consider whether this was a suitable product for the client and hold a product for which he would receive a higher commission, and therefore, a better chance of meeting a target set by the bank.

Communicating with clients

It is important when dealing with our clients that our communications – both oral and written, are fair, clear and accurate. Statements that can be viewed as misleading or that give material information, including information important to making an investment decision – whether the client is retail, professional or institutional – can violate applicable law. Fair, clear and accurate communications protect the bank and you.

Treating clients fairly

As a bank, we have defined ourselves as client centric, and part of our success is through creating value to our clients by the solutions we provide and services we offer. Critical to our strategy is delivering what we committed to our clients and treating them fairly and transparently.

In practical terms, it means that we may not take unfair advantage of anyone or disadvantage them through manipulation, concealment, abuse of confidential information, sharing or using it improperly, misrepresentation of material facts or unfair dealings or practices.

For customers facing employment, you should understand your customers' needs, expectations and interests in order to provide them with appropriate solutions that add to the right outcomes for them based on their stated requirements, sophistication and attitude to risk.

You must always act fairly, honestly and transparently and avoid providing customers with undue preferential treatment, including over other clients.

Treating clients fairly, communicating with clients, and handling customer complaints (continued)

Customer complaints

A complaint means any expression of dissatisfaction or grievance, regardless of whether justified or not, from us, on behalf of a customer or third party about our bank's provision of, or failure to provide, financial services (for example, the execution of any transaction, or the distribution of securities or funds). This may also include public relations matters regarding our bank's business practices that have the potential of damaging our bank's reputation, brand and market value. Complaints may be received from a complainant directly or through an authorised third party and can be transmitted via various means, including letter, telephone, email, or in person. They may also involve a demand, express or implied, for a payment or adjustment.

You must promptly refer all complaints to your supervisor. Actual or potential errors or complaints that could result in a client dispute must be referred to Legal and Compliance and any complaints, errors or irregularities relating to customers that cause breaches of regulatory or legal requirements or obligations must be reported immediately to your supervisor, Legal and Compliance. All errors and complaints must be addressed as soon as practicable.

For further information, reference the Minimum Requirements for Monitoring and Recording of Complaints – Rule 10.

Q&A

Q You have received a call from a client concerning that there are unusual transactions which they do not recognise on the account, and their statements are arriving much later than usual.

In this a complaint if you think the delays are due to your firm's problem?

Do you report the complaint to your supervisor immediately or only if the client complains again?

Do you register this as a complaint to Complaints Handling process used by your business?

A

You report the complaint to your supervisor immediately and ensure that it is properly reflected as a complaint in your business' Complaint Handling procedure.

In most jurisdictions, there are requirements about responding to and reporting complaints. Further, complaints can be an indication of a broader problem. The sooner the problem is reported, the sooner the bank can take action.

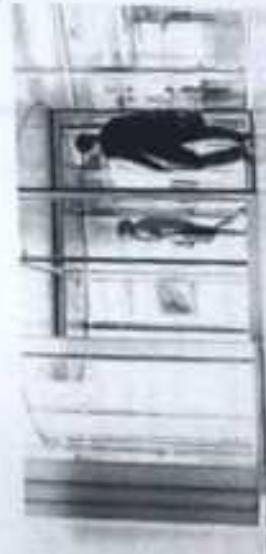

Protecting customer assets and accounts

The protection of customer assets and accounts is paramount. Each division is responsible for implementing policies necessary to ensure client monies and assets are appropriately safeguarded, and the dispositions of customer assets are only made by the holder of accounts, and in the case of custody accounts, by their agents on the basis of a power of attorney, or by virtue of a court order or other official measure. Balances on customers' dormant accounts and custody accounts with no known address may not be booked to revenues by our bank.

For further information, reference the AML/CFT Monitoring and Reporting Policy (SCAF) Policy – Guidance and the Transaction Monitoring Page with Informational Circulars – (Unclosed Assets) Policy.

Employee related activities:

Avoiding and disclosing personal conflicts of interests

Employees must disclose any potential conflict of interest. For example, if you have a close personal relationship with your subordinate employees, then this will need to be disclosed. There are also other areas where our bank is required by law or due to the appearance of a conflict of interest to impose limitations and/or requirements on employees. These include:

- Business expenditure
- Personal account dealing (employee trading)
- Outside business interests
- Political contributions

Business expenditure

Our Bank does not permit the offering or accepting of business expenditure such as gifts, entertainment or business events and roadshow attendance, unless they are reasonable, proportionate and for a legitimate business purpose.

You must not create a situation that would involve a conflict of interest... divided loyalty or the appearance of an improper attempt to influence business decisions.

It is important to keep in mind that a gift is anything of value that is offered to or accepted from a counterpart [i.e., any person our bank deals with in the course of business]. Gifts can be of monetary or non-monetary nature, including benefits or advantages such as: tickets, jewellery, artwork, fruit baskets, and charitable donations.

Entertainment means all forms of corporate hospitality offered to or accepted from counterparts, including social events, sporting, cultural or recreational activities, telethon events, drinks, dinners, etc.

To avoid the risk of an appearance of impropriety, you must obtain all relevant pre-approvals before giving or receiving any form of gift or entertainment via e-mail, telephone, fax, Concur Request or other applicable system.

Who

pre-approvals are based on various thresholds set out in the policy referenced in the next paragraph.

For further information, reference the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy – Criminal Law Compliance.

Q&A

Q1. You are to finalise a contract with a major supplier. You have suggested that you could sign the contract at an expensive new French restaurant in town that you have wanted to try. Is this a problem?

Q2. You take one of your most important clients to dinner on a regular basis. The client likes expensive restaurants and fine wine. If you forget, your client reminds you. Is there anything wrong with that?

- A.
1. You should neither accept nor provide excessive and/or frequent work-related entertainment. All work-related entertainment must comply with our bank's Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy. In both cases, the entertainment appears to affect impartial decision making leading to an unfair business advantage, putting both you and our bank at risk of breaching anti-bribery laws.

Personal account dealing (employee trading)

Our bank sets out a Personal Account Dealing Policy to meet legal and regulatory requirements, to avoid the appearance of insider trading and to further potential conflict of interest.

It is your responsibility not to trade on, or otherwise take advantage of inside information and not to put your personal interests over those of our bank or its clients when engaging in trading for your personal or related party accounts.

You should be familiar with the Personal Account Dealing Policy, which is designed so that personal investment activities are conducted appropriately.

Where required, you should notify Compliance of your personal trading accounts including those held at our bank or with a designated broker.

Where pre-clearance or approval are required, you must obtain pre-clearance/approval via the Employee Trade Business Application, i.e., the ETRA system, prior to engaging in personal account trading. Personal trading accounts where you have fully delegated the investment decisions to a third party by means of a written discretionary management agreement, and where you cannot exercise any influence or discretion are required to be disclosed, however, trading is not required to be pre-authorized.

There are minimum holding periods for investments which vary by location and division which are set out within the policy. For further information, reference the Personal Account Dealing Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Remember:

- You must prioritize the interests of our bank and its clients ahead of your own personal trading interests
- As such, you are prohibited from:
 - Entering into transactions involving a conflict of interest between an employee and our bank or its clients;
 - Using your access to proprietary information or client information in any way to advantage your or anyone else's personal investing; and
 - Entering into transactions that present potential reputational or regulatory risk to our bank

Outside business interests

You are expected to devote your best efforts and abilities to our bank. Outside Business Interests are certain interests or activities undertaken by employees outside their role at or with our bank, whether or not connected, that may create a potential conflict of interest. These are generally positions in external organisations such as directorships or partnerships, or in another employment or appointments to public offices. Minimum standards have been set to avoid or manage conflicts with any Outside Business interest and the duties of the employee to protect our bank and its staff against reputational risk, avoid interference with your responsibilities to our bank, and to assess, Complainent in the identification and prevention or mitigation of conflicts. You are required to discuss and obtain approval prior to engaging or agreeing to engage in an Outside Business Interest via GCCC.

For further information, reference the Outside Business Interests Policy - Deutsche Bank Group

Criminal investigations

If you become the subject of any criminal investigation, you must inform without delay your local HR manager who will in turn notify Group HR, Legal, Compliance and AFC.

Political contributions

Our bank is a politically neutral organisation and does not engage in party political campaigning or make party political donations. Our bank conducts dialogue with governments on issues relevant to our businesses and any communication undertaken is honest and accurate.

Our bank permits its employees to be active in the political process. If you are involved in political activity in a personal capacity you have a responsibility to make sure that this is kept entirely separate from your duties as an employee and that our bank's funds or resources (including time) are not used for political purposes. It is not permitted for any employee to induce or pressure other employees to make political contributions.

In certain jurisdictions, there are limitations, restrictions and reporting requirements on the conduct of political activities. In the U.S. such regulations apply to all US citizens and US permanent residents regardless of work location. Please contact Internal Compliance first before engaging in any political activities.

So that conflicts of interest are avoided, Complainants are expected to advise Internal Compliance and not become involved in matters of political controversy that may compromise the interests of our bank and/or the bank.

Any substantial political activity must be approved in advance by your supervisor and Compliance.

Communications, the media, social media and interactions with our regulators

Q&A

- Q You have received a phone call from a journalist who is asking the whereabouts of a client. Yes, you met with the client in the morning and she told you she was travelling today to Eastern Europe for business. The journalist says that your client is in the middle of striking a very important business deal and promises that he will write a positive piece about Deutsche Bank if you help him out with the information he needs. You are not an authorised spokesperson for the bank. Is it appropriate to reveal your client's whereabouts?

- A No. You must decline to speak to him and refer him to your local Press Office. Client information must be treated in confidence. It would be a major breach of trust to pass this information to anyone outside the bank.
- You are not permitted to speak to the external media unless you have been approved and received formal training as an authorised Deutsche Bank spokesperson and media contacts should always be referred to or logged with your local Press Office.

You must not make any statements in the name of the bank or release any information or documents to the media either directly or through a third party, unless expressly authorised to do so by the appropriate Communications team.

If you plan to have or you had contact with a media representative, you have to inform Corporate Communications in a timely manner.

For further information, reference the Media Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Electronic and voice communications
The use of electronic communication systems and the recording of voice communications can be subject to the laws and regulations of multiple jurisdictions. Procedures have therefore been established to safeguard information and to set minimum requirements for appropriate access, monitoring and usage.

Only Deutsche Bank-approved communication devices and applications may be used for the conduct of any bank business whether by email, chat or other electronic messaging. If you are required to use unconnected lines, you must comply with the Voice Recording Policy to ensure that your conversations are recorded. Participating in multi-party/multi-entity chat rooms and other public chat rooms in connection with any bank businesses or with our bank's equipment is generally prohibited (certain exceptions apply with relevant pre-approvals).

Our bank is required to retain records relating to electronic and voice communications generated by employees and undertakes surveillance of them. Additionally, electronic and voice communications may be subject to disclosure or other requirements in litigation, regulatory and law enforcement inquiries, internal investigations, and/or other proceedings, and/or subject to monitoring or surveillance. Employees are expected to allow the Bank to meet legal retention requirements, and, where legally permitted, will be asked to provide DB electronic communications that appear to be related to a DB activity that occurred on a non-DB approved electronic communication system.

Our bank reserves the right to monitor, review, access, record and disclose information and data, which is created, sent, received, downloaded or stored on our bank's electronic or telephonic systems or on the bank's premises, subject to local data privacy restrictions.

For further information, reference the Electronic Communication Systems Policy – Deutsche Bank Group and the Use of Mobiles and other End User Devices Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Communications, the media, social media and interactions with our regulators (continued)

Social media

Recent years have shown a growth of social media services, which has fundamentally changed inter-personal communications, built online communities, and increased virtual interactions. Our reputation is dependent upon appropriate and professional media and public relations. In order to protect our reputation and brand, only authorised employees may set up and operate a social media channel in the name of our bank. This restriction does not apply to discussion of personal matters outside of work and on non-bank equipment.

You should exercise good judgement in your use of social media and other online activities, even in connection with personal matters. Postings on internet and/or social media sites referencing our bank, your responsibilities, our clients or your bank colleagues may have an impact not only on you but our bank as well, and may constitute a breach of privacy laws, misuse of confidential information or other policies. Your social media activities are also governed by the laws applicable in the country where you work as an employee. The policies and guidelines of your respective division or the region in which you work also apply.

For questions about the use of social media, please contact Digital Communications.

Interactions with supervisory authorities

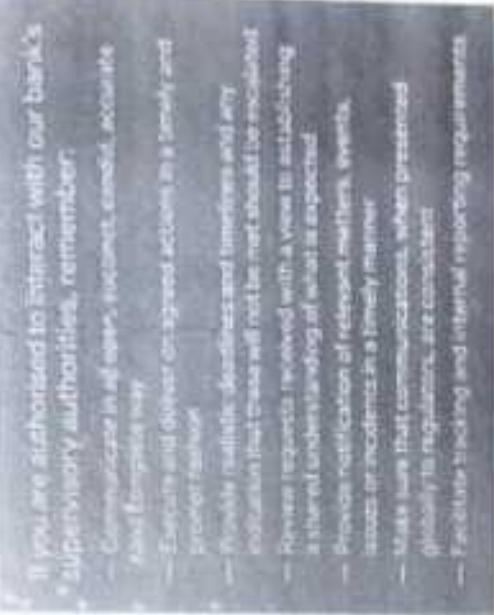

Our bank is committed to act in an open and transparent way with all its Supervisory Authorities and to promote trust-based cooperation. Failure to do so could result in regulatory sanctions, reputational damage and/or significant financial penalties.

Relationships with the supervisory departments of our bank's Supervisory Authorities are managed by Regulation, Compliance, Country Management or other teams responsible for regulatory relationship, and subject matter experts (representing the business divisions and infrastructure functions). Each Supervisory Authority generally has a bank Principal Point of Contact.

Any communications that are received by anyone other than the Principal Point of Contact should be escalated to Compliance or the relevant team responsible for regulatory compliance or the relevant team responsible for regulatory relationships who will re-route the communication to the relevant Principal Point of Contact. Communication to the Supervisory Authorities by any department or individual, other than the Principal Point of Contact should first be escalated and routed through the Principal Point of Contact. You must adhere to certain minimum standards in any interaction with our bank's Supervisory Authorities.

For further information, reference the Supervisory Authorities Engagement Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

You should contact the relevant team responsible for regulatory relationships before sharing any regulatory information.

Sustainability and respecting human rights

We maintain sound governance in line with (own and) internal guidelines. Well-established sustainability frameworks, such as the United Nations Global Compact and the United Nations Sustainability Development Goals, provide guidance for our thinking and actions.

We ensure that our internal and external commitments are safeguarded by adequate processes and controls. In this context we respect the right of human rights, including the prevention of child labour, modern slavery and human trafficking a priority. We strive to be the employer-of-choice for present and future employees and to invest in security and create a positive impact. By supporting voluntary initiatives by our staff we serve our communities and encourage and support our employees in these efforts.

In alignment with one of our core values "sustainable performance" and based on our sustainability principles, we are committed to considering the long-term effects of our activities and to generating sustainable value for our clients, employees, investors and society at large. This means that we consider and assess the direct and indirect economic, social and environmental aspects and impacts of our business decisions.

We strive to increase the positive impact of our business decisions and to support a sustainable future for society and the environment. We monitor and mitigate the possible negative impacts and we apply reasonable due diligence processes to balance and to solve emerging conflicts of interest and ethical situations.

The impact in the spirit of our sustainability commitment listed below and scrutinise any relevant argument against them.

- We have a clear and transparent approach to our environmental and social responsibility.
- We have a clear and transparent approach to the impacts of our business activities.
- We foster business relationships that are built on trust.
- We are guided by business and social responsibility standards.
- We manage our sustainability strategy in family-owned businesses, foundations, spin-off companies and processes.
- We are guided by business and social responsibility standards.

You should ask yourself:

- Does a proposed business transaction or initiative prevent any risks to the environment or society?
- Are there appropriate controls in place to manage the risks associated with the proposed transaction?
- Are you focusing only on near-term results without looking at potential long-term risks?
- Are you confident that your actions could stand up to public scrutiny?
- Are you using your skills to build social capital and to benefit society?

Safeguarding our bank's interests

Information security

Each division is responsible for implementing policies necessary to ensure banking security laws and to maintain an appropriate level of information security. For further information, reference the Information Security Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

You must also take steps to ensure you follow these policies to protect information against loss, non-authorised changes and manipulation.

Protecting Deutsche Bank's assets

- Our bank's assets include:
 - Physical assets, such as office furniture, equipment and supplies;
 - Technology assets, such as hardware, software and information systems;
 - Financial assets, such as cash, securities and credit cards;
 - Our bank's name, its brand and its customer relationships;
 - Intellectual assets, such as intellectual property, including information systems about products, services, systems and other data.

Our bank's assets should be used only for the conduct of our bank's business, except where otherwise provided by the Code or other bank policies. All physical and technology assets provided by our bank, whether used inside or outside the workplace are our bank's property and provided for your business use. Never sell, lend or give away any such assets, regardless of their condition or value, unless you are authorised to do so. In general, you should not use our bank's assets for your personal activities, though reasonable personal use is permitted. However, it should not interfere with your business obligations. Any work product created in the course of your work while at our bank is an asset of our bank. Assets, including information, presentations, spreadsheets, incident applications, etc., that you create are our bank's property.

Date protection

The collection, use, retention and transfer of client information must comply with data protection laws, our policies and any contractual obligations. Client confidentiality – as discussed previously – is critical and you should seek to protect it at all times. You are prohibited from collecting, processing or using personal data unless authorised to do so. Personal data may only be obtained for lawful purposes and should be processed fairly and lawfully. Data should only be maintained for as long as necessary and should be relevant to the purpose for which it is collected. All data must be secured to prevent unauthorised access, alteration, transmission, publication, loss or damage. You must ensure that the competent Data Protection Officer is informed of all new plans to process personal data in order to comply with regulatory requirements and avoid reputational risk. Errors, inaccuracy and breaches should be escalated promptly to your supervisor.

For further information, reference the Data Protection Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Authority to act

Your authority to act on behalf of our bank is limited by our own laws, regulations, corporate charters, by-laws and board resolutions as well as our bank's policies. You need to be aware of these, how they exceed your role, and of the responsibilities attached to it. You should never sign any documents or otherwise represent our bank, or authorise any action on our bank's behalf, unless you are specifically authorised and have the required knowledge to do so. You should know the limits of your authority and act within those limits.

Five things to know if you're transferring from an external to an internal Deutsche Bank employee

1. Your Human Resources ID should not change. Everybody at Deutsche Bank has a life-long-ID. Your HR recruiter and Deutsche Bank sponsor/manager should know this when they start the process on Workday. For more information please refer to this Workday training.
2. You will keep all of your DeuBa/DBE/DBG account data, mails, tools, and applications if your change between external and internal employment is immediate (i.e. less than 30 days) and your email address stays the same. Please note: if for some reason or another your email address does need to be changed, data can be retrieved with a "data transfer request" via your line manager and dbsupport+.
3. Should you plan to take a longer break, your Deutsche Bank sponsor/new manager can amend the date via the dbAccessGate portal with an approval of the Chief BISO of your department. For more information please refer to this Workday training. In case of issues: Please open a ticket in dbsupport+ and ask for help from the "IAM_dbAccessGate_Ops"-team. For more help from dbAccessGate please visit their myDB page.
4. Please note that under your employment contract it is not permissible for you to upload any non-public Deutsche Bank data to any personal or non-Deutsche-Bank-compliant sites or databases. Non-compliance with this is a serious breach and may lead to consequences up to the termination of your contract as well as a claim of compensation by Deutsche Bank.
5. Should you need to share information prior to leaving Deutsche Bank as an external, please follow the standard hand-over process of saving business sensitive data or messages. Forward any important emails to your Deutsche Bank sponsor/manager, save important messages or documents to your team-SharePoint or to the department file share/network-drive. Please contact dbsupport+ should you be in doubt.

Employment Agreement

Dear Vedant,

We are pleased to offer you employment on the terms and conditions set out below. Your employment will be with Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd (the "Company"). Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd is a company within the Deutsche Bank AG Group of Companies ("Group").

1. General Information

These terms and conditions outlined in this employment letter ("Agreement") as amended from time to time, together with the Company's "General Terms and Conditions of Service" as laid out in Schedule I of this Employment Agreement and as laid out in the Company's India Employee Handbook ("the Handbook"), the Deutsche Bank Group's Code of Conduct and all applicable regulations and policies of the Company, form the basis of your employment.

You are also expected to comply with all other applicable Company's regulations and policies (such as the Company's India Employee Handbook and the Code of Business Conduct and Ethics), and any other policies or procedures specific to your business or infrastructure unit. These policies and requirements are considered by the Company to be reasonable and lawful directions that you are required to comply with under the terms of your employment with the Company. You should therefore familiarize yourself with, and abide by, all applicable Company regulations and policies.

If there are any inconsistencies between the terms of this Employment Agreement and the provisions of the Handbook as at the date of your acceptance of this Employment Agreement, the terms of this Employment Agreement shall prevail. However, please note that any subsequent variations by the Company to any terms, conditions, rules or regulations (including the terms set out in the Handbook) generally governing the members of the Company's staff will prevail and be applicable to you.

2. Position

Your corporate title will be Analyst.

Your functional title will be Graduate Analyst.

Your local grade as per the internal grading system will be Grade 6.

During your employment, you may be required to perform work for other companies within the Group.

3. Employment Location

Your employment will initially be based at Pune, although you may be required to perform your duties at other locations from time to time and to travel on Company's business when the need arises, including overseas.

Deutsche India Pvt. Ltd. (Formerly known as DBDO Global Services Pvt. Ltd.) is located at Plot No. P-4, P-5, Level 4, Sector 1, Knowledge Park, Off Western Express Highway, Borgerwadi, Mumbai 400083, India. CIN: U72900MH12026PTC038276

Version 14. Hours of Work

You will be required to work nine (9) hours per day Monday through Friday including a one (1) hour break for lunch. Further, depending on the workload and business requirements, at any given time, you may be required to work in shifts and/or during weekends. You may also be expected to travel to other locations at times outside of your official hours of work. More details are available in the employee handbook.

5. Remuneration

Details of your remuneration and other benefits are provided in Schedule II.

Your salary will be paid in equal installments on a monthly basis directly into your company account. If you join the Company partway through a calendar year, your fixed pay will be pro-rated to reflect the portion of the year that you have started working for the Company.

Any payment of your salary or other sum due to you from the Company will be subject to any and all applicable withholding and/or other taxes payable and the Company will in such case be entitled to deduct or retain the amount of such tax from any sum payable to you. You will be solely responsible to pay all taxes and any other imposts as may be levied or assessed by any competent authority in any jurisdiction on any sums paid and/or other benefits provided to you by the Company.

You agree that the Company may deduct from your remuneration any sums due from you to the Company including, without limitation, your pension contributions (if any) and any overpayments, loans or advances (if applicable) made to you by the Company or any other company in the Group.

6. Notice Period

Corporate Title	Notice Period (in days)
Up to Associate (Local Grade 5)	60
AVP (Local Grade 4) and above	90

The Notice Period changes from 60 days to 90 days upon promotion from local grade 5 to local grade 4, as per the Company policy.

7. Other Conditions

Our offer and your employment are subject to:

- You completing, signing and returning the following forms to HR by the applicable date:
 - Personal Information Form (PIF)
 - Acknowledgement on Information Security
- You being free from any obligations owed to a third party which might prevent you from starting work on the commencement date;
- The information provided by you in relation to your employment by the Company regarding your background and/or previous employment being complete, accurate and not misleading in all respects and all information obtained by the Company in respect of you being fully satisfactory to the Company; and
- You holding or being granted the necessary approvals, regulatory registrations and/or licenses from the appropriate authorities for the performance of your duties (including a valid employment pass or work permit where applicable) prior to the commencement of your employment. Should there be any delay in your being granted such approvals, regulatory registrations and/or licenses (including where applicable an employment pass or a work permit), or should your application(s) in respect of the foregoing be rejected, your employment with the Company cannot commence and the Company will not be liable for any payment to you.

W.C.

Schedule I: General Terms and Conditions of Service

1. Leaves

(a) Annual Leave - Your annual leave entitlement will be in accordance with the Company policy. The annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated in your first year or in any incomplete year.

(b) Sick Leave - Sick leave will be granted as per Company policy.

(c) Parental Leave and related benefits - The Company offers a gender neutral parental leave policy for new parents to better manage their responsibilities. The leave duration and the benefits mentioned below are in accordance with The Maternity Benefits Act, 1961:

- Parental Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver. The mother is assumed to be the primary caregiver of the child.
- Adoption/ Surrogacy Leave: 26 weeks of paid leave for the primary caregiver.
- Maternity Expenses: Maternity related medical expenses are provided as per the Group Hospitalization policy.

More details on number of days and various types of leaves are available in the Employee Handbook.

2. Termination

(a) Termination with Notice

From the commencement of your employment, the Company or you may terminate your employment by giving a notice in writing for a period as stated in clause 'Notice Period' in this Employment Agreement. The Company may choose to terminate your employment immediately or by a period of notice shorter than the stipulated notice period by making a payment to you equal to your fixed pay for all or part of the notice period in lieu of that notice. For the avoidance of doubt, this does not confer any entitlement on your part to receive, nor impose any obligation on the Company, to make such a payment.

If the Company or you have given notice of the termination of your employment, the Company may direct you not to perform any of your duties, to remain away from the Company's premises and/or not to contact clients or other employees of the Company for all or part of the notice period. During this time, you will remain employed by the Company and therefore remain subject to your conditions of employment and you will continue to receive your salary and contractual benefits during the notice period.

(b) Termination without Notice

The Company may terminate your employment immediately and without notice or payment in the event that:

- you are guilty of serious misconduct
- you are guilty of a serious breach of the employment rules as set out in the Handbook
- you breach any fundamental term or condition of your employment
- you intentionally disobey a lawful and reasonable direction of the Company
- you conduct yourself in a way which, in the Company's reasonable opinion, may bring any member of the Group into disrepute
- you are convicted of a serious criminal offence or a criminal offence which, in the Company's opinion, impairs your ability to perform your duties, or
- the results of any background checks or searches conducted by the Company are deemed unsatisfactory to it in its absolute discretion

(c) Consequences of Termination of your Employment

If your employment is terminated for any reason:

- a) before you leave the Company, you must return all of the Company's property and confidential information and you must not retain any copies, extracts or reproductions of all or any part of that property or confidential information;
- b) you will continue to be bound by your employment obligations to the Company relating to the Company's confidential information and Intellectual Property (as defined in the Intellectual Property clause below);
- c) you must not make any statements (whether verbally or in writing) or do anything which might damage the reputation of the Group or interfere with the Group's relationships with its clients and customers; and
- d) you will resign from all or any offices which you may hold as a director or otherwise with the Company or a Group company and from all other appointments or offices which you hold as nominee or representative thereof. If you fail to do so within seven days from the termination of your employment, the Company is irrevocably authorized to appoint another person in your name and on your behalf to do any acts or things necessary or desirable to effect the same.

(d) Retirement Age

The age of retirement with the Company is completion of 62 years.

(e) Non-Solicitation Obligations

During the course of your employment and after the termination of your employment, you shall be subject to the terms and covenants as set out below.

As you are likely to obtain in the course of your employment with the Company, trade secrets and/or other confidential information and since you have and/or are likely to obtain during the course of your employment with the Company personal knowledge and influence over customers and clients of the Company, for the protection by the Group of its businesses and, in particular, its confidential information, customer and client connections and the maintenance of a stable workforce, you agree and covenant with the Company and the Group collectively as set out below.

I. Non-Solicitation

- A. you shall not during your employment and during a period of twelve (12) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit or entice away or endeavor to solicit or entice away or assist any other person, whether by means of the supply of names or expressing views on suitability or otherwise howsoever to solicit or entice away, from the Group any individual:-
 - a. who is an employee or director of any member of the Group (of Grades 1 to 4 in accordance with the Group's internal grading structure or the equivalent category of employees under the Group's internal grading structure as amended from time to time); or
 - b. who is contracted to render services to the Company and/ or any member of the Group and in either case with whom you have had business dealings during the twelve month period immediately preceding the termination of your employment with the Company, whether or not any such person would commit a breach of contract by reason of his leaving service.

- B. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person solicit, interfere with or entice away or attempt to solicit, interfere with or entice away any person who is a Restricted Client; and
- C. You shall not during your employment and during a period of six (6) months from the date on which notice of termination of your employment is given either on your own account or in conjunction with, or on behalf of, any other person have business dealings, directly or indirectly, with any person who is a Restricted Client;
- D. However, you are not prohibited by any of these restrictions from seeking or doing business with a Restricted Client that is not in direct or indirect competition with the Restricted Business.

For the purposes of paragraphs 1(B) to 1(D) above, Restricted Business means the activities of the operating division or company of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services; and Restricted Client means any person, firm or company who or which on the date of termination of your employment or at any time during the twelve-month period immediately prior to the date of termination was a client or customer of the Group in respect of the Restricted Business and with whom or with which during that period you have had business dealings.

- II. You agree that having regard to the facts and matters set out above the covenants herein contained are reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the Bank's legitimate interest including the trade secrets and/or other confidential information of the Bank/Company and the Group.
- III. You acknowledge that the breach of any of the restrictions specified in paragraph 1 above by you will cause irreparable injury to the Company and/or the Group which could not be adequately compensated in monetary damages and shall entitle the Bank and/or the Group to all equitable remedies, including without limitation injunctive relief, specific performance and restraining orders. Equitable relief shall be in addition to all other remedies available to the Company and/or the Group.
- IV. The benefit of each agreement and obligation set out above may be assigned to and enforced by all successors or assignees for the time-being carrying on the business of the Group and such agreements and obligations shall operate and remain binding notwithstanding the termination of your employment.
- V. If any provision of these obligations after employment are determined to be illegal or unenforceable by any court of law or any competent governmental or other authority, the remaining obligations and the remainder of your contract of employment shall be severable and enforceable in accordance with their terms so long as your contract of employment without such terms or provisions does not fail of its essential purpose. You and the Company shall negotiate in good faith to replace any such illegal or unenforceable provisions with suitable substitute provisions, which will maintain as far as possible their purposes and the effect. If so required by the Company, you also agree to enter into separate covenants with any member of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services in a form identical to the covenants set out in this section in order to protect the legitimate business interests of the Group.
- VI. For the purposes of this section, the Company is entering into these restrictions with you on its own behalf and as agent for and/or as trustee of the business of the relevant member of the Group to which you are assigned and to whom you provide your services.

VII. Notification of Restrictions

- You agree that in the event of your receiving from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not) either during the continuance of your employment with the Company or during the continuance in force of all or any of the restrictions set out above you shall forthwith provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the post-termination restrictions set out above including details of any variations to them agreed with you on an individual basis; and if the offer is accepted, inform the Company of the identity of the person making the offer.
- VIII. During and after the termination of your employment, you will not without the express written consent of the Company disclose or use any confidential information relating to the business or affairs of the Company or any company within the Group, or its or their clients, including without limitation lists of clients, suppliers and employees, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company or any entity within the Group.

3. Other Employment

You will not engage in any other remunerative employment or accept any appointment as a director of any company outside the Group without the Company's prior written approval and, unless otherwise agreed by the Company in writing, all fees or other remuneration in respect of any such appointment will be for the account of the Company.

You will not during your employment be directly or indirectly engaged or concerned in the conduct of any business other than the business of the Group without the prior permission of the Company.

4. Compliance

The Company's rules, regulations and directions relating to employees, including the Group's Code of Conduct, which are now or may hereafter be in force, will apply to you and will be strictly complied with by you. You should therefore acquaint yourself with all Company rules and policies, which are applicable to you.

In particular, the Company attaches great importance to security, compliance and fair dealing procedures and your attention is drawn to the rules set out in the Group's Compliance Policies. You may be asked to disclose information as deemed necessary to comply with local regulatory requirements arising from the Company's business activities (including records relating to investments held by you and your connected persons), or which are otherwise consistent with market best practices of the Company.

Where applicable, you will also be expected to comply with any local compliance requirements of our overseas offices and all requirements (including any professional qualifications and standards of conduct) for obtaining and maintaining the necessary registration and license (or such exemption from registration and license) for the performance of your duties. A breach of the Group's Compliance policies or local compliance rules is a disciplinary offence that may justify summary dismissal.

In addition, you will at all times be conversant with and comply with any rules and regulations applicable to your specific area of work, such as (where applicable) the local Rules, Regulations and By-Laws. Violation of any of these rules, regulations or provisions may result in the immediate termination of your employment.

5. Confidentiality

During your employment by the Company, you may learn trade secrets or confidential information, which relates to the Company and the Group. Unless you are required to do so in the proper performance of your duties, you must not:

- divulge or communicate to any person;
- use for your own purposes or for any purposes other than those of the Company or, as appropriate, any of its clients, or
- cause any unauthorized disclosure, through any failure to exercise due care and attention, of any trade secrets or confidential information relating to the Company (or any of the Group) or any of its or their clients. You must at all times use your best endeavors to prevent publication or disclosure of any trade secrets or confidential information.

Confidential information includes but is not limited to lists of clients, suppliers, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company or any other company within the Group.

If you are unsure about the confidential nature of specific information, you must seek your manager's advice and clarification. You will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including summary dismissal for any unauthorized disclosure of confidential information belonging to or related to the Company or any Group company. You understand and agree that your obligation of confidentiality survives termination of your employment.

You will promptly on demand or in any event upon when you cease to be an employee of the Company, return all confidential information including but not limited to documents, records, computer disks or other property in your possession or under your control belonging to the Company or any Group company or the clients thereof and you will not retain any copies thereafter.

In the same way that the Company's and its Group's confidential information must be kept confidential, the Company expects you to keep confidential the confidential information of your previous employers. During your employment with the Company, you must not use proprietary material, trade secrets or other highly confidential information or property obtained by you because of any prior employment without written authorization from the relevant organization.

6. Intellectual Property

For the purposes of this agreement, "Intellectual Property Rights" means any and all existing and future intellectual or industrial property rights (whether registered or unregistered) including, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, all existing and future patents, copyrights, design rights, database rights, trade marks, internet rights/domain names, know-how, confidential information and any and all applications for any of the foregoing and any and all rights to apply for any of the foregoing.

During your employment with the Company, you may either alone or in conjunction with others, generate or assist in the generation of documents, materials, designs, drawings, processes, formulae, computer coding, methodologies, confidential information and other works which relate to the business of the Company or any Group company or which are capable of being used or adapted for use therein or in connection therewith ("Works") and you agree that in respect of any such Works and all Intellectual Property Rights in relation thereto, you are obliged to further the interests of the Company and any Group company. Both the Works and the related Intellectual Property Rights will belong to and be the absolute property of the Company or any other person the Company may nominate.

You must immediately disclose to your Business Head all works and all related Intellectual Property Rights. You are required to assist the company and fully cooperate with it in every way to enforce the Company's right to execute whatever documentation is required to provide the Company with full ownership thereof.

Vedant Jolly

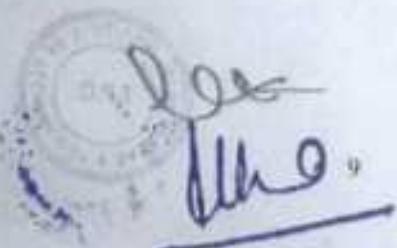

7. Accountability

You shall properly, diligently and honestly perform all the duties, which the Company may assign to you from time to time and shall faithfully account for and deliver to the Company all monies, securities or other property belonging to the Company, which may come into your possession, custody or control.

8. Data Protection

By signing this statement, you acknowledge and agree that the Company is permitted to hold personal information about you as part of its personnel and other business records, and that the Company may use such information in the course of the Company's business. Please note that this may include transfer and storage of your personal information at offshore data storage facilities.

You agree that the Company may disclose information about you to other Group companies or third parties (including cross border transfers) if the Company considers that to do so is required for the proper conduct of the Company's business or that of any of its associates. This Clause applies to information held, used or disclosed in any medium.

If you join the Company part-way through a calendar or fiscal year, your Basic Salary and Flexi Benefits will be pro-rated, as applicable, to reflect the period of your service with the Company in the relevant year. Any payment of your salary or other sum due to you from the Company will be subject to any and all applicable withholding and/or other taxes payable and the Company will in such case be entitled to deduct or retain the amount of such tax from any sum payable to you. You will be solely responsible to pay all taxes and any other imposts as may be levied or assessed by any competent authority in any jurisdiction on any sums paid and/or other benefits provided to you by the Company.

You agree that the Company may deduct from your remuneration any sums due from you to the Company including, without limitation, your pension contributions (if any) and any overpayments, loans or advances made to you by the Company or any other company in the Group.

2. Variable Compensation

(a) Discretionary Variable Compensation

All employees are eligible to be considered for annual Discretionary Variable Compensation subject to the provisions set out below and the Variable Compensation Guiding Principles as each of these may be reviewed and amended from time to time at the discretion of the Company.

Dependent on your corporate title for the relevant performance year, you may be considered for Discretionary Variable Compensation based on a number of factors including but not limited to (in no particular order of importance) the performance of the Company and, as applicable, the specific contribution of its component business units, your individual personal contribution and the need to retain you in employment within the Company.

Based on your current corporate title, your eligibility for Discretionary Variable Compensation will be referred to as "Group Variable Compensation". Group Variable Compensation is discretionary variable compensation which is dependent on DB Group performance and is assessed and awarded in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company. You are not currently eligible to be considered for any Individual Variable Compensation. You may however be nominated for a Recognition Award.

Generally, Discretionary Variable Compensation is determined in the sole and exclusive discretion of the Company and may be made wholly or partly in cash, restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or such other form as the Company may decide. The Company reserves the right to deliver a percentage (up to 100%) of all Discretionary Variable Compensation under, and subject to, any applicable DB compensation plans (restricted equity, notional equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide) that are in effect on the date Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded. Such plans may provide for forfeiture of awards under such plans in certain circumstances. Discretionary Variable Compensation may be awarded or paid in any currency at the Company's discretion.

Your Discretionary Variable Compensation, including any restricted compensation awards and cash amounts awarded to you, are subject to the global and regional compensation policies and applicable regulation as well as any applicable clawback provisions, which may require you to repay any awards or cash amounts delivered and paid to you.

For the avoidance of doubt, you do not have a contractual entitlement to receive Discretionary Variable Compensation and any such Discretionary Variable Compensation in a given year will be at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Moreover, you will not receive Discretionary Variable Compensation if (for whatever reason) on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is awarded in a given year, you are not employed within the Company or if you are under notice to terminate your employment (whether notice was given by you or the Company) or if the Company considers your performance or conduct to have been unsatisfactory.

Vedant Jolly

If, on the date on which Discretionary Variable Compensation is usually communicated and/or paid, you are subject to an investigation that may result in disciplinary (or other) action being taken against you, consideration of whether you are eligible for, and payment of, any Discretionary Variable Compensation will be delayed until the conclusion of that investigation and, if relevant, any subsequent disciplinary (or other) procedure. Although, for the avoidance of doubt, you will not be eligible for consideration of a Discretionary Variable Compensation if, at the conclusion of the disciplinary (or other) procedure, you are given notice of termination of employment.

You should note that if you work in a number of locations, generally for the purposes of tax reporting and withholding, the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded to you will be apportioned between the locations you have worked in during the relevant period. Depending on individual circumstances, participants may become subject to multiple withholding taxes including double taxation. By accepting this offer, you agree to comply with any arrangements specified by the Company for the payment of any taxation (in any jurisdiction) by virtue of the settlement of any Discretionary Variable Compensation or portion thereof.

Any portion of Discretionary Variable Compensation awarded as a cash payment will usually be paid in March through the normal monthly payroll. Discretionary Variable Compensation in any other form, including an award under a DB compensation plan (restricted equity, national equity, restricted cash, or in such other form as the Company may decide), will be payable when such awards vest and will be delivered in accordance with the applicable DB compensation plan rules and Award Statement(s).

3. Cash Sign-On Award

You will receive a one-off cash award, a "Sign-On Award," in the amount of INR 300,000. Payment of your Sign-On Award will be made in INR in the next available payroll after the later of (i) the commencement of your employment with the Company, and (ii) the date on which all conditions of this offer (as detailed in this letter) are satisfied. Any payments in relation to your Sign-On Award will be made less any deductions for tax and social security contributions as the Company may be required to withhold.

The Sign-On Award is subject to all requirements of, and will be structured to comply with, the Institutsvergütungsverordnung (InstitutsVergV) and any regional regulation that is applicable (as may be amended from time to time) including (amongst other provisions) the regulatory requirements set out in the Section 7 of the InstitutsVergV (as may be amended from time to time).

You will be required to repay the gross amount of the Sign-On Award if:

- the payment is made before you satisfy all the conditions of this offer and within six months of such payment being made to you, you subsequently fail to satisfy all or any of them, or
- you give notice to terminate your employment with the Company or you are dismissed for misconduct or capability within twelve months of the date the payment is made.

By accepting this offer you consent to the deduction of the gross amount of the payment of any Sign-On Award made to you from your salary or any emoluments or awards arising from your employment if the Sign-On Award becomes repayable to the Company in the above circumstances. If these are insufficient to recover the whole of the gross amount of the Sign-On Award, you agree to repay any remaining amount to the Company within 30 days.

Reference Total Compensation Statement

Name Vedant Jolly
Location Pune

This statement is intended to inform you of your 2023 Reference Total Compensation, as defined herein. If you have any questions about this information, please contact your manager.

Your annualised Reference Total Compensation shall be INR 1,562,500 (based on a full-time working week and on the basis that you have been in employment for the entirety of the relevant performance year (1 January - 31 December)). Your actual Total Compensation for the relevant performance year will be based on, among other things, your actual working arrangements for that performance year.

Reference Total Compensation describes the reference value of annual Fixed Pay and Variable Compensation for an employee who remains eligible for Variable Compensation at the time Variable Compensation is made for the relevant year when all performance expectations on Group, divisional and, individual levels, as applicable, are determined to have been satisfied by the Company in its sole discretion and subject to the Group's affordability.

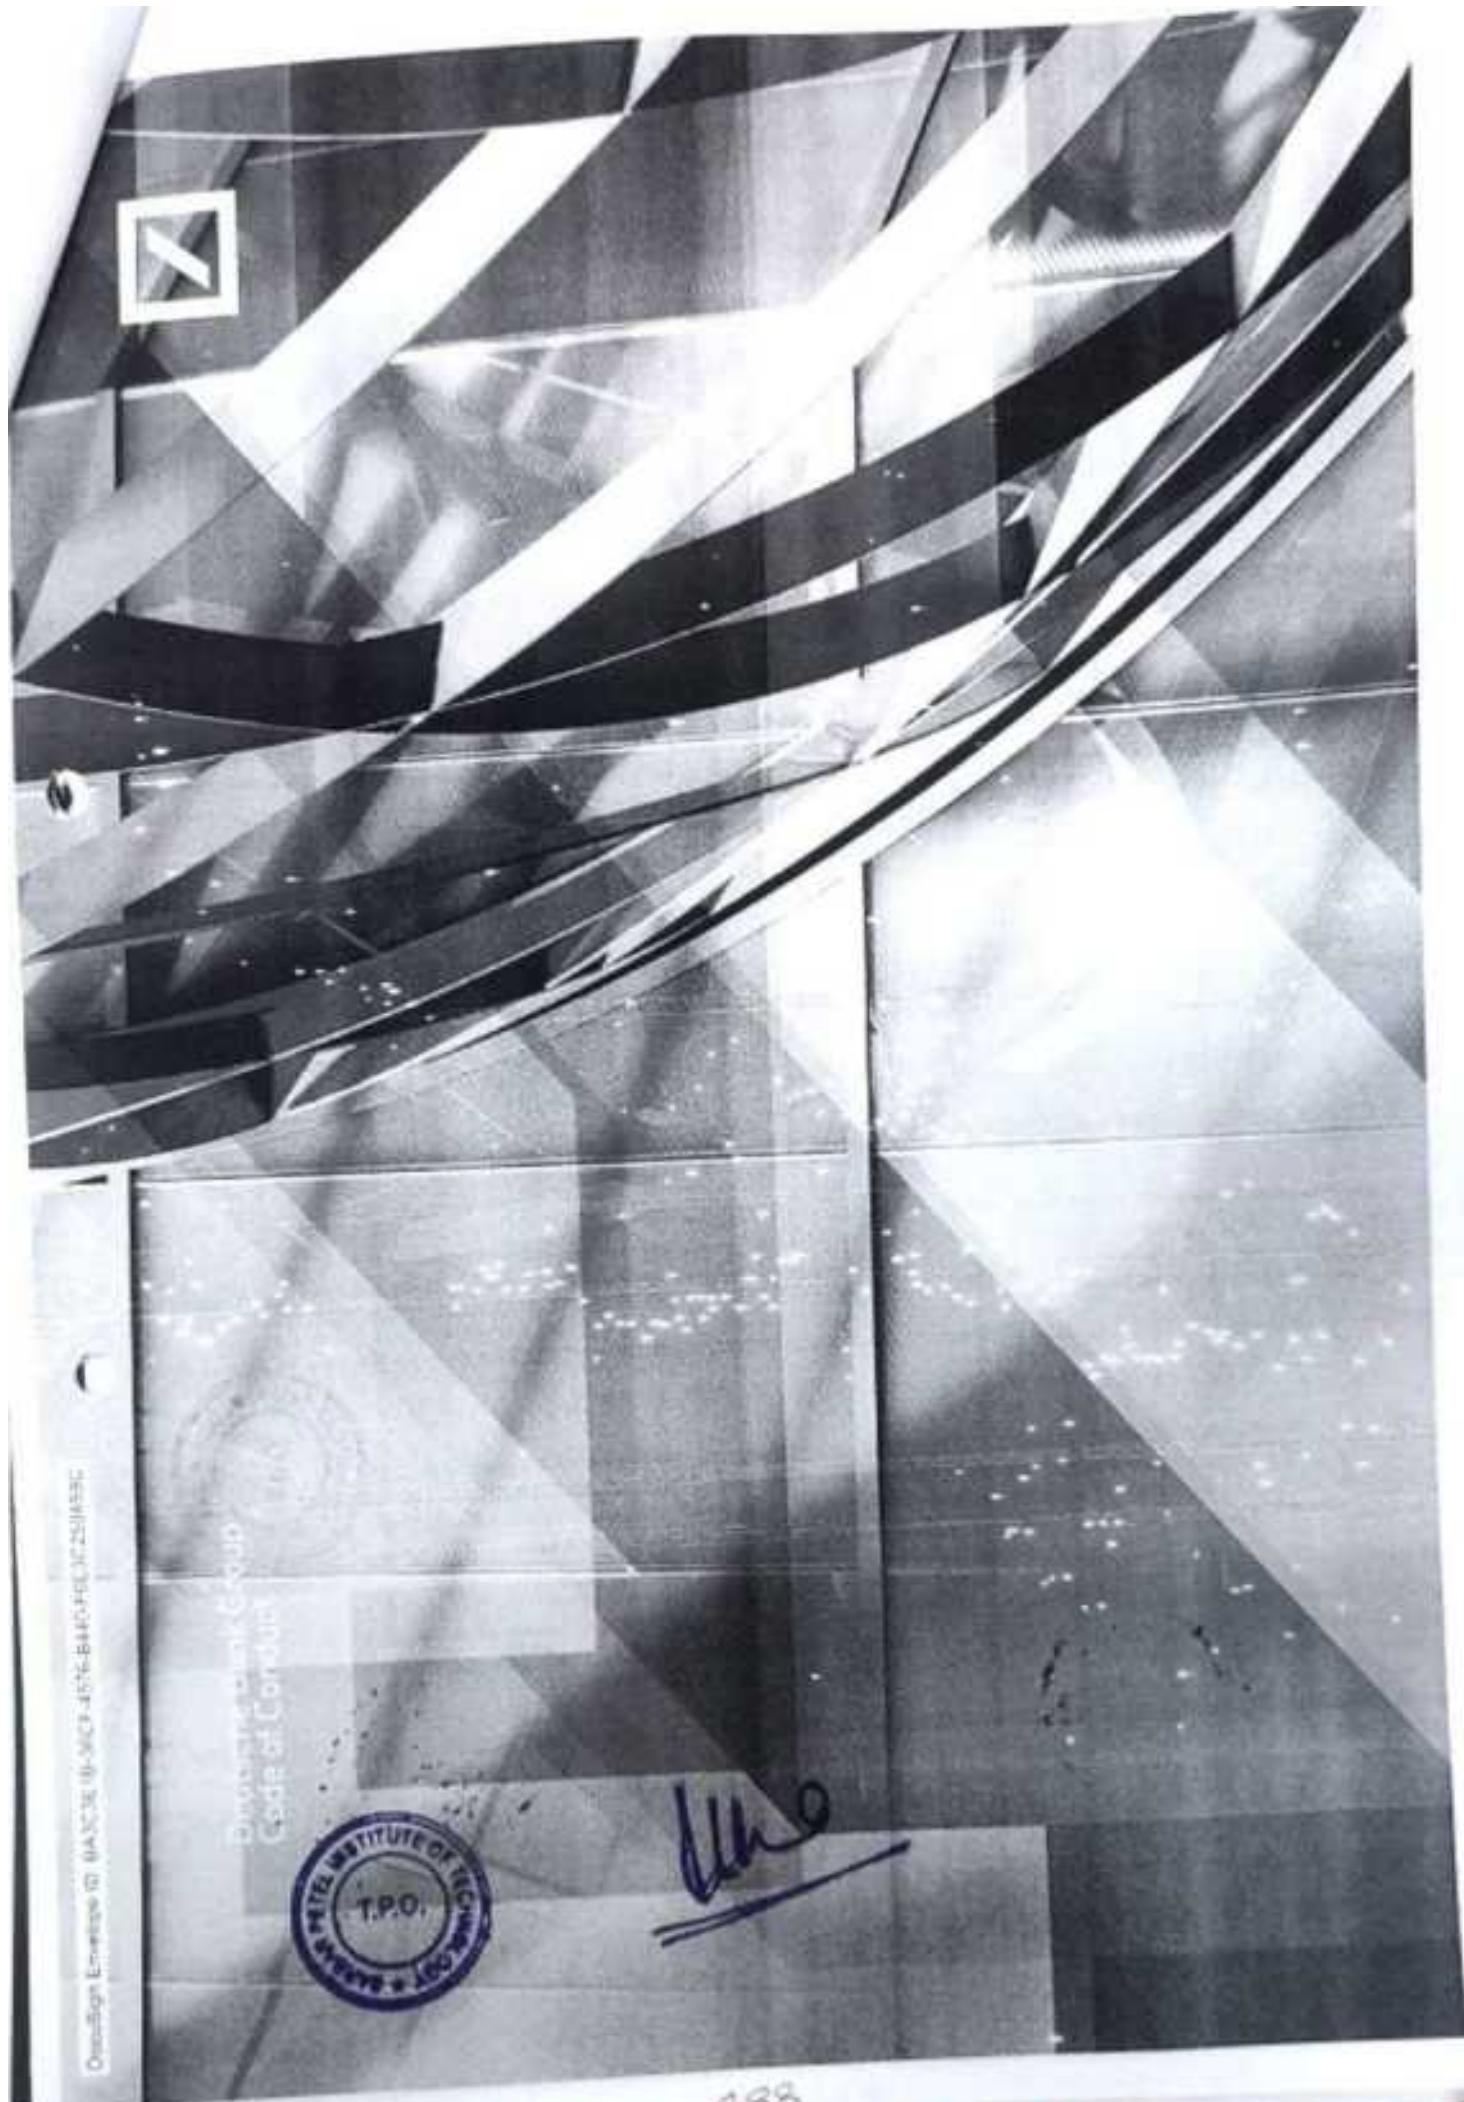

Reference Total Compensation is not, and should not be viewed as, any promise or guarantee to pay any particular level of Variable Compensation or Total Compensation. The actual Total Compensation may vary from (and be more or less than) Reference Total Compensation. Reference Total Compensation will be reviewed each year in the sole discretion of the Company.

For the avoidance of doubt, employees do not have a contractual entitlement to receive any Variable Compensation. Variable Compensation is determined at the absolute discretion of the Company (including, without limitation to, employee's conduct and performance) and subject to regulatory requirements (as may be amended from time to time). Employees must continue to be employed by the Company and not be under notice of termination of employment (for any reason and whether given by the Company or the individual) at the relevant date that Variable Compensation is awarded.

ALL COMPENSATION INFORMATION (INCLUDING THE INFORMATION IN THIS STATEMENT) IS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

Code of Conduct

Be on the right side.

"We earn the trust of our clients, regulators, investors and each other by always acting with integrity and holding ourselves to high standards. Acting according to our Code of Conduct is vital for us to be a bank that achieves sustainable success."

Christian Seubring
Chief Executive Officer

A message from Christian Sewing, Chief Executive Officer

On behalf of the Management Board, I am pleased to present Deutsche Bank's Code of Conduct (the "Code"). The Code sets out our standards of behaviour and conduct to which we as a bank and all our employees are expected to adhere. As a global company and diverse institution, it is challenging to set out in the Code one all-encompassing standard for the different working environments of each one of us. Nor can the Code address every situation that may arise in the legal and regulatory frameworks in which Deutsche Bank operates. We have a very broad range of businesses, from Retail and Asset Management in Germany and to Investment Banking and Wealth Management in the United States and Australia.

Therefore, the Code is not meant as a set of rules for specific situations, but as a general guide. The Code's success depends on each of us using our judgement to determine what is, sometimes a complex regulatory requirement and seeking advice as appropriate. Critical matters should also be escalated promptly and appropriately.

As a bank, we have a responsibility to our clients, investors, communities and to each other. Fairness and maintaining the trust of these stakeholders is fundamental.

Our Code of Conduct should be at the heart of everything we do. It is designed to ensure that we conduct ourselves ethically, with integrity and in accordance with Deutsche Bank's policies and procedures as well as the laws and regulations that apply to us worldwide. Underpinning all of this is a simple but basic principle that we should do what is right and proper - it is not enough to just go by what is allowed.

The Code also articulates what our bank stands for and what we want our overall culture to be. We want to foster an environment that is open and diverse, where staff, customers and "speaking up" are valued, and our employees and the bank's success is built on respect, collaboration and teamwork in serving our clients, shareholders and communities.

The Management Board and I expect our senior managers to be personally committed to upholding this Code at the centre of all we do. We are driving a culture of ethical conduct. Acting according to these standards is vital for us to be a bank that achieves sustainable success.

Thank you.

Applicability of and adherence to the Code; Compliance with applicable law and regulation

This Code sets out Deutsche Bank's Principles, Values and Beliefs and minimum standards of conduct.

Our bank requires all employees and members of its Management Board to follow the letter and spirit of this Code, as well as applicable policies and procedures ("Policies"). All the latest versions of our bank's Policies and the Code Training materials can be accessed through Learning@DB. Our bank is also subject to the laws, rules and regulations of many jurisdictions in which we do business, either through our clients or based in that jurisdiction and therefore the laws of that country may also apply.

Our bank's tax affairs are managed in a way which aims to appropriately align the tax consequences of business operations with the economic, regulatory and commercial consequences of those business operations, with due regard being given to the potential perspective of the relevant tax authorities. Our bank operates a control framework and governance to ensure that in all material aspects we are compliant with applicable tax laws. We file accurate tax returns and we pay the amount of tax due. For further information, reference the Tax Strategy and the Tax Implications (Deutsche Bank Group).

Each of us is expected to be familiar with and comply with the applicable laws, rules and regulations, and with the standards that apply to our activities. Noncompliance with this Code is required regardless of your working location. If you have any questions about the expected standards, laws, rules and regulations that apply to you, talk to your Supervisor, Legal Compliance, Anti-Financial Crime (AFC), Bloom Tax, Human Resources or other relevant function within our bank.

At the time you are hired, and periodically thereafter, you will be requested to acknowledge that you are aware of, understand and agree to comply with this Code and other policies. Regardless of such acknowledgement, this Code and other policies will be deemed to apply to you and you are expected to reflect in the principles in your daily work. Failure to comply with this Code, the Policies and applicable laws and regulations will be viewed as a serious violation of your terms of employment and may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Valuing our employees and building trust in the workplace

Diversity and inclusion, equal opportunity non-discrimination and building trust in the workplace

Mutual respect is the foundation to developing trust and to working in partnership. That is why we do not tolerate disrespectful behaviour, discrimination or harassment, including sexual harassment, or any threatening, hostile or abusive behaviour.

We work together without discrimination based upon an individual's race, colour, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, religion, disability, marital status, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, citizenship or any characteristic protected by law. We believe that diversity amongst employees with their varying perspectives, talents and contributions, enriches our interaction with clients, our website, and the communities in which we live and work. We support our employees' talents and strive to be an employer of choice.

We comply with all applicable laws providing equal opportunity and advancement opportunities for all individuals.

We strive to resolve employment-related complaints as quickly and as confidentially as possible and in a manner that is respectful to our employees.

We do not tolerate retaliation against anyone for making an employment related complaint or cooperating with an investigation concerning discrimination or harassment.

Doing the right thing – acting ethically

We want this kind of culture made by acting with integrity and holding ourselves to the highest ethical standards.

Acting with integrity
You must always act with integrity in your dealings with clients, colleagues, shareholders by abiding by this Code and applying its standards to everything that you do.
You should also comply with our client care and misconduct, advertising and complaints and estimates guidelines.

Ethical decision-making
Acting ethically is not only the right thing to do, but also the right way to do business – it serves the interests of our clients and stakeholders and is critical to achieving success in the longer term. In making decisions and determining the appropriate course of action, you must be guided by what

If there appears to be a conflict between this Code and local laws, rules or regulations, the more restrictive provisions apply. When you are faced with questions that go beyond those addressed in this Code, you should follow both the spirit of the Code and related bank policies that cover the issue. Escalate concerns to your supervisor, legal, compliance, AFC or other relevant function, or contact a manager in the Risk Management department or in the

Techniques of Response Modifiability

You are accountable for your actions or omissions, and will be held responsible for any improper or illegal acts. Your contract may be reported to regulators, which could result in civil or criminal penalties, as well as legal action against you and your individual incorporation, if applicable.

Abuse of position

If you are a supervisor or manager, it is important to be influential, decisive and effective. You will be more likely to succeed if you are able to influence others effectively. This can be done by being assertive, being open to feedback, and being willing to take risks. It is also important to be a good listener, to communicate clearly, and to be a good role model. By demonstrating these qualities, you will be more successful in your career.

MATERIALS

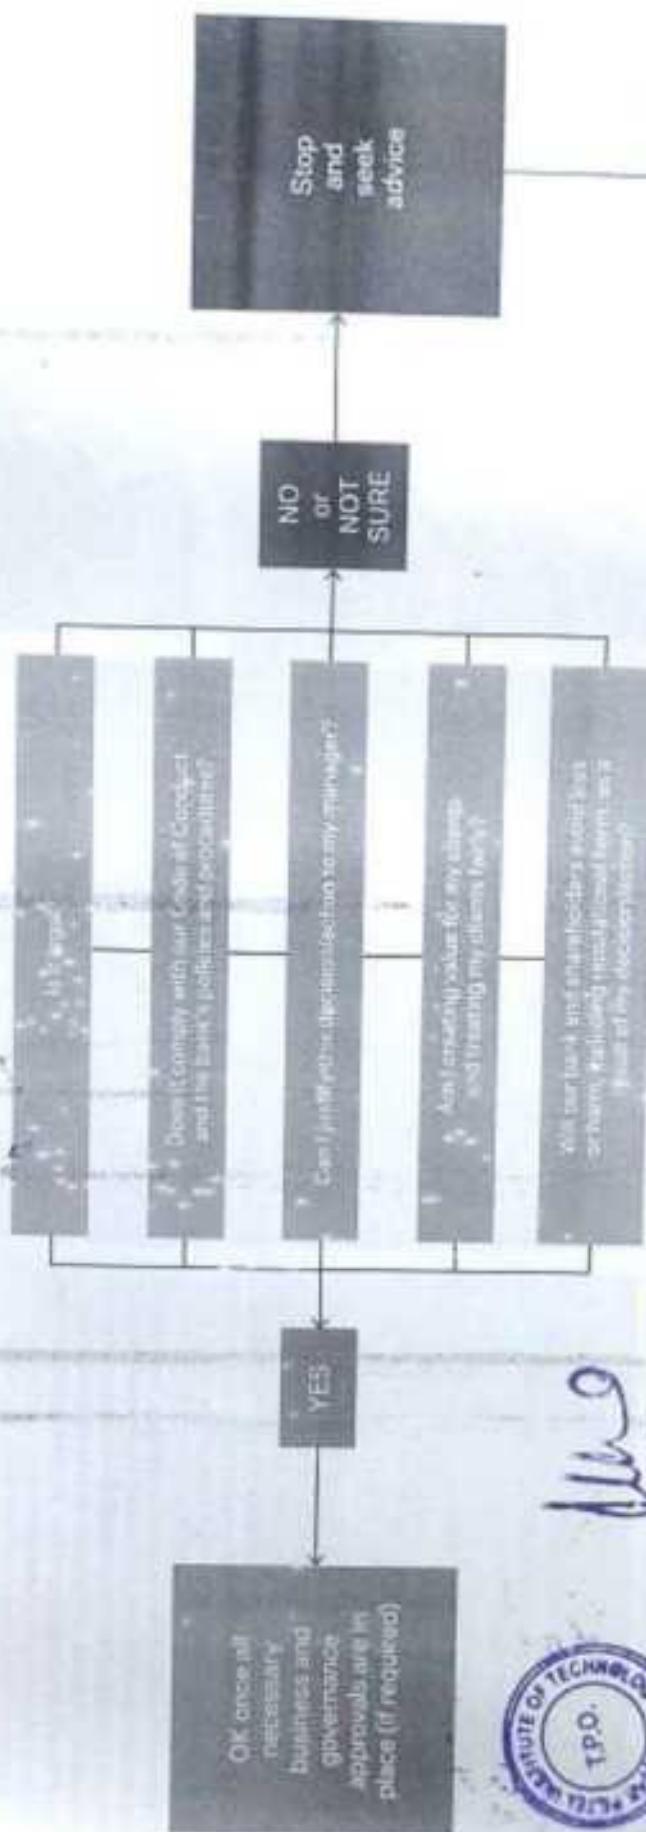

A close relationship between a mother and her child is important for the development of emotional dependency. All three mothers in our study had a positive relationship with their children, though one mother reported that she did not feel she had enough time for her son.

Decision-making tree

When faced with an ethical question or a challenging decision, you should ask yourself:

You should be able to answer "yes" to all questions. If you cannot tick "yes" to all questions, stop and seek advice from your supervisor, Compliance, AFC or Legal.

Responsibilities as a manager

If you are a manager, your employees will look to you for an example and to demonstrate the standards set out in the Code. You are responsible for creating an inclusive and diverse work environment that attracts and retains the best employees and partners your bank to flourish. This means acting and subsequently ensuring you send a message to your team to speak up and you need to be a good listener. As well as committed to supporting your employees in their work and development, your people-development skills should be a priority. Each of us, especially leaders and managers, must act with integrity and inspire trust.

As a manager, you are responsible for creating and maintaining an environment built on trust and safety, providing the foundation for giving and receiving regular feedback, that is balanced, open and actionable.

At the same time, you supervise the actions and conduct of your employees and are required to have an appropriate control environment for your business, designed to be responsive to applicable regulatory requirements. Part of that control environment includes encouraging individuals to ask questions and challenge, and setting the right tone in how we act.

Investment in skills and encouraging employees' professional and personal development are essential components to how a bank's people agenda. This is reflected in the talent and development agenda, which helps in developing and nurturing future leaders who are accountable, who champion the Code's standards and who live up to them in their behaviours.

You should recognise and reinforce leadership, good behaviour as well as acting swiftly to intervene in the case of inappropriate behaviours.

Note that you can be held responsible for the actions of someone of whom you supervise, particularly if you have not monitored the level of supervision expected by our laws under our regulations.

Risk awareness and acting as a risk manager

At Deutsche Bank, each one of us has a role to play in building a stronger, more resilient and sustainable bank. We aim to foster a culture of strong risk awareness and ownership, where all employees act as risk managers.

It is your responsibility to be aware of, understand and take a holistic view of the risks, which could result from your actions or decisions, and to manage those risks in line with the bank's risk appetite and risk management standards. For further information, reference the Risk Management Policy - Deutsche Bank Group.

Acting as a risk manager: What does it mean in practice?

- You need to be aware of what others in the bank do with respect to risk and how you can contribute effectively with your own risk management activities.
- You need to be able to assess and define risk.
- You need to be able to evaluate risk and decide if it is acceptable.
- You need to be able to communicate risk effectively.

Speaking up and raising concerns (including whistleblowing)

You are encouraged to raise all concerns, and you are expected to raise concerns related to possible violations of laws, rules, regulations, bank policies and conflicts of interest. Sometimes, these concerns can also involve third parties, including our clients and/or vendors/partners. Regardless of business or other pressures, you are expected to raise concerns promptly.

Managers are required to foster an environment where employees feel free to speak up, which means to express their views, raise concerns and escalate any issues that could negatively affect our business, our clients or our people, confident that they will be heard, acknowledged and addressed appropriately.

In addition, no one, at any level, has the authority to ask you to do something that is in breach of this Code or our equality policies or that is unethical or illegal. If you have any questions or concerns about a potential course of action, you should promptly escalate your questions or concerns.

What's wrong? Stop and seek advice

If you believe there is cause to say something about financial, legal, health, environmental, reputational or ethical issues, or if you are experiencing harassment, discrimination or other forms of abuse, approach a colleague, if necessary, or speak directly to your supervisor or manager.

There are various internal channels you can use to report potential misconduct or potential unethical behavior, including to your supervisor/Head of Department and/or to Compliance A/C, and HR Business Advisor. You may also use the Ethics Hotline which is an online, telephone and email-based channel for raising concerns, and which can be used either anonymously or non-anonymously.

Important Bank Group Whistleblowing Policy

For further information, reference the Banking Committee Whistleblowing Policy or Deutscher Bank G.U.S.

Non-retaliation

We seek to create an environment where every employee feels safe to speak up and raise concerns, including making or articulating misconduct, unethical behaviour or irresponsible acts known or known without fear of retaliation.

We prohibit retaliation against any individual for reporting concerns. We also prohibit retaliation against those who raise or compensate in a substantiated allegation of such concern. Retaliation must be any adverse action taken against a person because they reported or cooperated in an unreported or suspicious investigation.

Individually or as a single, an employee is subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. Allegations can also be held responsible for the behaviour of individuals under their supervision, who engage in retaliatory actions.

Protecting and handling confidential information

Q&A

Q1 A colleague asks me to share customer information from my former employer. She explains that this will be a great opportunity for the bank to acquire new customers, build trust (and financial products), and for her to meet her quarterly targets. Is this the right thing to do?

Our clients expect that we maintain the confidentiality of their information, whether that information relates to financial, personal or business matters. Our bank also expects that you maintain the confidentiality of its own information. Confidential information can be written, oral or electronic and includes a wide variety of data, such as from sources such as IT applications, strategies and customer lists. When in doubt, assume all information you receive is confidential. Inside information is a subset of confidential information and discussed later in the code.

You may not share, make available or disclose such confidential information to anyone inside or outside our bank, except on a "need to know" basis (i.e., with other staff who are involved in the transaction or providing the services and such disclosure is required for the proper execution of our bank's responsibilities). Sharing it more broadly (e.g., with other employees, could be inconsistent with a client's expectations or in breach of legal requirements, including a confidentiality agreement with the client. While information may be shared, you must limit the extent of information to what is required to achieve the stated business purpose and make sure the recipient knows that the information is confidential and subject to restrictions related to its use or dissemination.

It is never appropriate to share confidential information with family and/or friends. Even if you believe that a family member or friend will not misuse the information, it is not your information to share.

Data held by sensitive business areas are assured by Information Barriers (e.g., data relating to business areas classified as confidential are held behind the information barrier and are not accessible by other areas).

Restrictions on disclosing confidential information are not intended to, and should not, prevent employees from reporting or escalating any concern or responding to questions or requests from relevant regulators, law enforcement agencies, or their formally appointed agents, courts of law or our bank's monitors. For further information, reference the Use of Information of Client Confidential and Deutsche Bank Proprietary Information Policy – Global.

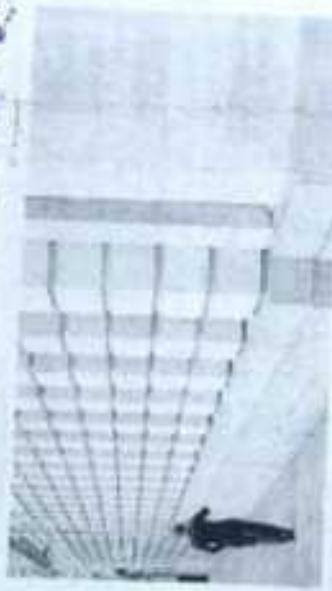

A2 I am a member of the clients of prior employer (including information from the clients of prior employer's clients) confidential information and should not be shared with our bank, or bank employees – to do so is unethical, unless it has already been made public through no action of yours or mine.

Q2 Marie in Finance is working with the DealerSide Bank project on the preparation of the bank's annual results. She has disclosed the latest news and forecasts to her manager, having promised Good, she notes that in effect, she has informed management of a current result rather than Jan which is. Has Marie acted illegally by sharing the bank's actual results in advance?

A2 She has not intentionally disclosed the information, so she would not be a criminal offence. Nonetheless, there is a problem. What has happened is the inadvertent leak of inside information. It is crucial that Marie immediately notifies the issue to Compliance, who will advise her how to proceed.

Conflicts of interest

Q&A

Q1. You are part of the CIO function and you are selecting a new software supplier for the bank. Your colleague works for one of the vendors. Is there a conflict?

A1. Yes, there is a potential conflict between you and the vendor because the fact that your colleague works for one of the vendors could be viewed as influencing your judgment. You should make sure that the bank is aware of the potential conflict, and you should not be involved in the selection of the vendor.

Many of the major problems that have occurred in the industry, including here at our bank, involved conflicts of interest. A conflict of interest arises where one or more persons or entities have competing interests and the serving of one interest may involve detriment to another. As a global financial services provider, our business inevitably gives rise to actual, potential and perceived conflicts. Examples of potential conflicts include: in Markets, acting as principal with a client or as an agent between a buying and selling client in Banking, acting on behalf of an issuer of securities while managing our risk in Asset Management and Wealth Management, being incentivised to create or sell products that may be to the detriment of our clients or the market.

When identifying conflicts, be sensitive to the fact that conflicts can arise in a variety of relationships, including:

- Between our clients
- Between a client and our bank or our employees
- Between a service provider and an employee or the bank, and
- Between and among different group entities or business divisions of our bank.

The objectivity and independence of the research output. Any such attempt, by a client, internal stakeholder or otherwise, must be conducted in accordance with the bank's policy.

Q2. You work at a local branch in Berlin. You just received a call from a customer that is a small-sized business looking for some short-term working capital. The logical choice for the client is a short-term loan, but your colleague has suggested that you should pitch a credit card option, which would attract much higher fees for the bank. Should you advise the customer to opt for a credit card?

A2. Yes, this situation highlights an actual conflict of interest between the bank and its client because according to the client's demands would compromise its financial position.

Q3. You work at a local branch in Berlin. You just received a call from a customer that is a small-sized business looking for some short-term working capital. The logical choice for the client is a short-term loan, but your colleague has suggested that you should pitch a credit card option, which would attract much higher fees for the bank. Should you advise the customer to opt for a credit card?

A3. No. The best option for the customer is the loan. The suggestion that you should earn higher fees by recommending a credit card at the expense of the customer's needs is not appropriate and would be a failure to manage the conflict arising between the interests of the client and the bank.

to the Business Selection and Conflicts Office, Compliance, Human Resources or Legal so that they can be addressed appropriately. You should not abuse your position at our bank by, among other things, exercising inappropriate influence on behalf of, or choosing inappropriate treatment towards, an individual with whom you have a close personal relationship or a family connection.

Conflicts can be managed and, in dealing with potential conflicts, you should act with integrity and use good judgement — in a manner consistent with this Code and our policies, and ask for guidance or necessary

Anti-Financial crime

Our bank advocates the development of sound regulations and internal procedures to combat Financial crime, including tax evasion. These requirements are also intended to prevent our bank from committing or facilitating – intentionally or negligently – criminal offences.

You are personally accountable for adhering to all applicable statutory and regulatory responsibilities to prevent financial crime. To support you in meeting those obligations, our bank's Anti-Financial Crime (AFC) department is mandated by the Management Board to develop and implement policies, procedures and processes to minimise AFC risk within our bank, and enhance them on a continuous basis, at both global and local levels.

For further information, reference the Financial Crime Risk Statement.

Anti-money laundering/anti-terrorism financing

Many laundering is the intentional movement of cash and/or assets derived from illegal and criminal activities into the legal, financial and/or business system. The attempt to disguise the true source or ownership of the funds, to disrupt the ultimate disposition of the funds and to eliminate audit trails in part of the laundering process. Underlying crimes are defined by local laws and could comprise, for example, money laundering, extortion, human trafficking, robbery, drug crime as well as fraud, corruption, organised crime, or terrorism.

Terrorism financing is defined as the providing, depositing, distributing or collecting of funds, by any means, intended to be used, or knowing that they are to be wholly or partially used, for committing terrorist acts. It is not relevant whether such funds are of legal or illegal origin.

Economic sanctions regulations & anti-boycott rules

National Authorities and supranational organisations (e.g. the United Nations and the European Union) impose restrictive measures against targeted countries, as well as countries, organisations, groups, entities and individuals who engage internationally accepted behaviour and harm, including those who have been identified as being involved in weapons proliferation as:

- terrorists or supporters of terrorist organisations;
- violators of human rights; or
- being involved in bribery and corruption.

Such measures are more commonly known as embargoes or sanctions. Our bank has identified Prohibited and Restricted Special Risk Countries in order to better safeguard against sanctions risks.

You are required to comply with applicable embargoes and sanctions as well as our Bank's requirements on Special Risk Countries. Non-compliance can result in your bank, as well as you personally, to civil, regulatory and criminal penalties, including substantial monetary fines and, in the case of individuals, prison. Non-compliance with embargoes and sanctions also poses a substantial reputational risk for our bank. It is also important to note that there are anti-boycott rules in place that protect against and counteract the effects of extra-territorial application of specific sanctions regulations imposed by other jurisdictions. If you have any concerns, consult with AFCU before proceeding.

Q&A

Q: A client calls to let him know they will be exporting Goods to a defence company based in Russia. The client wants to know if we will support the transactions related to the shipment. This escalates this information to Regional Sanctions – what will likely be the outcome?

A: We would need further information on the goods, transactions and end-user to understand what is proposed and determine whether the transaction may violate applicable sanctions.

Key learning point: Sanctions can be broad in scope, so you need to understand the impact of sanctions on your business activities.

If in doubt, you must escalate your concerns to your local AFC Team, Regional Sanctions & Embargo Team or the Global AFC Sanctions & Embargo Team.

Q&A

Q: Deutsche Bank operates globally and many require the support of agents. In different jurisdictions to act on its behalf and provide local expertise. Could Deutsche Bank be liable for any bribes paid by Business Development Consultants (BDCs) or external advisors used to help the bank win business?

A: Yes. Deutsche Bank could be liable for bribery paid by agents operating on behalf of the bank, like BDCs. How can you reduce the risk? Due care and skills must be exercised when selecting and dealing with BDCs and other agents. Our bank's policies must always be followed. For further information, reference the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Bribery and corruption

Our bank is committed to complying with all applicable anti-bribery and corruption laws and regulations. Our bank respects transparency and integrity in all of its business dealings to avoid any improper advantage or the appearance of unacceptable conduct by its employees and associated third parties.

Bribery and corruption risks can arise in a number of areas that we deal with every day. Examples include: gifts and entertainment, interacting with public officials, customers, one of their partners, distribution of goods and services, hiring practices, and acquisition. You are responsible for preventing, detecting, and reporting bribery and other forms of corruption in connection with our bank's businesses.

Bribery or corruption in any form is not tolerated by our bank. You and third parties associated with your business are prohibited from offering, promising, giving or authorising, any form of solicitation, agreement to reward, or accepting, anything that constitutes, or could be perceived as, constituting bribery or corruption.

For further information, reference the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Fair and free markets

You must not engage in activities, practices or conduct that are manipulative, illegal, anti-competitive, or unethical. This means that conflicts between our bank and/or its clients, that are contrary to industry standards or applicable regulations, or that are otherwise damaging to our bank's reputation.

Our bank has a policy in place to specifically address Market Conduct as well as standards for specific bank products. For further information, reference the Market Conduct Policy & Global.

Q&A

Q. You purchased 5,000 shares in XYZ Ltd. You then spread a rumour online that XYZ Ltd. is the subject of a takeover bid from Predator plc. The story spreads and makes its way into the media, causing the share price to rise significantly. You then make a profit by selling your shares. Shortly thereafter, Predator plc makes a formal statement LBO fails back to its previous level. How you do you anything wrong?

A. Yes. You have engaged in market manipulation that has distorted the price of XYZ Ltd. shares by spreading false rumours. This is illegal.

Market conduct, market manipulation and market abuse

Protecting the integrity of financial markets is critical to promoting fair and efficient markets and investor confidence. Inappropriate market conduct undermines fairness, efficiency and confidence in the markets.

Market manipulation/market abuse can have a significant negative impact on our clients, the financial markets and our bank as a whole.

As such, all business conducted by our employees must be driven by legitimate reasons and must be conducted in a manner that avoids or minimises market disruption.

Abuse of information and insider trading
In the course of your work at our bank, you may come into possession of inside information, also referred to as material, non-public, price sensitive information (PNI or MNPI). While the definition may vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, inside information can be described as information which has not been made public, relating directly or indirectly to one or more issuers or to one or more financial instruments, and which, if it were made public, would likely have a material effect on the prices of those financial instruments or on the price of related derivative financial instruments.

While you are in possession of confidential information, especially inside information, you are under a duty of confidentiality in respect of the information you receive and may only use or disclose such information with due authorization and do a need to know basis. Using such information for your personal gain or sharing with others who use it for their personal gain – so called "Tipping" – is illegal and prohibited by the City and our bank's policies.

For further information, reference the Information Policy & Deutsche Bank Code.

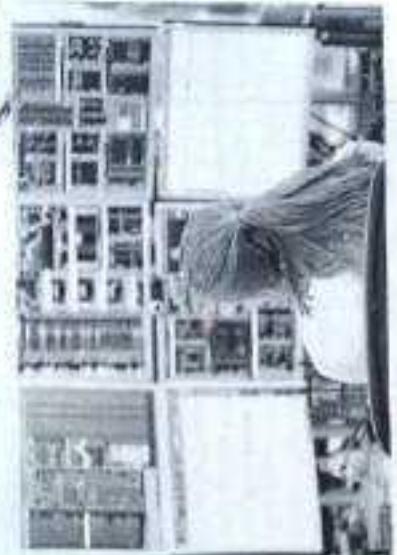

Q&A

Q. I have learned that Deutsche Bank is considering the acquisition of a small, publicly-traded company. As an employee of the bank, may I acquire the stock of this company in anticipation of the acquisition? May I share this information with my cousin so that she can acquire the shares?

A. No. Trading on and tipping others who trade on inside information is illegal and a violation of this Code.

Antitrust

Ensuring that enterprises act fairly and comply with applicable antitrust laws is a key priority of this bank. The competition authority is under clear statutory framework and objectives and public procedures. Understanding the basic concepts of the antitrust rules and the limitation that they can impose on your activities, and being able to identify activities or conduct where there could be risks is crucial for you and our bank.

Antitrust laws promote free competition by making certain anti-competitive practices illegal. The participants caught by antitrust laws encompass a wide range of market-dominating behaviour around the globe. This behaviour includes agreements and practice of the restrict competition, trading in concert with a competitor, agreements with competitors on pricing, agreements to exclude others from a transaction, facilitating the exchange of competitively sensitive information, and violations of merger control rules.

Q&A

- Q. As a Deutsche Bank Swap trader, you contribute streaming of live prices to three trading venues that are used by the administration of a daily benchmark. The benchmark is calculated off tradeable quotes from regulated, electronic, multilateral trading venues and represents the mid-price for $1000s (traded leg) at particular times of the day.
- Early one morning a long-standing colleague, who now works for another bank, emails you with the following message:
- "Hi Matey,
- Need a favour from you. Can you rigudge your GBP/BID down a couple of bps on TradeX today? I know you don't do much volume on that venue anyway so you're unlikely to be hit and it would be a great help to me. I can return the favour sometime in the future to help you out."
- Is it acceptable to agree to the proposition?
- A. No. Any form of collusion among competitors in order to manipulate, or to attempt to manipulate or help facilitate some to manipulate, benchmarks, price fixes or reference rates capable of distorting the normal course of pricing is not acceptable.

Even if your attempt to influence normal market conditions is sufficient to shake this behaviour (illegal) and be in violation of antitrust laws.

Treating clients fairly, communicating with clients, and handling customer complaints

Q&A

- Q. Theo works in a retail branch. He has been told that the incentive this year is a 0% pay rise if he meets the target for the year end. An existing retail client wants to be reassured about whether the small rewards he received – for helping him to open his new account recently – will be included in his annual review. Theo is a good employee.

Treating clients fairly
As a bank, we have defined our mission as client centric, and part of our success is through creating value to our clients by the solutions we provide and services we offer. Critical to our strategy is delivering what we承诺ed to our clients and treating them fairly and transparently.

In practical terms, it means that we may not turn under-informed or unwise or disadvantageous through manipulation, concealment, abuse of confidential information, sharing or using it inappropriately, misrepresentation of material facts or unfair advantage or privilege.

For staff members failing to fulfil their obligations, you should understand your customers' needs, expectations and interests in order to provide them with appropriate solutions that lead to the right outcomes for them based on their stated requirements, application and attitude to risk.

You must always act fairly, honestly and transparently and avoid prioritising customers with undue preferential treatment, including over other clients.

Communicating with clients

It is important when dealing with our clients that our communications – both oral and written, are fair, clear and accurate. Statements that can be viewed as misleading or that omit material information, including information important to making an investment decision – whatever the client is retail, professional or institutional – can violate applicable law. Fair, clear and accurate communication protects the bank and you.

B. Theo's colleague has approached him regarding his recent statement to a client. Theo has been told that the client is a high net-worth individual, who is a "superior client", for which he will receive a higher commission. He explains that they are similar to retail clients but have a high-commission client structure and states that they are not any riskier than bonds of a blue-chip corporation.

Was the rationale here in the product mix to live up to the risk appetite of the retail client, i.e., was it suitable?

Did the advisor the product suitability?

Was he in authority?

Was his judgment dictated by his personal interests? Should the bank have considered whether the incentive programme would influence bad outcomes for clients?

- A.
- Then no, told the product was misrepresented, the importance of the risk profile in the product. He did not consider whether this was a suitable product for the client and sold a product for which he would receive a higher commission and, therefore, a better chance of meeting a target set by the bank.

Treating clients fairly, communicating with clients, and handling customer complaints (continued)

Customer complaints

A complainant means any complainant of dissatisfaction or grievance, regardless of whether it is filed on or not, from or on behalf of a customer or another party about our bank's provision of, or failure to provide, financial services (for example, the execution of any transaction, or the disposition of securities or funds). This may also include public relations matters regarding our bank's business practices that have the potential of damaging our bank's reputation, brand and market value. Complaints may be received from a complainant directly or through an authorised third party and can be submitted via various means, including letter, telephone, email, or in person. They may also involve a demand, express or implied, for a payment or adjustment.

You must promptly make all complaints to your supervisor. Actual or potential errors or complaints that could result in a client dispute must be referred to Legal and Compliance and any complaints, errors or irregularities relating to consumer protection breaches of regulatory or legal requirements on Legal and Compliance. All errors and complaints must be addressed as soon as practicable.

For further information, refer to the Minimum Requirements for Handling and Resolving all Complaints – Section 50.

Q:

Q. You have received a call from a client concerned that there are unusual transactions which they do not recognise on their account, and their statements are arriving much later than usual. Is this a complaint if you think the delay is due to system problems?

Do you have the complaint to your supervisor immediately or only if the client complains a point? Do you regard this as a complaint for Complaints Handling process used by your business?

A:

You refer the complaint to your supervisor immediately and aware that it is properly reflected in a complaint in your business' Complaints Handling procedure.

In most jurisdictions, there are requirements stipulating reporting to and reporting complaints. Further, complainants can be an indicator of a broader problem. The sooner the problem is reported, the sooner the body can take action.

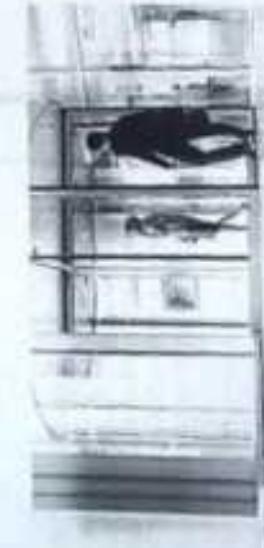

Protecting customer assets and accounts

The protection of customer assets and accounts is paramount. Each division is responsible for implementing policies necessary to ensure client monies and assets are kept safe, safe-keeping and the disbursements of customer assets are only made by the holders of accounts, and in the case of custody accounts, by their agents on the basis of a power of attorney, or by virtue of a court order or other official measure. Balances on customers' dormant accounts and custody accounts with no known address may not be booked to revenues by our bank.

For further information, refer to the M&D II Safeguarding Client Assets and Funds (S&A) Policy—Client and the Business Relationships with Intermediary Customers Contract (Unclaimed Assets) Policy.

Employee related activities

Preliminary views are listed on various thresholds set out in the policy referenced in the next paragraph.
For further information, refer to the A&E Policy Note
Circular 1/2019 – Corporate Governance

Avoiding and disclosing personal conflicts of interests

Employees must disclose any potential conflict of interest. For example, if you have a close personal relationship with a vendor or a client, or you have a close personal relationship with your subordinate employees, then this will need to be disclosed. There are also other areas where our bank is required by law or due to the appearance of a conflict of interest to impose limitations and/or requirements on employees. These include:

- Business expenditure
- Personal account dealing (employee trading)
- Outside business interests
- Political contributions

510

Business expenditure

Our bank does not permit the offering or accepting of business expenditure such as gifts, entertainment or business events and roadshows attendance, unless they are reasonable, proportionate and for a legitimate business purpose.

You must not create a situation that would involve a conflict of interest, divided loyalty or the appearance of an improper attempt to influence business decisions.

It is important to keep in mind that a gift is anything of value that is offered to or accepted from a counterpart (i.e. any person our bank does business with in the course of business). Gifts can be of monetary or non-monetary nature, including benefits or advantages such as tickets, jerseys, artwork, fruit baskets, and charitable donations.

Entertainment means all forms of corporate hospitality offered to or accepted from counterparts, including social events, sporting, cultural or recreational activities, ticketed events, drinks, dinners, etc.

To avoid the risk of an appearance of impropriety, you must obtain relevant pre-approvals before giving or receiving any form of gift or entertainment via Concourse Direct, Concur Request or other applicable system.

Employee related activities (continuity)

Personal account dealing (employee trading)

Our bank sets out a Personal Account Dealing Policy to meet legal and regulatory requirements, to avoid even the appearance of insider trading and to other potential conflict.

It is your responsibility not to trade based on erroneous take advantage of inside information and not to use your personal interests over those of our bank or its clients when engaging in trading for your personal or related party accounts.

You should be familiar with the Personal Account Dealing Policy, which is designed so that personal investment activities are conducted appropriately.

Where required, you should notify Compliance of your personal trading accounts including those held at our bank or with a designated broker.

Where pre-clearance or approval are required, you must obtain pre-clearance/approval via the E-Trade system. To make a request, Application, i.e., the ETRA system, prior to engaging in personal account trading, personal trading accounts where you have fully disclosed the investment risk/agreement agreement and where you cannot exercise any influence or discretion are required to be disclosed.

There are minimum holding periods for investments which vary by location and duration which are set out within the policy. For further information, refer to the Investment Account Dealing Policy or Disclosure Statement.

It is your responsibility not to trade based on erroneous take advantage of inside information and not to use your personal interests over those of our bank or its clients when engaging in trading for your personal or related party accounts.

You should be familiar with the Personal Account Dealing Policy, which is designed so that personal investment activities are conducted appropriately.

Remember:

You must prioritise the interests of our bank and its clients ahead of your own personal trading interest.

As such, you are prohibited from:

- Entering into transactions involving a conflict of interest between an employee and our bank or its clients;
- Using your access to proprietary information or client information in any way to advantage your or anyone else's personal investing; and
- Entering into transactions that breach potential reputational or regulatory risk to our bank.

Outside business interests

You are expected to devote your best efforts and abilities to our bank. Outside Business Interests are certain interests or activities undertaken by employees outside their role at or with our bank, whether or not compensated, that may create a potential conflict of interest. These are generally positions in external organisations such as directorships or partnerships, as well as other employment or appointments to public offices. Minimum standards have been set to avoid or manage conflicts with any Outside Business Interest and the duties of the employee, to protect our bank and its staff against reputational risk, avoid interference with your responsibilities to our bank, and to assist Compliance in the identification and prevention or mitigation of conflicts. You are required to disclose and obtain approval prior to engaging or agreeing to engage in an Outside Business Interest via GECCO.

For further information, reference the Outside Business Interests Policy - Deutsche Bank Group.

Criminal investigations

If you become the subject of any criminal investigation, you must inform without delay your local HR Manager who will inform Group HR, Legal, Compliance and AIC.

In certain jurisdictions, there are limitations, restrictions and reporting requirements on the exercise of political activities in the US. Such regulations apply to all US citizens and US Department residents regardless of work location. Please contact Local Compliance for advice prior to engaging in any political activities.

So that conflicts of interest are avoided, colleagues are expected to exercise discretion and not become involved in matters of political controversy that may compromise the interests of our bank and/or their role.

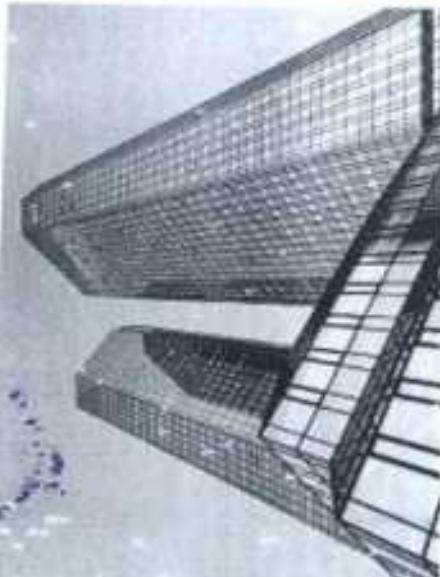

Any material political activity must be approved in advance by your supervisor and Compliance.

Political contributions

Our bank is a politically neutral organisation and does not engage in party political campaigning or make party political donations. Our bank conducts dialogue with Government officials relevant to our business and any communication undertaken is honest and accurate.

Our bank expects its employees to be active in the political process. If you are involved in political activity in a personal capacity you have a responsibility to make sure that this is kept entirely separate from your duties as an employee and that our bank's funds or resources (including time) are not used for political purposes. It is not permitted for any employee to coerce or pressure other employees to make political contributions.

Communications, the media, social media and interactions with our regulators

Q&A

- Q You have received a phone call from a journalist who is asking the whereabouts of a client. You met with the client in the morning and she told you she was flying today to Eastern Europe for business. The journalist says that your client is in the middle of striking a very important business deal and promises that he will write a positive piece about Deutsche Bank. If you help him out with the information he needs, you are not an authorized spokesperson for the bank. Is it appropriate to reveal your client's whereabouts?

- A. No. You must decline to speak to him and refer him to your local Press Office. Client information must be treated in confidence. It would be a major breach of trust to pass this information to anyone outside the bank.

You are not permitted to speak to the external media unless you have been appointed and received formal training as an authorised Deutsche Bank spokesperson and media contacts should always be referred to or logged with your local Press Office.

You must not make any statements in the name of our bank, or release any information or documents to the media either directly or through a third party, unless expressly authorised to do so by the appropriate Communications team.

For further information, reference the Media Policy – Credit & the Banks Contact.

53

Responding to media inquiries

Unless authorised to speak to the media, you must refer all media enquiries concerning business activities, clients, employees, officers or members of the Management Board or Supervisory Board of our bank to the appropriate Communications team.

If you plan to have or you had contact with a media representative you have to inform Corporate Communications in a timely manner.

You must not make any statements in the name of our bank, or release any information or documents to the media either directly or through a third party, unless expressly authorised to do so by the appropriate Communications team.

For further information, reference the Media Policy – Credit & the Banks Contact.

Electronic and voice communications

The use of electronic communication facilities and the recording of voice communications can be subject to the laws and regulations of multiple jurisdictions. Principles have therefore been established to safeguard information due to set minimum requirements for appropriate actions, monitoring and usage.

Q Only Deutsche Bank approved communication devices and applications may be used for the conduct of any bank business whether by email, chat or other electronic messaging. If you are required to use recorded lines, you must comply with the Client Recording Policy to ensure that your conversations are recorded. Participating in multi-party/multi-entity chat rooms and other public chat rooms in connection with any bank business or with our bank's equipment is generally prohibited (certain exceptions apply with relevant pre-approvals).

Our bank is required to retain records relating to electronic and voice communications generated by employees and undertakes surveillance of them. Additionally, electronic and voice communications may be subject to disclosure or other requirements in litigation, regulatory and law enforcement inquiries, internal investigations and/or other proceedings, and/or subject to monitoring or surveillance. Employees are expected to allow the Bank to meet legal retention requirements, and, where legally permitted, will be asked to provide DB electronic communications that appear to be related to a DB activity that occurred on a non-DB approved electronic communication system.

Our bank reserves the right to monitor, review, access, record and disclose information and data, which is created, sent, received, downloaded or stored on our bank's electronic or telephonic systems or on the bank's premises, subject to local data privacy restrictions.

For further information, reference the Electronic Communication Systems Policy – Deutsche Bank Group – Telephone, Email and other End User Devices Policy.

Communications, the media, social media and interactions with our regulators (continued)

Social media

Recent years have shown a growth of social media services, which has fundamentally changed inter-geographical communications, built online communities, and increased virtual interactions. Our reputation is dependent upon appropriate and professional media and public relations. In order to protect our reputation and brand, only authorised employees may set up and operate a social media channel in the name of our bank. This restriction does not apply to discussion of personal matters outside of work and on non-bank equipment.

You should always use good judgment in your use of social media and other online activities, even in connection with personal matters. Postings on internet and/or social media sites referencing our bank, your responsibilities, our clients or your bank colleagues may have an impact not only on you but our bank as well, and may constitute a breach of privacy laws, misuse of confidential information or other policies. Your social media activities are also governed by the laws applicable in the country where you work, as well as employees' policies and guidelines of your respective division or the region in which you work also apply.

For questions about the use of social media, please contact Digital Communications.

Interactions with supervisory authorities

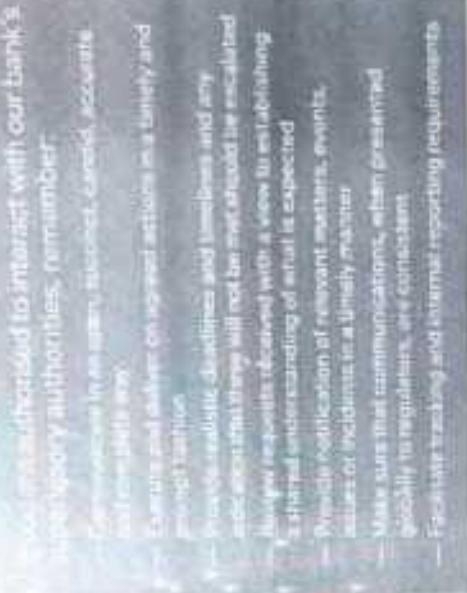

Our bank is committed to act in an open and transparent way with all its Supervisory Authorities and to promote trust-based cooperation. Failure to do so could result in regulatory sanctions, reputational damage and/or significant financial penalties.

Relationships with the supervisory departments of our bank's Supervisory Authorities are managed by Regulation, Compliance, Country Management or other teams responsible for regulatory relationships and subject matter experts (representing the business divisions and infrastructure functions). Each Supervisory Authority generally has a bank Principal Point of Contact.

Any communications that are received by anyone other than the Principal Point of Contact should be escalated to Compliance or the relevant team responsible for regulatory relationships, who will re-route the communication to the relevant Principal Point of Contact. Communication to the Supervisory Authorities by any department or individual, other than the Principal Point of Contact should first be escalated and passed through the Principal Point of Contact. You must adhere to certain minimum standards in any interaction with our bank's Supervisory Authorities.

For further information, reference the Supervisory Authorities & Legal & Risk Policy - Deutsche Bank Group.

Deutsche Bank Group - Legal & Control

In addition, we are required to maintain the confidentiality of any examination or supervisory information received from Supervisory Authorities ("Confidential Supervisory Information"). The definition of Confidential Supervisory Information is broad and includes any information that is prepared by, on behalf of, or for the use of a Supervisory Authority, including information "related to" an examination, inspection or visitation of an institution. The various Supervisory Authorities have similar, but not identical, requirements regarding the disclosure of Confidential Supervisory Information. However, as a general principle, Confidential Supervisory Information may not be disclosed to a third party, including an agent of our bank, without the express written consent of the relevant Supervisory Authority.

You should contact the relevant team responsible for regulatory relationships before sharing any regulatory information.

Sustainability and respecting human rights

We maintain sound governance in line with laws and internal guidelines. We established sustainability frameworks, such as the United Nations Global Compact and the United Nations Sustainability Development Goals, provide guidance for our thinking and actions.

We ensure that our internal and external commitments are safeguarded by robust processes and controls. In this context we make the respect of human rights including the prevention of child labour, modern slavery and human trafficking a priority. The same accounts for combating climate change. We strive to be the employer-of-choice for present and future employees and to invest in society and create a positive impact by supporting well-being initiatives; by our staff we serve our communities and encourage and support our employees in these efforts.

In alignment with one of our core values "sustainable performance" and based on our sustainability principles, we are committed to considering the long-term effects of our activities and to generating sustainable value for our clients, employees, investors and society at large. This means that we consider and assess the direct and indirect economic, social and environmental aspects and impacts of our business decisions.

We strive to mitigate the positive impact of our business decisions and to support a sustainable future for society and the environment. We monitor and mitigate the possible negative impacts and we apply restorative due diligence processes to balance and to solve emerging conflicts of interest and ethical situations.

You must act in the spirit of our sustainability principles listed below and scrutinise any activity against them:

- Do you have a solid understanding of success with environmental and social sustainability?
- Do you have a clear understanding of the environmental and social impact of your business activities?
- Do you have a solid understanding of sustainable growth?
- Do you understand internationally recognised principles and standards?

We believe that our sustainability strategy is firmly grounded in robust governance, policies and processes:

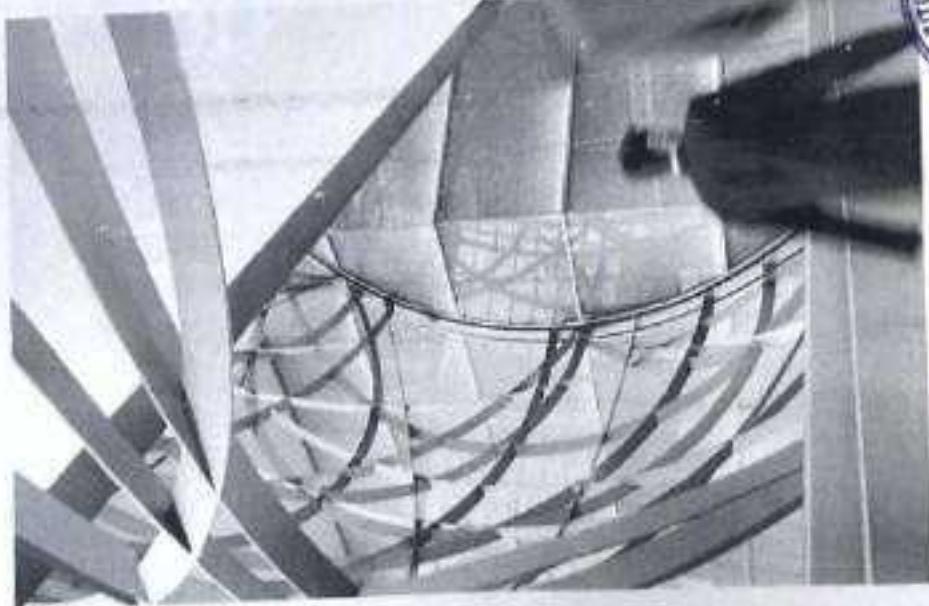

- Do you encourage transparent communication and open dialogue with stakeholders?

You should ask yourself:

- Does a proposed business transaction or initiative prevent any risk to the environment or society?
- Are there appropriate controls in place to manage the risks associated with the proposed transaction?
- Are you focusing only on near-term results without looking at potential long-term risks?
- Are you confident that your actions could stand up to public scrutiny?
- Are you using your skills to build social capital and to benefit society?

Safeguarding our bank's interests

Information security

Each division is responsible for implementing policies necessary to observe banking secrecy laws and to maintain an appropriate level of information security. For further information, refer to the Information Security Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

You must also take steps to ensure you follow these policies to protect information against loss, non-authorised changes and manipulation.

Protecting Deutsche Bank's assets

Our bank's assets include:

- Physical assets, such as office furnishings, equipment and supplies;
- Technology assets, such as hardware, software and information systems;
- Financial assets, such as cash, securities and credit cards;
- Our bank's name, its brand and its customer relationships;
- Information assets, such as intellectual property, including about products, services, systems and other data.

Our bank's assets should be used only for the conduct of our bank's business, except where otherwise provided by the Code or other bank policies. All physical and technology assets provided by our bank, whether used inside or outside the workplace are our bank's property and provided for your business use. Never sell, lend or give away or any such assets, regardless of their condition or value unless you are authorised to do so. In general, you should not use our bank's assets for other personal activities, through reasonable professional use is permitted. However, it should not interfere with your business obligations. Any work product created in the course of your work while at our bank is an asset of our bank. Assets, including information, presentations, spreadsheets, models, applications, etc., that you create are our bank's property.

Data protection

The collection, use, retrieval and transfer of client information must comply with data protection laws, our policies and any contractual obligations. Client confidentiality – as discussed previously – is critical and you should seek to protect it at all times. You are prohibited from collecting, processing or using personal data unless authorised to do so. Personal data may only be obtained for lawful purposes and should be processed fairly and lawfully. Data should only be maintained for as long as necessary and should be relevant to the purpose for which it is collected. All data must be secured to prevent unauthorised access, alteration, transmission, publication, loss or damage. You must ensure that the competent Data Protection/Privacy Officer is informed of all new plans to process personal data in order to comply with regulatory requirements and avoid reputational risk. Errors, irregularities and breaches should be escalated promptly to your supervisor.

For further information, reference the Data Protection & Privacy Policy – Deutsche Bank Group.

Authority to act

Your authority to act on behalf of our bank is limited by various laws, rules, regulations, corporate charters, by-laws and board resolutions as well as our bank's policies. You need to be aware of these, how they affect your role, and of the responsibilities attached to it. You should never sign any documents or otherwise represent our bank, or authorise any action on our bank's behalf, unless you have specific authority and have the required knowledge to do so. You should know the limits of your authority and act within those limits.

Records

Maintaining accurate books and records is fundamental to meeting our legal, regulatory and business requirements. You are responsible for maintaining accurate and complete records and for complying with all the controls and policies our bank has in place.

You should never falsify any book, record or account that relates to the business of our bank, its customers, employees (including your own activities) with our bank or suppliers.

You must never disclose or retain information that may be relevant to pending or threatened litigation or an inquiry/proceeding unless you are authorised to do so by the Legal Department. You must also comply with applicable record retention policies.

Five things to know if you're transferring from an external to an internal Deutsche Bank employee

1. Your Human Resources ID should not change. Everybody at Deutsche Bank has a life-long-ID. Your HR recruiter and Deutsche Bank sponsor/manager should know this when they start the process on Workday. For more information please refer to this Workday training.
2. You will keep all of your DeuBa/DBE/DBG account data, mails, tools, and applications if your change between external and internal employment is immediate (i.e. less than 30 days) and your email address stays the same. Please note: if for some reason or another your email address does need to be changed, data can be retrieved with a "data transfer request" via your line manager and dbsupport+.
3. Should you plan to take a longer break, your Deutsche Bank sponsor/new manager can amend the date via the dbAccessGate portal with an approval of the Chief BISO of your department. For more information please refer to this Workday training. In case of issues: Please open a ticket in dbsupport+ and ask for help from the "IAM_dbAccessGate_Ops"-team. For more help from DBAccessGate please visit their myDB page.
4. Please note that under your employment contract it is not permissible for you to upload any non-public Deutsche Bank data to any personal or non-Deutsche-Bank-compliant sites or databases. Non-compliance with this is a serious breach and may lead to consequences up to the termination of your contract as well as a claim of compensation by Deutsche Bank.
5. Should you need to share information prior to leaving Deutsche Bank as an external, please follow the standard hand over process of saving business sensitive data or messages. Dear Abhishek Chopra,

Your Employment by J.P. Morgan

Congratulations on joining the J.P. Morgan family. We are pleased to confirm your employment with J.P. Morgan Services India Private Limited (the "Company").

You will find your personal employment terms outlined in Appendix A with general employment terms and conditions in Appendix B. Please note these terms and conditions supersede any verbal discussions you may have previously had with any J.P. Morgan employee with regards to your employment arrangements.

A number of important policies will apply to your employment with the Company, including the Personal Account Dealing Policy and the Code of Conduct. We provide more information about these policies in Appendix C and it is essential that you carefully read and understand their requirements. By signing this letter, you confirm that you have read, understood and agree to be bound by these policies. In addition, you will be required to abide by all other Company policies and regulations (including JPMorgan Chase group of companies ("Group") policies) and with applicable law.

Should you have queries in relation to your employment terms, your benefits or Company policies, please contact our HR Answers hotline at 000 800 440 5210 (local toll free) or +1 212-552-5100 (international).

Please be reminded your employment terms should be treated with the strictest confidence. To accept this offer of employment, please click on the 'Accept' button at the bottom of this page on or before 24-Mar-2023.

We are excited to welcome you to our Company and take this opportunity to wish you every success in taking this next step of your career with us.

APPENDIX A - Personal Employment Terms and Conditions

A1. Title/Category

You will join us as a/an Full-time Analyst in the Software Engineer Program, Class of 2023, at JPMorgan Chase & Co. and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

Your position and title may change as a result of successful completion of the Program, promotion, or other operational requirements of the Company's business.

A2. Employment Commencement Date

Your employment is expected to commence on 01-Jun-2023. We will confirm any change to this date to you in writing in advance.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours / Place of Work

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during J.P. Morgan's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfil your duties.

You will normally work at the Company's offices in Mumbai, but you may be required to work at any other location of the Company or its affiliates, as required by the Company.

A4. Remuneration

Your total fixed pay will be INR 13,00,000 per annum and comprises the following components:

Rupees p.a.

1. Basic Salary	3,90,000
2. Leave Travel Assistance	40,000
3. House Rent Allowance	1,95,000
4. Provident Fund	46,800
5. Special Allowance	6,28,200
A. Total Fixed Pay	13,00,000

Special Cash Award

As soon as administratively practical and typically within 60 days from your start date, we will pay you a one-time sign-on award of INR 1,50,000, less applicable taxes and deductions.

If your employment with J.P. Morgan terminates for any reason other than job elimination within twelve months after your start date, you must repay to J.P. Morgan the full amount of this cash payment, within 30 days of your termination date. You agree that J.P. Morgan may satisfy all or part of this repayment obligation by withholding, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any amounts not yet paid to you at the time you leave J.P. Morgan.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will be paid a one-time Relocation lump sum of INR 1,25,000/-, which is taxable and will be paid within a reasonable period after your start date. The relocation lump sum coverage includes the cost of air and tickets, other transportation and hotel stay of your choice.

If you resign or are terminated for any reason other than job elimination (as determined within the company's discretion) within 12 months of your commencement date, you agree to reimburse the Company in full for the amount of any relocation lump sum you have received in connection with this employment offer. This reimbursement shall become due and payable within 30 days of your last day of employment with the Company. Further, the Company may seek reimbursement by withholding any other payments not yet paid to you at the time you leave the firm.

A5. Probationary Period

Your employment will be subject to a probationary period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You are eligible to join the Company's benefits programs as amended from time to time. Further details will be provided to you separately.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are eligible for retirement benefits, and can find details in paragraph 11 of Appendix B.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 60 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

As outlined in the Company's Code of Conduct, we expect all employees to hold themselves to the highest standards of ethical conduct. In order to avoid conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest, in the event that during your participation in J.P. Morgan's Analyst/Associate program you accept an offer of employment from another employer (regardless of the nature of its business or whether it is a client or competitor of J.P. Morgan), you must notify your manager no later than 3 business days of your acceptance of the offer.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL EMPLOYMENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Employment

B1.1 Your employment is subject to:

- a) your being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in a JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time may be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your employment;
- b) the satisfactory completion of all pre-employment screening processing, including obtaining background references and checks as required, and the execution of any other forms necessary for employment; and
- c) your being legally able to work with the Company. You agree to disclose any employment or contractual post-employment restraints you are subjected to which may, and will continue to, affect your employment with the Company and affirm that:
 - i) you are not in breach of any prior employment contract;
 - ii) you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated – and you do not have in your possession or control – any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers, and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii) you are not subject to any other employment or any contractual post-employment restraints
 - iv) you shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph.

B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of employment with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence employment with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.

B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your employment. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

B1.4 Your retirement age will be as per Company's policy and subject to satisfactory completion of your probation period and provided that your employment is not terminated.

B2. Remuneration

B2.1 We will pay your total monetary remuneration in 12 equal monthly installments on or around the 30th of each month. We will review this remuneration annually, and we reserve the right to amend its terms, level and structure from time to time at our sole discretion.

B2.2 You will be liable for all tax payments and any other imposts that may be levied or payable on any sums paid and/or other benefits we provide to you. We are entitled to deduct or retain from the sum payable to you any withholding and other taxes levied or payable.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any

and all withholding or deduction (for, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3. Incentive Compensation

- B3.1 In its absolute discretion, the Company may pay you an annual incentive award ("Award") in accordance with the terms of its performance based incentive compensation plan in place and as amended or varied from time to time ("Incentive Plan"). The Award may be in the form of cash, restricted shares or units of JPMorgan Chase & Co. common stock ("Restricted Stock") and/or stock options or stock appreciation awards. In granting an Award, the Company may consider any factors it considers appropriate including but not limited to the motivation of future performance, individual achievement, business unit and Group corporate results. The Award will be planned and communicated in United States dollars or in your local currency in accordance with the published Incentive Plan then in effect and applicable to your role and business area within the Company.
- B3.2 Awards are subject to applicable taxes, the JPMorgan Chase Bonus Recoupment Policy and to the terms and conditions of Award Agreements, which will include recovery provisions, non-solicitation and similar covenants. Awards and payment thereof is conditional upon you being in employment with the Company and not under notice of termination (whether given by you or the Company) at the date of payment of any cash component of the Award. The Award is not pro-rated for the period worked if your employment terminates prior to the payment date.
- B3.3 Vesting of Restricted Stock is conditional upon your continued employment as of each vesting date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement. Stock options or stock appreciation awards will become exercisable on the exercisable dates set forth in the Award agreement(s) conditional on your continued employment as of each exercisable date, and the terms and conditions set forth in the associated Award agreement.
- B3.4 The Company has absolute discretion over the payment and amount of any Award to you for any year. If paid, it shall not give rise to any expectation of the Award or the amount in future years of employment. No employee or officer of the Company is authorized to make any oral promises to you about an Award. During your employment any commitment as to an amount or timing of an Award must be in writing signed by a Senior Vice President or Managing Director of the Company and a human resources officer at the level of Vice-President or above. Awards do not form part of your salary for the purposes of pension or termination benefits.

B4. Termination

- B4.1 Your employment may be terminated as follows:

- By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.
- By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:
 - are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;
 - seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;

- iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
 - iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
 - v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your employment terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.
- B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:
- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
 - (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
 - (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
 - (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
 - (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
 - (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix, or
 - (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.
- B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.
- B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.
- B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your employment and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.
- B4.6 During any Notice Period:
- a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
 - b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work;
 - c) you shall not, directly or indirectly, in any capacity whatsoever, interfere in any way whatsoever with the business or operations of the J.P.Morgan.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- a) Your annual leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, to be applied and taken in accordance with applicable law and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. The Company will be entitled to determine when this is taken although, as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. J.P. Morgan encourages you to use your annual leave entitlement for each calendar year in that calendar year. For the current year, you will be entitled to annual leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous JP Morgan legal entity.
- b) After a notice of termination has been given, you will not be entitled to take annual leave notwithstanding any approval given before the date of the notice of termination unless the Company in its discretion otherwise determines.
- c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.
- d) For the calendar year during which your employment with the Company commences or terminates, you will be entitled to such proportion of your annual leave entitlement as the period of your employment in each such year bears to one calendar year. Upon termination of your employment for whatever reason you shall, if appropriate and permitted under the law, either be entitled to a payment in lieu of any outstanding annual leave entitlement or be required to pay to the Company any salary received in respect of annual leave taken in excess of your proportionate annual leave entitlement.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Your sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and JPMorgan Chase internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. For the current year, you will be entitled to sick leaves to the extent you have not utilized such leaves while in service with your immediate previous legal entity.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

J.P. Morgan has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay where the Company considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. Such right shall be exercised at the Company's sole discretion.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your employment with the Company and during your employment with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your employment) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your employment with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or J.P. Morgan and in any event upon the termination of your employment, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or J.P. Morgan all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or J.P. Morgan or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your employment with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or J.P. Morgan. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or J.P. Morgan.

B8. Post Employment Restrictions

B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.

B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.

B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.

B8.4 In this paragraph B8

a) "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.

b) "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.

c) "Restricted Client" means any persons:

i) who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and

ii) with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date;

iii) but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your employment with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and J.P. Morgan.

Uma

d) "Relevant Date" means the date your employment with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- i. that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- ii. that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and J.P. Morgan, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- iii. that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your employment or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you;
- iv. that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to J.P. Morgan under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant J.P. Morgan group company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other J.P. Morgan group companies if asked to do so by the Company;
- v. that your employment with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living;
- vi. that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law;
- vii. that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or J.P. Morgan which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay;
- viii. that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor;
- ix. in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing employment and it is your obligation that you comply with:

- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of employment and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
- (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.

B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.

B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the medipmc website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your employment.

B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

B10.1 The total of your official working hours (excluding one hour lunch daily) is 40 hours per week. Your local business management will schedule your work hours, which depend on the needs of the business and may be outside of these core hours.

B11. Retirement Benefits

B11.1 Your entitlement to Provident Fund and Gratuity will be subject to relevant legislation and the Company's Human Resources policies that are in force and amended from time to time.

B12. Miscellaneous

B12.1 This letter represents the entire agreement between the parties with respect to your employment by the Company and supersedes any previous written or oral agreement between the parties in relation to the matters dealt with in it. You acknowledge that you have not been induced to enter into this letter by any representation, warranty or undertaking not expressly incorporated into it.

B12.2 If any paragraph (or part of any paragraph) of this letter is invalid or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining paragraphs (or parts of a paragraph) shall not be affected and the other paragraph (or parts of a paragraph) shall remain in full force and effect as if the invalid or unenforceable parts had been deleted. This letter shall remain in full force and effect and survive the termination of your employment for any reason whatsoever.

- B12.3 If, during your employment with the Company, you become indebted to the Company or are overpaid any amount for any reason, the Company will be entitled to recover that amount from you. The Company may, if it so elects, set off any sum due to the Company from you against the compensation payable to you, including any final salary payments due to you on the termination of your employment, and collect any remaining balance from you.
- B12.4 The Company may, in connection with your employment, receive personal data relating to you or your family. Such data may be received from you, or from other sources including third party sources. The Company may process your personal data for the purposes of your employment and the operation of the Group's business and as set out in the Code of Conduct and relevant Privacy Policies and Privacy Handbook. You hereby consent to the processing, storage and transfer of your personal data (including transfer worldwide amongst members of the Group).

B13. Contract Execution

B13.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.
- (b) You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisor, if you so desire.
- (c) Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter)

B14. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your employment and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal actions, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of this Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts.
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts.
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade.

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary, and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

APPENDIX D – SPECIFIC CONSENTS

You are required to provide specific consents in accordance with the applicable laws, details of which are provided in Annexure 1 and 2 respectively. It is essential that you carefully read/understand and specifically agree to the same.

Annexure -1

Please read the following statements carefully. The term "J.P. Morgan" as used in these statements, refers to and is defined as including, either jointly or individually, J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., and/or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates and related body corporates (as defined in the Corporations Act, 2001 (Cwlth)), and/or their respective officers, agents, or employees.

Verification: The information I have provided in this Statement of Information is accurate to the best of my knowledge and subject to verification. I understand that any untrue statement or misrepresentation of fact in any of these statements to any extent, at J.P. Morgan sole discretion, may be grounds for terminating my employment with J.P. Morgan with immediate effect in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in J.P. Morgan Offer Letter.

Security Procedures: At all times during the performance of services for J.P. Morgan, I shall abide by all applicable J.P. Morgan security standards, guidelines and procedures, including, where applicable, those set forth in J.P. Morgan Data Security Policies and Standards Manual and Technical Users' Security Policies and Standards Manual.

Ownership of Intellectual Property: I hereby agree that J.P. Morgan shall have ownership of the entire rights, title and interest in all inventions, original works of authorship, developments, improvements, technical or other contributions, including computer software and trade secrets, and other works which I make, conceive, create or write, alone or jointly with others, during the course of and within the scope of my employment with J.P. Morgan or within six months after termination of such employment if the same is related to the course of my employment ("Developments"). In connection therewith, I hereby assign to J.P. Morgan, all rights, title and interest in and to the Developments to which I am or may at any time after the date of my employment be entitled to by virtue of or pursuant to any of the laws in force in any part of the world, whether or not patentable or registrable under copyright or similar laws, which assignment shall include, without limitation, the right to file and prosecute patent applications and copyright registrations in any and all countries and all rights of priority under international conventions. I further acknowledge that all original works of authorship which are made by me (solely or jointly with others) within the scope of and during the period of my employment with J.P. Morgan are protectable by Section 195(2)(a) of the Copyright Act, 1968 (Cwth). I agree to keep and maintain complete, adequate and current written records of all Developments and to disclose the same to J.P. Morgan. The records will be in the form of notes, sketches, drawings, and any other format as J.P. Morgan shall reasonably request and/or specify during the term of my employment. I agree to, during and after such period, assist and co-operate fully with J.P. Morgan Chase (entirely at its expense) to do any and all acts to obtain and protect J.P. Morgan rights in the Developments and any copyrights, trademarks, patents, designs, layout-designs, proprietary information, mask work rights or other intellectual property rights relating thereto in any and all countries ("Intellectual Property Rights"), including, the execution of any and all applications, assignments and all other instruments in such manner and at such location which J.P. Morgan shall deem necessary in order to apply for and obtain or assign to J.P. Morgan the Intellectual Property Rights. I understand and agree that all such Developments shall be and remain the property of J.P. Morgan regardless of whether or not patented or registered for copyright and that my obligation to execute or cause to be executed, any instrument or papers shall continue after the termination of my employment with J.P. Morgan.

Moral Rights: I consent to do all such acts and deeds and fully assign to J.P. Morgan any and all moral rights in respect of all Developments and works made or to be made by me in the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. I agree and acknowledge that I may be required to submit my name, likeness, statements, voice, photographic image, videos and any other information or material ("Material") to J.P. Morgan from time to time in relation to my employment with J.P. Morgan. I hereby understand, fully agree and freely consent to and I represent and warrant the following to and for the benefit of J.P. Morgan:

I have full legal authority, including all necessary intellectual property rights, to submit this Material to J.P. Morgan on behalf of myself or anyone depicted in the Material. If this Material contains any name or likeness of an individual under the age of 18 years or an incapacitated adult, I represent and warrant that I have the full legal authority to submit this Material on their behalf.

If I have voluntarily agreed with/been engaged by J.P. Morgan to create any Material, I hereby expressly undertake to hand over all the Material to the designated representative of J.P. Morgan and irrevocably consent to the use, publication, retention and /or destruction of the same by J.P. Morgan. I hereby grant to J.P. Morgan all right, title and interest in and to the Material without royalties or other compensation and agree that J.P. Morgan alone has the exclusive right to create copies of the Material, prepare derivative works based on the Material, distribute copies of the Material and / or publicly display.

In the event I have created the Material, I confirm and agree that the Material is my own original work, is not copied, and does not contain any third-party materials and/or content that I do not have permission to use. I further warrant and represent that the Material is not obscene, defamatory or in breach of any applicable legislation or regulations.

I consent and grant permission to J.P. Morgan and any applicable media agencies acting on behalf of J.P. Morgan, a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, distribute and publish the Material or for any other information I provide in any media now or hereinafter developed for any purpose in which J.P. Morgan engages, including any promotion, advertisement or other conduct of trade, without royalties, payment or any other consideration. I irrevocably authorize J.P. Morgan to edit, alter, copy, exhibit, publish or distribute the Material for purposes of publicizing programs on the J.P. Morgan intranet or for any other lawful purpose in India and in any other country. I agree that the Material will not be returned to me. I waive the right to inspect or approve any finished product of the Material, including written or electronic copy, wherein my or that of any person's likeness appears.

I will not hold J.P. Morgan liable or responsible for the Material that are lost, delayed, misdirected or incomplete or cannot be delivered for any technical or other reason. J.P. Morgan shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from submission or publication of the Material.

I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release, to the maximum extent permitted by law, J.P. Morgan from any claims or liabilities of any kind arising in connection with the Material or the use thereof even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness of any such party. This Agreement and Release Form may be asserted as a full and complete defense to, and may be used as the basis for an injunction against any claims, action or lawsuit alleged or brought by me against J.P. Morgan. The rights granted herein shall be binding upon my estate, heirs and assigns.

This Agreement and Release is deemed to be made under and shall be construed according to the laws of India and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Mumbai Courts. J.P. Morgan - Pre Employment Screening

Confidentiality of Information: I agree that I shall hold on trust for J.P. Morgan Chase & Co, including its subsidiaries and affiliates (respectively or jointly) (JP Morgan) and shall not use, except for the purposes of the performance of my duties during my employment with J.P. Morgan, or disclose to any other party any Confidential Information (as such term is hereinafter defined) which may be disclosed to or created by me in connection with the course of my employment with J.P. Morgan. As used herein, the term "Confidential Information" means any information which relates to confidential, proprietary and/or trade secret information in oral, demonstrative, written, electronic, graphic or machine readable form contained in any documents, manuals, diskettes and other storage medium including but not limited to internal controls, computer or data processing programs, algorithms, electronic data processing applications, routines, subroutines, techniques or systems, or information concerning the business or financial affairs and methods of operation or proposed methods of operation, accounts, transactions, proposed transactions or security procedures, know-how, inventories, training methods or other information relating to the business and other operations of either J.P. Morgan, any affiliate of J.P. Morgan, or any client, customer or vendor of J.P. Morgan and all copies and reproductions thereof, whether or not owned or developed by J.P. Morgan, except such information which is in the public domain at the time of its disclosure to me or which subsequently enters the public domain other than as a result of a breach of duty on my part. I agree that, upon J.P. Morgan written demand for whatever reason, I shall immediately deliver to J.P. Morgan any and all notes, drawings, documents, manuals, diskettes and other m

copies or excerpts thereof and confirm to J.P. Morgan, in writing, the return or destruction of the same. I acknowledge that my right to retain and/or use the Confidential Information shall terminate forthwith upon J.P. Morgan written demand and I shall immediately cease to use the Confidential Information. The obligations imposed by this clause shall survive the term of my employment with J.P. Morgan with respect to the performance of services, or of my employment or assignment to render services in connection therewith. I understand and agree that any breach of these confidentiality obligations will cause J.P. Morgan irreparable damage and J.P. Morgan shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this paragraph by means of injunctive relief including specific performance.

Dear Aditya Laxmikant,

Following our recent discussions, we are delighted to extend an offer of employment to you.

Enclosed are a Summary of Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and Detailed Terms and Conditions which set out important conditions relating to your employment and which, together, form your employment terms with Barclays ("Employment Letter").

The Employment Letter refers to the Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) as these are a central part of everything we do. The Values as well as our purpose and behaviours, will have formed a key part of your selection process when being offered a role at Barclays. You will be expected to act in accordance with the Values as a Barclays employee, and in particular, to follow our Code of Conduct (known as the Barclays Way). More information on this, and how we 'live' the Values will be available prior to and on joining Barclays.

This offer is conditional upon you satisfying Barclays recruitment and screening conditions and procedures and where applicable, the appropriate regulatory approvals. To start the process you will need to complete an application form. If you have not already received it, you will receive a link to the site shortly.

On or before your first day of employment, you will need to provide written documentation which proves your eligibility to work in India. You will also need to sign one copy of your Employment Letter (enclosed) confirming that you have read, understood and accept the terms. You must return this on your first day of employment.

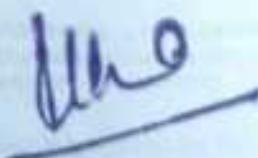

We look forward to welcoming you to Barclays.

Yours sincerely

Sarada Srinivas

Summary of Key Terms

Introduction to this Section

This section is intended as an "at a glance" summary of the key terms of the offer to you. You must, therefore, read these terms in conjunction with any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions which together comprise your Employment Letter.

Name	Aditya Laxmikanth Kasarla
Employing Company	Barclays Global Service Centre Private Limited ("the Company")
Position	Your role will be Graduate Analyst, BA3 (or equivalent), or such other role as the Company reasonably decides from time to time.
Start Date	10 July 2023, or such other date agreed between us in writing, subject to the pre-employment conditions being met to the Company's satisfaction. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
	In addition to the terms set out elsewhere in the Agreement, this offer of employment is contingent upon successful completion of your current degree prior to your anticipated start date. Successful completion of your degree means that it is completed within the specified timelines highlighted in your application and that your final degree classification matches or exceeds the predicted results stated in your application to Barclays. It is your responsibility to inform our recruitment team immediately, if you suspect that your grades will be lower than those predicted. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
Working Hours	Your hours of work will be an average of 40 per week. Rest intervals and breaks are separate from the 40 hours of work. The Company is operational 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, so depending on your business function, your working days and hours may involve day and night shifts, and working on weekends/weekly offs and holidays, as permitted under applicable laws. Your manager will inform you if you are required to work in a different shift.
	You will devote sufficient time to your duties. Subject to applicable laws, you may be required to work such additional hours as are required for the proper performance of your duties as per any applicable Company policy, which may require that you attend the office, or be available to fulfil your function, outside normal hours and days. Your working hours can be varied by the Company at its discretion, with reasonable notice and in accordance with applicable laws.
Initial Place of Work	You will initially be based in LTS - Barclays Global Service Centre, Gera Commerzone SEZ, Survey No.65, Village Kharadi, Pune - 411014.
	However, your place of work will be determined in line with the requirements of the scheme at Barclays' sole discretion. It is a condition of your employment that you agree that you may be required to work or travel to any branch or office (in India or overseas). Where you are required to work outside of India, additional terms and conditions may apply to your employment, which will be provided at the relevant time.
Probationary Period	Your employment is subject to a probationary period of 6 months, or such additional period as the company may in its discretion consider necessary.

Uma

Salary

Components	In INR Per Annum
Basic salary	462,000.00
House Rent Allowance	231,000.00
Flexible Benefit Plan (see further "Statutory and other Benefits" below)	462,000.00
Annual Salary	1,155,000.00
Provident Fund (Employer's Contribution)	55,440.00
Gratuity (per Company policy)	22,212.00
Total Fixed Pay	1,232,652.00

Salary will be payable on a monthly basis, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses, and other statutory deductions, and is currently paid on or around the 24th (or the prior working day if the 24th is not a working day) of each month. The estimated CTC above does not create any contractual right to any such payment.

You may be eligible to receive discretionary allowances as mentioned above or otherwise, subject to and in accordance with the Company's policy on such allowances / flexible benefit pay component of the salary, subject to amendment from time to time by the Company, to reflect changes in law, tax, or other reasons. These allowances may be reduced or withdrawn.

Your allowances will be paid along with your salary as mentioned above, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other statutory deductions.

Other Payments

The Company agrees to pay you a one-off non-pensionable scholarship and bursary payment of Rs. 100,000.00 (the "Scholarship and Bursary Payment") in recognition of your studying costs. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be paid within 90 days from your date of joining Barclays. The payment will be made subject to applicable tax and / or other withholdings or deductions as required by law or regulation.

As agreed by you, this Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be subject to your compliance with the following requirements:

You will be required to repay the Scholarship and Bursary Payment net of any taxes or other deductions or withholdings as required by law or regulation within 30 days of any of the following occurring:

- you have terminated your employment voluntarily (or have given the Company notice to terminate your employment) within 12 months of your start date, or
- you are dismissed for gross misconduct or fundamental breach of contract or for a serious breach of the Risk and/or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group (or you have been given notice to terminate your employment for these reasons) within 12 months of your start date, or
- you fail to satisfy the pre-employment conditions of as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company.

The Company may adjust this repayment amount from any amount payable to you by any Barclays Group company. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment should not be interpreted as giving rise to any right to or legitimate expectation of any other award, nor is it any assurance as to the level of any award which may be made to you in future, which will be at the Company's discretion.

You were also given an opportunity to join your employment without the Scholarship and Bursary Payment and therefore your liability to repay the amount, as has been mentioned above, in no case to be considered as a deterrent to restrict your employment for a specific term.

Qualifications/ Examinations

It is a condition of your employment and continued employment with the Company that you successfully complete a professional qualification and/or examination as may be required and notified to you by the Company from time to time, including without limitation any qualifications or examinations required by the Regulator. You will be expected to pass all exams within a predetermined period and/or within one or more sittings, which shall be set out in the Company policy.

Subject to the terms set out below and the Company policy, the Company will be responsible for the cost of any first attempts at any such qualification with our preferred provider, including study books and associated examination fees. You should refer to the Company policy for details.

If you do not pass any exam or obtain a qualification within the period specified or within the relevant number of attempts (which may in some cases only be one) the Company reserves the right to terminate your employment.

In the event that your employment is terminated for gross misconduct, or if you resign from the Company or otherwise terminate your employment or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, you will be required (except where a qualification or examination is required by the Regulator) to repay to the Company the following sums in full within 30 days:

- 100% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment at any time during your course of study, or within six months of completing your course of study, or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company; or
- 50% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment within six twelve months of completing your course of study

Any such sums owed by you to the Company will be deducted from any sums due to you from the Company or, if such a deduction is not made, will be deemed to be due as a debt from you to the Company.

Discretionary Incentive Award

You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis, at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to you being eligible at the relevant time. Normally, awards are made in the first quarter, in respect of the previous financial year.

Statutory and Other Benefits

You will be eligible for various statutory benefits in accordance with the relevant laws. You will also be eligible to participate in the Company's benefits scheme, details of which are set out in the attached flyer which does not form part of your contract or have any contractual effect.

Any benefits are subject to the relevant policies/plans from time to time in force. The Company reserves the right to change the benefits or policies/plans from time to time.

If the Company pays or reimburses any expense on your joining the Company towards your relocation from your current place of stay to your place of posting as agreed between the Company and you, if your employment ends less than one year after the Start Date you confirm that you will pay to the Company (or alternatively Company may set-off against/ write off) any amount paid or reimbursed in respect of such relocation from the amount payable to you.

Annual Leave

You are entitled to avail annual leave which includes privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave entitlement in accordance with the applicable laws in the state of your Place of Work. Further details are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions and on your intranet.

Notice Period

Either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving two months written notice, however, the Company may terminate your employment with immediate effect in accordance with applicable Company policies.

Any reduction/ waiver to notice period shall be at the sole discretion of the Company. Company may adjust balance of annual leaves, while granting such reduction/ waiver.

Further information on Notice is included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Overtime

Employees who are eligible under applicable laws to be paid Overtime for work beyond normal working hours, will be paid for the same in accordance to the applicable State laws at your Place of Work.

Further details in regard to Overtime are included within the Additional Time Guidelines available on the company's Intranet.

Data Privacy

The Company processes employee information for legal, regulatory, administrative and other purposes related to your employment and the conduct of the business of the Barclays Group (the "Agreed Purposes"). Processing includes obtaining, holding, editing, destroying and disclosing employee information to any Barclays Group company and its employees and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, auditors, consultants, lawyers, law firm, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employees following a business transfer or merger) for the Agreed Purposes ("Processing" or "Process").

For the Agreed Purposes, the Company may transfer employee information to any Barclays Group company and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employees following a business transfer or merger) in order to Process employee information for the Agreed Purposes.

You confirm that you will provide your employee information to the Company and consent to the Processing of employee information for the Agreed Purposes. This may include transfers to recipients based in another country to your place of employment (either within or outside the European Economic Area) with different levels of protection of your personal data to India.

You confirm that the Company and/or any Barclays Group company may monitor and/or record your use of office equipment, for example, e-mail, internet (including chats and blogs), telephones and mobile telephones for the purposes of compliance with Company procedures and policies, maintenance, security and regulatory requirements or as permitted by law.

Aforementioned clause conditions shall apply to information relating to your family members/ relatives with respect to insurance policy, emergency contact details, etc., in accordance with prevailing Barclays' Company policy. It is your responsibility to inform such individuals that their data will be processed in this manner and to obtain their consent.

Confidentiality

It is important that you recognise that during your employment with the Company you will have access to, and be instructed with, confidential information and trade secrets relating to the Company, the Barclays Group and any of our clients and customers. Both during and after your employment you must comply with all policies and procedures relating to confidentiality, confidential information and trade secrets and any stricter policy which applies to your role.

Post-Termination Restrictions

In protecting the interests of the Company, you must not, for a period of 3 months from the termination date of your employment:

- approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer/supplier of Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to your termination;
- solicit or entice, or attempt to solicit or entice away or engage or employ any director, officer or employee in the Barclays Group.

Full details of the restrictions you will be bound by are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Detailed Terms and Conditions

Introduction

About the Detailed Terms and Conditions

The purpose of the Detailed Terms and Conditions is to provide you with the relevant information on what the Company and the Barclays Group expects from its employees.

The Detailed Terms and Conditions also set out a list of key practices, guidelines and processes that the Barclays Group has developed to reflect our values, purpose and behaviour and as part of our high performance culture and, in accordance with your contractual obligations, must be adhered to at all times. Further information and policies can be found on your own business unit intranet site.

It is important that we review our policies, practices, guidelines and processes to ensure that we stay at the leading edge, enabling us to be one of the most admired financial services companies in the world. From time to time, our policies and procedures do change and you must familiarise yourself with them on joining and periodically throughout your employment. References in the Detailed Terms and Conditions to a policy, practice, guideline and / or process generally are references to the relevant policy, practice, guideline and / or process in force at the relevant time.

These detailed terms and conditions also refer to the Barclays Values which must be adhered to at all times. The Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) are set out on your own business unit intranet site.

You should also refer to Appendix 1 which sets out definitions of the terms used in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Your Detailed Terms and Conditions of Employment

1. Introduction to this Section

This section sets out your detailed terms and conditions of employment and should be read alongside your enclosed Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedules. These documents form your employment terms with the Company and are referred to in this document as "Employment Letter". By signing the Employment Letter you confirm that you have read, understood and accept the terms set out in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

2. Pre-employment and ongoing conditions

- 2.1 Your confirmation in the employment will be subject to successful completion of the Probationary Period as mentioned in the summary of terms or such additional period as the Company considers necessary in its absolute discretion. Your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically unless communicated otherwise in writing.
- 2.2 You understand that the Company's offer of employment is made to you subject to and conditional on the completion of certain pre-employment procedures and processes. You certify that the information that you have provided in connection with completion of the procedures and otherwise in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview stage) is true and accurate both at the time it is given and on the Start Date. The Company reserves the right to carry out screening checks on all employees, and such procedures may include but are not limited to:
 - (a) receipt of references and documentary proof that are satisfactory to the Company that you are legally entitled to reside and work in your country;
 - (b) completion of credit checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (c) where criminal record checks are applicable to your role, completion of those checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (d) if requested by the Company, a medical examination by the Company's medical advisers;
 - (e) where Regulator approval for your appointment is required and such approval is sought before your employment commences, such approval either (i) being obtained or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator; (iii) receipt of documentary proof that you hold the appropriate and relevant qualifications; and
 - (f) the Company receiving a signed copy of the Terms from you.
- 2.3 Whilst every effort will be made to complete all the checks and processes in the pre-employment procedures before your Start Date, this may not always be possible. In case you are employed prior to completion of the pre-employment procedure, the Company may terminate your employment at any time on minimum statutory notice if the checks reported are not up to our satisfaction or the procedures are not completed within a reasonable period of time.
- 2.4 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your obtaining, holding and continuing to hold all applicable qualifications, licences and registrations as required by your role. Where Regulator approval for your role is required and such approval is sought after your employment commences, then your continued employment is conditional on such approval either: (i) being obtained; or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator (or other relevant regulatory body).
- 2.5 You shall be liable and responsible to inform and update your latest contact and address details, in the records of the Company, from time to time. Failure to comply may constitute gross negligence on your part.
- 2.6 You should not engage in any matter which would or could be anticipated to result in a conflict of interest between you and the Company.

W.H.

- 2.7 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your successful completion of certain trainings (such as Communication & Culture and/or other process and policy trainings accreditations) that may be assigned to you by the Company from time to time. In case you remain absent for more than 2 days during these training programs or you become unable to qualify the trainings to the satisfaction of the Company, the Company shall have the sole discretion to take appropriate action including termination of your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii of the detailed terms and conditions of this Employment Letter. In case of your absence due to any personal emergency, your Line Manager shall on his/her sole discretion and upon evaluation of the reason of your absence, may recommend the Company to realign you for the next available training within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence. In case you are realigned for the next training as mentioned above, there may be possible change in process and/or compensation on account of such realignment. If for any reason you do not agree to the realignment terms or no such realignment is possible within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence, the Company shall have the sole discretion to terminate your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii.

3. Place of Work and Mobility

Your place of work is as set out in your Summary of Key Terms. However, you may need to travel to other locations and offices as reasonably required in the performance of your duties. You confirm that you will travel to such places (both inside and outside India) as the Company may reasonably require from time to time. Should the Company need to permanently change your place of work, you will be given reasonable notice of any such change (acceptable in e-mail/ letter format).

4. Duties

4.1 During your employment with the Company you confirm that you will:

- (a) act in a manner consistent with and which supports our values, purpose and behaviours and in particular the Barclays Values;
- (b) devote the whole of your working time and attention to the business of the Company and the Barclays Group;
- (c) diligently and faithfully perform such duties and exercise such powers and functions as may reasonably be assigned to you by the Company in relation to its business and that of the Barclays Group to the best of your ability and with integrity, due skill, care and diligence;
- (d) use your best efforts to promote and protect the interests of the Company and the Barclays Group and not do anything to harm those interests;
- (e) comply with all reasonable requests, instructions and regulations given by the Company and the Barclays Group and promptly provide such explanations, information and assistance as to your activities in the business of the Company and the Barclays Group as they may reasonably need;
- (f) neither engage in any activities which would detract from the proper performance of your duties under the terms of this Employment Letter, nor (without the prior written consent of the Company) in any capacity including as director, shareholder, principal, consultant, agent, partner or employee engage or be concerned or interested directly or indirectly in any other trade, business or occupation whatsoever provided always that such activities are in compliance with Barclays policies on outside or external business interests. This paragraph will not prevent you holding for investment purposes only, shares or securities which do not exceed three per cent (3%) in nominal value of the share capital or stock of any class of any company quoted on a recognised stock exchange;
- (g) not engage or be interested in any activities which place you in a position where your interests conflict improperly with those of the Barclays Group, its clients, customers or shareholders. Barclays recognises that, on occasion, a conflict of interest may arise which is unavoidable. In such circumstances you must make your line manager and local compliance control room or compliance contact aware of the issue immediately. You must not act in relation to the matter without their written direction or approval; and
- (h) report any actual or proposed unlawful activity or behaviour affecting the Barclays Group by you or any other employee, officer, contractor of the Barclays Group or any other person to your manager (or, if they are potentially involved in such unlawful activity or behaviour, to your HR Business Partner or a member of your Compliance team) immediately on becoming aware of it.

5. Salary and allowances

Your salary will be paid on a monthly basis on or around the last working day of each month and is subject to applicable taxes, dues, cesses and other applicable withholdings. All tax liabilities arising out of your entire remuneration package, present or future, shall be borne by you. Your salary and any allowances will accrue on a daily basis and will be paid pro rata if you are employed for part of a month.

Your salary will be reviewed annually without commitment to increase. The Company may deduct from any payments to you any money owed by you to any Barclays Group company in accordance with the applicable laws.

Your acceptance to these terms shall confirm your consent to the Company making payment of your salary, compensation, award, incentive bonus etc. by way of credit to bank account with the bank of Company's choice or via such other mode as the Company may deem appropriate.

6. Discretionary Incentive award

- 6.1 You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis. The value, form, conditions of delivery and timing of any such awards are at the Company's discretion. This discretion includes the right to make the award or a proportion of the award in a form other than cash, including an award of Shares and to defer an element of an award under the terms of a Barclays Group incentive plan.
- 6.2 Any discretionary incentive award will only be made if, at that time, you are in employment and are not under notice (whether given or received) nor under suspension or investigation for a regulatory or disciplinary matter.
- 6.3 If you are subject to any investigation or disciplinary process at the time when communication, payment or making of any payment and/or award would otherwise occur, then the delivery of that payment and/or award will be suspended. If on conclusion of any investigation and/or disciplinary process, you are dismissed for gross misconduct or cause and / or have committed any serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group, then no payment and / or award will be made to you. If no disciplinary action (or disciplinary action short of dismissal) is taken against you, then a payment and / or award may be made to you after the conclusion of that process. However, the amount of any award and / or payment to which you are entitled may be reduced by the Company in its sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, any award and / or payment may be reduced to nil in such circumstances.
- 6.4 Notwithstanding paragraph 6.3, any unpaid or unvested award (or portion of an unpaid or unvested award) may be reduced (to nil if appropriate) at the Company's discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company may exercise its discretion including as a result of:
 - (a) Barclays PLC or any subsidiary's financial statements having been materially restated for the period for which the award was made other than restatement due to a change in accounting policy or to rectify a minor error; or
 - (b) Your actions having, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Company:
 - i. deliberately misled the management of the Company, the market and/or Barclays PLC shareholders regarding the financial performance of Barclays PLC or of any subsidiary;
 - ii. caused harm to the reputation of the Barclays Group;
 - (c) The Barclays Group or any of its subsidiaries, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Risk Committee, has suffered a material failure of risk management.
- 6.5 Should the Company become aware that the amount of any award that has been paid or released to you was calculated on the basis of any false, incorrect or misstated information, then, the Company may, within one year of any such payment or release being made, request that you will repay as a debt to the Company the amount (or any part of the amount) as may be determined in the Company's sole discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. You confirm that in the event a repayment obligation arises the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you (including in instalments) as it determines in its discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable law.

- 6.6 A payment of cash and / or a release of Shares or other instruments under an award will be subject to tax and other applicable withholdings, taxes, duties, cesses, deductions and will be subject to the rules of any applicable incentive plan.
- 6.7 Whether you are eligible to receive a discretionary incentive award, and if so, the amount shall be determined at the absolute discretion of the Company. You have no contractual right, whether express or implied, to receive an award of all, or an award of any particular amount, and the making of an award in any year does not give rise to any obligation on the Company to make an award in any future year. For the avoidance of doubt, your employment may be terminated by the Company at any time, for any reason, in accordance with clauses 18 or 19 of this Employment Letter and the exercise of that right to terminate is not limited or fettered by any term (express or implied).
- 6.8 Within Barclays, certain (usually senior) roles are designated as 'Material Risk Taker' ('MRT') roles. Where you are a MRT for any particular year you will be notified of this during or following the end of the relevant year. At any time during the seven year period from the date on which any variable remuneration is awarded to you in respect of a period for which you are a MRT (the "Relevant Variable Remuneration"), if Barclays determines that:
- (a) your actions or omissions have, in the reasonable opinion of Barclays amounted to misbehaviour or material error; and/or
 - (b) Barclays or the relevant business unit has suffered a material failure of risk management,
- then, without prejudice to Barclays other remedies, Barclays may require that you repay an amount, not exceeding the value of the Relevant Variable Remuneration. The repayment shall be of such value as may be determined in Barclays discretion acting in good faith, to such Barclays Group Company and on such terms as Barclays may direct.

In respect of paragraph 6.8 (b) above, Barclays shall take into account your proximity to the applicable failure and your level of responsibility before any request for repayment is made. In respect of paragraphs (a) and (b) above, before any request for repayment is made, Barclays shall take into consideration whether you (i) have participated in, or were responsible for, conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Barclays Group or (ii) failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety.

For the avoidance of doubt, the whole or any part of the Relevant Variable Remuneration can be clawed back if Barclays makes its determination within seven years from the date that the Relevant Variable Remuneration was awarded to you even if an event falling within (a) or (b) above occurred prior to the date of award.

The determination of what constitutes 'misbehaviour', 'material error', 'material failure of risk management', 'significant losses' and 'appropriate standards of fitness and propriety' shall be determined by Barclays acting in good faith.

You confirm that in the event Barclays makes a repayment determination, you shall repay the amount subject to that determination within the time period specified in the determination. You further confirm and provide authorisation for Barclays to deduct the appropriate repayment amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you, to the full extent permitted under local law, whether from Barclays or any other Barclays Group company.

You acknowledge that (in addition to its rights at clause 16 (Amendments to terms and conditions of employment)) the terms of this clause 6.8 may be amended by Barclays to the extent deemed reasonably necessary in order to comply with law, regulations or guidance published by any regulatory authority or other relevant authority from time to time.

This clause shall apply in addition to the general right of repayment set out in clause 6.5 of the Employment Letter.

7. Statutory and Other Benefits

- 7.1 You will be eligible for various statutory benefits as mentioned in the Summary of Key terms and in accordance with the relevant laws.
- 7.2 The Company operates or may operate a benefits programme for its employees and your benefits are/will set out in full in the attached benefits brochure (except the statutory benefits mentioned above, these benefits do not form part of your contract of employment or have any contractual or other legal effect).
- 7.3 The Company has the right at its absolute discretion to amend or withdraw the benefits at any time and without any compensation or notice to you and / or replace any benefit with an alternative at its discretion.
- 7.4 Participation in any benefits scheme is subject to the rules of the relevant schemes, which may vary from time to time, and is subject to you satisfying any applicable requirements of the relevant third party providers (where relevant). Your participation may be excluded where, in Barclays' opinion, cover can only be obtained on the basis that exceptional conditions or unusually high premiums are imposed or levied by the insurer or provider.

8. Annual Leave

- 8.1 Your annual leave entitlement is set out in the Summary of Key Terms. The Company's annual leave year currently runs from 1 January to the 31 December. The dates of the annual leave year may be changed. You are obliged to take all your annual leave entitlement in the relevant year, unless a policy/handbook applicable to you states otherwise, in which case leave may only be carried over subject to and in accordance with those terms and applicable law. Your annual leave dates must be agreed in advance with your line manager. You will be allowed to carry your unutilised privileged leaves over to the next annual leave year, subject to the limit and restrictions as may be defined in the company policy and subject to the applicable laws. There is no provision for encashment of unutilised leave (including in case of termination of employment), except where such encashment is mandated by law applicable at the place of your employment at the relevant time.
- 8.2 If your employment begins during an annual leave year, your annual leave entitlement (plus any Bank or Public Holidays which fall during this period), will be calculated pro rata. During the probationary period you may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favour up until the time of taking such leave. Any unutilised leave at the time of cessation of employment shall lapse and any payment to be made in lieu of the unutilised leave shall be at the sole discretion of Barclays unless mandated by the applicable law. If you have taken more leave than your accrued entitlement, you shall be required to repay to the Company an amount equivalent to any holiday taken in excess of your pro rata holiday entitlement, and the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your final salary instalment or any other sum owed by the Company to you at the Termination Date.
- 8.3 In accordance with regulatory guidelines and the Company's policies, the Company may require you to go on a mandatory block leave.

9. Intellectual Property

- 9.1 For the purposes of this paragraph:

"Intellectual Property Rights" means (i) copyright and related rights, patents, know-how, confidential information, database rights, inventions and rights in trademarks and designs (whether registered or unregistered), (ii) applications for registration and the right to apply for registration, for any of the same, and (iii) all other intellectual property rights and equivalent or similar forms of protection existing anywhere in the world;

"Invention" means any invention, idea, discovery, development, improvement or innovation made, whether or not patentable or capable of registration, and whether or not recorded in any medium; and

"Works" means all documents, materials, software, photographic or graphic works of any type, and other materials in any medium or format which are created or developed, or are in the process of being created or developed, or used (whether in final form or otherwise) by you or on your behalf or by the Company in the course of your employment with the Company or for the benefit of the Company and which are protected by, contain or relate to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.2 You will promptly disclose and deliver up to the Company all and any Works conceived, or made by you during and in the course of your employment (whether conceived, or made during normal working hours, in your normal place of work, or in conjunction with others, or otherwise). You confirm that you will provide the Company with all originals and copies of all correspondence, documents and other materials in whatever medium or form relating to or concerning the Works and the Intellectual Property Rights they contain.
- 9.3 You confirm that you will only use the Works to perform your obligations under Employment Letter and that you will not make personal copies of any Works other than for the purposes of your employment with the Company.
- 9.4 It is understood that all Intellectual Property Rights created by you in the course of your employment shall be "work for hire". You acknowledge that you have, and will have at all times while you are employed by the Company, a special obligation to further the interests of the undertakings of the Company, and that all Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works will automatically, on creation, belong to and vest in the Company absolutely to the fullest extent provided by law.
- 9.5 To the extent that the Works and Intellectual Property Rights do not vest in the Company or the Barclays Group automatically, you will hold such Works and Intellectual Property Rights on trust for the benefit of the Company until the Works and Intellectual Property Rights vest absolutely in the Company.
- 9.6 You confirm that you will immediately, upon request and at the Company's expense, provide all such documents and assistance as may be necessary to vest the Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works in the Company, to enable the Company to enjoy the full benefit of the Intellectual Property Rights, and to enable the Company to enforce its Intellectual Property Rights against third parties or defend claims brought against the Company in relation to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.7 By signing Employment Letter you accept and confirm to assign to the Company or a member of the Barclays Group (as specified by the Company) all current and future Intellectual Property Rights in the Works and any other proprietary rights capable of assignment by way of present assignment of future rights for the full term of such rights. You confirm that such assignment shall be perpetual, worldwide and royalty free. You also confirm that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 19(4) of the Copyright Act, 1957, such assignment in so far as it relates to copyrightable material shall not lapse nor the rights transferred therein revert to the Employee, even if the Company does not exercise the rights under the assignment within a period of one year from the date of assignment. You acknowledge and confirm that you shall waive any right to and shall not raise any objection or claims to the Copyright Board with respect to the assignment, pursuant to Section 19A of the Copyright Act, 1957.
- 9.8 You unconditionally and irrevocably waive your moral rights in relation to existing and future Works, including your right to be identified as the author of the Works and not to have the Works subject to derogatory treatment. You acknowledge that, except as may be expressly provided by law, no further remuneration or compensation other than that provided for under Employment Letter is, or may become due to you.
- 9.9 When this Employment Letter expires or terminates, for whatever reason, you will immediately deliver up to the Company all Works in your possession or under your control, and under no circumstances may any Works be retained by you except with the prior written consent of the Company.
- 9.10 Without prejudice to any specific legal rights which you may otherwise have, you acknowledge that no further remuneration or compensation other than that expressly provided for in this Employment Letter will become due to you in respect of your compliance with this Section 9.

10. Confidentiality

- 10.1 During your employment with the Company or at any time afterwards, you must not disclose to any person or make use of any Confidential Information or trade secrets that you have obtained in the course of your employment. This includes information that you have acquired in the course of your employment concerning the business or affairs of the Company and/or any other Barclays Group company or our customers or clients. You are required to use your best efforts to prevent the unauthorised publication or disclosure of any such Confidential information. Exceptions to this are the use of information for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter, where the Company has given written consent or disclosure is required by law, where the information is already in or comes into the public domain (other than by your unauthorised disclosure).
- 10.2 During your employment or at any time afterwards, you must not make any copy or record (whether recorded in writing, on computer disc, electronically or otherwise) of any Confidential Information, unless this is required for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter. Any such information belongs to the Barclays Group and must be returned by you either at any time during the course of your employment on the request of the Company and immediately on termination of your employment.
- 10.3 For the purposes of this Employment Letter, "Confidential Information" means information concerning the business, affairs, finance, clients or trade connections of the Company, any member of the Barclays Group, or any of its customers, clients, suppliers or agents. This includes but is not limited to:
- (a) commercially sensitive information or trade secrets;
 - (b) corporate and marketing strategy, business development plans, sales reports and research results;
 - (c) business methods and processes, technical information and know-how relating to the Barclays Group's business and which is not available to the public generally, including inventions, designs, programmes, techniques, database systems, formulae and ideas;
 - (d) business contacts, lists or details of clients and suppliers and details of contacts with them, their business or affairs, including client names and client contact details, financial and personal affairs, and trading history and methodology;
 - (e) information on employees and the terms and conditions of their employment, details of employee benefits, incentive schemes/plans, salary scales and/or current or anticipated trade union/employee disputes;

(f) information or details of any actual, potential or threatened litigation, legal action, claim, dispute or arbitration against or with any member of the Barclays Group or any current or former director, officer or employee of the Barclays Group in such capacity and any information in respect of provisions for any such action;

(g) budgets, management accounts, trading statements and other financial reports;

(h) unpublished price sensitive information relating to shares or securities listed or dealt in on any recognised stock exchange; and

(i) any other information which any member of the Barclays Group or any of its employees or consultants has identified (verbally, in writing, or by its or their actions) as being secret or confidential in nature or which would reasonably be considered as confidential.

10.4 You shall not solicit business for the Company from any clients belonging to your previous employer(s) in breach of your terms of employment with your previous employer. You shall not use any confidential information that came to your knowledge in the course of your previous employment while working with the Company. You undertake to indemnify the Company against any action that the Company may face on account of your actions in breach of your obligations to your previous employer(s).

11. Regulatory compliance and dealing codes

11.1 The nature of the Barclays Group's business is such that it is authorised and regulated by the appropriate Regulator.

11.2 It is your responsibility to know, understand and comply with all legal, regulatory and governance obligations, including the provisions of the Regulatory and Compliance policies that are relevant to you. If you are in any doubt as to your responsibilities in this regard or the rules which apply to you, you must contact the Compliance team within your business area.

11.3 If you are a Regulator approved person (or any equivalent status with any other regulator) you must comply with the Regulator's Statement of Principles and Code of Practice for Approved Persons (or meet the applicable standards). Failure to meet these Principles / Standards and / or to comply with this Code of Practice (or other applicable standards) may result in investigation by the regulator, applicable regulator and/or the Company, and / or disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company which may result in the termination of your employment.

11.4 You confirm that you will be bound by and will comply with the Barclays Group Share Dealing Code and with any more stringent dealing rules applicable to you or the area of the business in which you work. In particular, you agree not to make any investment, directly or indirectly, in any company or business which is a customer or client of the Barclays Group and which may in the reasonable opinion of the Company be expected to cause your personal or family interests to conflict with your duty to the Company in any respect.

11.5 Any incentives or compensation payable to you by any member of the Company or Group Company (under this Employment Letter or otherwise, including any guaranteed amounts and including, where applicable, the payment and settlement schedule and split of cash and Shares as set out in this Employment Letter) are subject to limitation or modification to the extent reasonably deemed necessary by the Company including in order to remain consistent with Barclays remuneration policy (as amended from time to time) or to comply with laws and regulations, including any regulations or guidance published by the Regulator from time to time.

12. Expenses

There may be occasions when you incur business expenses for instance, travelling to a training course or visiting another business location for a meeting. Any expenses must be pre-approved and claimed promptly and will be reimbursed to you in line with our procedures, a copy of which can be found on your intranet.

The Company at its sole discretion may bear certain expenses on your training, learning and developmental needs, subject to your acceptance of the terms and obligations as would be mentioned in the agreement ("Training Agreement") that may be executed with you.

As a consideration to the training expenses to be incurred by the Company, you may be asked to work with the Company for a certain period of time, post completion of the said training/ programs/courses, as the case may be and/or to compensate the Company by paying an agreed sum as liquidated damages. Your specific obligations will form part of the Training Agreement to be executed with you. For the execution of the Training Agreement, you may be asked to get a surety/underwriter for your obligations under the terms of the Training Agreement.

Unless otherwise agreed in the Training Agreement, any breach of the terms of the said Training Agreement, will be considered as the breach of the terms of this Letter.

13. Attendance at work

- 13.1 Your Summary of Key Terms will provide you with details of the particular working pattern that applies to you, and any specific arrangements that may apply regarding changes to this pattern. If you work full time, or for 8 hours or more on a given day, your normal working hours would additionally include up to a daily one hour break.
- 13.2 From time to time, the Company may need to vary your hours, days and times of work if this is necessary to accommodate the needs of the business or the absence of your colleagues. Should the Company need to vary your working hours, you will be given reasonable notice of any such changes.

14. Sickness Leave

- 14.1 If you are unable to work through ill health or injury you will be entitled to sick leave in accordance with the policy on Leave and Holidays, which can be found in the Company's Intranet. The Company reserves the right to only approve sick leave of more than two consecutive workdays if certified by a medical practitioner of the Company's choice, and you hereby confirm that you co-operate with such an examination and to authorise the full disclosure of any resulting report to Barclays.
- 14.2 The payment of salary and any allowances during periods of sickness will be subject to as prescribed under the applicable laws and you following the requirements regarding notification and certification of absence as set out in this Employment Letter, on your Intranet and the Company being satisfied that you are unable to work due to illness or injury.

15. Other absences from work

Approval should be obtained in advance from your line manager for absence during working hours. If unexpected circumstances mean that this is not possible, you should inform your line manager as soon as possible. Absence without approval and / or explanation will be dealt with under the disciplinary procedure which could result in disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company and which may result in the termination of your employment.

16. Amendments to terms and conditions of employment

- 16.1 The Company reserves the right to review, revise, amend, replace or withdraw the contents of these Terms and introduce new policies, practices, guidelines and procedures from time to time to reflect the changing needs of the business or any changes in legislation or regulation from time to time.
- 16.2 For the avoidance of doubt, where the Company retains a discretion under these Terms (including but not limited to the discretion to make incentive award(s) to you, any matters considered in the decision whether to make such an award and the value, form, conditions and timing of delivery of any such award(s)) such discretion cannot be limited or fettered in any way other than by consent between you and the Company which is documented formally in writing on the Company's headed paper by an authorised member of the Human Resources Department.

17. Allocation of duties and transfer within the Barclays Group

You confirm that the Company will be entitled at any time and with prior notice (where required by applicable law) to: (i) assign you to carry out such projects and/or duties commensurate with your abilities as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (ii) assign you on a temporary or permanent basis to undertake additional duties and/or different duties commensurate with your abilities within any part or parts of the Barclays Group as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (iii) second you on a temporary or permanent basis to work for any company in the Barclays Group or to a third party and/or (iv) transfer your employment and its rights and obligations to another company in the Barclays Group.

18. Leaving Barclays

- 18.1 Subject to paragraph 2 of these Detailed Terms and Conditions the Company and you may each terminate this Employment Letter in accordance with the "Notice" paragraph set out in your Summary of Key Terms. In addition:

- (a) either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving one month's written notice (or, if greater, the minimum notice according to local applicable law) during any probationary period that may apply to you as set out in your Summary of Key Terms;
- (b) your employment shall be conditional on your ability to start work on the agreed Start Date. If you are unable to do so, you will have no entitlement to receive any payment or other benefit from the Company or the Barclays Group.

(c) your employment may also be terminated by the Company without notice or pay in lieu of notice if you commit an act of gross misconduct (as may be defined under applicable Company policy from time to time which may include failure to comply with any policies and/or procedures including those referred to in the Detailed Terms and Conditions, lack of competence, serious breach of the Terms including improper or unethical behaviour).

(d) Your contractual and normal retirement age is 60 years. On the day you attain that age, your employment shall end automatically without any need for either party to serve written notice; and

(e) the Company may (without notice, pay in lieu of notice or incurring any obligation to pay compensation) immediately terminate your employment if you:

- i. are convicted of any criminal offence (other than a minor offence which, in the opinion of the Company, does not affect your position as an employee of the Company); or
- ii. are guilty of any act of dishonesty or gross or serious misconduct or any conduct which brings or is intended to bring any member of the Barclays Group or yourself into disrepute or may damage the business or affairs of the Barclays Group; or
- iii. have been found by the Company to have materially or repeatedly breached or have not complied with the terms of this Employment Letter (or otherwise fail or refuse to carry out the duties assigned to you); or
- iv. have breached or otherwise failed the Barclays Group sanctions screening policy or process; or
- v. cease to hold or fail to obtain any regulatory approvals or consents which are required for the effective discharge by you of any duties assigned to you under this Employment Letter; or
- vi. materially breach the rules of the Regulator; or
- vii. breach any Barclays Group rules on anti-bribery or anti-corruption;
- viii. don't obtain or maintain the accreditation(s) or qualifications that you are required to have (in the Company's opinion, or according to relevant regulators or professional bodies) to be able to work in your job profile;
- ix. be repeatedly absent without leave or absent without leave for a period exceeding 14 days.

This sub paragraph is not exhaustive and does not restrict any other right which the Company may have (whether at common law or otherwise) to terminate your employment summarily.

18.2 You shall be liable to pay the Damages to the Company, in case you fail to serve the requisite notice as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms. These Damages shall be in addition to the payment of salary in lieu of notice period. In respect of the Damages, the Company reserves the right to set-off against/ write off an amount payable/ withhold from the salary and/or any allowances. Further, you shall not be relieved from your contractual notice period, unless expressly relieved in writing.

18.3 The termination of your employment will not affect any terms of this Employment Letter which are intended to operate after the termination date, including the paragraphs relating to Intellectual Property, Confidentiality and Post Termination Restrictions.

18.4 On termination of your employment, irrespective of the reason, or at any other time when asked by the Company, you will:

- (a) immediately return to the Company all vehicles, equipment and documents, whether electronic or otherwise, and any other property (of any kind) (security pass, business cards, etc) relating to the business of or belonging to the Barclays Group, together with all copies of any such documents, that you have in your possession or under your control;
- (b) immediately delete any information relating to the business of the Company or the Barclays Group stored on any computer or storage device and all information derived from the same in your possession or control and held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
- (c) resign with immediate effect from any offices or appointments you hold within or connected to the Barclays Group; and
- (d) confirm in writing that you have complied fully with the terms of this paragraph and provide evidence of compliance as the Company may request.

19. Payment in lieu of notice

19.1 The Company reserves the right in its sole and absolute discretion to terminate your employment and your terms with immediate effect (whether or not notice has been given by either party) by giving notice in writing to you of its intention to make a payment in lieu of notice and, if it does so, the Company shall make you a payment in lieu of notice, equal to the salary which you would have been entitled to receive if you had worked during your Notice Period or, if your Notice Period has started, the unexpired portion (the 'Payment in Lieu'). Where the Company elects to make a Payment in Lieu of some or all of your Notice Period, your employment shall terminate on the date specified by the Company, regardless of when the Payment in Lieu is paid.

19.2 Any Payment in Lieu will be paid less tax and any applicable withholdings. You will not be entitled to receive any payment in respect of holiday entitlement that would have accrued during the period for which the Payment in Lieu is made.

19.3 Any Payment in Lieu may be paid by the Company in accordance with the Company policies and subject to the applicable laws. Any Payment in Lieu may at the Company's discretion be paid as a lump sum within one month of the Termination Date or in equal monthly instalments from the date on which notice is served until what would have been the end of the Notice Period provided always that if after exercising its discretion to make a Payment in Lieu the Company becomes aware of any grounds that would permit it to summarily terminate your employment any payments due under this clause 19.3 will cease to be payable and the net value of any Payment in Lieu that has been received by you shall be repaid as a debt to the Company within 30 days of the Company notifying you of this repayment obligation.

20. Gardien leave and suspension

20.1 The Company may suspend you at any time from the performance of all or any of your duties:

(a) for the whole or any part of any applicable Notice Period; or

(b) for such periods and on such terms as is necessary to allow any investigation to take place (including, but not limited to an investigation by a regulatory authority or an investigation under the Company's disciplinary procedure).

20.2 During any period of suspension, the Company will be under no obligation to provide work for or assign any duties to you and may require you not to attend any premises of any member of the Barclays Group (other than as a customer) and may require you to:

(a) not speak to, contact or otherwise communicate with or engage with any director, consultant, agent, contractor or employee of any member of the Barclays Group other than to carry out your personal banking, or any person, firm or company who, at the date of such suspension or exclusion is a client or customer of any member of the Barclays Group unless they are members of your immediate family;

(b) at any time to carry out such special projects or duties commensurate with your abilities as the Company shall in its absolute discretion determine;

(c) meet with representatives from the Company in order to facilitate a handover of work and provide assistance with ongoing business activity; and

(d) take any holiday which you have accrued.

20.3 During any period of suspension:

(a) your employment with the Company and this Employment Letter will continue and you will continue to be bound by your obligations under it (except as expressly set out in this paragraph) including, but not limited to, your obligations of confidentiality, good faith and fidelity to the Company; and

(b) you shall continue to receive your basic salary and all contractual benefits in the usual way.

21. Post termination restrictions

21.1 You confirm to the Company (for itself and as trustee and agent for each member of the Barclays Group) that you will not, whether directly or indirectly, on your own behalf or on behalf of or in conjunction with any other person, firm, company or other entity:

O. J. H.

U. H. 9

(a) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer, client or supplier of the Company or the Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings in the course of your employment with the Company or in respect of whom you were aware of material and confidential information, in both cases within the 12 month period immediately prior to the Termination Date. Nothing in this paragraph will prohibit you from seeking or doing business which is not in direct or indirect competition with the business of the Barclays Group; and

(b) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date solicit or entice away or attempt to solicit or entice away or employ or engage any director, officer or employee of executive status in the Barclays Group with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to the Termination Date. For the purposes of this paragraph "employee of executive status" will include without limitation any employee of the Barclays Group with a corporate grading Managing Director, Director, Vice President (or equivalent grades, or anything which replaces these grades) and any employees of the Barclays Group with a lower corporate grading where in the 12 months prior to the Termination Date, you have had line manager responsibilities in relation to that employee or they have had line manager responsibilities or have been engaged in work or projects which in the Company's reasonable opinion are key to its business and / or mean that they are in possession of material and confidential information relating to the Barclays Group.

21.2 Each of the restrictions contained in this paragraph are considered by the parties to be reasonable in all the circumstances as at the date of this Employment Letter. However, the parties acknowledge that if any one or more of such restrictions will be judged to be void as going beyond what is reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the interests of the Barclays Group, but would be enforceable if words were deleted or one or more of the duration, range of activities and area covered were reduced in scope, the restrictions will be deemed to apply with such modifications as may be necessary to make them valid and effective. Any such modification will not affect the validity of any other restriction contained in this Employment Letter and it is confirmed that each restriction in this paragraph will be construed as separate and individual restrictions.

21.3 You confirm that if, during either your employment with the Company or the period of the restrictions set out in this paragraph you receive an offer of employment or engagement, you will provide a copy of these restrictions to the offeror as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the offer.

22. Further terms:

22.1 No omission to exercise or delay in exercising any right, power or remedy of the Company under this Employment Letter will constitute a waiver of that right, power or remedy.

22.2 During your employment:

(a) the Company may at its discretion require that you undergo screening, including for criminal record, sanctions list and/or credit reference checks from time to time. It is anticipated that any such screening would only be undertaken if required for regulatory purposes or in order to comply with the minimum standards for the role you are undertaking; and

(b) you should advise the Company should any of the circumstances as set out in paragraph 18.1(e) of this Employment Letter arise or be brought against you.

22.3 You acknowledge that in entering into these Terms you have not relied on any representation or undertaking by the Company whether oral or in writing, except as expressly incorporated into this Employment Letter.

22.4 You consent to the Company monitoring your use of all Company resources and its communication and electronic equipment including without limitation the telephone, internet, blackberry, software applications and email systems) and information stored on the Company's computer equipment, as described in your local acceptable use policy in accordance with the Barclays Group procedure and / or guidance on electronic communications. A copy of the policy that applies to you can be found on your intranet.

22.5 You understand that you may, during your employment, be granted awards under the terms of one or more of the Company's long term incentive plans or any incentive or bonus plan operated by the Barclays Group. If, on termination of your employment, you lose any of the rights or benefits under any such plans you will not be entitled, by way of compensation for loss of office or otherwise, to any compensation for the loss of any rights under any such plans.

22.6 If your employment is terminated at any time by reason of any reconstruction or amalgamation of the Company or any Barclays Group company, whether by winding up or otherwise, and you are offered employment with any concern or undertaking involved in or resulting from the reconstruction or amalgamation on terms which (considered in their entirety) are no less favourable to any material extent than the terms of this Employment Letter, you shall have no claim against the Company or any such undertaking arising out of or connected with the termination.

23. Certifications

23.1 You confirm and certify that:

- (a) you are not precluded or restricted by any term of any agreement, undertaking or court order or any obligation to any third party from entering into this Employment Letter or undertaking or properly performing any of the duties of your employment with the Company;
- (b) you will notify the Company of any change in circumstances around the termination of your employment with your previous employer between the date of this Employment Letter and the Start Date;
- (c) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation by any company or body into suspected bribery or corruption activity where either: (i) the investigation was concluded and your conduct found to amount to misconduct; or (ii) where the investigation was on-going and did not reach a conclusion because your employment (or engagement) with that company or body was terminated during the investigation (whether by mutual consent or by voluntary termination or otherwise);
- (d) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation into suspected criminal activity involving elements of dishonesty (including theft or fraud) or anti-competitive behaviour; and
- (e) you will not during your employment at the Company breach any third party's rights in respect of confidential information and/or intellectual property.

23.2 Any breach of these certifications will entitle Barclays to immediately terminate your employment.

24. Governing law

Your Terms are governed in accordance with the laws of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management. The parties irrevocably submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the competent courts of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management in relation to any legal action or proceedings that arise out of or in connection with this Employment Letter.

25. Key policies, procedures and practices

25.1 During your employment with the Company (and where applicable after your employment has terminated) you must comply with all of the Company's policies and procedures and any legal and/or statutory and/or regulatory obligations, including (but not limited to) Barclays Group policies and procedures on, and any other obligations relating to, anti-bribery and corruption. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action being taken against you.

25.2 You should familiarise yourself with all policies and procedures that apply to your grade and business area as set out on your intranet. The Code of Conduct and the policies, guidelines and procedures on the following issues are particularly important (although this is not intended as a comprehensive list):

- Any applicable Employee Handbook
- Anti Bribery and Corruption

Dear Mayur Ganesh,

Following our recent discussions, we are delighted to extend an offer of employment to you.

Enclosed are a Summary of Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and Detailed Terms and Conditions which set out important conditions relating to your employment and which, together, form your employment terms with Barclays ('Employment Letter').

The Employment Letter refers to the Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) as these are a central part of everything we do. The Values as well as our purpose and behaviours, will have formed a key part of your selection process when being offered a role at Barclays. You will be expected to act in accordance with the Values as a Barclays employee, and in particular, to follow our Code of Conduct (known as the Barclays Way). More information on this, and how we 'live' the Values, will be available prior to and on joining Barclays.

This offer is conditional upon you satisfying Barclays recruitment and screening conditions and procedures and where applicable, the appropriate regulatory approvals. To start the process you will need to complete an application form. If you have not already received it, you will receive a link to the site shortly.

On or before your first day of employment, you will need to provide written documentation which proves your eligibility to work in India. You will also need to sign one copy of your Employment Letter (enclosed) confirming that you have read, understood and accept the terms. You must return this on your first day of employment.

We look forward to welcoming you to Barclays.

Yours sincerely

Summary of Key Terms

Introduction to this Section

This section is intended as an "at a glance" summary of the key terms of the offer to you. You must, therefore, read these terms in conjunction with any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions which together comprise your Employment Letter.

Name	Mayur Ganesh Telrandhe
Employing Company	Barclays Global Service Centre Private Limited ("the Company")
Position	Your role will be Graduate Analyst, BA3 (or equivalent), or such other role as the Company reasonably decides from time to time.
Start Date	10 July 2023, or such other date agreed between us in writing, subject to the pre-employment conditions being met to the Company's satisfaction. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
	In addition to the terms set out elsewhere in the Agreement, this offer of employment is contingent upon successful completion of your current degree prior to your anticipated start date. Successful completion of your degree means that it is completed within the specified timelines highlighted in your application and that your final degree classification matches or exceeds the predicted results stated in your application to Barclays. It is your responsibility to inform our recruitment team immediately, if you suspect that your grades will be lower than these predicted. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
Working Hours	Your hours of work will be an average of 40 per week. Rest intervals and breaks are separate from the 40 hours of work. The Company is operational 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, so depending on your business function, your working days and hours may involve day and night shifts, and working on weekends/weekly offs and holidays, as permitted under applicable laws. Your manager will inform you if you are required to work in a different shift.
	You will devote sufficient time to your duties. Subject to applicable laws, you may be required to work such additional hours as are required for the proper performance of your duties as per any applicable Company policy, which may require that you attend the office, or be available to fulfil your function, outside normal hours and days. Your working hours can be varied by the Company at its discretion, with reasonable notice and in accordance with applicable laws.
Initial Place of Work	You will initially be based in LTS – Barclays Global Service Centre, Gera Commerzone SEZ, Survey No.65, Village Kharadi Pune - 411014. However, your place of work will be determined in line with the requirements of the scheme at Barclays' sole discretion. It is a condition of your employment that you agree that you may be required to work or travel to any branch or office (in India or overseas). Where you are required to work outside of India, additional terms and conditions may apply to your employment, which will be provided at the relevant time.
Probationary Period	Your employment is subject to a probationary period of 6 months, or such additional period as the company may in its discretion consider necessary.

Salary

Components	In INR Per Annum
Basic salary	462,000.00
House Rent Allowance	231,000.00
Flexible Benefit Plan (see further "Statutory and other Benefits" below)	462,000.00
Annual Salary	1,155,000.00
Providers Fund (Employer's Contribution)	55,440.00
Gratuity (per Company policy)	22,212.00
Total Fixed Pay	1,232,652.00

Salary will be payable on a monthly basis, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses, and other statutory deductions, and is currently paid on or around the 24th (or the prior working day if the 24th is not a working day) of each month. The estimated CTC above does not create any contractual right to any such payment.

You may be eligible to receive discretionary allowances as mentioned above or otherwise, subject to and in accordance with the Company's policy on such allowances / flexible benefit pay component of the salary, subject to amendment from time to time by the Company, to reflect changes in law, tax, or other reasons. These allowances may be reduced or withdrawn.

Your allowances will be paid along with your salary as mentioned above, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other statutory deductions.

Other Payments

The Company agrees to pay you a one-off non-pensionable scholarship and bursary payment of Rs.100,000.00 (the "Scholarship and Bursary Payment") in recognition of your studying costs. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be paid within 90 days from your date of joining Barclays. The payment will be made subject to applicable tax and/or other withholdings or deductions as required by law or regulation.

As agreed by you, this Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be subject to your compliance with the following requirements:

You will be required to repay the Scholarship and Bursary Payment net of any taxes or other deductions or withholdings as required by law or regulation within 30 days of any of the following occurring:

- you have terminated your employment voluntarily (or have given the Company notice to terminate your employment) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you are dismissed for gross misconduct or fundamental breach of contract or for a serious breach of the Risk and/or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group (or you have been given notice to terminate your employment for these reasons) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you fail to satisfy the pre-employment conditions of as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company.

The Company may adjust this repayment amount from any amount payable to you by any Barclays Group company. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment should not be interpreted as giving rise to any right to or legitimate expectation of any other award, nor is it any assurance as to the level of any award which may be made to you in future, which will be at the Company's discretion.

You were also given an opportunity to join your employment without the Scholarship and Bursary Payment and therefore your liability to repay the amount, as has been mentioned above, in no case to be considered as a deterrent to restrict your employment for a specific term.

Qualifications/
Examinations

It is a condition of your employment and continued employment with the Company that you successfully complete any professional qualification and/or examination as may be required and notified to you by the Company from time to time, including without limitation any qualifications or examinations required by the Regulator. You will be expected to pass all exams within a predetermined period and/or within one or more sittings, which shall be set out in the Company policy.

Subject to the terms set out below and the Company policy, the Company will be responsible for the cost of any first attempts at any such qualification with our preferred provider, including study books and associated examination fees. You should refer to the Company policy for details.

If you do not pass any exam or obtain a qualification within the period specified or within the relevant number of attempts (which may in some cases only be one) the Company reserves the right to terminate your employment.

In the event that your employment is terminated for gross misconduct, or if you resign from the Company or otherwise terminate your employment or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, you will be required (except where a qualification or examination is required by the Regulator) to repay to the Company the following sums in full within 30 days:

- 100% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment at any time during your course of study, or within six months of completing your course of study, or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, or
- 50% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment within six twelve months of completing your course of study

Any such sums owed by you to the Company will be deducted from any sums due to you from the Company or, if such a deduction is not made, will be deemed to be due as a debt from you to the Company.

Discretionary Incentive Award

You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis, at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to you being eligible at the relevant time. Normally, awards are made in the first quarter, in respect of the previous financial year.

Statutory and Other Benefits

You will be eligible for various statutory benefits in accordance with the relevant laws. You will also be eligible to participate in the Company's benefits scheme, details of which are set out in the attached flyer which does not form part of your contract or have any contractual effect.

Any benefits are subject to the relevant policies/plans from time to time in force. The Company reserves the right to change the benefits or policies/plans from time to time.

If the Company pays or reimburses any expense on your joining the Company towards your relocation from your current place of stay to your place of posting as agreed between the Company and you, if your employment ends less than one year after the Start Date you confirm that you will pay to the Company (or alternatively Company may set-off against/ write off) any amount paid or reimbursed in respect of such relocation from the amount payable to you.

Annual Leave

You are entitled to avail annual leave which includes privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave entitlement in accordance with the applicable laws in the state of your Place of Work. Further details are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions and on your intranet.

Notice Period

Either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving two months written notice; however, the Company may terminate your employment with immediate effect in accordance with applicable Company policies.

Any reduction/ waiver to notice period shall be at the sole discretion of the Company. Company may adjust balance of annual leaves, if there is any reduction/ waiver.

565

Further information on Notice is included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Overtime

Employees who are eligible under applicable laws to be paid Overtime for work beyond normal working hours, will be paid for the same in accordance to the applicable State laws at your Place of Work.

Further details in regard to Overtime are included within the Additional Time Guidelines available on the company's Intranet.

Data Privacy

The Company processes employee information for legal, regulatory, administrative and other purposes related to your employment and the conduct of the business of the Barclays Group (the "Agreed Purposes"). Processing includes obtaining, holding, editing, destroying and disclosing employee information to any Barclays Group company and its employees and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, auditors, consultants, lawyer/law firm, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) for the Agreed Purposes ("Processing" or "Process").

For the Agreed Purposes, the Company may transfer employee information to any Barclays Group company and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) in order to Process employee information for the Agreed Purposes.

You confirm that you will provide your employee information to the Company and consent to the Processing of employee information for the Agreed Purposes. This may include transfers to recipients based in another country to your place of employment (either within or outside the European Economic Area) with different levels of protection of your personal data to India.

You confirm that the Company and/or any Barclays Group company may monitor and/or record your use of office equipment, for example, e-mail, internet (including chats and blogs), telephones and mobile telephones for the purposes of compliance with Company procedures and policies, maintenance, security and regulatory requirements or as permitted by law.

Aforesaid clause/ conditions shall apply to information relating to your family members/ relatives with respect to insurance policy, emergency contact details, etc., in accordance with prevailing Barclays' Company policy. It is your responsibility to inform such individuals that their data will be processed in this manner and to obtain their consent.

Confidentiality

It is important that you recognise that during your employment with the Company you will have access to, and be entrusted with, confidential information and trade secrets relating to the Company, the Barclays Group and any of our clients and customers. Both during, and after your employment you must comply with all policies and procedures relating to confidentiality, confidential information and trade secrets and any stricter policy which applies to your role.

Post-Termination Restrictions

In protecting the interests of the Company, you must not, for a period of 3 months from the termination date of your employment:

- approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer/supplier of Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to your termination.
- solicit or entice, or attempt to solicit or entice away or engage or employ any director, officer or employee in the Barclays Group

Full details of the restrictions you will be bound by are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Detailed Terms and Conditions

Introduction

About the Detailed Terms and Conditions

The purpose of the Detailed Terms and Conditions is to provide you with the relevant information on what the Company and the Barclays Group expects from its employees.

The Detailed Terms and Conditions also set out a list of key practices, guidelines and processes that the Barclays Group has developed to reflect our values, purpose and behaviour and as part of our high performance culture and, in accordance with your contractual obligations, must be adhered to at all times. Further information and policies can be found on your own business unit intranet site.

It is important that we review our policies, practices, guidelines and processes to ensure that we stay at the leading edge, enabling us to be one of the most admired financial services companies in the world. From time to time, our policies and procedures do change and you must familiarise yourself with them on joining and periodically throughout your employment. References in the Detailed Terms and Conditions to a policy, practice, guideline and / or process generally are references to the relevant policy, practice, guideline and / or process in force at the relevant time.

These detailed terms and conditions also refer to the Barclays Values which must be adhered to at all times. The Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) are set out on your own business unit intranet site.

You should also refer to Appendix 1 which sets out definitions of the terms used in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Your Detailed Terms and Conditions of Employment

1. Introduction to this Section

This section sets out your detailed terms and conditions of employment and should be read alongside your enclosed Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedules. These documents form your employment terms with the Company and are referred to in this document as "Employment Letter". By signing the Employment Letter you confirm that you have read, understood and accept the terms set out in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

2. Pre-employment and ongoing conditions

2.1 Your confirmation in the employment will be subject to successful completion of the Probationary Period as mentioned in the summary of terms or such additional period as the Company considers necessary in its absolute discretion. Your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically unless communicated otherwise in writing.

2.2 You understand that the Company's offer of employment is made to you subject to and conditional on the completion of certain pre-employment procedures and processes. You certify that the information that you have provided in connection with completion of the procedures and otherwise in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview stage) is true and accurate both at the time it is given and on the Start Date. The Company reserves the right to carry out screening checks on all employees, and such procedures may include but are not limited to:

- (a) receipt of references and documentary proof that are satisfactory to the Company that you are legally entitled to reside and work in your country;
- (b) completion of credit checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
- (c) where criminal record checks are applicable to your role, completion of those checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
- (d) if requested by the Company, a medical examination by the Company's medical advisers;
- (e) where Regulator approval for your appointment is required and such approval is sought before your employment commences, such approval either (i) being obtained or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator; (ii) receipt of documentary proof that you hold the appropriate and relevant qualifications; and
- (f) the Company receiving a signed copy of the Terms from you.

2.3 Whilst every effort will be made to complete all the checks and processes in the pre-employment procedures before your Start Date, this may not always be possible. In case you are employed prior to completion of the pre-employment procedures, the Company may terminate your employment at any time on minimum statutory notice if the check reports are not up to our satisfaction or the procedures are not completed within a reasonable period of time.

2.4 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to you obtaining, holding and continuing to hold all applicable qualifications, licences and registrations as required by your role. Where Regulator approval for your role is required and such approval is sought after your employment commences, then your continued employment is conditional on such approval either: (i) being obtained, or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator (or other relevant regulatory body).

2.5 You shall be liable and responsible to inform and update your latest contact and address details, in the records of the Company, from time to time. Failure to comply may constitute gross negligence on your part.

2.6 You should not engage in any matter which would or could be anticipated to result in a conflict of interest between you and the Company.

Udo

2.7 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your successful completion of certain trainings (such as Communication & Culture and/or other process and policy trainings accreditations) that may be assigned to you by the Company from time to time. In case you remain absent for more than 2 days during these training programs or you become unable to qualify the trainings to the satisfaction of the Company, the Company shall have the sole discretion to take appropriate action including termination of your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 16.1 (e) viii of the detailed terms and conditions of this Employment Letter. In case of your absence due to any personal emergency, your Line Manager shall on his/her sole discretion and upon evaluation of the reason of your absence, may recommend the Company to realign you for the next available training within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence. In case you are realigned for the next training as mentioned above, there may be possible change in process and/or compensation on account of such realignment. If for any reason you do not agree to the realignment terms or no such realignment is possible within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence, the Company shall have the sole discretion to terminate your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 16.1 (e) viii.

3. Place of Work and Mobility

Your place of work is as set out in your Summary of Key Terms. However you may need to travel to other locations and offices as reasonably required in the performance of your duties. You confirm that you will travel to such places (both inside and outside India) as the Company may reasonably require from time to time. Should the Company need to permanently change your place of work, you will be given reasonable notice of any such change (acceptable in e-mail letter format).

4. Duties

4.1 During your employment with the Company you confirm that you will:

- (a) act in a manner consistent with and which supports our values, purpose and behaviours and in particular the Barclays Values;
- (b) devote the whole of your working time and attention to the business of the Company and the Barclays Group;
- (c) diligently and faithfully perform such duties and exercise such powers and functions as may reasonably be assigned to you by the Company in relation to its business and that of the Barclays Group to the best of your ability and with integrity, due skill, care and diligence;
- (d) use your best efforts to promote and protect the interests of the Company and the Barclays Group and not do anything to harm those interests;
- (e) comply with all reasonable requests, instructions and regulations given by the Company and the Barclays Group and promptly provide such explanations, information and assistance as to your activities in the business of the Company and the Barclays Group as they may reasonably need;
- (f) neither engage in any activities which would detract from the proper performance of your duties under the terms of this Employment Letter, nor (without the prior written consent of the Company) in any capacity including as director, shareholder, principal, consultant, agent, partner or employee engage or be concerned or interested directly or indirectly in any other trade, business or occupation whatsoever provided always that such activities are in compliance with Barclays policies on outside or external business interests. This paragraph will not prevent you holding for investment purposes only, shares or securities which do not exceed three per cent (3%) in nominal value of the share capital or stock of any class of any company quoted on a recognised stock exchange;
- (g) not engage or be interested in any activities which place you in a position where your interests conflict improperly with those of the Barclays Group, its clients, customers or shareholders. Barclays recognises that, on occasion, a conflict of interest may arise which is unavoidable. In such circumstances you must make your line manager and local compliance control room or compliance contact aware of the issue immediately. You must not act in relation to the matter, without their written direction or approval; and
- (h) report any actual or proposed unlawful activity or behaviour affecting the Barclays Group by you or any other employee, officer, contractor of the Barclays Group or any other person to your manager (or, if they are potentially involved in such unlawful activity or behaviour, to your HR Business Partner or a member of your Compliance team) immediately on becoming aware of it.

5. Salary and allowances

Your salary will be paid on a monthly basis on or around the last working day of each month and is subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other applicable withholdings. All tax liabilities arising out of your entire remuneration package, present or future, shall be borne by you. Your salary and any allowances will accrue on a daily basis and will be paid pro rata if you are employed for part of a month.

Your salary will be reviewed annually without commitment to increase. The Company may deduct from any payments to you any money owed by you to any Barclays Group company in accordance with the applicable laws.

Your acceptance to these terms shall confirm your consent to the Company making payment of your salary, compensation, award, incentive/bonus etc. by way of credit to bank account with the bank of Company's choice or via such other mode as the Company may deem appropriate.

6. Discretionary Incentive award

6.1 You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis. The value, form, conditions of delivery and timing of any such awards are at the Company's discretion. This discretion includes the right to make the award or a proportion of the award in a form other than cash, including an award of Shares and to defer an element of an award under the terms of a Barclays Group incentive plan.

6.2 Any discretionary incentive award will only be made if, at that time, you are in employment and are not under notice (whether given or received) nor under suspension or investigation for a regulatory or disciplinary matter.

6.3 If you are subject to any investigation or disciplinary process at the time when communication, payment or making of any payment and/or award would otherwise occur, then the delivery of that payment and/or award will be suspended. If on conclusion of any investigation and/or disciplinary process, you are dismissed for gross misconduct or cause and / or have committed any serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group, then no payment and / or award will be made to you. If no disciplinary action (or disciplinary action short of dismissal) is taken against you, then a payment and / or award may be made to you after the conclusion of that process. However, the amount of any award and / or payment to which you are entitled may be reduced by the Company in its sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, any award and / or payment may be reduced to nil in such circumstances.

6.4 Notwithstanding paragraph 6.3, any unpaid or unvested award (or portion of an unpaid or unvested award) may be reduced (to nil if appropriate) at the Company's discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company may exercise its discretion including as a result of:

(a) Barclays PLC or any subsidiary's financial statements having been materially restated for the period for which the award was made other than restatement due to a change in accounting policy or to rectify a minor error; or

(b) Your actions having, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Company:

i. deliberately misled the management of the Company, the market and/or Barclays PLC shareholders regarding the financial performance of Barclays PLC or of any subsidiary;

ii. caused harm to the reputation of the Barclays Group;

iii. amounted to misconduct, negligence, incompetence or poor performance ("misconduct", "negligence", "incompetence", and "poor performance" as determined by the Remuneration Committee acting in good faith, following consultation with the Company); or

(c) The Barclays Group or any of its subsidiaries, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Risk Committee, has suffered a material failure of risk management.

6.5 Should the Company become aware that the amount of any award that has been paid or released to you was calculated on the basis of any false, incorrect or misleading information, then, the Company may, within one year of any such payment or release being made, request that you will repay as a debt to the Company the amount (or any part of the amount) as may be determined in the Company's sole discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. You confirm that in the event a repayment obligation arises the Company is authorised to deduct the relevant amount from your salary or any other

- amounts due to you (including in instalments) as it determines in its discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws.
- 6.6 A payment of cash and / or a release of Shares or other instruments under an award will be subject to tax and other applicable withholdings, taxes, duties, cesses, deductions and will be subject to the rules of any applicable incentive plan.
- 6.7 Whether you are eligible to receive a discretionary incentive award, and if so, the amount shall be determined at the absolute discretion of the Company. You have no contractual right, whether express or implied, to receive an award at all, or an award of any particular amount, and the making of an award in any year does not give rise to any obligation on the Company to make an award in any future year. For the avoidance of doubt, your employment may be terminated by the Company at any time, for any reason, in accordance with clauses 18 or 19 of this Employment Letter and the exercise of that right to terminate is not limited or fettered by any term (express or implied).

- 6.8 Within Barclays, certain (usually senior) roles are designated as "Material Risk Taker" ("MRT") roles. Where you are a MRT for any particular year you will be notified of this during or following the end of the relevant year. At any time during the seven year period from the date on which any variable remuneration is awarded to you in respect of a period for which you are a MRT (the "Relevant Variable Remuneration"), if Barclays determines that:

- (a) your actions or omissions have, in the reasonable opinion of Barclays amounted to misbehaviour or material error; and/or
(b) Barclays or the relevant business unit has suffered a material failure of risk management, then, without prejudice to Barclays other remedies, Barclays may require that you repay an amount, not exceeding the value of the Relevant Variable Remuneration. The repayment shall be of such value as may be determined in Barclays discretion acting in good faith, to such Barclays Group Company and on such terms as Barclays may direct.

In respect of paragraph 6.8 (b) above, Barclays shall take into account your proximity to the applicable failure and your level of responsibility before any request for repayment is made. In respect of paragraphs (a) and (b) above, before any request for repayment is made, Barclays shall take into consideration whether you (i) have participated in, or were responsible for, conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Barclays Group or (ii) failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety.

For the avoidance of doubt, the whole or any part of the Relevant Variable Remuneration can be clawed back if Barclays makes its determination within seven years from the date that the Relevant Variable Remuneration was awarded to you even if an event falling within (a) or (b) above occurred prior to the date of award.

The determination of what constitutes "misbehaviour", "material error", "material failure of risk management", "significant losses" and "appropriate standards of fitness and propriety" shall be determined by Barclays acting in good faith.

You confirm that in the event Barclays makes a repayment determination, you shall repay the amount subject to that determination within the time period specified in the determination. You further confirm and provide authorisation for Barclays to deduct the appropriate repayment amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you, to the full extent permitted under local law, whether from Barclays or any other Barclays Group company.

You acknowledge that, (in addition to its rights at clause 16 (Amendments to terms and conditions of employment)) the terms of this clause 6.8 may be amended by Barclays to the extent deemed reasonably necessary in order to comply with law, regulations or guidance published by any regulatory authority or other relevant authority from time to time.

This clause shall apply in addition to the general right of repayment set out in clause 6.5 of the Employment Letter.

7. Statutory and Other Benefits

- 7.1 You will be eligible for various statutory benefits as mentioned in the Summary of Key terms and in accordance with the relevant laws.
- 7.2 The Company operates or may operate a benefits programme for its employees and your benefits are/will set out in full in the attached benefits brochure (except the statutory benefits mentioned above, these benefits do not form part of your contract of employment or have any contractual or other legal effect).
- 7.3 The Company has the right at its absolute discretion to amend or withdraw the benefits at any time and without any compensation or notice to you and / or replace any benefit with an alternative at its discretion.
- 7.4 Participation in any benefits scheme is subject to the rules of the relevant schemes, which may vary from time to time, and is subject to you satisfying any applicable requirements of the insurers or third party providers (where relevant). Your participation may be excluded where, in Barclays' opinion, cover can only be obtained on the basis that exceptional conditions or unusually high premiums are imposed or levied by the insurer or provider.

8. Annual Leave

- 8.1 Your annual leave entitlement is set out in the Summary of Key Terms. The Company's annual leave year currently runs from 1 January to the 31 December. The dates of the annual leave year may be changed. You are obliged to take all your annual leave entitlement in the relevant year, unless a policy/Handbook applicable to you states otherwise, in which case leave may only be carried over subject to and in accordance with those terms and applicable law. Your annual leave dates must be agreed in advance with your line manager. You will be allowed to carry your unutilised privileged leaves over to the next annual leave year, subject to the limit and restrictions as may be defined in the company policy and subject to the applicable laws. There is no provision of encashment of unutilised leave (including in case of termination of employment), except where such encashment is mandated by law applicable at the place of your employment at the relevant time.
- 8.2 If your employment begins during an annual leave year, your annual leave entitlement (plus any Bank or Public Holidays which fall during this period), will be calculated pro rata. During the probationary period you may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favour up until the time of taking such leave. Any unutilised leave at the time of cessation of employment shall lapse and any payment to be made in lieu of the unutilised leave shall be at the sole discretion of Barclays unless mandated by the applicable law. If you have taken more leave than your accrued entitlement, you shall be required to repay to the Company an amount equivalent to any holiday taken in excess of your pro rata holiday entitlement, and the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your final salary instalment or any other sum owed by the Company to you at the Termination Date.
- 8.3 In accordance with regulatory guidelines and the Company's policies, the Company may require you to go on a mandatory block leave.

9. Intellectual Property

- 9.1 For the purposes of this paragraph:

"Intellectual Property Rights" means (i) copyright and related rights, patents, know-how, confidential information, database rights, inventions and rights in trademarks and designs (whether registered or unregistered), (ii) applications for registration, and the right to apply for registration, for any of the same, and (iii) all other intellectual property rights and equivalent or similar forms of protection existing anywhere in the world;

"Invention" means any invention, idea, discovery, development, improvement or innovation made, whether or not patentable or capable of registration, and whether or not recorded in any medium; and

"Works" means all documents, materials, software, photographic or graphic works of any type, and other materials in any medium or format which are created or developed, or are in the process of being created or developed, or used (whether in final form or otherwise) by you or on your behalf or by the Company in the course of your employment with the Company or for the benefit of the Company and which are protected by, contain or relate to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.2 You will promptly disclose and deliver up to the Company all and any Works conceived, or made by you during and in the course of your employment (whether conceived, or made during normal working hours, in your normal place of work, or in conjunction with others, or otherwise). You confirm that you will provide the Company with all originals and copies of all correspondence, documents and other materials in whatever medium or form relating to or concerning the Works and the Intellectual Property Rights they contain.
- 9.3 You confirm that you will only use the Works to perform your obligations under Employment Letter and that you will not make personal copies of any Works other than for the purposes of your employment with the Company.
- 9.4 It is understood that all Intellectual Property Rights created by you in the course of your employment shall be "work for hire". You acknowledge that you have, and will have at all times while you are employed by the Company, a special obligation to further the interests of the undertakings of the Company, and that all Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works will automatically, on creation, belong to and vest in the Company absolutely to the fullest extent provided by law.
- 9.5 To the extent that the Works and Intellectual Property Rights do not vest in the Company or the Barclays Group automatically, you will hold such Works and Intellectual Property Rights on trust for the benefit of the Company until the Works and Intellectual Property Rights vest absolutely in the Company.
- 9.6 You confirm that you will immediately, upon request and at the Company's expense, provide all such documents and assistance as may be necessary to vest the Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works in the Company, to enable -

the Company to enjoy the full benefit of the Intellectual Property Rights, and to enable the Company to enforce its Intellectual Property Rights against third parties or defend claims brought against the Company in relation to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.7 By signing Employment Letter you accept and confirm to assign to the Company or a member of the Barclays Group (as specified by the Company) all current and future Intellectual Property Rights in the Works and any other proprietary rights capable of assignment by way of present assignment of future rights for the full term of such rights. You confirm that such assignment shall be perpetual, worldwide and royalty free. You also confirm that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 19(4) of the Copyright Act, 1957, such assignment in so far as it relates to copyrightable material shall not lapse nor the rights transferred therein revert to the Employee, even if the Company does not exercise the rights under the assignment within a period of one year from the date of assignment. You acknowledge and confirm that you shall waive any right to and shall not raise any objection or claims to the Copyright Board with respect to the assignment, pursuant to Section 19A of the Copyright Act, 1957.
- 9.8 You unconditionally and irrevocably waive your moral rights in relation to existing and future Works, including your right to be identified as the author of the Works and not to have the Works subject to derogatory treatment. You acknowledge that, except as may be expressly provided by law, no further remuneration or compensation other than that provided for under Employment Letter is or may become due to you.
- 9.9 When this Employment Letter expires or terminates, for whatever reason, you will immediately deliver up to the Company all Works in your possession or under your control, and under no circumstances may any Works be retained by you except with the prior written consent of the Company.
- 9.10 Without prejudice to any specific legal rights which you may otherwise have, you acknowledge that no further remuneration or compensation other than that expressly provided for in this Employment Letter will become due to you in respect of your compliance with this Section 9.

10. Confidentiality

10.1 During your employment with the Company or at any time afterwards, you must not disclose to any person or make use of any Confidential Information or trade secrets that you have obtained in the course of your employment. This includes information that you have acquired in the course of your employment concerning the business or affairs of the Company and/or any other Barclays Group company or our customers or clients. You are required to use your best efforts to prevent the unauthorised publication or disclosure of any such Confidential information. Exceptions to this are the use of information for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter, where the Company has given written consent or disclosure is required by law, where the information is already in or comes into the public domain (other than by your unauthorised disclosure).

10.2 During your employment or at any time afterwards, you must not make any copy or record (whether recorded in writing, on computer disc, electronically or otherwise) of any Confidential Information, unless this is required for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter. Any such information belongs to the Barclays Group and must be returned by you either at any time during the course of your employment on the request of the Company and immediately on termination of your employment.

10.3 For the purposes of this Employment Letter, "Confidential Information" means information concerning the business, affairs, finance, clients or trade connections of the Company, any member of the Barclays Group, or any of its customers, clients, suppliers or agents. This includes but is not limited to:

- (a) commercially sensitive information or trade secrets;
- (b) corporate and marketing strategy, business development plans, sales reports and research results;
- (c) business methods and processes, technical information and know-how relating to the Barclays Group's business and which is not available to the public generally, including inventions, designs, programmes, techniques, database systems, formulae and ideas;
- (d) business contacts, lists or details of clients and suppliers and details of contacts with them, their business or affairs, including client names and client contact details, financial and personal affairs, and trading history and methodology;
- (e) information on employees and the terms and conditions of their employment, details of employee benefits, incentive schemes plans, salary scales and/or current or anticipated trade union/employee disputes.

(f) information or details of any actual, potential or threatened litigation, legal action, claim, dispute or arbitration against or with any member of the Barclays Group or any current or former director, officer or employee of the Barclays Group in such capacity and any information in respect of provisions for any such action;

(g) budgets, management accounts, trading statements and other financial reports;

(h) unpublished price sensitive information relating to shares or securities listed or dealt in on any recognised stock exchange; and

(i) any other information which any member of the Barclays Group or any of its employees or consultants has identified (verbally, in writing, or by its or their actions) as being secret or confidential in nature or which would reasonably be considered as confidential.

10.4 You shall not solicit business for the Company from any clients belonging to your previous employer/s in breach of your terms of employment with your previous employer. You shall not use any confidential information that came to your knowledge in the course of your previous employment while working with the Company. You undertake to indemnify the Company against any action that the Company may face on account of your actions in breach of your obligations to your previous employer/s.

11. Regulatory compliance and dealing codes

11.1 The nature of the Barclays Group's business is such that it is authorised and regulated by the appropriate Regulator.

11.2 It is your responsibility to know, understand and comply with all legal, regulatory and governance obligations, including the provisions of the Regulatory and Compliance policies that are relevant to you. If you are in any doubt as to your responsibilities in this regard or the rules which apply to you, you must contact the Compliance team within your business area.

11.3 If you are a Regulator approved person (or any equivalent status with any other regulator) you must comply with the Regulator's Statement of Principles and Code of Practice for Approved Persons (or meet the applicable standards). Failure to meet these Principles / Standards and / or to comply with this Code of Practice (or other applicable standards) may result in investigation by the regulator, applicable regulator and/or the Company, and / or disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company which may result in the termination of your employment.

11.4 You confirm that you will be bound by and will comply with the Barclays Group Share Dealing Code and with any more stringent dealing rules applicable to you or the area of the business in which you work, in particular, you agree not to make any investment, directly or indirectly, in any company or business which is a customer or client of the Barclays Group and which may in the reasonable opinion of the Company be expected to cause your personal or family interests to conflict with your duty to the Company in any respect.

11.5 Any incentives or compensation payable to you by any member of the Company or Group Company (under this Employment Letter or otherwise, including any guaranteed amounts and including, where applicable, the payment and settlement schedule and split of cash and Shares as set out in this Employment Letter) are subject to limitation or modification to the extent reasonably deemed necessary by the Company including in order to remain consistent with Barclays remuneration policy (as amended from time to time) or to comply with laws and regulations, including any regulations or guidance published by the Regulator from time to time.

12. Expenses

There may be occasions when you incur business expenses for instance, travelling to a training course or visiting another business location for a meeting. Any expenses must be pre-approved and claimed promptly and will be reimbursed to you in line with our procedures, a copy of which can be found on your intranet.

The Company at its sole discretion may bear certain expenses on your training, learning and developmental needs, subject to your acceptance of the terms and obligations as would be mentioned in the agreement ("Training Agreement") that may be executed with you.

As a consideration to the training expenses to be incurred by the Company, you may be asked to work with the Company for a certain period of time, post completion of the said trainings/ programs/courses, as the case may be and/or to compensate the Company by paying an agreed sum as liquidated damages. Your specific obligations will form part of the Training Agreement to be executed with you. For the execution of the Training Agreement, you may be asked to get a surety to undertake your obligations under the terms of the Training Agreement.

Unless otherwise agreed in the Training Agreement, any breach of the terms of the said Training Agreement, will be considered as the breach of the terms of this Letter.

13. Attendance at work

13.1 Your Summary of Key Terms will provide you with details of the particular working pattern that applies to you, and any specific arrangements that may apply regarding changes to this pattern. If you work full time, or for 8 hours or more on a given day, your normal working hours would additionally include up to a daily one hour break.

13.2 From time to time, the Company may need to vary your hours, days and times of work if this is necessary to accommodate the needs of the business or the absence of your colleagues. Should the Company need to vary your working hours, you will be given reasonable notice of any such changes.

14. Sick leave

14.1 If you are unable to work through ill health or injury you will be entitled to sick leave in accordance with the policy on Leave and Holidays, which can be found in the Company's Intranet. The Company reserves the right to only approve sick leave of more than two consecutive workdays if certified by a medical practitioner of the Company's choice, and you hereby confirm that you co-operate with such an examination and to authorise the full disclosure of any resulting report to Barclays.

14.2 The payment of salary and any allowances during periods of sickness will be subject to as prescribed under the applicable laws and you following the requirements regarding notification and certification of absence as set out in this Employment Letter, on your intranet and the Company being satisfied that you are unable to work due to illness or injury.

15. Other absences from work

Approval should be obtained in advance from your line manager for absence during working hours. If unexpected circumstances mean that this is not possible, you should inform your line manager as soon as possible. Absence without approval and / or explanation will be dealt with under the disciplinary procedure which could result in disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company and which may result in the termination of your employment.

16. Amendments to terms and conditions of employment

16.1 The Company reserves the right to review, revise, amend, replace or withdraw the contents of these Terms and introduce new policies, practices, guidelines and procedures from time to time to reflect the changing needs of the business or any changes in legislation or regulation from time to time.

16.2 For the avoidance of doubt, where the Company retains a discretion under these Terms (including but not limited to the discretion to make incentive award(s) to you, any matters considered in the decision whether to make such an award and the value, form, conditions and timing of delivery of any such award(s)) such discretion cannot be limited or fettered in any way other than by consent between you and the Company which is documented formally in writing on the Company's headed paper by an authorised member of the Human Resources Department.

17. Allocation of duties and transfers within the Barclays Group:

You confirm that the Company will be entitled at any time and with prior notice (where required by applicable law) to: (i) assign you to carry out such projects and/or duties commensurate with your abilities as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (ii) assign you on a temporary or permanent basis to undertake additional duties and/or different duties commensurate with your abilities within any part or parts of the Barclays Group as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (iii) second you on a temporary or permanent basis to work for any company in the Barclays Group or to a third party and/or (iv) transfer your employment and its rights and obligations to another company in the Barclays Group.

18. Leaving Barclays

18.1 Subject to paragraph 2 of these Detailed Terms and Conditions the Company and you may each terminate this Employment Letter in accordance with the "Notice" paragraph set out in your Summary of Key Terms. In addition:

(a) either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving one month's written notice (or, if greater, the minimum notice according to local applicable law) during any probationary period that may apply to you as set out in your Summary of Key Terms;

(b) your employment shall be conditional on your ability to start work on the agreed Start Date. If you are unable to do so, you will have no entitlement to receive any payment or other benefit whatsoever from the Company or the Barclays Group;

(c) your employment may also be terminated by the Company without notice or pay in lieu of notice if you commit an act of gross misconduct (as may be defined under applicable Company policy from time to time which may include failure to comply with any policies and/or procedures including those referred to in the Detailed Terms and Conditions), lack of competence, serious breach of the Terms including improper or unethical behaviour;

(d) Your contractual and normal retirement age is 60 years. On the day you attain that age, your employment shall end automatically without any need for either party to serve written notice; and

(e) the Company may (without notice, pay in lieu of notice or incurring any obligation to pay compensation) immediately terminate your employment if you:

- i. are convicted of any criminal offence (other than a minor offence which, in the opinion of the Company, does not affect your position as an employee of the Company); or
- ii. are guilty of any act of dishonesty or gross or serious misconduct or any conduct which brings or is intended to bring any member of the Barclays Group or yourself into disrepute or may damage the business or affairs of the Barclays Group; or
- iii. have been found by the Company to have materially or repeatedly breached or have not complied with the terms of this Employment Letter (or otherwise fail or refuse to carry out the duties assigned to you); or
- iv. have breached or otherwise failed the Barclays Group sanctions screening policy or process; or
- v. cease to hold or fail to obtain any regulatory approvals or consents which are required for the effective discharge by you of any duties assigned to you under this Employment Letter; or
- vi. materially breach the rules of the Regulator; or
- vii. breach any Barclays Group rules on anti-bribery or anti-corruption;
- viii. don't obtain or maintain the accreditation(s) or qualifications that you are required to have (in the Company's opinion, or according to relevant regulators or professional bodies) to be able to work in your job profile;
- ix. be repeatedly absent without leave or absent without leave for a period exceeding 14 days.

This sub paragraph is not exhaustive and does not restrict any other right which the Company may have (whether at common law or otherwise) to terminate your employment summarily.

18.2 You shall be liable to pay the Damages to the Company, in case you fail to serve the requisite notice as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms. These Damages shall be in addition to the payment of salary in lieu of notice period. In respect of the Damages, the Company reserves the right to set-off against/ write off as amount payable/ withhold from the salary and/or any allowances. Further, you shall not be relieved from your contractual notice period, unless expressly relieved in writing.

18.3 The termination of your employment will not affect any terms of this Employment Letter which are intended to operate after the termination date, including the paragraphs relating to Intellectual Property, Confidentiality and Post Termination Restrictions.

18.4 On termination of your employment, irrespective of the reason, or at any other time when asked by the Company, you will:

- (a) immediately return to the Company all vehicles, equipment and documents, whether electronic or otherwise, and any other property (of any kind) (security pass, business cards, etc) relating to the business of or belonging to the Barclays Group, together with all copies of any such documents that you have in your possession or under your control;
- (b) irretrievably delete any information relating to the business of the Company or the Barclays Group stored on any computer or storage device and all information derived from the same in your possession or control and held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
- (c) resign with immediate effect from any offices or appointments you hold within or connected to the Barclays Group; and
- (d) confirm in writing that you have complied fully with the terms of this paragraph and provide evidence of compliance as the Company may request.

18. Payment in lieu of notice

- 19.1 The Company reserves the right in its sole and absolute discretion to terminate your employment and your terms with immediate effect (whether or not notice has been given by either party) by giving notice in writing to you of its intention to make a payment in lieu of notice and, if it does so, the Company shall make you a payment in lieu of notice, equal to the salary which you would have been entitled to receive if you had worked during your Notice Period or, if your Notice Period has started, the unexpired portion (the "Payment in Lieu"). Where the Company elects to make a Payment in Lieu of some or all of your Notice Period, your employment shall terminate on the date specified by the Company, regardless of when the Payment in Lieu is paid.
- 19.2 Any Payment in Lieu will be paid less tax and any applicable withholdings. You will not be entitled to receive any payment in respect of holiday entitlement that would have accrued during the period for which the Payment in Lieu is made.
- 19.3 Any Payment in Lieu may be paid by the Company in accordance with the Company policies and subject to the applicable laws. Any Payment in Lieu may at the Company's discretion be paid as a lump sum within one month of the Termination Date or in equal monthly installments from the date on which notice is served until what would have been the end of the Notice Period provided always that if after exercising its discretion to make a Payment in Lieu the Company becomes aware of any grounds that would permit it to summarily terminate your employment any payments due under this clause 19.3 will cease to be payable and the net value of any Payment in Lieu that has been received by you shall be repaid as a debt to the Company within 30 days of the Company notifying you of this repayment obligation.

20. Garden leave and suspension

- 20.1 The Company may suspend you at any time from the performance of all or any of your duties:
- (a) for the whole or any part of any applicable Notice Period; or
 - (b) for such periods and on such terms as is necessary to allow any investigation to take place (including, but not limited to an investigation by a regulatory authority or an investigation under the Company's disciplinary procedure).
- 20.2 During any period of suspension, the Company will be under no obligation to provide work for or assign any duties to you and may require you not to attend any premises of any member of the Barclays Group (other than as a customer) and may require you to:
- (a) not speak to, contact or otherwise communicate with or engage with any director, consultant, agent, contractor or employee of any member of the Barclays Group other than to carry out your personal banking, or any person, firm or company who, at the date of such suspension or exclusion is a client or customer of any member of the Barclays Group unless they are members of your immediate family;
 - (b) at any time to carry out such special projects or duties commensurate with your abilities as the Company shall in its absolute discretion determine;
 - (c) meet with representatives from the Company in order to facilitate a handover of work and provide assistance with ongoing business activity; and
 - (d) take any holiday which you have accrued.
- 20.3 During any period of suspension:
- (a) your employment with the Company and this Employment Letter will continue and you will continue to be bound by your obligations under it (except as expressly set out in this paragraph) including, but not limited to, your obligations of confidentiality, good faith and fidelity to the Company; and
 - (b) you shall continue to receive your basic salary and all contractual benefits in the usual way.

21. Post termination restrictions

- 21.1 You confirm to the Company (for itself and as trustee and agent for each member of the Barclays Group) that you will not, whether directly or indirectly, on your own behalf or on behalf of or in conjunction with any other person, firm, company or other entity:

(a) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer, client or supplier of the Company or the Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings in the course of your employment with the Company or in respect of whom you were aware of material and confidential information, in both cases within the 12 month period immediately prior to the Termination Date. Nothing in this paragraph will prohibit you from seeking or doing business which is not in direct or indirect competition with the business of the Barclays Group; and

(b) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date solicit or enliven away or attempt to solicit or enliven away or employ or engage any director, officer or employee of executive status in the Barclays Group with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to the Termination Date. For the purposes of this paragraph "employee of executive status" will include without limitation any employee of the Barclays Group with a corporate grading Managing Director, Director, Vice President (or equivalent grades, or anything which replaces these grades) and any employees of the Barclays Group with a lower corporate grading where in the 12 months prior to the Termination Date, you have had line manager responsibilities in relation to that employee or they have had line manager responsibilities or have been engaged in work or projects which in the Company's reasonable opinion are key to its business and / or mean that they are in possession of material and confidential information relating to the Barclays Group.

21.2 Each of the restrictions contained in this paragraph are considered by the parties to be reasonable in all the circumstances as at the date of this Employment Letter. However, the parties acknowledge that if any one or more of such restrictions will be judged to be void as going beyond what is reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the interests of the Barclays Group, but would be enforceable if words were deleted or one or more of the duration, range of activities and area covered were reduced in scope, the restrictions will be deemed to apply with such modifications as may be necessary to make them valid and effective. Any such modification will not affect the validity of any other restriction contained in this Employment Letter and it is confirmed that each restriction in this paragraph will be construed as separate and individual restrictions.

21.3 You confirm that if, during either your employment with the Company or the period of the restrictions set out in this paragraph you receive an offer of employment or engagement, you will provide a copy of these restrictions to the offeror as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the offer.

22. Further terms

22.1 No omission to exercise or delay in exercising any right, power or remedy of the Company under this Employment Letter will constitute a waiver of that right, power or remedy.

22.2 During your employment:

(a) the Company may at its discretion require that you undergo screening, including for criminal record, sanctions list and/or credit reference checks from time to time. It is anticipated that any such screening would only be undertaken if required for regulatory purposes or in order to comply with the minimum standards for the role you are undertaking; and

(b) you should advise the Company should any of the circumstances as set out in paragraph 18.1(e) of this Employment Letter arise or be brought against you.

22.3 You acknowledge that in entering into these Terms you have not relied on any representation or undertaking by the Company whether oral or in writing, except as expressly incorporated into this Employment Letter.

22.4 You consent to the Company monitoring your use of all Company resources and its communication and electronic equipment (including without limitation the telephone, internet, blackberry, software applications and email systems) and information stored on the Company's computer equipment, as described in your local acceptable use policy in accordance with the Barclays Group procedure and / or guidance on electronic communications. A copy of the policy that applies to you can be found on your intranet.

22.5 You understand that you may, during your employment, be granted awards under the terms of one or more of the Company's long term incentive plans or any incentive or bonus plan operated by the Barclays Group. If, on termination of your employment, you lose any of the rights or benefits under any such plans you will not be entitled, by way of compensation for loss of office or otherwise, to any compensation for the loss of any rights under any such plans.

22.6 If your employment is terminated at any time by reason of any reorganisation or amalgamation of the Company or any Barclays Group company, whether by winding up or otherwise, and you are offered employment with any concern or undertaking involved in or resulting from the reconstitution or amalgamation on terms which (considered in their entirety) are no less favourable to any material extent than the terms of this Employment Letter, you shall have no claim against the Company or any such undertaking arising out of or connected with the termination.

23. Certifications

23.1 You confirm and certify that:

- (a) you are not precluded or restricted by any term of any agreement, undertaking or court order or any obligation to any third party from entering into this Employment Letter or undertaking or properly performing any of the duties of your employment with the Company;
- (b) you will notify the Company of any change in circumstances around the termination of your employment with your previous employer between the date of this Employment Letter and the Start Date;
- (c) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation by any company or body into suspected bribery or corruption activity where either: (i) the investigation was concluded and your conduct found to amount to misconduct; or (ii) where the investigation was on-going and did not reach a conclusion because your employment (or engagement) with that company or body was terminated during the investigation (whether by mutual consent or by voluntary termination or otherwise);
- (d) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation into suspected criminal activity involving elements of dishonesty (including theft or fraud) or anti-competitive behaviour; and
- (e) you will not during your employment at the Company breach any third party's rights in respect of confidential information and/or intellectual property.

23.2 Any breach of these certifications will entitle Barclays to immediately terminate your employment.

24. Governing law

Your Terms are governed in accordance with the laws of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management. The parties irrevocably submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the competent courts of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management in relation to any legal action or proceedings that arise out of or in connection with this Employment Letter.

25. Key policies, procedures and practices

25.1 During your employment with the Company (and where applicable after your employment has terminated) you must comply with all of the Company's policies and procedures and any legal and/or statutory and/or regulatory obligations, including (but not limited to) Barclays Group policies and procedures on, and any other obligations relating to, anti-bribery and corruption. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action being taken against you.

25.2 You should familiarise yourself with all policies and procedures that apply to your grade and business area as set out on your intranet. The Code of Conduct and the policies, guidelines and procedures on the following issues are particularly important (although this is not intended as a comprehensive list):

- Any applicable Employee Handbook
- Anti Bribery and Corruption
- Regulator's Business Principles
- Disclosure obligations
- Data protection, confidential information and Chinese walls

You will join us as an intern in the Software Engineer Program at JPMorgan Chase & Co., and will carry out your role while physically present in the J.P. Morgan offices in Mumbai, India.

A2. Internship Commencement Date

Your internship shall begin on 06-Feb-2023 ("Start Date") and shall continue, subject to the remaining terms of this agreement, until it terminates on 31-May-2023 ("End Date") without the need for notice, unless previously terminated by either party pursuant to paragraph 4 of Appendix B.

In addition to the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of Appendix B, your offer is subject to you successfully meeting the educational criteria that has already been communicated to you in writing.

A3. Working Hours

Your manager will assign you specific working hours, often during the Company's normal office hours. Depending on the needs of your department, however, you may be required to work outside the official hours to fulfill your duties.

A4. Stipend

Your stipend will be INR70,000/- per month.

Relocation Lump Sum

You will receive an additional, one-time lump sum of INR85000("the Additional Sum") gross with your first stipend. This payment will be made to you in the first available payroll after you join the Company. You should be aware that this might be in the month of joining or the following month depending on your commencement date and when all necessary data is received. This is to assist with any relocation expenses you may incur prior to joining.

If you leave the internship or your internship is terminated for any reason, you must repay to the Company the Additional Sum on a pro-rated basis as set out below:

If your internship period is longer than 3 months and you leave the internship or your internship is terminated for any reason within three months of your date of commencement you must repay to the Company 100% of the gross amount of the Additional Sum.

If your internship period is longer than 3 months and you leave the internship or your internship is terminated for any reason more than three months but within twelve months of your date of commencement you must repay to the Company 50% of the gross amount of the Additional Sum. If your internship period is less than 3 months and you leave the internship or your internship is terminated for any reason before completion of your internship period you must repay the Company 100% of the gross amount of the Additional Sum.

A5. Probationary Period

Your internship will be subject to a probation period as outlined in paragraph 4.3 of Appendix B.

A6. Leave Entitlement

A6.1 Annual Leave

You are entitled to 20 working days of annual leave with full pay in every calendar year, pro-rated according to the duration of your employment in accordance with the Company's Human Resources Policies and applicable law. If you work part-time hours, your annual leave entitlement will be pro-rated to reflect your part-time hours worked.

A6.2 Other Leave

You can find further details of other leave entitlements in paragraph 5 of Appendix B.

A7. Benefits

You will not be entitled to join the Company's benefits programs, given the short length of your fixed-term contract.

A8. Retirement Scheme

You are not eligible for retirement benefits.

A9. Notice Period

During your probationary period, starting the day you join the Company, either you or the Company may terminate your employment with at least 14 days' written notice or payment of wages in lieu of such notice period.

After the probationary period, either party can terminate the employment by giving the other party 30 Days written notice ("Notice Period") or by the Company making a payment in lieu of Notice Period.

APPENDIX B – GENERAL INTERNSHIP TERMS AND CONDITIONS

B1. Internship

B1.1 Your internship is subject to:

- a) you being able to carry out your role in India while being able to be physically present in an JPMC office in Mumbai, India and obtaining and maintaining throughout your entire period of internship a valid work permit and such other permission, license or registration as may from time to time be necessary to enable you to carry out your duties and continue your internship.
- b) the completion of all pre-employment screening processes to the satisfaction of the Company, including obtaining education verification, background references and checks as sought and the execution of any other forms necessary for internship, etc.; and
- c) you being legally able to work with the Company. You undertake to disclose any internship or contractual post-internship restraints to which you are subject and which may, and will continue to, affect your internship with us and represent and warrant that:
 - i. by entering into internship with the Company and performing the duties set out in this letter, you will not be in breach of any express or implied term of any internship or other agreement or arrangement to which you are party;
 - ii. you have not taken or otherwise misappropriated and you do not have in your possession or control any confidential and proprietary information belonging to any of your prior employers, or any third party providing services to your prior employer, or connected with or derived from your services to prior employers and you have returned to all prior employers any and all such confidential or proprietary information; and
 - iii. you are not subject to any other internship, including being subject to garden leave or any contractual post-internship restraints.

You shall indemnify and hold harmless the Company from any and all claims arising from any breach of the warranties in this paragraph B1.

- B1.2 Whilst you and/or the Company may have agreed a tentative date of commencement of internship with the Company, you will not, unless the Company decides otherwise, be able to commence internship with the Company without our receipt of completed and satisfactory results from our pre-employment screening process.
- B1.3 You may be required to provide services for other members of the Group throughout your internship. When providing these services, you may from time to time be required to travel and work in different locations within and outside your hiring location.

B1.4 You will not undertake outside employment or activities with or without remuneration, unless you have the prior written approval of senior management of the Company or its delegate. Outside activities may include (but are not limited to) activities as a director, officer, partner, sole proprietor, consultant or controlling stockholder of any business. If your request to undertake outside activity is not approved by management and you decide to engage in the activity, your internship may be terminated without any notice or compensation.

B2 Remuneration

B2.1 We will deposit your stipend (paragraph 4 of Appendix A) on or around the 30th of each month.

B2.2 You will be responsible for all tax liabilities world-wide arising out of payments pursuant to your internship with the Company.

B2.3 Any payment of salary or bonus by, or other sum due to you from the Company shall be subject to any and all withholding or deduction (or, including but not limited to, any taxes, contributions, repayments or other sums which you have agreed that the Company may withhold/deduct or which the Company is obliged or entitled to withhold/deduct from time to time under any applicable law), and the Company shall in such case be entitled to withhold, deduct or retain the amount of such tax, withholding or deduction from any sum payable to you.

B3 Incentive Compensation

For this position, you won't be eligible for incentive awards under the JPMorgan Chase Performance-Based Incentive Compensation Plan or any other non-annual incentive compensation plan.

B4 Termination

B4.1 Your internship may be terminated as follows:

a) By either party giving to the other prior written notice of at least the period specified, as applicable, in paragraph 9 in Appendix A (the "Notice Period"), or by the Company making a payment in lieu of notice for all or part of such Notice Period of an amount equal to basic salary you would have been entitled to receive during the Notice period or part of the Notice Period.

b) By the Company at any time without notice or compensation if you:

i) are guilty of fraud, dishonesty or misconduct which is inconsistent with the due and faithful discharge of your duties;

- (ii) seriously breach the Code of Conduct and any other Company policies;
- (iii) disobey the Company's lawful and reasonable instructions/requirements;
- (iv) habitually neglect your duties; or
- (v) otherwise commit a material or repeated breach of your internship terms or any of the Company's or Group's policies.

B4.2 During any Notice Period, the Company may put you on "garden leave" and may, amongst other things, do any or a combination of the following:

- (a) suspend you from the performance of any duties or assign you alternative duties;
 - (b) exclude you from any premises of the Company or any of the Group companies and/or require you to work from another location;
 - (c) require that you have no or limited contact or communication, other than purely social contact, with any employees, officers, directors, agents or consultants of the Company or any other member of the Group;
 - (d) require that you have no or limited contact or communication with any customer or client of the Company or any other member of the Group;
 - (e) remove your access to the Company premises and computer systems;
 - (f) require that you return any property belonging to the Company under paragraph 7 in this Appendix
 - (g) require you not to do any act or thing, or make or cause to be made, any statement reasonably likely to damage the business or reputation of the Company or the Group.
- B4.3 If paragraph 5 of Appendix A states that your employment is subject to probation, your probation period will be the first 3 months of employment, which you agree is reasonable, and fair, in light of the responsibilities of the role.
- B4.4 At its sole discretion, the Company may notify you of an extension to your probationary period.
- B4.5 All your duties (whether express or implied) under your internship and this letter, including without limitation your duty of fidelity, good faith, exclusive service and duties in relation to the Group's confidential information shall continue throughout the Notice Period including any period that you are on garden leave.

B4.6 During any Notice Period:

- (a) you will provide such assistance as the Company may require to effect an orderly handover of your duties and responsibilities to any individual appointed by the Company or any of the Group Companies to take over your role or responsibilities; and
- (b) you shall make yourself available to deal with requests for information, provide assistance, be available for meetings and to advise on matters relating to work.

B5. Leave

B5.1 Annual Leave

- (a) You will be entitled to annual leave with full pay in every calendar year – please see paragraph 6 of Appendix A, pro-rated according to the duration of your employment. The Company will be entitled to determine when annual leave is taken, although as far as possible, arrangements will be made to suit your convenience. Annual leave entitlement for each calendar year must be taken in that calendar year and only in exceptional circumstances can annual leave (other than unused statutory entitlement, if any) be carried forward into the following calendar year. All annual leave days taken will be deducted first from the statutory entitlement accumulation.
- (b) After a notice of termination has been given pursuant to paragraph B4.1 of this Appendix, you will not be entitled to take any annual leave without the express consent of the Company provided after notice of termination has been given.
- (c) You must comply with the Company's 'consecutive days leave' policies.

B5.2 Sick Leave

Any sick leave entitlement will be subject to relevant legislation and J.P. Morgan internal policies that are in force and amended from time to time. More details are set out in the me@jpmc website, which will be accessible to you upon commencement of your employment.

B5.3 Suspension Leave

The Company has the right to suspend you from your work duties with full pay when it considers it necessary to investigate any allegation of misconduct or impropriety on your part. The Company can exercise this right at its sole discretion, acting in good faith.

B6. Confidentiality

You acknowledge that a vast amount of privileged and confidential information will be disclosed to you in course of your internship with the Company and during your internship with the Company and thereafter, you shall keep secret and shall not at any time (whether during or after the period of your internship) use for your own or another's advantage, or reveal to any person, firm or company, any of the trade secrets, business methods and plans, financial matters, client lists, investments, marketing plans, personnel matters or other information which you knew or reasonably ought to have known to be confidential concerning the business or affairs of the Company or any other member of the Group or any of their related companies, clients or suppliers.

You agree to abide by the specific provisions on the use of confidential information in the Company's policies and Group code of conduct.

The restriction contained in this paragraph shall not apply to any disclosure or use authorised by the Company or required by law.

B7. Return of Company Property

You acknowledge that any privileged or confidential information disclosed to you in the course of your internship with the Company remains the exclusive property of the Company and whenever requested by the Company and/or Group and in any event upon the termination of your internship, you will promptly deliver to the Company and/or Group all documents and other materials (whether originals or copies or in hard copy or electronic form) concerning the Company and/or Group or their respective clients and suppliers, which may have been prepared by you or have come into your possession, custody or control in the course of your internship with the Company. This includes, without limitation, any confidential information, lists of clients or suppliers, correspondence, electronic equipment, computer software or hardware, staff identity cards and other property used in connection with the operations of the Company and/or Group. You will not be entitled to, and will not retain, any copies, title and copyright in such correspondence and other documents, papers, records and property are vested in the Company and/or Group.

B8. Post Internship Restrictions

B8.1 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company any Critical Person.

B8.2 For a period of three months commencing on the Relevant Date, you shall not directly or indirectly (whether on your own account, for or with any other person, firm or company) solicit or endeavor to entice away from the Company or any other Group Company the business or custom of any Restricted Client.

B8.3 The duration of the restrictions will be reduced by any period of notice that you work out or any period of garden leave as provided in this offer letter.

B8.4 In this paragraph B8:

- a) "Critical Person" means any person who was an employee or director of the Company or any other Group Company at any time within one year prior to the Relevant Date who had access to trade secrets or confidential information of the Company or any other Group Company. This includes knowledge of, involvement with or influence over suppliers or clients of the Company or any other Group Company with whom you worked at any time during that period.
- b) "Group Company" means the Company, its ultimate holding company, any subsidiary of the Company and any holding company from time to time. "Subsidiary" and "holding company" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant companies' legislation.
- c) "Restricted Client" means any person:
 - i. who in the one year before the Relevant Date was a client of, or has dealt with, the Company or any other Group Company; and
 - ii. with whose custom or business you, or persons reporting to you, were personally involved with during the period of one year prior to the Relevant Date but does not include publicly known institutional clients which you serve subsequent to your internship with the Company without the use of confidential or proprietary information of the Company and the Group.

- d) "Relevant Date" means the date your internship with the Company or the Group terminates for whatever reason.

B8.5 You acknowledge and agree:

- a) that each of the foregoing paragraphs constitutes an entirely separate and independent restriction on you;
- b) that the duration, extent and application of each restrictions, obligations and undertakings are reasonable and necessary to protect legitimate interests of the Company and the Group, considering, among other things, that the Company has commercial dealings with business partners throughout the world and that you will regularly be dealing with such partners as part of your duties and you understand that it does not by any means prevent you from earning a living in a satisfactory way;
- c) that, if any such restriction (or parts of a restriction) shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the validity or enforceability of the remaining restrictions (or parts of a restriction) shall remain in full force and effect as if the unenforceable parts had been deleted. Damages may be an inadequate compensation for breach of any of the restrictions in this paragraph and, subject to a court's discretion, in the event of any actual or threatened breach of any provision of this paragraph, you agree that the Company shall be entitled to (on behalf of itself and on behalf of any other Group Company) restrain, by injunction, equitable relief or similar remedy, any conduct or threatened conduct by you. You expressly submit to the jurisdiction of any court of competent jurisdiction for this purpose, and in the event you receive from any person an offer of employment (whether oral or in writing and whether accepted or not), either during your internship or the continuation in force of all or any of the restrictions applicable to you, whether pursuant to this letter or the Code of Conduct, you shall provide to the person making such an offer of employment a full and accurate copy of the then current restrictions applicable to you.

- d) that any benefit given or deemed to be given by you to the Group under the terms of this paragraph is received and held on trust by the Company for the relevant Group Company. You will enter into appropriate restrictive covenants directly with other Group Companies if asked to do so by the Company.
- e) that your internship with the Company and the compensation paid and/or payable to you by the Company shall be sufficient consideration for the purposes of this clause. You further agree and acknowledge that the limitations as to time and the character or nature placed in this clause are reasonable and fair and will not preclude you from earning a livelihood, nor will they unreasonably impose limitations on your ability to earn a living.
- f) that this offer letter constitutes a valid, legally binding and enforceable obligation on you and this document is not in violation of any applicable law.
- g) that any breach or threat of breach on your part of any one of such obligations and/or undertakings would cause serious harm to the Company or the Group which may then institute any legal recourse against you that is deemed appropriate and/or recourse in damages, without further notice or delay.
- h) that you shall not assign this offer letter or the rights and/or obligations hereunder. The Company may assign its rights and obligations herein in all circumstances without your consent, including in connection with any sale, transfer or disposition of all or substantially all of its business and operations and its assets, in which case the Company's rights and obligations shall vest to the successor.
- i) in addition, you agree and acknowledge that the potential harm to the Company of the non-enforcement of this clause outweighs any potential harm to you and that you have given careful consideration to the restraints imposed upon you by this clause and that you are in full agreement as to their necessity for the reasonable and proper protection of the Company's interests. You expressly acknowledge and agree that each and every restraint imposed by this clause is reasonable with respect to subject matter, time period and geographical area.

B9. Code of Conduct and Staff Regulations and Affirmation

- B9.1 It is a condition of your continuing internship and it is your obligation that you comply with:
- (a) the Code of Conduct (as amended from time to time or superseded). At the time of acceptance of the offer of internship and on a periodic basis, you will be required to sign an affirmation (or reaffirmation) confirming your understanding and compliance with the provisions of the Code of Conduct; and
 - (b) the Company's other internal policies and procedures and all relevant policies and procedures for the line of business in which you are to undertake work.
- B9.2 The Company shall be entitled at any time to amend the Company's internal policies and procedures (including but not limited to the Code of Conduct), the benefits set out in the Appendices and other staff regulations, as well as to put in place new policies as the Company sees fit. Any such amendments shall be notified in writing to each employee and shall on provision of such notice, become legally binding.
- B9.3 The Company's Human Resources work policies are set out in the me@pmc website, as amended from time to time. Please take time to familiarise yourself with these policies when you begin your internship.
- B9.4 To the extent that the contents of policies or procedures refer to obligations on the Company, you agree that they are guides only and are not contractual terms, conditions or representations on which you rely.

B10. Working Hours

- B10.1 Your total working hours (including break(s)) is 40 hours per working week during the tenure of your internship and you should attend office 5 days every working week. Your working hours may be revised at the discretion of the Company.

B11. Retirement Benefits

You are not eligible for retirement benefits.

B12. Contract Execution

- B12.1 You acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) This letter may be delivered in a digital or physical format. Subject to any applicable law, where the letter is provided in a digital format, you acknowledge and agree that it is being executed electronically and that it is enforceable.

- (b) You have read and understood the terms of this letter and have been provided with an opportunity to review and discuss the terms of it with advisors, if you so desire.
- (c) Should any further assurances be required or sought by the Company, you shall in good faith perform such further actions (including executing a physical copy of this letter).

3.3. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This letter and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with it or its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. You and the Company submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Mumbai, Maharashtra courts in relation to any dispute arising in connection with your internship and this letter.

APPENDIX C - SYSTEMS MONITORING ACTIVITIES AND CROSS-BORDER TRANSFERS, PERSONAL ACCOUNT DEALING POLICY, AND CODE OF CONDUCT

Appendix: Systems Monitoring Activities and Cross-Border Transfers:

The following provides a summary of how JPMorgan Chase & Co., its affiliates and its subsidiaries and the entity that employs you, or for which you provide services (collectively, "JPMC"), conducts Systems monitoring. JPMC may conduct monitoring to the extent permitted by applicable law.

JPMC conducts monitoring of JPMC's physical facilities and its equipment and systems (collectively, the "Systems"). System monitoring applies to your JPMC equipment, your personal equipment when accessing the Systems, and the communications, information, and materials conveyed or accessed using the Systems. Monitoring activities may include the monitoring and logging of traffic and usage data of all electronic communications; monitoring of telephone calls to or from JPMC work telephones as permitted by applicable laws and subject to any required notices; monitoring of the contents of electronic communications, files, databases, applications, and internet usage; and logging hours worked and physical presence at JPMC's facilities if applicable. JPMC may at all times monitor, access, retrieve, record and review information obtained from the monitoring activities for various purposes, such as preventing and investigating activities that may violate JPMC's policies and ensuring compliance with legal or regulatory obligations. While conducting monitoring activities, JPMC may obtain and process personal information about you and others that may reside on the Systems.

The monitoring activities (including JPMC's collection and processing of personal or other information) are required for purposes of your employment or work assignment to promote adherence to applicable policies and regulations. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, if you object to this processing, JPMC may prohibit you from using the Systems; terminate offers of employment or work assignment; and, for employees, take disciplinary action against you, up to and including termination of your employment with JPMC.

JPMC may disclose the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities to JPMC affiliates and to third parties, service providers, regulators, supervisory bodies, law enforcement and other government agencies. Information obtained from the monitoring activities may be used as the basis to take disciplinary actions, up to and including termination or other legal action, for violations of JPMC's policies or applicable laws.

In addition to the monitoring activities discussed above, JPMC may obtain and store other information related to your employment or other working relationship, such as your compensation information, performance information, benefits information and other workplace-related data. JPMC may transfer such information, and the information it obtains in connection with monitoring activities, to countries other than the country in which the information originally was collected, including to the United States.

Understanding Obligations under the Firm's Personal Account Dealing Policy (PAD):

The Personal Account Dealing Policy (Policy) of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (firm or JPMC) is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities.

PAD Compliance will notify you if the position you are being offered is considered to be subject to the Policy. You will remain subject for the duration of your time working in a subject group, unless notified otherwise of a change in subject status. Unless otherwise notified, you will continue to be subject to the provisions of the Policy even during leaves of absence from the firm, including, but not limited to, garden leave or medical leave.

You as well as your Connected Persons are subject to the provisions of the Policy and will need to be familiar with the obligations set forth in this policy. Connected Persons includes your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent) as well as anyone to whom you provide significant financial support or for which you, or anyone listed above, has or shares the power, directly or indirectly, to make investment decisions.

Once subject to the Policy, you must disclose and certify your Covered Accounts (which include accounts of your Connected Persons). You will be required to maintain your self-directed Covered Accounts with one of the firm's Approved Brokers and pre-clear all purchases, sales, pledges and gifts (received and given) of publicly traded and privately held financial instruments, unless listed as specifically exempt. Pre-approval confirmations must be received prior to executing the trade or investment. The firm may impose periodic restrictions on personal trading in certain financial securities. These restrictions can apply to all firm subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons or may be limited to certain groups. Subject Workforce Members and their Connected Persons are not permitted to recommend or transact in the financial instruments of an issuer while in the possession of material non-public information (MNPI) regarding that issuer.

If you are a seasonal or short term employee the following requirements will apply:

JPMorgan Chase requires that seasonal workers refrain from trading in Covered Accounts for the time period that you are employed in a short term training program. Please verify that you will comply with the following personal trading requirements:

1. For the duration of the short term program I am joining I will not trade in any of my Covered Accounts
2. I understand that the Firm has the right to request account information for any of my Covered Accounts
3. If there is an extenuating circumstance that would compel me to place a trade in my Covered Accounts, I will obtain pre-approval of the trade by the Personal Account Dealing Group and I would be responsible for supplying all confirmations and statements to the Personal Account Dealing Group for that trade

*The term Covered Accounts refers to any securities accounts no matter where they are located and includes, but is not limited to, those accounts that are established, maintained or controlled (either directly or indirectly) by you, your spouse, domestic partner or minor children (even if financially independent), anyone to whom you provide significant financial support, and in which the employee has a direct or indirect financial interest.

Global Personal Trading Policy:

The Personal Account Dealing of JPMorgan Chase & Co. is designed to help prevent and detect violations of securities laws and industry conduct standards and to minimize actual or perceived conflicts of interest that could arise due to personal investing activities. This Policy includes requirements for disclosing Covered Accounts, maintaining certain accounts at one of the firm's Approved Brokers, preclearing trades, and restrictions and prohibitions on certain types of trading activity. This Policy is subject to any applicable local laws and rules and should be read in conjunction with Supplements (regional/LOB) as well as the firm's Code of Conduct.

Conflict of Interests and Outside Interests:

Under JPMorgan Chase & Co.'s (JPMC) Code of Conduct, employees are responsible for avoiding activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions as an employee. Employees are not permitted to allow their personal interest to conflict, or appear to conflict, with their JPMC role and responsibilities.

Outside Interests include second jobs, not for profit activities, government positions, and positions with external companies and organizations as a director, officer, advisor, sole proprietor, consultant or owner of any business. Outside Interests may result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest. Where actual or potential conflicts of interest cannot be mitigated, you may be required to discontinue the activity or dissolve your investment.

Employees are required to seek preclearance prior to engaging in Outside Interests or immediately upon joining JPMC. Where preclearance is not required, employee must adhere to all restrictions and conditions outlined in Section 5 and 6 of the Outside Interest Policy.

Conflicts of interests may also arise from: (1) personal and business relationships; (2) the exchange of gifts and business hospitality; (3) political engagement; and (4) personal finances. Employees should avoid activities or relationships that might affect their objectivity in making decisions on behalf of JPMC or undermine their credibility. Employees may never place personal interests ahead of our clients' interests. All potential and actual conflicts must be escalated to your manager for review and mitigation.

Acceptance and Code Affirmation:

Upon signing this letter I accept the terms and conditions described above.

I hereby affirm that I have read, understand, and am in compliance with the JPMorgan Chase ("JPMC") Code of Conduct and all internal JPMC policies that apply to me. I agree, as a condition of my employment, to remain in compliance with the Code of Conduct and all applicable JPMC policies.

I understand that I must conduct myself in a way that is consistent with the Code of Conduct, demonstrating compliance with the principles and intent of the Code of Conduct, and applicable laws and regulations.

I also affirm that I have reported any potential or actual violations of the Code of Conduct, JPMC policies, or laws or regulations applicable to JPMC's business, as required by the Code of Conduct. I understand that failure to do so can result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

I understand that the Code of Conduct may be updated periodically, as necessary, and that the current version is posted on the JPMorgan Chase intranet as well as on its public website.

Independent Auditor Tax Services to Employees of JPMorgan Chase and its Affiliates:

To be in compliance with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB) Rule 3523, it is JPMorgan Chase's (JPMC) policy that PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) cannot provide any tax services to employees of JPMC or any of its controlled entities (hereafter referred to as JPMC employee). This restriction is regardless of whether the individual is in a financial reporting oversight role or not, and whether PwC is engaged by the individual or by JPMC. PwC is also prohibited from providing any tax services to a spouse of a JPMC employee if the work is related to a joint tax return. Exceptions to this policy will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis and will require the approval of the JPMC Controller.

Subject: Offer of Employment

Dear Himanshu Dhananjay Vatari:

On behalf of Deloitte & Touche Assurance and Enterprise Risk Services India Private Limited (the "Employer" or "Company"), I am pleased to confirm our offer of employment to you as Solution Delivery Analyst based in Bengaluru.

We extend this offer, and the opportunity it represents, with great confidence in your abilities. You have made a very favorable impression with everyone you met and we are excited with the prospect of you joining our organization on September 18, 2023.

Your immediate manager will communicate details of your role and work responsibilities in the initial weeks of your joining the Employer. During your employment, the Company may require you to work on any project that you are assigned to, on any technical platforms/skills and nature of the project, in differentiated work timing, at designated work space and location as may be decided by the company.

As part of your annual compensation, you will receive a Total Salary of Rs./₹ 600,000/- and, will be eligible for a performance linked variable bonus. At your level, the variable bonus opportunity could range from 0-10% of your Total Salary. The actual paid amount could vary depending upon the business and individual performance each fiscal year end, in some situations, could exceed the payout range indicated. Any amounts paid will be subject to statutory and other deductions as per Employer policies and practices. The details of your compensation breakdown are provided in the attached Annexure A.

As an incentive to join the Company, you are eligible to receive a joining bonus of Rs./₹ 100,000/- subject to your reporting for full-time employment on September 18, 2023. This amount will attract applicable taxes and will be processed as part of your first month's payroll. You will have an obligation to repay the entire amount of your joining bonus if you resign your position or are terminated for cause by the Company within 12 months of your start date.

You may also receive additional benefits, including and not limited to, in cash and/or in kind and/or as reimbursement, which could be referred as rewards, awards and gifts, which are generally accorded to the employees of the Employer, subject to the applicable taxes, policies and practices of the Employer.

Your employment with us will be governed by the Terms and Conditions as detailed in Annexure B, as well as any and all rules, regulations, guidelines, policies and practices of the Employer, which may be amended from time to time. Deloitte LLP and its U.S.-based subsidiaries (the "Deloitte U.S. Firms") requires their employees to make the necessary representations regarding independence and other matters. Because the Employer is an Indian subsidiary of Deloitte LLP, we must also comply with these independence requirements. Accordingly, this offer is conditional upon you agreeing to make such representations under the Employer's Independence Representations requirements, as further explained in Annexure B.

Your compensation details are confidential, and you may discuss it only with the undersigned in case of any clarification. It is our hope that your acceptance of our offer will be just the beginning of a mutually beneficial relationship with our organization. We would like you to join the Employer on September 18, 2023, or an alternative mutually agreed upon date.

*The Variable Bonus will vary, primarily based on your individual performance and the performance of the business, during the Employer's fiscal year which is June through May. Your performance will be formally assessed as a part of the Employer Performance Review Cycle Process. At your level, the variable bonus opportunity could range from 0-10% of your Total Salary. The actual paid amount will vary depending upon the business and individual performance and in some circumstances, could exceed the payout range indicated. The performance of all the employees who have joined the Employer prior to March 1st will be assessed for the fiscal year ending in May. The disbursement of a Variable Bonus, if applicable, is subject to you being active on the rolls of the Employer, during the Annual Incentive Program payout cycle for the fiscal year. For employees joining during the period March 1st to May 30th, a prorated Variable Bonus, if applicable, will be based on the first year-end review ratings in the subsequent year and paid during the Annual Incentive Program payout cycle of that year. The Variable bonus will not be paid in the event of termination of employment for any reason on or before the disbursement time. The application and interpretation of, and any determinations related to, the Variable Bonus is at the sole discretion of Employer. Employer may amend or terminate the Variable Bonus at any time.

All compensation and benefits are based on employee's position with the Employer in India. You are eligible to participate in the company car lease program.

Non-Disclosure, Non-Solicit and Intellectual Property Rights Assignment Agreement ("Employment Agreement")

In consideration of my employment by Deloitte & Touche Assurance and Enterprise Risk Services India Private Limited, an Employer incorporated under the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956 and having its registered office Portion of 7th Floor Block A 77 Degree Town Centre Survey no:124 & 36/2, Amman Bellandur-Khane Village, Bangalore East Taluk, Varthur, Hobli, Bangalore - 560037, India (the "Employer") as Solution Delivery Analyst and other valuable consideration, I acknowledge and agree that:

PRELIMINARY MATTERS

1. Defined Terms. The italicized terms in this agreement (the "Employment Agreement") are defined in Exhibit A hereto.

2. Pre-existing Agreements or Arrangements. I warrant and agree that I have listed on Exhibit B all Pre-existing Agreements or Arrangements. The Employer expects me to abide by all restrictions or obligations that are contained in such Pre-existing Agreements or Arrangements and to avoid involvement, while employed by the Employer, in any matter that could pose a conflict as a result of confidential information or intellectual property obtained by me prior to my Employment. I further represent that none of these restrictions or obligations, including those set forth in any non-compete agreements with prior employers, is inconsistent with my acceptance of the Employer's offer of Employment or my becoming, and serving as, Solution Delivery Analyst, of the Employer. To the extent applicable, and if I am joining the Employer after having served as an employee or official of the United States Government, I further represent that: (1) I have disclosed my prior participation, if any, in any discussions or negotiations with, or decisions to award contracts to, the Deloitte U.S. Firms while I was employed by the United States Government; and (2) I had either recused myself or had not played an active role in the applicable United States Government agency's decision to award any contracts to the Deloitte U.S. Firms while I was employed by the United States Government.

PROTECTION OF OUR BUSINESS

3. Reporting of Proceedings. Except as provided by law and except as I have disclosed in writing on Exhibit C to this Agreement, I represent and warrant that I have no Proceedings to report. Should I become a subject of any Proceedings during my association with the Employer, I agree to immediately report, in writing, all relevant facts to the Chief Talent Officer of Deloitte LLP, the Regional Talent Director of the Employer, and the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer of Deloitte LLP. I understand that my responses are subject to audit and review by the Employer and others in accordance with applicable professional, ethical, legal, or Employer requirements, rules, regulations, policies, or practices, or other requests.

4. Confidentiality. I acknowledge that, by virtue of my Employment, I will acquire and be exposed to, have access to, make use of, and/or create Confidential Information. Therefore, I agree to hold in trust and confidence all such Confidential Information. I will neither disclose any such Confidential Information to anyone outside a Deloitte Entity without the prior written approval of an Authorized Signatory, except as required by my authorized duties for the Employer, nor use any such Confidential Information for any purpose other than for the benefit of a Deloitte Entity.

5. Third Party Information and Property. I agree that during my Employment, I shall not use or disclose any confidential information or intellectual property of any former employer or other person or entity without the prior written authorization of such employer, person or entity and the prior written consent of an Authorized Signatory. If I were to use or disclose any such Confidential Information or Intellectual Property without prior consent, and any of the Deloitte Entities become the subject of any claim from a third party regarding such unauthorized use or disclosure, I agree to hold harmless and indemnify the Deloitte Entities for any legal defense costs and/or damages related to any such claim.

6. Authorization. Only employees of the Employer holding a senior or managerial position with the Employer will be authorized by a specific authorization, delegation, or power of attorney to sign legal documents, representing the Employer. Similarly, only such authorized employees of the Employer may speak about the Employer, the business and plans, various client-related projects etc.

7. Competing Activities and Conflict of Interest. During the period of my Employment I will not, directly or indirectly, participate in or in any way render services or assistance to any business that is or may be competitive with a Deloitte Entity, whether or not for compensation, or engage in any conduct which might result in, or create the appearance of using my position for private gain or other than for the benefit of a Deloitte Entity, or otherwise create a conflict, or the appearance of a conflict, of interest with a Deloitte Entity. Such conduct shall include, but not be limited to, having an undisclosed financial interest in any vendor or supplier of a Deloitte Entity, accepting payments of any kind or gifts other than of a nominal value from vendors, clients or suppliers, or having an undisclosed relationship with a family member or other individual who is employed or associated with any entity in active or potential competition with a Deloitte Entity, and which creates a conflict of interest, I represent and warrant that I am not currently aware of any present or past violation of this provision.

8. Authorization to Access Systems and Electronic Communications and use of Deloitte Property. I understand that while employed with a Deloitte Entity, I will use and have access to the Systems. I also acknowledge that a Deloitte Entity has the right at any time to access, retrieve, delete, monitor, examine, use and/or disclose my Electronic Communications and Information from (or about) me and the content, without notice to me, and that such Electronic Communications are considered part of a Deloitte Entity's business and client records and are not to be considered private or personal to me or any other Personnel. I further acknowledge that this right extends to electronic Communications transmitted for either a business or personal purpose.

I agree that I am authorized to access the Systems only for approved business purposes and occasional personal use if such use does not interfere with my work responsibilities and other required business activities, business operations, or Systems performance. However, I also acknowledge that such occasional personal use does not create an expectation of privacy as to any of my personal Electronic Communications and, as such, are Deloitte Property.

I further acknowledge that I am not authorized to use the Systems for personal gain or any illegal or unethical use. I agree that under no circumstances am I authorized to access any of the Systems for the purpose of obtaining Deloitte Property for a competitor of a Deloitte Entity, transmitting Deloitte Property to me (e.g., emailing Confidential Information to my personal email address) or to a third party for purposes other than furthering the business objectives of a Deloitte Entity. I am not authorized to download a Deloitte Entity's Confidential Information or other Deloitte Property to removable media such as a CD-Rom, disk or thumb drive other than as authorized for furthering the business objectives of a Deloitte Entity.

I will be responsible for the safe keeping and return in good condition and order of all the Deloitte Property that may be in my use, custody, care or charge. For the loss of any Deloitte Property in my possession or custody or for which I have been assigned responsibility, the Employer will have a right to assess on its own basis and recover from me, the damages in respect of such materials (out of the amounts due to me or otherwise) and to take such other legal action as it deems appropriate including termination of my employment without notice or payment in lieu thereof in the event of my failure to account for such material or property to its satisfaction.

9. Security. I am provided with a worktable and lockable storage space. I will ensure they are locked when unattended and understand that a duplicate key will only be provided if I sign for it. I am required to display my identity card to the appropriate security personnel on demand and at all times within the office premises.

10. Ownership of Works.

- I agree that the Employer owns all rights, title and interest in and to all Works.
- I agree that all Works are deemed works made for hire under India copyright or applicable laws or equivalent laws of any applicable foreign jurisdiction, and all Intellectual Property Rights therein vest automatically in the Employer upon creation of the Works. I agree that, to the extent any Work is held not to be a work made for hire, I hereby irrevocably assign all Intellectual Property Rights in the Work to the Employer. Notwithstanding anything contained in Section 19(4) of the Indian Copyright Act, 1957, I agree that such assignment shall continue to be in force for perpetuity irrespective of whether or not the Employer exercises its rights as the assignee for any period of time.
- I will at all times, even after termination of my Employment, do whatever the Employer reasonably requests of me, at the Employer's expense, to document the assignment of my Works to the Employer or to assist the Employer in pursuing, renewing, extending or assigning any Intellectual Property Rights, and otherwise perfecting, protecting and enforcing said Intellectual Property Rights in any Works. I agree that, as between me and the Employer, the Employer shall be the sole author, inventor, and owner of all such Works and Intellectual Property Rights therein throughout the world, and that the Employer shall have the sole right to seek copyright registrations, patents or trademark registrations, including all extensions and renewals thereof. I also hereby agree that I waive all moral rights in any Works.

I also agree to assign all my right, title and interest in and to any particular Works to a third party as directed by the Employer.

In the event the Employer is unable for any reason, after reasonable effort, to secure my signature on any document needed in connection with the actions specified in the preceding paragraphs, I hereby irrevocably designate and appoint the Employer and its duly authorized officers and agents as my agent and attorney in fact, which appointment is coupled with an interest, to act for and in my behalf to execute, verify and file any such documents and to do all other lawfully permitted acts to further the purposes of the preceding paragraphs with the same legal force and effect as if executed by me. I hereby waive any and all claims, of any nature whatsoever, which I now or may hereafter have for infringement of any Works assigned hereunder to the Employer.

- During a 12-month period after termination of my Employment, I agree that any Intellectual Property I create or conceive that results from and is related to any work assigned to or performed by me for the Employer, or that was created using Deloitte Property, is a Work that is subject to Paragraph 10 (b) above. For purposes of clarification, the foregoing provision is in addition to, and not in limitation of, any rights and remedies the Employer may have under the applicable laws protecting Intellectual Property of the Deloitte Entities.

e. I agree to keep and maintain adequate and current records (in the form of notes, sketches, drawings and in any other form that may be required by the Employer) of all Works developed by me during the period of my employment with the Employer, which records shall be available to and remain the sole property of the Employer at all times.

11. Pre-existing Creations; Personal Creations: My obligations in Paragraph 10 do not apply to Pre-existing Creations and Personal Creations. I warrant and agree that I have listed on Exhibit B all Pre-existing Creations. I acknowledge and agree that I will not assert any ownership rights against the Deloitte Entities, or their respective clients, with respect to any Pre-existing Creations unless they appear on Exhibit B, and Exhibit B has been accepted and agreed to by an Authorized Signatory who has signed at the bottom of such Exhibit B. I further agree that I shall not use any Pre-existing Creations or Personal Creations in connection with my Employment without the prior written consent of an Authorized Signatory. To the extent that I use any Pre-existing Creations or Personal Creations in connection with my Employment, I agree that, except as otherwise provided in a written agreement executed by me and the Employer, I hereby grant to the Employer an irrevocable, royalty free, perpetual, fully paid up, transferable, sub-licensable license to use, reproduce, distribute, display, perform, modify and create derivative works of and otherwise exploit such Pre-existing Creations or Personal Creations for any purpose including, but not limited to, client engagements.

12. Post-Employment Restrictions re: Clients. I acknowledge that, because of the nature of my work for a Deloitte Entity, my solicitation or serving of certain clients related to my work for a Deloitte Entity would necessarily involve the unauthorized use or disclosure of Confidential Information, and the proprietary relationships and goodwill of the Deloitte Entities, and, in the case of my serving of certain clients, could compromise the full compliance of the Employer or another Deloitte Entity with the applicable laws, rules and regulations of a U.S. or India regulatory body or other independence-related requirement of a regulatory body. Accordingly, during the period of my Employment and for a period of one year thereafter, I will not, directly or indirectly, solicit or provide services to any existing client of a Deloitte Entity with which I had personal contact and provided services during the two-year period prior to termination of my Employment.

13. Exceptions to Post-Employment Restrictions re: Clients. I understand that the obligations of Paragraph 12 will not apply for a period of three (3) years after my start date or the date of my promotion or transfer to clients of a Deloitte Entity and/or certain kinds of services rendered to such clients that meet all of the following criteria: (a) are personal clients of mine who came to a Deloitte Entity solely to avail themselves of certain specified kinds of services rendered by me and only as a result of my own independent recruitment efforts, which a Deloitte Entity neither subsidized nor otherwise financially supported as part of a program of client development, (b) are listed on Exhibit D expressly by name with respect to client and with sufficient specificity with respect to the kinds of service(s) that I will be permitted to render, and (c) are accepted and agreed to as to their listing on Exhibit D by an Authorized Signatory who has signed at the bottom of such Exhibit. I agree that after a period of three (3) years from my start date or the date of my promotion or transfer the Employer will have invested sufficient time, financial support and effort in developing and serving the clients listed on Exhibit D to support the application of the obligations of Paragraph 12 to those clients.

14. Future Employment with Clients. Except as otherwise provided herein, I understand that I am not prohibited from accepting employment with a client (or an affiliate of such client) of a Deloitte Entity. Before entering into substantive discussions with an Altest Client regarding any employment opportunity, I acknowledge and agree that during my Employment and for five years thereafter I must first notify Independence and obtain prior written approval from Independence. I acknowledge and understand that it is the intent of the Employer to interpret and apply this provision (a) in an effort to ensure the full compliance of the Deloitte Entities with applicable U.S. and India laws, rules, and regulations; (b) to serve the public interest; and (c) to protect the legitimate interests of the Deloitte Entities or their respective Altest Clients under applicable U.S. or India laws, rules and regulations in a manner that is no greater than is reasonably necessary to protect such interests and without being unduly harsh and oppressive to me and my interests in future employment with an Altest Client. Further, I acknowledge and agree that because of, among other things, the importance of the Deloitte Entities remaining in compliance with applicable independence rules, such approval may be withheld by Independence in the event that my employment with an Altest Client would, in the view of Deloitte LLP, be inconsistent with applicable laws, rules and regulations or jeopardize the independence of a Deloitte Entity with respect to such Altest Client.

15. Restrictions re: Personnel and Contractors. I acknowledge that, because of the nature of my work for a Deloitte Entity, my solicitation or hiring or of any of its personnel or contractors of the Deloitte Entities, or my participation in their hiring, admission or retention, would necessarily involve the unauthorized use or disclosure of Confidential Information, or the proprietary relationships and goodwill of the Deloitte Entities. Accordingly, during my Employment and for one year thereafter, I will not, directly or indirectly, (a) solicit or attempt to solicit, or participate in the solicitation of or any attempt to solicit any personnel to leave a Deloitte Entity, or to join any firm or business with which I may be or become affiliated; (b) participate in the hiring or admission of any personnel; or (c) cause a contractor of a Deloitte Entity to cease providing services to, with, or on behalf of the Deloitte Entity.

16. Post-Employment Restrictions re: Deloitte Property. Upon termination of my Employment: (a) I will not use or disclose Deloitte Property, including, but not limited to, Confidential Information and Works, for any purpose; (b) I will not retain or take with me any Deloitte Property; (c) I will immediately deliver to a Deloitte Entity at any location that it designates, at my expense, within one business day after the termination of my Employment or on an alternate date designated by a Deloitte Entity, any Deloitte Property that I may then or thereafter hold or control; and (d) I agree to allow a Deloitte Entity to inspect any of my personal or business computers, including smart phones, tablet computers, or any device, media or location capable of storing electronic data, to determine whether any Deloitte Property resides on such computers and to permit a Deloitte Entity to remove such Deloitte Property.

OTHER POST- EMPLOYMENT OBLIGATIONS

17. Transition of Work and Cooperation. Upon termination of my Employment for any reason, I will cooperate with a Deloitte Entity in all matters relating to the completion of pending work and its orderly transfer; I will also cooperate fully with a Deloitte Entity in connection with any threat of or actual legal proceeding against a Deloitte Entity or any client, customer or licensee of a Deloitte Entity arising out of any matter with or of which I had contact or knowledge during my Employment.

18. Notification of Post- Employment Obligations. I agree that prior to accepting employment or affiliation with another firm or business, I will advise such firm or business of my duties and obligations under this Employment Agreement. After my Employment ends, I agree that a Deloitte Entity shall be permitted to advise any firm or business with which I have accepted an offer of employment or affiliation concerning my duties and obligations under this Employment Agreement.

19. Certification. I agree that during or after my Employment I will, if requested, provide written certification in such form as the Employer may require that I have complied with my obligations hereunder, including, without limitation, those obligations set forth in Paragraphs 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15 and 16 of this Agreement.

OUR ENFORCEMENT RIGHTS AND REMEDIES IN THE EVENT OF A BREACH

20. Equitable Relief and Attorney's Fees. I acknowledge and agree that a breach of this Employment Agreement, including, but not limited to, a breach of my duties and obligations under the terms and conditions of Paragraphs 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 14, 15 and 16 would cause irreparable harm to the Deloitte Entities and that, in addition to other remedies, the Employer on behalf of itself or another Deloitte Entity is entitled to a temporary restraining order, an injunction or other equitable relief to prevent any such breach. I also acknowledge that, to the extent permitted by law, a Deloitte Entity will be entitled to the payment of the Deloitte Entities' reasonable costs and attorney's fees incurred in enforcing this Employment Agreement. I also acknowledge that, to the extent permitted by law, the Employer may request that a court extend the one year period following the termination of my Employment, as provided in Paragraphs 12 and 15, to correspond with the period that I participated in activities prohibited by Paragraphs 12 and 15.

21. Liquidated Damages: Client Fees. I agree that in the event of a breach under Paragraph 12, the Employer shall be entitled to receive, as liquidated damages, payment from me of an amount equal to the annual compensation, inclusive of overtime, bonuses, and sales incentives, received by any person who leaves the Employer in connection with my breach over his or her last twelve months at the Employer. Such amount shall be paid within thirty days from the mailing of a written notice to me advising of the amount due.

22. Liquidated Damages: Compensation. I agree that the precise amount of damages flowing from a breach under Paragraph 15 would be impracticable or extremely difficult to ascertain in an actual amount. Therefore, I agree that in the event of a breach under Paragraph 15, the Employer shall be entitled to receive, as liquidated damages, payment from me of an amount equal to the annual compensation, inclusive of overtime, bonuses, and sales incentives, received by or owed to any person who leaves the Employer in connection with my breach over his or her last twelve months at the Employer. Such amount shall be paid within thirty days from the mailing of a written notice to me advising of the amount due.

23. Right of Inspection. I agree to permit the Employer (or to use my best efforts to enable the Employer) to inspect my books and records (and the books and records of any entity which employs or is associated or affiliated with me), upon request and at reasonable times, to enable the Employer to confirm the calculations described above and to verify compliance with Paragraphs 12 and 15. The Employer shall keep confidential any proprietary information obtained, except as may be necessary or desirable to enable the Employer to enforce its rights under this Employment Agreement and except as may be required by any statute, court or administrative order to decree or government ruling or regulation.

MISCELLANEOUS:

24. Governing Law; Choice of Forum. This Employment Agreement is deemed to have been executed in the Employer's office in Bengaluru, Karnataka, India and will be construed and governed in accordance with the laws of the Republic of India without regard to its conflicts-of-law principles. You agree to submit to jurisdiction before any court of record in which the Employer's office to which you were assigned is located, or in which a breach of this Employment Agreement may occur, at the election of the Employer, and you waive any right to raise questions of personal jurisdiction or venue in any action the Employer may bring against you in any such court. You further agree to accept service of process summons/legal notice from the Employer when that process summons/legal notice is either sent to your last known address by certified mail or served by any other means permitted under the law of the jurisdiction in which the employer may bring an action against you.

25. Modifications. My obligations hereunder may not be changed or modified, released, discharged, abandoned or terminated, in whole or in part, except by an instrument in writing signed by an Authorized Signatory.

26. Severability. Every provision of this Employment Agreement is intended to be severable. If any term or provision is illegal or invalid for any reason whatsoever, such term or provision will be enforced to the maximum extent permitted by law and, in any event, such illegality or invalidity shall not affect the validity of the remainder of the Employment Agreement.

27. Blue-Penciling. If any court determines that any provision of the Employment Agreement, or any part hereof, or the application of any such provision, or any part hereof, to any person or circumstance is unenforceable or void, such court shall have the power to modify such provision, or any part hereof, to the extent necessary to render it legal and enforceable while preserving its intent, or if such modification is not possible, by substituting therefore another provision that is legal and enforceable and that achieves the same objective.

28. Waiver. None of my obligations under this Employment Agreement shall be deemed to have been waived by the Employer except if the giving of such waiver is contained in a written notice given to me and no such waiver shall be deemed to be a waiver of any other or further obligation I have under this Employment Agreement.

29. Entire Agreement. This Employment Agreement, the Employer's employment application, the Terms and Conditions of Service issued pursuant to the offer of employment and any documentation employing me or transferring me to the Employer, contain the entire understanding between me and the Employer or any other Deloitte Entity with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior representations, warranties, and agreements with respect to such subject matter, and no representations, warranties or other covenants exist with respect to such subject matter that are not contained or expressly referred to herein. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any written agreement between a Deloitte Entity and me with respect to the subject matter hereof that was signed by me prior to the effective date of this Employment Agreement shall remain valid and enforceable according to the terms of such agreement with respect to all acts and omissions occurring prior to the effective date of this Employment Agreement. In the event of a conflict between this Employment Agreement and the employment application or any other document purporting to set forth terms and conditions of my Employment, this Employment Agreement will control.

30. Transfer and Assignment. Unless as the Employer shall otherwise determine, the rights, obligations and benefits of the Employer under this Employment Agreement, including but not limited to those rights and benefits relating to my post-Employment obligations set forth in this Paragraph 30 and in Paragraphs 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 23 above, are transferred and assigned, in whole or in part (as the Employer shall determine) and without the need for my consent or the formality of documentation or prescribed processes, to (a) any Deloitte Entity in connection with my transfer to that Deloitte Entity or (b) any entity that acquires all or a part of the assets or business of the Employer. All provisions of this Employment Agreement shall inure to the benefit of and be binding upon the respective heirs, executors, administrators, representatives, successors, and assigns of the Employer and me, and any Deloitte Entity to which I may be transferred during my Employment, provided, however, none of my duties or obligations under this Employment Agreement may be assigned or transferred by me to any other person or entity without the Employer's prior written approval of such assignment or transfer. Any purported assignments in violation of this Paragraph 30 shall be null and void.

31. Headings. The headings contained in this Employment Agreement are for reference purposes only and shall not affect in any way the meaning or interpretation of this Employment Agreement.

I have read the foregoing, understand it, and agree to comply with its terms.

EXHIBIT A

The definitions below apply to the defined terms that appear in the Employment Agreement (including the exhibits):

Actual Client – actual client (or an affiliate of such client) of Deloitte & Touche LLP or a Deloitte Entity.

Authorized Signatory – a director, officer or other person who is authorized to sign on behalf of a Deloitte Entity.

Confidential Information – any information not generally known to the public, in any form, that (1) relates to the operation of a Deloitte Entity or provides the Deloitte Entities with a competitive advantage, (2) consists of personally identifiable information ("PII") or other personal information about personnel, client and other third party personnel, independent contractors, subcontractors, agents, vendors, suppliers or others with whom the Employer or another Deloitte Entity receives in the course of business, and (3) all other information entrusted to the Employer or another Deloitte Entity by clients and other third parties. Confidential Information includes, but is not limited to, Intellectual Property, supplier information, designs, business or marketing plans, forecasts and financial information, tax returns, tax identification numbers, agreements, client or prospective client lists, specific information about clients or prospective clients such as preferences for specific products and services, client or prospective client needs based on financial history and past purchases of services, client or prospective client development plans, specific rates charged to a client or offered to a prospective client and other business or client records. Confidential Information also includes, but is not limited to, debit or credit card information, employment applications, organization charts, performance ratings and other personnel records.

Deloitte Entity – the Employer, Deloitte LLP, and any corporation, company, partnership, limited liability company or other entity (a) that (i) is owned, directly or indirectly, in whole or in part, by Deloitte LLP (the "Deloitte U.S. Firms"); including but not limited to Deloitte LLP's subsidiaries in India, the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Group, Deloitte Global Services Limited, Deloitte Global Services Holdings Limited, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ("DTTL") or any member firm of DTTL, or affiliate thereof (collectively, the "DTTL Member Firms") or (ii) controls, is controlled by or is under common control with any of the entities listed above; or (b) in which any Personnel participated on its behalf, or carried out any duties with respect to its affairs. For purposes of this Employment Agreement, the term "Control" (including the terms "controlled by" and "under common control with") means the possession, directly or indirectly, or the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of a person or entity, whether through the ownership of voting securities, by contract, or otherwise.

Deloitte Property – Confidential Information, Systems, equipment, debit and credit cards issued in connection with my Employment, furniture, facilities and any and all other materials owned, licensed or leased by a Deloitte Entity, including, without limitation, computerized or electronic information and all copies thereof in any form or media, created by, furnished to, obtained by or prepared by me in the course of my employment in any capacity.

Deloitte India (Offices of the US) – The following companies shall be deemed to be the affiliates of each other and are collectively referred to as Deloitte India (Offices of the US): (i) Deloitte Consulting India Private Limited (ii) Deloitte Tax Services India Private Limited (iii) Deloitte Support Services India Private Limited (iv) Deloitte Financial Advisory Services India Private Limited and (v) Deloitte & Touche Assurance & Enterprise Risk Services India Private Limited.

Electronic Communications – all text, audio, video, images, information, data, files and attachments created, displayed, sent, received, posted, accessed or stored, whether deleted or not, by means of the Systems.

Employment – the nature of my relationship with the Employer or a Deloitte Entity pursuant to this Employment Agreement. Alternatively, and depending on context, Employment is the period of time during which this relationship persists.

Form – paper, computer disk, USB drive, website, any other tangible or electronic medium by which information may be stored or accessed, and human memory.

Independence – National Office (Independence) of Deloitte LLP.

Intellectual Property – works of authorship (including, without limitation, books, articles, data compilations, software and other copyrightable materials), materials, patents, inventions, designs, techniques, methodologies, processes, discoveries, know-how, ideas, trade secrets, moral rights, trademarks and other indicia of origin together with the goodwill therein, and all patent applications, copyright and trademark applications and registrations, and extensions and renewals thereto, throughout the world.

Intellectual Property Rights – all rights, title and interest in Intellectual Property.

PCAOB – the United States Public Company Accounting Oversight Board.

Personal Creations – Intellectual Property that meet all of the following criteria: (1) it is conceived, developed, and created by me on my own time, without using Deloitte Property or Personnel (during work hours), facilities, Confidential Information or tools of a Deloitte Entity, (2) it is unrelated to the actual or reasonably anticipated business or research and development of a Deloitte Entity, and (3) it does not result from any work performed by me and the Personnel (during work hours) for a Deloitte Entity.

Personnel – partners, principals, members, officers and employees of a Deloitte Entity.

PII – information (excluding business contact information such as an individual's name and one or more of the following organization name, organizational title, organizational role, business address, business telephone number (including business cell phone number and business email address)) relating to an identified or identifiable natural person. An identifiable natural person is a natural person who can be identified, directly or indirectly, by reference to an identification number or factors specific to his or her physical, physiological, mental, economic, cultural or social identity. Set forth below is a non-exclusive set of information that constitutes PII when such information relates to an identified or identifiable natural person:

- Name
- Personnel Number
- Photograph or video identifiable to an individual
- Vehicle identifier or serial number
- Other information related to an individual that may directly or indirectly identify that individual (e.g., salary, performance rating, purchase history, call history, etc.)

* Note: When an individual's name is used with PII that is not business contact information, it is included in the definition of PII.

Pre-existing Agreements or Arrangements – agreements or arrangements that (1) relate to any pre-existing Creations, or (2) may affect my ability to comply with the requirements of this Employment Agreement, including all contractual and other restrictions or obligations with other parties, including any post-employment restrictions and required notifications to the extent applicable under 18 United States Code §2027, CFR 3.104-4, and India laws, rules and regulations, that may or will impose limitations on my professional activities during my Employment (such as any non-compete agreements with prior employers and the one-year ban on lobbying contacts).

Pre-existing Creations – any Intellectual Property and Intellectual Property Rights that were developed or created by me, alone or with others, or otherwise acquired by me, before the period of my employment in any capacity with the Employer, in which I claim any ownership or right.

Proceedings – past or pending (1) actual or threatened claims or complaints of, or arising out of service to, present or former clients, (2) regulatory, self-regulatory, disciplinary, administrative, civil or criminal investigations, inquiries, charges, complaints, which relate solely to the operation of a motor vehicle of any kind or nature, in India or any other jurisdiction, against me, including criminal proceedings among out of my provision of professional services; proceedings brought by a professional Commission or the PCAOB; other professional bodies like the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India or (2) matters of any kind or nature which could adversely affect my association with the Employer or my ability to perform my duties or responsibilities to the Employer, whether set forth in this Employment Agreement or otherwise, or my registration with or licensure by any governmental, quasi-governmental, or other regulatory agency, body or entity, in or outside the United States or India.

Systems – the communications systems or any part of such systems that Deloitte Entity owns, licenses or operates and acquires for use, including, but not limited to, e-mail, text messaging, Lotus Notes, Deloitte Online (eRoom), instant messaging, local area network, wide area network, Intranet (e.g., DeloitteNet, D Street), Internet, extranet, collaborative tools (e.g., blogs, wikis, etc.), laptop and desktop computers, servers, air cards, Personal Digital Assistants, cell phones, telephones and voicemail.

Works – all Intellectual Property, in any form, created by me, alone or with others, during the period of my Employment that (1) is created within the scope of my Employment; (2) relates in any manner to the actual or anticipated business, research, or development of a Deloitte Entity; (3) results from any work assigned to or performed by me, alone or with others, for the Employer; or (4) is created with the use of Deloitte property.

EXHIBIT B

Terms and Conditions of Service

In continuation to our offer of employment with Deloitte & Touche Assurance and Enterprise Risk Services India Private Limited (the "Employer"), please note the terms and conditions of service.

The detailed terms in these Terms and Conditions of Service are defined in Exhibit A of the Non-Disclosure, Non-Solicit and Intellectual Property Rights Assignment Agreement, hereinafter referred to as the "Employment Agreement".

Terms of Service

1. COMPLIANCE WITH INDEPENDENCE, ETHICS AND OTHER REQUIREMENTS

Deloitte LLP performs attest services for certain of its clients and is subject to the independence requirements of, among others, the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), the United States Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB), and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA). These requirements mandate that certain of the Employer's employees and their relatives be independent of some or all of such attest clients and their affiliates in accordance with the policies of Deloitte LLP and its subsidiaries (the "Deloitte US Entities").

Upon joining the Employer, you will be asked to review a listing of the attest clients and the affiliates of such clients of certain of the Deloitte US Entities and disclose relationships or financial holdings that you or your relatives may have that could affect the independence of the Deloitte US Entities. Any relationships or holdings that conflict with, among other things, the requirements of the SEC, the PCAOB or the AICPA or the independence or ethics policies of the Deloitte US Entities will need to be resolved immediately. Further, you will be required to comply with these policies throughout your career with the Employer, including, when applicable, maintaining a current list of certain of your financial interests (but not their value) in the independence tracking system.

As a condition to your joining the Employer and continued employment, you are required to complete a representation regarding your understanding of, and compliance with, independence and other matters, on a periodic basis (as requested beginning on or prior to the date of you joining the Employer, annually thereafter, and upon certain changes in your role at the Employer), the details of which are provided in the independence representation. An example copy of this Representation Form is available for your reference on www.deloitte.com. The representation should be made to the best of your knowledge and ability. It is your responsibility to consult on any matter should you be uncertain or have a question. You are also requested to refer to www.deloitte.com and Independence for more information in this respect. The representations made by you will be subject to an audit and may be reviewed by Deloitte LLP representatives and shared with certain third parties. If you are selected for such audit, you will need to submit certain personal financial records to Deloitte LLP's internal audit team. Please be assured that your consent to Deloitte LLP to use the information provided by you for such purposes as provided in the policies regarding independence and ethics.

In the event you (i) do not cooperate or comply with the independence requirements, or (ii) do not complete the necessary representations, or (iii) make inaccurate representations, you may be subject to disciplinary action including and up to termination of employment with the Employer.

Please feel free to contact us at consult@deloitte.com should you require any further information or if you have any specific concerns in this regard.

2. NON-DISCLOSURE, NON-SOLICIT AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS ASSIGNMENT AGREEMENT ("Employment Agreement")

You will be expected to sign the Employer's Employment Agreement. Please contact Talent for further details.

3. HARRASSMENT POLICY

Administrative Policy Release ("APR") 313 is the Employer's policy prohibiting harassment. Deloitte LLP's subsidiaries located in India ("Deloitte India (Offices of the US)") are committed to providing a working environment that is free from harassment based on caste, place of birth, race, religion, creed, color, citizenship, national origin, age, sex, gender, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information or any legally protected basis, in accordance with applicable Indian central, state or local law. Expressly forbidden are unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature. Depending on the circumstances, such harassment may also include conduct such as pictures offensive to persons because of their caste, place of birth, race, religion, creed, color, citizenship, national origin, age, sex, gender, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information or any legally protected basis in accordance with applicable Indian central, state or local law. The full policy will be accessible to you on DeloitteNet, after joining Deloitte US.

[Signature]

A. WORKING HOURS, HOLIDAYS, LEAVES AND MATERNITY BENEFITS

You will be provided with your standard working hours, which may vary over the course of your career. The Employer may, from time to time, subject to applicable laws, require the employee to work beyond these hours.

You shall be entitled to paid holidays and leaves as per the Employer's policies.

Women employees are eligible for maternity benefits as per the recent amendments (2017) in the maternity benefit act, 1961, including having 26 weeks of maternity leave with pay, as applicable.

B. RETIREMENT AGE

The age of retirement for employees of Deloitte India (Offices of the US) is 60 years. Your employment will therefore automatically terminate at the end of the month in which you attain 60 years.

C. TRANSFERS

You may be transferred, assigned, or asked to attend training at the offices of a Deloitte Entity or its clients or third parties in India or abroad with or without additional compensation. In such an event, you will also be governed by the terms and conditions of service applicable to the transfer, assignment, or training.

D. NOTICE PERIOD FOR TERMINATION OF SERVICES

The notice period for termination of your services is 30 Days by either side and/or salary in lieu of notice period on part of the Employer only.

The Employer expects all employees to maintain the highest standards of professional conduct at all times.

In order to assure orderly operations and provide the best possible work environment, the Employer expects you to follow rules of conduct that will protect the interests and safety of all personnel, including but not limited to the Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct.

In the event of any breach of the Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct, non-performance of a contractual obligation of the terms and conditions laid down in this Annexure, or if you engage in any misconduct whether or not in connection with or affecting the business or affairs of the Employer or the work conduct, as specified by Employer, you will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of your services/ employment with the Employer without any notice or payment in lieu of notice notwithstanding any other terms and conditions stipulated herein.

E. MISCONDUCT

Misconduct may include but is not limited to:

- Irregular attendance: repeated or excessive absence, tardiness or early departures/ late comings without approval.
- Unexcused or unapproved absence (including overstay of leave) for more than five consecutive days or deviation from assigned and accepted schedule for more than five days.
- Falsification or manipulation in background verification process or attachment records, employment information, or other records prior to or after joining the Employer.
- Falsification or manipulation of Deloitte Time & Expense (DTE).
- Knowingly providing false statements, either verbally or in written form.
- Neglect of internal duties and functions.
- Practices such as reading personal materials during working time, having obscene or inappropriate posters or screen savers at your work station, playing games at your work station, etc.
- Continuous discharge of work functions that do not meet the standards reasonably expected.
- Breach of the confidentiality provision in the Non-Disclosure, Non-Solicit and Intellectual Property Rights Assignment Agreement including disclosing to any unauthorized person any Confidential Information or PII.
- Willful insubordination or disobedience, whether or not in combination with another, of any lawful and reasonable instructions of any member of management or any authorized person.
- Engaging in unapproved outside employment and activities as defined in APB 218 (US & IND).

- https://us.deloitte.com/Aspx/Pages/Admin/Pages/ZAB_OutsideEmploymentActivities.aspx
- Installing, downloading, copying or duplicating any unauthorized or unlicensed software, programs, games, or attachments on any computer system of the Employer or of any Deloitte Entity or its clients.
 - Engaging in any illegal activities.
 - Workplace violence, including threats of physical violence.
 - Corporate credit card disbursements.
 - Causing damage to the property of the Employer or any Deloitte Entity, its clients, or their respective personnel.
 - Going on or abetting a strike in contravention of any law.
 - Theft of any property belonging to another, the Employer or any Deloitte Entity, or their respective personnel, clients, or visitors.
 - Possession of firearms, explosives, knives or any instruments that can be used as an injurious or deadly weapon in the workplace or at any Deloitte Entity sponsored event.
 - Corruption, fraud, or misappropriation of funds.
 - Failure to comply with the policies, guidelines, rules and regulations of the Employer or a Deloitte Entity as applicable.
 - Excessive personal use of the Employer's telephone, fax or computer systems.
 - Failure to adhere to applicable laws.
 - Any act prejudicial to or in conflict with the interests of the Employer or a Deloitte Entity.

The above terms and conditions are based on, and should be read in conjunction with, the Employer's policies, guidelines, procedures and other rules currently applicable, including but not limited to Administrative Policy Releases (APRs) and Deloitte India (Offices of the US)’s other policies, guidelines, rules, and regulations. The above rules are subject to amendments from time to time and the amended rules, policies, procedures, and guidelines would be posted on the Employer's Intranet site i.e. <https://intranet.deloitte.com/intranet.aspx> for employee reference. The policies will be updated from time to time in the future and we deem it to have your consent to any and all such changes. Furthermore, upon acceptance of employment with the Employer, you may be requested to read and acknowledge acceptance of various policies and guidelines of the Employer. It is expected that you will read and acknowledge all such communications.

Effective as of September 18, 2023, I accept all the terms and conditions of the Employer as stipulated in these Terms and Conditions of Service.

Training Agreement

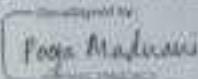

Dear Mr. Himanshu Dhananjay Vatari:

On behalf of Deloitte & Touche Assurance and Enterprise Risk Services India Private Limited, please accept our congratulations on your recent offer of employment to join the Company as Solution Delivery Analyst pursuant to the terms and conditions of your offer letter dated September 18, 2023. You made a very favorable impression with everyone you met and we are excited about the possibility of you joining the Company.

As you may be aware, as a condition of employment with the Company, you may be required to travel overseas to attend a series of training sessions for a period of up to 90 days. This training will be a combination of classroom procedural training as well as on-site training to observe employees conducting similar work at various client locations. This training represents the confidence we have in your ability to be a valuable member of the practice of the Company.

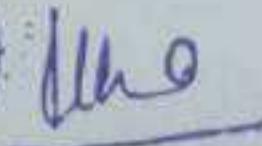

As per Company policy, we kindly bring to your attention that all employees attending training overseas are required to sign a Training Agreement which will obligate the employee to repay a calculated amount of the costs associated with the training, only if the employee resigns his/her position or are terminated for cause within a specified period after completion of the training (usually between 6 to 18 months). This repayment obligation disappears after the specified period of time has lapsed.
We all look forward to seeing you again soon and having you join our team of outstanding professionals.

Sincerely,
For Deloitte & Touche Assurance and Enterprise Risk Services India Private Limited

Dear Dush-Brijeshtha,

Following our recent discussions, we are delighted to extend an offer of employment to you.

Enclosed are a Summary of Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and Detailed Terms and Conditions which set out important conditions relating to your employment and which, together, form your employment terms with Barclays ("Employment Letter").

The Employment Letter refers to the Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) – these are a central part of everything we do. The Values, as well as our purpose and behaviours, will have formed a key part of your selection process when being offered a role at Barclays. You will be expected to act in accordance with the Values as a Barclays employee, and in particular, to follow our Code of Conduct (known as the Barclays Way). More information on this, and how we 'live' the Values will be available prior to and on joining Barclays.

This offer is conditional upon you satisfying Barclays recruitment and screening conditions and procedures and where applicable, the appropriate regulatory approvals. To start the process you will need to complete an application form, if you have not already received it, you will receive a link to the site shortly.

On or before your first day of employment, you will need to provide written documentation which proves your eligibility to work in India. You will also need to sign one copy of your Employment Letter (enclosed) confirming that you have read, understood and accept the terms. You must return this on your first day of employment.

We look forward to welcoming you to Barclays.

Yours sincerely,

Sonada Srivastava

Summary of Key Terms

Introduction to this Section

This section is intended as an "at a glance" summary of the key terms of the offer to you. You must, therefore, read these terms in conjunction with any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions which together comprise your Employment Letter.

Name	Danish Brijeshbhai Lakhwani
Employing Company	Barclays Global Service Centre Private Limited ("the Company")
Position	Your role will be Graduate – Data & Software Engineer: BA3 (or equivalent), or such other role as the Company reasonably decides from time to time.
Start Date	10 July 2023, or such other date agreed between us in writing, subject to the pre-employment conditions being met to the Company's satisfaction. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
	In addition to the terms set out elsewhere in the Agreement, this offer of employment is contingent upon successful completion of your current degree prior to your anticipated start date. Successful completion of your degree means that it is completed within the specified timelines highlighted in your application and that your final degree classification matches or exceeds the predicted results stated in your application to Barclays. It is your responsibility to inform our recruitment team immediately, if you suspect that your grades will be lower than those predicted. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
Working Hours	Your hours of work will be an average of 40 per week. Rest intervals and breaks are separate from the 40 hours of work. The Company is operational 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, so depending on your business function, your working days and hours may involve day and night shifts, and working on weekends, weekly offs and holidays, as permitted under applicable laws. Your manager will inform you if you are required to work in a different shift.
	You will devote sufficient time to your duties. Subject to applicable laws, you may be required to work such additional hours as are required for the proper performance of your duties as per any applicable Company policy, which may require that you attend the office, or be available to fulfil your function, outside normal hours and days. Your working hours can be varied by the Company at its discretion, with reasonable notice and in accordance with applicable laws.
Initial Place of Work	You will initially be based in LTS – Barclays Global Service Centre, Gera Commercezone SEZ, Survey No.65, Village Kharadi Pusre 411014.
	However, your place of work will be determined in line with the requirements of the scheme at Barclays' sole discretion. It is a condition of your employment that you agree that you may be required to work or travel to any branch or office (in India or overseas). Where you are required to work outside of India, additional terms and conditions may apply to your employment, which will be provided at the relevant time.
Probationary Period	Your employment is subject to a probationary period of 6 months, or such additional period as the company may in its discretion consider necessary.

Salary

Components	In INR Per Annum
Basic salary	462,000.00
House Rent Allowance	231,000.00
Flexible Benefit Plan (see further "Statutory and other Benefits" below)	462,000.00
Annual Salary	1,155,000.00
Provident Fund (Employer's Contribution)	65,440.00
Gratuity (per Company policy)	22,212.00
Total Fixed Pay	1,232,652.00

Salary will be payable on a monthly basis, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses, and other statutory deductions, and is currently paid on or around the 24th (or the prior working day if the 24th is not a working day) of each month. The estimated CTC above does not create any contractual right to any such payment.

You may be eligible to receive discretionary allowances as mentioned above or otherwise, subject to and in accordance with the Company's policy on such allowances. Flexible benefit pay component of the salary, subject to amendment from time to time by the Company, to reflect changes in law, tax, or other reasons. These allowances may be reduced or withdrawn.

Your allowances will be paid along with your salary as mentioned above, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other statutory deductions.

Other Payments

The Company agrees to pay you a one-off non-pensionable scholarship and bursary payment of Rs. 100,000.00 (the "Scholarship and Bursary Payment") in recognition of your studying costs. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be paid within 90 days from your date of joining Barclays. The payment will be made subject to applicable tax and / or other withholdings or deductions as required by law or regulation.

As agreed by you, this Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be subject to your compliance with the following requirements:

You will be required to repay the Scholarship and Bursary Payment net of any taxes or other deductions or withholdings as required by law or regulation within 30 days of any of the following occurring:

- you have terminated your employment voluntarily (or have given the Company notice to terminate your employment) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you are dismissed for gross misconduct or fundamental breach of contract or for a serious breach of the Risk and/or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group (or you have been given notice to terminate your employment for these reasons) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you fail to satisfy the pre-employment conditions of as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company.

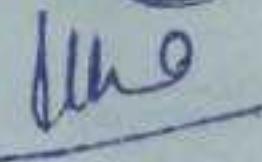

The Company may adjust this repayment amount from any amount payable to you by any Barclays Group company. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment should not be interpreted as giving rise to any right to or legitimate expectation of any other award, nor is it any assurance as to the level of any award which may be made to you in future, which will be at the Company's discretion.

You were also given an opportunity to join your employment without the Scholarship and Bursary Payment and therefore your liability to repay the amount, as has been mentioned above, in no case to be considered as a detriment to restrict your employment for a specific term.

It is a condition of your employment and continued employment with the Company that you successfully complete any professional qualification and/or examination as may be required and notified to you by the Company from time to time, including without limitation any qualifications or examinations required by the Regulator. You will be expected to pass all exams within a predetermined period and/or within one or more sittings, which shall be set out in the Company policy.

Examinations

Subject to the terms set out below and the Company policy, the Company will be responsible for the cost of any first attempts at any such qualification with our preferred provider, including study books and associated examination fees. You should refer to the Company policy for details.

If you do not pass any exam or obtain a qualification within the period specified or within the relevant number of attempts (which may in some cases only be one) the Company reserves the right to terminate your employment.

In the event that your employment is terminated for gross misconduct, or if you resign from the Company or otherwise terminate your employment or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, you will be required (except where a qualification or examination is required by the Regulator) to repay to the Company the following sums in full within 30 days:

- 100% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment at any time during your course of study, or within six months of completing your course of study, or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, or
- 50% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment within six twelve months of completing your course of study

Any such sums owed by you to the Company will be deducted from any sums due to you from the Company or, if such a deduction is not made, will be deemed to be due as a debt from you to the Company.

Discretionary Incentive Award

You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis, at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to you being eligible at the relevant time. Normally, awards are made in the first quarter, in respect of the previous financial year.

Statutory and Other Benefits

You will be eligible for various statutory benefits in accordance with the relevant laws. You will also be eligible to participate in the Company's benefits scheme, details of which are set out in the attached flyer which does not form part of your contract or have any contractual effect.

Any benefits are subject to the relevant policies/plans from time to time in force. The Company reserves the right to change the benefits or policies/plans from time to time.

If the Company pays or reimburses any expense on your joining the Company towards your relocation from your current place of stay to your place of posting as agreed between the Company and you, if your employment ends less than one year after the Start Date you confirm that you will pay to the Company (or alternatively Company may set-off against/ write off) any amount paid or reimbursed in respect of such relocation from the amount payable to you.

Annual Leaves

You are entitled to avail annual leave which includes privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave entitlement in accordance with the applicable laws in the state of your Place of Work. Further details are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions and on your intranet.

Notice Period

Either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving 30 months written notice; however, the Company may terminate your employment with immediate effect in accordance with applicable Company policies.

Detailed Terms and Conditions

Introduction

About the Detailed Terms and Conditions

The purpose of the Detailed Terms and Conditions is to provide you with the relevant information on what the Company and the Barclays Group expects from its employees.

The Detailed Terms and Conditions also set out a list of key practices, guidelines and processes that the Barclays Group has developed to reflect our values, purpose and behaviour and as part of our high performance culture and, in accordance with your contractual obligations, must be adhered to at all times. Further information and policies can be found on your own business unit internet site.

It is important that we review our policies, practices, guidelines and processes to ensure that we stay at the leading edge, enabling us to be one of the most admired financial services companies in the world. From time to time, our policies and procedures do change and you must familiarise yourself with them on joining and periodically throughout your employment. References in the Detailed Terms and Conditions to a policy, practice, guideline and / or process generally are referentive to the relevant policy, practice, guideline and / or process in force at the relevant time.

These detailed terms and conditions also refer to the Barclays Values which must be adhered to at all times. The Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) are set out on your own business unit internet site.

You should also refer to Appendix 4 which sets out definitions of the terms used in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Your Detailed Terms and Conditions of Employment

1. Introduction to this Section

This section sets out your detailed terms and conditions of employment and should be read alongside your enclosed Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedules. These documents form your employment terms with the Company and are referred to in this document as "Employment Letter". By signing the Employment Letter you confirm that you have read, understood and accept the terms set out in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

2. Pre-employment and ongoing conditions

- 2.1 Your confirmation in the employment will be subject to successful completion of the Probationary Period as mentioned in the summary of terms or such additional period as the Company considers necessary in its absolute discretion. Your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically unless communicated otherwise in writing.
- 2.2 You understand that the Company's offer of employment is made to you subject to and conditional on the completion of certain pre-employment procedures and processes. You certify that the information that you have provided in connection with completion of the procedures and otherwise in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview stage) is true and accurate both at the time it is given and on the Start Date. The Company reserves the right to carry out screening checks on all employees, and such procedures may include but are not limited to:
 - (a) receipt of references and documentary proof that are satisfactory to the Company that you are legally entitled to reside and work in your country;
 - (b) completion of credit checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (c) where criminal record checks are applicable to your role, completion of those checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (d) if requested by the Company, a medical examination by the Company's medical advisor;
 - (e) where Regulator approval for your appointment is required and such approval is sought before your employment commences, such approval either (i) being obtained or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator; (f) receipt of documentary proof that you hold the appropriate and relevant qualifications; and
 - (g) the Company receiving a signed copy of the Terms from you.
- 2.3 Whilst every effort will be made to complete all the checks and processes in the pre-employment procedures before your Start Date, this may not always be possible. In case you are employed prior to completion of the pre-employment procedure, the Company may terminate your employment at any time on maximum statutory notice if the check reports are not up to our satisfaction or the procedures are not completed within a reasonable period of time.
- 2.4 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your obtaining, holding and continuing to hold all applicable qualifications, licences and registrations as required by your role. Where Regulator approval for your role is required and such approval is sought after your employment commences, then your continued employment is conditional on such approval either: (i) being obtained; or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator (or other relevant regulatory body).
- 2.5 You shall be liable and responsible to inform and update your latest contact and address details, in the records of the Company, from time to time. Failure to comply may constitute gross negligence on your part.
- 2.6 You should not engage in any matter which would or could be anticipated to result in a conflict of interest between you and the Company.

- 2.7 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your successful completion of certain trainings (such as Communication & Culture and/or other process and policy trainings/accreditations) that may be assigned to you by the Company from time to time. In case you remain absent for more than 2 days during these training programs or you become unable to qualify the trainings to the satisfaction of the Company, the Company shall have the sole discretion to take appropriate action including termination of your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii of the detailed terms and conditions of this Employment Letter. In case of your absence due to any personal emergency, your Line Manager shall on his/her sole discretion and upon evaluation of the reason of your absence, may recommend the Company to realign you for the next available training within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence. In case you are realigned for the next training as mentioned above, there may be possible change in process and/or compensation on account of such realignment. If for any reason you do not agree to the realignment terms or no such realignment is possible within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence, the Company shall have the sole discretion to terminate your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii.

1. Place of Work and Mobility

Your place of work is as set out in your Summary of Key Terms. However you may need to travel to other locations and offices as reasonably required in the performance of your duties. You confirm that you will travel to such places (both inside and outside India) as the Company may reasonably require from time to time. Should the Company need to permanently change your place of work, you will be given reasonable notice of any such change (acceptable in e-mail/letter format).

4. Duties

4.1 During your employment with the Company you confirm that you will

- (a) act in a manner consistent with and which supports our values, purpose and behaviours and in particular the Barclays Values;
- (b) devote the whole of your working time and attention to the business of the Company and the Barclays Group;
- (c) diligently and faithfully perform such duties and exercise such powers and functions as may reasonably be assigned to you by the Company in relation to its business and that of the Barclays Group to the best of your ability and with integrity, due skill, care and diligence;
- (d) use your best efforts to promote and protect the interests of the Company and the Barclays Group and not do anything to harm those interests;
- (e) comply with all reasonable requests, instructions and regulations given by the Company and the Barclays Group and promptly provide such explanations, information and assistance as to your activities in the business of the Company and the Barclays Group as they may reasonably request;
- (f) neither engage in any activities which would detract from the proper performance of your duties under the terms of this Employment Letter, nor (without the prior written consent of the Company) in any capacity including as director, shareholder, principal, consultant, agent, partner or employee engage or be concerned or interested directly or indirectly in any other trade, business or occupation whatsoever provided always that such activities are in compliance with Barclays policies on outside or personal business interests. This paragraph will not prevent you holding for investment purposes only, shares or securities which do not exceed three per cent (3%) in nominal value of the share capital or stock of any class of any company quoted on a recognised stock exchange;
- (g) not engage or be interested in any activities which place you in a position where your interests conflict improperly with those of the Barclays Group, its clients, customers or shareholders. Barclays recognises that, on occasion, a conflict of interest may arise which is unavoidable. In such circumstances you must make your line manager and local compliance control room or compliance contact aware of the issue immediately. You must not act in relation to the matter, without their written direction or approval; and
- (h) report any actual or proposed unlawful activity or behaviour affecting the Barclays Group by you or any other employee, officer, contractor of the Barclays Group or any other person to your manager (or, if they are potentially involved in such unlawful activity or behaviour, to your HR Business Partner or a member of your Compliance team) immediately on becoming aware of it.

5. Salary and allowances

Your salary will be paid on a monthly basis on or around the last working day of each month and is subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other applicable withholdings. All tax liabilities arising out of your entire remuneration package, present or future, shall be borne by you. Your salary and any allowances will accrue on a daily basis and will be paid pro rata if you are employed for part of a month.

Your salary will be reviewed annually without commitment to increase. The Company may deduct from any payments to you any money owed by you to any Barclays Group company in accordance with the applicable laws.

Your acceptance to these terms shall confirm your consent to the Company making payment of your salary, compensation, award, incentive bonus etc. by way of credit to bank account with the bank of Company's choice or via such other route as the Company may deem appropriate.

6. Discretionary Incentive awards

- 6.1 You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis. The value, form, conditions of delivery and timing of any such awards are at the Company's discretion. This discretion includes the right to make the award or a proportion of the award in a form other than cash, including an award of Shares and to defer an element of an award under the terms of a Barclays Group incentive plan.
- 6.2 Any discretionary incentive award will only be made if, at that time, you are in employment and are not under notice (whether given or received) nor under suspension or investigation for a regulatory or disciplinary matter.
- 6.3 If you are subject to any investigation or disciplinary process at the time when communication, payment or making of any payment and/or award would otherwise occur, then the delivery of that payment and/or award will be suspended. If on conclusion of any investigation and/or disciplinary process, you are dismissed for gross misconduct or cause and / or have committed any serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group, then no payment and / or award will be made to you. If no disciplinary action (or disciplinary action short of dismissal) is taken against you, then a payment and / or award may be made to you after the conclusion of that process. However, the amount of any award and / or payment to which you are entitled may be reduced by the Company in its sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, any award and / or payment may be reduced to nil in such circumstances.
- 6.4 Notwithstanding paragraph 6.3, any unpaid or unvested award (or portion of an unpaid or unvested award) may be reduced (to nil if appropriate) at the Company's discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company may exercise its discretion including as a result of:
- (a) Barclays PLC or any subsidiary's financial statements having been materially restated for the period for which the award was made (other than restatement due to a change in accounting policy or to rectify a minor error); or
 - (b) Your actions having, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Company:
 - i. deliberately misled the management of the Company, the market and/or Barclays PLC shareholders regarding the financial performance of Barclays PLC or of any subsidiary;
 - ii. caused harm to the reputation of the Barclays Group;
 - iii. amounted to misconduct, negligence, incompetence or poor performance ("misconduct", "negligence", "incompetence" and "poor performance" as determined by the Remuneration Committee acting in good faith, following consultation with the Company); or
 - iv. The Barclays Group or any of its subsidiaries, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Risk Committee, has suffered a material failure of risk management.
- 6.5 Should the Company become aware that the amount of any award that has been paid or released to you was calculated on the basis of any false, incorrect or misleading information, then, the Company may, within one year of any such payment or release being made, request that you will repay an debt to the Company the amount (or any part of the amount) as may be determined in the Company's sole discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. You confirm that in the event a repayment obligation arises the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you (including in instalments) as it determines in its discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws.

6.6 A payment of cash and / or a release of Shares or other instruments under an award will be subject to tax and other applicable withholdings, taxes, duties, cesses, deductions and will be subject to the rules of any applicable incentive plan.

6.7 Whether you are eligible to receive a discretionary incentive award, and if so, the amount shall be determined at the absolute discretion of the Company. You have no contractual right, whether express or implied, to receive an award at all, or an award of any particular amount, and the making of an award in any year does not give rise to any obligation on the Company to make an award in any future year. For the avoidance of doubt, your employment may be terminated by the Company at any time, for any reason, in accordance with clauses 18 or 19 of this Employment Letter and the exercise of that right to terminate is not limited or fettered by any term (express or implied).

6.8 Within Barclays, certain (usually senior) roles are designated as "Material Risk Taker" ("MRT") roles. Where you are a MRT for any particular year you will be notified of this during or following the end of the relevant year. At any time during the seven year period from the date on which any variable remuneration is awarded to you in respect of a period for which you are a MRT (the "Relevant Variable Remuneration"), if Barclays determines that:

(a) your actions or omissions have, in the reasonable opinion of Barclays amounted to misbehaviour or material error; and/or

(b) Barclays or the relevant business unit has suffered a material failure of risk management; then, without prejudice to Barclays other remedies, Barclays may require that you repay an amount, not exceeding the value of the Relevant Variable Remuneration. The repayment shall be of such value as may be determined in Barclays discretion acting in good faith, to such Barclays Group Company and on such terms as Barclays may direct.

In respect of paragraph 6.8 (b) above, Barclays shall take into account your proximity to the applicable failure and your level of responsibility before any request for repayment is made. In respect of paragraphs (a) and (b) above, before any request for repayment is made, Barclays shall take into consideration whether you (i) have participated in, or were responsible for, conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Barclays Group or (ii) failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety.

For the avoidance of doubt, the whole or any part of the Relevant Variable Remuneration can be clawed back if Barclays makes its determination within seven years from the date that the Relevant Variable Remuneration was awarded to you even if an event falling within (a) or (b) above occurred prior to the date of award.

The determination of what constitutes "misbehaviour", "material error", "material failure of risk management", "significant losses" and "appropriate standards of fitness and propriety" shall be determined by Barclays acting in good faith.

You confirm that in the event Barclays makes a repayment determination, you shall repay the amount subject to that determination within the time period specified in the determination. You further confirm and provide authorisation for Barclays to deduct the appropriate repayment amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you, to the full extent permitted under local law, whether from Barclays or any other Barclays Group company.

You acknowledge that (in addition to its rights at clause 16 (Amendments to terms and conditions of employment) the terms of this clause 6.8 may be amended by Barclays to the extent deemed reasonably necessary in order to comply with law, regulations or guidance published by any regulatory authority or other relevant authority from time to time.

This clause shall apply in addition to the general right of repayment set out in clause 6.5 of the Employment Letter.

7. Statutory and Other Benefits

7.1 You will be eligible for various statutory benefits as mentioned in the Summary of Key terms and in accordance with the relevant laws.

7.2 The Company operates or may operate a benefits programme for its employees and your benefits are/will set out in full in the attached benefits brochure (except the statutory benefits mentioned above, these benefits do not form part of your contract of employment or have any contractual or other legal effect).

7.3 The Company has the right at its absolute discretion to amend or withdraw the benefits at any time and without any compensation or notice to you and / or replace any benefit with an alternative at its discretion.

7.4 Participation in any benefits scheme is subject to the rules of the relevant schemes, which may vary from time to time, and is subject to you satisfying any applicable requirements of the providers or third party providers (where relevant). Your participation may be excluded where, in Barclays' opinion, cover can only be obtained on the basis that exceptional conditions or unusually high premiums are imposed or levied by the insurer or provider.

8. Annual Leave

- 8.1 Your annual leave entitlement is set out in the Summary of Key Terms. The Company's annual leave year currently runs from 1 January to the 31 December. The dates of the annual leave year may be changed. You are obliged to take all your annual leave entitlement in the relevant year, unless a policy/Handbook applicable to you states otherwise, in which case leave may only be carried over subject to and in accordance with those terms and applicable law. Your annual leave dates must be agreed in advance with your line manager. You will be allowed to carry your unused privileged leaves over to the next annual leave year, subject to the limit and restrictions as may be defined in the company policy and subject to the applicable laws. There is no provision of encashment of unused leave (including in case of termination of employment), except where such encashment is mandated by law applicable at the place of your employment at the relevant time.
- 8.2 If your employment begins during an annual leave year, your annual leave entitlement (plus any Bank or Public Holidays which fall during this period), will be calculated pro rata. During the probationary period you may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favour up until the time of taking such leave. Any unused leave at the time of cessation of employment shall lapse and any payment to be made in lieu of the unused leave shall be at the sole discretion of Barclays unless mandated by the applicable law. If you have taken more leave than your accrued entitlement, you shall be required to repay to the Company an amount equivalent to any holiday taken in excess of your pro rata holiday entitlement, and the Company is authorized to deduct the appropriate amount from your final salary installment or any other sum owed by the Company to you at the Termination Date.
- 8.3 In accordance with regulatory guidelines and the Company's policies, the Company may require you to go on a mandatory break leave.

9. Intellectual Property

- 9.1 For the purposes of this paragraph:

"Intellectual Property Rights" means (i) copyright and related rights, patents, know-how, confidential information, database rights, inventions and rights in trademarks and designs (whether registered or unregistered), (ii) applications for registration and the right to apply for registration, for any of the same, and (iii) all other intellectual property rights and equivalent or similar forms of protection existing anywhere in the world;

"Invention" means any invention, idea, discovery, development, improvement or innovation made, whether or not patentable or capable of registration, and whether or not recorded in any medium; and

"Works" means all documents, materials, software, photographic or graphic works of any type, and other materials in any medium or format which are created or developed, or are in the process of being created or developed, or used (whether in final form or otherwise) by you or on your behalf or by the Company in the course of your employment with the Company or for the benefit of the Company and which are protected by, contain or relate to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.2 You will promptly disclose and deliver up to the Company all and any Works conceived, or made by you during and in the course of your employment (whether conceived or made during normal working hours, in your normal place of work, or in conjunction with others, or otherwise). You confirm that you will provide the Company with all originals and copies of all correspondence, documents and other materials in whatever medium or form relating to or concerning the Works and the Intellectual Property Rights they contain.
- 9.3 You confirm that you will only use the Works to perform your obligations under Employment Letter and that you will not make personal copies of any Works other than for the purposes of your employment with the Company.
- 9.4 It is understood that all Intellectual Property Rights created by you in the course of your employment shall be "work for hire". You acknowledge that you have, and will have at all times while you are employed by the Company, a special obligation to further the interests of the undertakings of the Company, and that all Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works will automatically, on creation, belong to and vest in the Company absolutely to the fullest extent provided by law.
- 9.5 To the extent that the Works and Intellectual Property Rights do not vest in the Company or the Barclays Group automatically, you will hold such Works and Intellectual Property Rights on trust for the benefit of the Company until the Works and Intellectual Property Rights vest absolutely in the Company.
- 9.6 You confirm that you will immediately, upon request and at the Company's expense, provide all such documents and assistance as may be necessary to vest the Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works in the Company, to enable the Company to enjoy the full benefit of the Intellectual Property Rights, and to enable the Company to enforce its Intellectual Property Rights against third parties or defend claims brought against the Company in relation to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.7 By signing Employment Letter you accept and confirm to assign to the Company or a member of the Barclays Group (as specified by the Company) all current and future Intellectual Property Rights in the Works and any other proprietary rights capable of assignment by way of present assignment of future rights for the full term of such rights. You confirm that such assignment shall be perpetual, worldwide and royalty free. You also confirm that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 19(4) of the Copyright Act, 1957, such assignment in so far as it relates to copyrightable material shall not lapse nor the rights transferred therein revert to the Employee, even if the Company does not exercise the rights under the assignment within a period of one year from the date of assignment. You acknowledge and confirm that you shall waive any right to and shall not raise any objection or claims to the Copyright Board with respect to the assignment, pursuant to Section 19A of the Copyright Act, 1957.
- 9.8 You unconditionally and irrevocably waive your moral rights in relation to existing and future Works, including your right to be identified as the author of the Works and not to have the Works subject to derogatory treatment. You acknowledge that, except as may be expressly provided by law, no further remuneration or compensation other than that provided for under Employment Letter is or may become due to you.
- 9.9 When this Employment Letter expires or terminates, for whatever reason, you will immediately deliver up to the Company all Works in your possession or under your control, and under no circumstances may any Works be retained by you except with the prior written consent of the Company.
- 9.10 Without prejudice to any specific legal rights which you may otherwise have, you acknowledge that no further remuneration or compensation other than that expressly provided for in this Employment Letter will become due to you in respect of your compliance with this Section 9.

10. Confidentiality

- 10.1 During your employment with the Company or at any time afterwards, you must not disclose to any person or make use of any Confidential Information or trade secrets that you have obtained in the course of your employment. This includes information that you have acquired in the course of your employment concerning the business or affairs of the Company and/or any other Barclays Group company or our customers or clients. You are required to use your best efforts to prevent the unauthorised publication or disclosure of any such Confidential Information. Exceptions to this are the use of information for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter, where the Company has given written consent or disclosure is required by law, where the information is already in or comes into the public domain (other than by your unauthorised disclosure).
- 10.2 During your employment or at any time afterwards, you must not make any copy or record (whether recorded in writing, on computer disc, electronically or otherwise) of any Confidential Information, unless this is required for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter. Any such information belongs to the Barclays Group and must be returned by you either at any time during the course of your employment on the request of the Company and immediately on termination of your employment.

10.3 For the purposes of this Employment Letter, "Confidential Information" means information concerning the business, affairs, finance, clients or trade connections of the Company, any member of the Barclays Group, or any of its customers, clients, suppliers or agents. This includes but is not limited to:

- (a) commercially sensitive information or trade secrets;
- (b) corporate and marketing strategy, business development plans, sales reports and research results;
- (c) business methods and processes, technical information and know-how relating to the Barclays Group's business and which is not available to the public generally, including inventions, designs, programmes, techniques, database systems, formulae and ideas;
- (d) business contacts, lists or details of clients and suppliers and details of contacts with them, their business or affairs, including client names and client contact details, financial and personal affairs, and trading history and methodology;
- (e) information on employees and the terms and conditions of their employment, details of employee benefits, incentive schemes/plans, salary scales and/or current or anticipated trade union/employee disputes.

- (f) information or details of any actual, potential or threatened litigation, legal action, claim, dispute or arbitration against or with any member of the Barclays Group or any current or former director, officer or employee of the Barclays Group in such capacity and any information in respect of provisions for any such action;
- (g) budgets, management accounts, trading statements and other financial reports;
- (h) unpublished price sensitive information relating to shares or securities listed or dealt in on any recognised stock exchange; and
- (i) any other information which any member of the Barclays Group or any of its employees or consultants has identified (orally, in writing, or by its or their actions) as being secret or confidential in nature or which would reasonably be considered as confidential.
- 10.4 You shall not solicit business for the Company from any clients belonging to your previous employers in breach of your terms of employment with your previous employer. You shall not use any confidential information that came to your knowledge in the course of your previous employments while working with the Company. You undertake to indemnify the Company against any action that the Company may face on account of your actions in breach of your obligations to your previous employers.

11. Regulatory compliance and dealing codes

- 11.1 The nature of the Barclays Group's business is such that it is authorised and regulated by the appropriate Regulator.
- 11.2 It is your responsibility to know, understand and comply with all legal, regulatory and governance obligations, including the provisions of the Regulatory and Compliance policies that are relevant to you. If you are in any doubt as to your responsibilities in this regard or the rules which apply to you, you must contact the Compliance team within your business area.
- 11.3 If you are a Regulator approved person (or any equivalent status with any other regulator) you must comply with the Regulator's Statement of Principles and Code of Practice for Approved Persons (or meet the applicable standards). Failure to meet these Principles / Standards and / or to comply with this Code of Practice (or other applicable standards) may result in investigation by the regulator, applicable regulator and/or the Company, and / or disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company which may result in the termination of your employment.
- 11.4 You confirm that you will be bound by and will comply with the Barclays Group Share Dealing Code and with any more stringent dealing rules applicable to you or the area of the business in which you work. In particular, you agree not to make any investment, directly or indirectly, in any company or business which is a customer or client of the Barclays Group and which may in the reasonable opinion of the Company be expected to cause your personal or family interests to conflict with your duty to the Company in any respect.
- 11.5 Any incentives or compensation payable to you by any member of the Company or Group Company (under this Employment Letter or otherwise, including any guaranteed amounts and including, where applicable, the payment and settlement schedule and split of cash and shares as set out in this Employment Letter) are subject to variation or modification to the extent reasonably deemed necessary by the Company including in order to remain consistent with Barclays remuneration policy (as amended from time to time) or to comply with laws and regulations, including any regulations or guidance published by the Regulator from time to time.

12. Expenses

There may be occasions when you incur business expenses for instance, traveling to a training course or visiting another business location for a meeting. Any expenses must be pre-approved and claimed promptly and will be reimbursed to you in line with our procedures, a copy of which can be found on your intranet.

The Company at its sole discretion may bear certain expenses on your training, learning and developmental needs, subject to your acceptance of the terms and obligations as would be mentioned in the agreement ("Training Agreement") that may be executed with you.

As a consideration to the training expenses to be incurred by the Company, you may be asked to work with the Company for a certain period of time, post completion of the said training/ programs/courses, as the case may be and/or to compensate the Company by paying an agreed sum as liquidated damages. Your specific obligations will form part of the Training Agreement to be executed with you. For the execution of the Training Agreement, you may be asked to get a surety to undertake your obligations under the terms of the Training Agreement.

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to be "M. S. R.", written over a blue horizontal line.

Unless otherwise agreed in the Training Agreement, any breach of the terms of the said Training Agreement, will be considered as the breach of the terms of this Letter.

13. Attendance at work

- 13.1 Your Summary of Key Terms will provide you with details of the particular working pattern that applies to you, and any specific arrangements that may apply regarding changes to this pattern. If you work full time, or for 8 hours or more on a given day, your normal working hours would additionally include up to a daily one hour break.
- 13.2 From time to time, the Company may need to vary your hours, days and times of work if this is necessary to accommodate the needs of the business or the absence of your colleagues. Should the Company need to vary your working hours, you will be given reasonable notice of any such changes.

14. Sickness Leave

- 14.1 If you are unable to work through ill health or injury you will be entitled to sick leave in accordance with the policy on Leave and Holidays, which can be found in the Company's Intranet. The Company reserves the right to only approve sick leave of more than two consecutive workdays if certified by a medical practitioner of the Company's choice, and you hereby confirm that you co-operate with such an examination and to authorise the full disclosure of any resulting report to Barclays.
- 14.2 The payment of salary and any allowances during periods of sickness will be subject to an entitlement under the applicable laws and you following the requirements regarding notification and certification of absence as set out in this Employment Letter, on your Intranet and the Company being satisfied that you are unable to work due to illness or injury.

15. Other absences from work

Approval should be obtained in advance from your line manager for absence during working hours. If unexpected circumstances mean that this is not possible, you should inform your line manager as soon as possible. Absence without approval and/or explanation will be dealt with under the disciplinary procedure which could result in disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company and which may result in the termination of your employment.

16. Amendments to terms and conditions of employment

- 16.1 The Company reserves the right to review, revise, amend, replace or withdraw the contents of these Terms and introduce new policies, practices, guidelines and procedures from time to time to reflect the changing needs of the business or any changes in legislation or regulation from time to time.
- 16.2 For the avoidance of doubt, where the Company retains a discretion under these Terms (including but not limited to the discretion to make incentive award(s) to you, any matters considered in the decision whether to make such an award and the value, form, conditions and timing of delivery of any such award(s)) such discretion cannot be limited or fettered in any way other than by consent between you and the Company which is documented formally in writing on the Company's headed paper by an authorised member of the Human Resources Department.

17. Allocation of duties and transfer within the Barclays Group

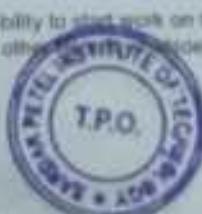

You confirm that the Company will be entitled at any time and with prior notice (where required by applicable law) to (i) assign you to carry out such projects and/or duties commensurate with your abilities as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (ii) assign you on a temporary or permanent basis to undertake additional duties and/or different duties commensurate with your abilities within any part or parts of the Barclays Group as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (iii) second you on a temporary or permanent basis to work for any company in the Barclays Group or to a third party and/or (iv) transfer your employment and its rights and obligations to another company in the Barclays Group.

18. Leaving Barclays

- 18.1 Subject to paragraph 2 of these Detailed Terms and Conditions the Company and you may each terminate this Employment Letter in accordance with the "Notice" paragraph set out in your Summary of Key Terms. In addition:

(a) either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving one month's written notice (or, if greater, the minimum notice according to local applicable law) during any probationary period that may apply to you as set out in your Summary of Key Terms.

(b) your employment shall be conditional on your ability to start work on the agreed Start Date. If you are unable to do so, you will have no entitlement to receive any payment or other consideration from the Company or the Barclays Group.

(ii) your employment may also be terminated by the Company without notice or pay in lieu of notice if you commit an act of gross misconduct (as may be defined under applicable Company policy from time to time which may include failure to comply with any policies and/or procedures including those referred to in the Detailed Terms and Conditions; lack of competence, serious breach of the Terms including improper or unethical behaviour;

(iii) Your contractual and normal retirement age is 60 years. On the day you attain that age, your employment shall end automatically without any need for either party to serve written notice; and

(iv) the Company may (without notice, pay in lieu of notice or incurring any obligation to pay compensation) immediately terminate your employment if you:

- i. are convicted of any criminal offence (other than a minor offence which, in the opinion of the Company, does not affect your position as an employee of the Company); or
- ii. are guilty of any act of dishonesty or gross or serious misconduct or any conduct which brings or is intended to bring any member of the Barclays Group or yourself into disrepute or may damage the business or affairs of the Barclays Group; or
- iii. have been found by the Company to have materially or repeatedly breached or have not complied with the terms of this Employment Letter (or otherwise fail or refuse to carry out the duties assigned to you); or
- iv. have breached or otherwise failed the Barclays Group sanctions screening policy or procedure; or
- v. cease to hold or fail to obtain any regulatory approvals or consents which are required for the effective discharge by you of any duties assigned to you under this Employment Letter; or
- vi. materially breach the rules of the Regulator; or
- vii. breach any Barclays Group rules on anti-battery or anti-corruption;
- viii. don't obtain or maintain the accreditation(s) or qualifications that you are required to have (in the Company's opinion, or according to relevant regulators or professional bodies) to be able to 'work in your job profile'
- ix. be regularly absent without leave or absent without leave for a period exceeding 14 days.

This sub-paragraph is not exhaustive and does not restrict any other right which the Company may have (whether at common law or otherwise) to terminate your employment summary.

18.2 You shall be liable to pay the Damages to the Company, in case you fail to serve the requisite notice as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms. These Damages shall be in addition to the payment of salary in lieu of notice period. In respect of the Damages, the Company reserves the right to set-off against write off an amount payable withhold from the salary and/or allowances. Further, you shall not be relieved from your contractual notice period, unless expressly relieved in writing.

18.3 The termination of your employment will not affect any terms of this Employment Letter which are intended to operate after the termination date, including the paragraphs relating to Intellectual Property, Confidentiality and Post Termination Restrictions.

18.4 On termination of your employment, irrespective of the reason, or at any other time when asked by the Company, you will:

- (a) immediately return to the Company all vehicles, equipment and documents, whether electronic or otherwise, and any other property (of any kind) security pass, business cards, etc) relating to the business of or belonging to the Barclays Group, together with all copies of any such documents that you have in your possession or control or held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
- (b) immediately delete any information relating to the business of the Company or the Barclays Group stored on any computer or storage device and all information derived from the same in your possession or control and held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
- (c) resign with immediate effect from any offices or appointments you hold within or connected to the Barclays Group; and
- (d) confirm in writing that you have complied fully with the terms of this paragraph and provide evidence of compliance on the Company's request.

19. Payment in Lieu of notice

- 19.1 The Company reserves the right in its sole and absolute discretion to terminate your employment and your terms with immediate effect (whether or not notice has been given by either party) by giving notice in writing to you of its intention to make a payment in lieu of notice and, if it does so, the Company shall make you a payment in lieu of notice, equal to the salary which you would have been entitled to receive if you had worked during your Notice Period or, if your Notice Period has started, the unexpired portion (the "Payment in Lieu"). Where the Company elects to make a Payment in Lieu of some or all of your Notice Period, your employment shall terminate on the date specified by the Company, regardless of when the Payment in Lieu is paid.
- 19.2 Any Payment in Lieu will be paid less tax and any applicable withholdings. You will not be entitled to receive any payment in respect of holiday entitlement that would have accrued during the period for which the Payment in Lieu is made.

19.3 Any Payment in Lieu may be paid by the Company in accordance with the Company policies and subject to the applicable laws. Any Payment in Lieu may at the Company's discretion be paid as a lump sum within one month of the Termination Date or in equal monthly instalments from the date on which notice is served until what would have been the end of the Notice Period provided always that if after exercising its discretion to make a Payment in Lieu the Company becomes aware of any grounds that would permit it to summarily terminate your employment any payments due under this clause 19.3 will cease to be payable and the net value of any Payment in Lieu that has been received by you shall be repaid as a debt to the Company within 30 days of the Company notifying you of this repayment obligation.

20. Suspension and suspension

- 20.1 The Company may suspend you at any time from the performance of all or any of your duties:

- (a) for the whole or any part of any applicable Notice Period; or
- (b) for such periods and on such terms as is necessary to allow any investigation to take place (including, but not limited to an investigation by a regulatory authority or an investigation under the Company's disciplinary procedure).

- 20.2 During any period of suspension, the Company will be under no obligation to provide work for or assign any duties to you and may require you not to attend any premises of any member of the Barclays Group (other than as a customer) and may require you to:

- (a) not speak to, contact or otherwise communicate with any director, consultant, agent, contractor or employee of any member of the Barclays Group other than to carry out your personal banking, or any person, firm or company who, at the date of such suspension or exclusion is a client or customer of any member of the Barclays Group unless they are members of your immediate family;
- (b) at any time to carry out such special projects or duties communicate with your manager as the Company shall in its absolute discretion determine;

- (c) meet with representatives from the Company in order to facilitate a handover of work and provide assistance with ongoing business activity; and

- (d) take any holiday which you have accrued.

- 20.3 During any period of suspension:

- (a) your employment with the Company and this Employment Letter will continue and you will continue to be bound by your obligations under it except as expressly set out in this paragraph including, but not limited to, your obligations of confidentiality, good faith and fidelity to the Company; and

- (b) you shall continue to receive your basic salary and all contractual benefits in the usual way.

21. Post termination restrictions

- 21.1 You confirm to the Company (for itself and as trustee and agent for each member of the Barclays Group) that you will not, whether directly or indirectly, on your own behalf or on behalf of or in conjunction with any other person, firm, company or other entity:

Uwe

(a) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer, client or supplier of the Company or the Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings in the course of your employment with the Company or in respect of whom you were aware of material and confidential information, in both cases within the 12 months period immediately prior to the Termination Date. Nothing in this paragraph will prohibit you from seeking or doing business which is not in direct or indirect competition with the business of the Barclays Group; and

(b) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date solicit or entice away or attempt to solicit or entice away or employ or engage any director, officer or employee of executive status in the Barclays Group with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to the Termination Date. For the purposes of this paragraph "employee of executive status" will include without limitation any employee of the Barclays Group with a corporate grading Managing Director, Director, Vice President (or equivalent grades, or anything which replaces these grades) and any employees of the Barclays Group with a lesser corporate grading where in the 12 months prior to the Termination Date, you have had line manager responsibilities in relation to that employee or they have had line manager responsibilities or have been engaged in work or projects which in the Company's reasonable opinion are key to its business and / or mean that they are in possession of material and confidential information relating to the Barclays Group.

21.2 Each of the restrictions contained in this paragraph are considered by the parties to be reasonable in all the circumstances as at the date of this Employment Letter. However, the parties acknowledge that if any one or more of such restrictions will be judged to be void as going beyond what is reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the interests of the Barclays Group, but would be enforceable if words were deleted or one or more of the duration, range of activities and area covered were reduced in scope, the restrictions will be deemed to apply with such modifications as may be necessary to make them valid and effective. Any such modification will not affect the validity of any other restriction contained in this Employment Letter and it is confirmed that each restriction in this paragraph will be construed as separate and individual restrictions.

21.3 You confirm that if, during either your employment with the Company or the period of the restrictions set out in this paragraph you receive an offer of employment or engagement, you will provide a copy of these restrictions to the offeror as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the offer.

22. Further terms

22.1 No cessation to exercise or delay in exercising any right, power or remedy of the Company under this Employment Letter will constitute a waiver of that right, power or remedy.

22.2 During your employment:

(a) the Company may at its discretion require that you undergo screening, including for criminal record, sanctions list and/or credit reference checks from time to time. It is anticipated that any such screening would only be undertaken if required for regulatory purposes or in order to comply with the minimum standards for the role you are undertaking; and

(b) you should advise the Company should any of the circumstances as set out in paragraph 18.1(e) of this Employment Letter arise or be brought against you.

22.3 You acknowledge that in entering into these Terms you have not relied on any representation or undertaking by the Company whether oral or in writing, except as expressly incorporated into this Employment Letter.

22.4 You consent to the Company monitoring your use of all Company resources and its communication and electronic equipment (including without limitation the telephone, internet, blackberry, software applications and email systems) and information stored on the Company's computer equipment, as described in your local acceptable use policy in accordance with the Barclays Group procedure and / or guidance on electronic communications. A copy of the policy that applies to you can be found on your intranet.

22.5 You understand that you may, during your employment, be granted awards under the terms of one or more of the Company's long term incentive plans or any incentive or bonus plan operated by the Barclays Group. If, on termination of your employment, you lose any of the rights or benefits under any such plans, you will not be entitled, by way of compensation for loss of office or otherwise, to any compensation for the loss of any rights under any such plans.

22.6 If your employment is terminated at any time by reason of any reconstruction or amalgamation of the Company or any Barclays Group company, whether by winding up or otherwise, and you are offered employment with any concern or undertaking involved in or resulting from the reconstruction or amalgamation on terms which (considered in their entirety) are no less favourable to any material extent than the terms of this Employment Letter, you shall have no claim against the Company or any such undertaking arising out of or connected with the termination.

23. Certifications

23.1 You confirm and certify that:

- (a) you are not precluded or restricted by any term of any agreement, undertaking or court order or any obligation to any third party from entering into this Employment Letter or undertaking or properly performing any of the duties of your employment with the Company;
- (b) you will notify the Company of any change in circumstances around the termination of your employment with your previous employer between the date of this Employment Letter and the Start Date;
- (c) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation by any company or body into suspected bribery or corruption activity where either: (i) the investigation was concluded and your conduct found to amount to misconduct; or (ii) where the investigation was on-going and did not reach a conclusion because your employment (or engagement) with that company or body was terminated during the investigation (whether by mutual consent or by voluntary termination or otherwise);
- (d) you are not currently, and have never been, the subject of an investigation into suspected criminal activity involving elements of dishonesty (including theft or fraud) or anti-competitive behaviour; and
- (e) you will not during your employment at the Company breach any third party's rights in respect of confidential information and/or intellectual property.

23.2 Any breach of these certifications will entitle Barclays to immediately terminate your employment.

24. Governing law

Your Terms are governed in accordance with the laws of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management. The parties irrevocably submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the competent courts of the state of your normal place of work, or Mumbai if you work in Corporate Banking, Investment Banking or Wealth and Investment Management in relation to any legal action or proceedings that arise out of or in connection with this Employment Letter.

25. Key policies, procedures and practices

25.1 During your employment with the Company (and where applicable after your employment has terminated) you must comply with all of the Company's policies and procedures and any legal and/or statutory and/or regulatory obligations, including (but not limited to) Barclays Group policies and procedures on, and any other obligations relating to, anti-bribery and corruption. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action being taken against you.

25.2 You should familiarise yourself with all policies and procedures that apply to your grade and business area as set out on your intranet. The Code of Conduct and the policies, guidelines and procedures on the following issues are particularly important (although this is not intended as a comprehensive list):

- Any applicable Employee Handbook
- Anti Bribery and Corruption
- Regulator's Business Principles
- Disclosure obligations
- Data protection, confidential information and Chinese walls
- Equality and Diversity
- Managing people, including on various types of leave and our disciplinary and grievance policies
- Bullying, Harassment and Discrimination policy
- Prevention of Sexual Harassment at the Workplace
- Dress at Work
- Electronic and other forms of communication
- Personal account and share dealing
- Conflicts of interest and outside business interests and affiliations
- Market conduct
- Gifts and Entertainment
- Health and Safety

- Whistleblowing or Raising Concerns
- Substance Abuse

25.3 Unless otherwise stated, these policies, guidelines and procedures do not form part of this Employment Letter.

25.4 The disciplinary and grievance rules and procedures which are applicable to your employment are set out on your intranet. These rules and procedures do not form part of this Employment Letter. If you wish to appeal against a disciplinary decision you should apply in writing to your line manager or HR contact in accordance with the Company's disciplinary procedure. If you wish to raise a grievance please apply in writing to your line manager or HR contact in accordance with the Company's grievance procedure.

A small circular stamp is located near the bottom left corner of the page. It appears to contain the number "637" and some other, less legible text.

5. Probation:

Your employment with the Company shall be subject to a probationary period of 3 (three) months. The probationary period will commence from your date of joining. The Company may choose to extend such probationary period to the extent it deems fit. Upon completion of the said probationary period, your employment with the Company shall be deemed to be confirmed unless you receive any intimation from the Company to the contrary. During the period of probation, either party may choose to terminate the employment by giving the other party prior written notice of 7 (seven) days without assigning any reason.

6. Notice Period:

In case of termination with notice, the Company or you may terminate your employment by giving 90 days prior written notice, with or without assigning any reason.

7. Your employment with the Company shall be subject to the terms mentioned in the employee handbook and all regulations and policies of the Company as applicable from time to time (collectively, the "Employee Handbook") read together with the terms of this offer letter ("Offer Letter"). In case of any inconsistency between the Employee Handbook and the Offer Letter, the terms of the Offer Letter shall prevail. The terms thereof shall form an integral part of this Offer Letter.

8. The terms pertaining to working hours, leaves and other benefits are as mentioned in the Employee Handbook.

9. Annexure II provides for other terms and conditions of your offer.

10. Background & Reference Check Your detailed reporting requirements, duties and responsibilities will be discussed with you upon your acceptance of our offer. As a part of our processes, we will carry out background checks and seek feedback from your references and the offer will be conditional on satisfactory feedback. Our offer is also contingent upon your full and complete disclosure to the Company of any and all agreements with any prior employer, clients, principals, partners or others which would in any way limit you either contractually or otherwise from engaging in any business activities required or contemplated by the Company in this offer. The Company reserves the right to withdraw this offer of employment without any obligation whatsoever, if it determines or believes that any such contractual or other obligation may materially limit your ability to engage in business activities for the Company.

11. All other terms and conditions of your employment, including the code of conduct, will be in accordance with the Employee Handbook.

As a token of your acceptance of our offer and the terms and conditions of this Offer Letter and the Employee Handbook, please sign in the space provided below and return the same to us within seven days from the date of this Offer Letter. Our offer shall automatically lapse unless you confirm your acceptance of it and return a copy to us within the prescribed time.

Annexure II

1. Confidentiality:

- During your employment with the Company, you may learn trade secrets or confidential information which relates to the Company or any person(s)/legal entity/ies related to the Company. Unless you are required to do so in the proper performance of your duties, you must not (a) divulge or communicate to any person; (b) use for your purposes or any purposes other than those of the Company or, as appropriate, any of its clients; (c) cause any unauthorized disclosure, through any failure to exercise due care and attention, of; (d) any trade secrets or confidential information relating to the Company or any of its clients. You must at all times use your best endeavours to prevent publication or disclosure of any trade secrets or confidential information; (e) act as a consultant or employee either part-time or full-time (with or without remuneration) with any other organization; (f) speak to the press or any representatives of the media without prior authorization from the Company. "Confidential information" includes but is not limited to lists of clients, suppliers of the Company, financial information including pricing information, administration and information systems, information about the unique products and services and information relating to the business strategy of the Company and any material containing such information. If you are unsure about the confidential nature of specific information, you must seek your manager's advice and clarification. You will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including summary dismissal for any unauthorized use or disclosure of confidential information belonging to or related to the Company and/or any breach of the confidentiality obligations mentioned herein. By agreeing to the terms of this Offer Letter, you agree to the confidentiality obligations mentioned herein and understand that your obligation of confidentiality indefinitely survives the termination of your employment.
- You will promptly on demand or in any event upon when you cease to be an employee of the Company, return all confidential information including but not limited to documents, records, computer disks or other property maintained in any form in your possession or under your control belonging to the Company or its clients thereof and you will not retain any copies thereafter.
- At the Company's sole discretion, you shall be required to sign such documents and agreements as may be provided by the Company from time to time, with respect to your employment with the Company.

3. Deputation:

The Company may, at its sole discretion, second, depute, assign and transfer you to any other office of the Company in India or overseas or to the office of any affiliates of the Company or to any third parties. You hereby consent to any such secondment, deputation, assignment and transfer by the Company of your employment including to third parties.

4. Intellectual Property:

4.1 Any Intellectual Property Rights, as well as any portion thereof, including any material containing such intellectual Property Rights, developed by you during your employment with the Company, shall be the sole property of the Company from the date of creation thereof and you hereby assign to the Company worldwide rights in respect of such intellectual Property Rights free from encumbrances of any kind for the full term of each and every such right, including renewal or extension of any such term. You shall further not use, disclose, publish, share or authorize the use, disclosure, etc. of such intellectual Property Rights for any purpose other than in the interests of the Company or without the Company's prior written consent. For the purposes of this Clause, "Intellectual Property Rights" means any and all existing and future intellectual or industrial property rights (whether registered or unregistered) including, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, all existing and future patents, copyrights, design rights, database rights, trademarks, internet rights/domain names, know-how, confidential information and any and all applications for any of the foregoing and any and all rights to apply for any of the foregoing and any and all material containing any of the foregoing.

4.2 During your employment with the Company, you may either alone or in conjunction with others, generate or assist in the generation of documents, materials, designs, drawings, processes, formalise, computer coding, methodologies, confidential information and other works which relate to the business of the Company or which are capable of being used or adopted for use therein or in connection therewith ("Works") and you agree that in respect of any such Works and all Intellectual Property Rights in relation thereto, you are obliged to further the interests of the Company. Both the Works and the related intellectual Property Rights will belong to and be the absolute property of the Company or any other person the Company may nominate and you shall not use, disclose, publish, share or authorise the use, disclosure, etc. of such Works and/or intellectual Property Rights for any purpose other than in the interests of the Company or without the Company's prior written consent.

4.3 You must immediately disclose to the Company all Works and all related intellectual Property Rights and must provide the same to the Company immediately upon its demand. You are required to assist the Company and fully cooperate with it in every way to enforce the Company's right to execute whatever documentation is required to provide the Company with full ownership of such Works and related intellectual Property Rights.

4.4 You will promptly on demand or in any event when you cease to be an employee of the Company, return all Works and cease to use any intellectual Property Rights of the Company maintained in any form whatsoever in your possession or under your control belonging to the Company or its clients thereof and you will not retain any copies thereafter and shall cease to use the same or permit its/their use in any manner whatsoever. This obligation survives the termination of your employment.

5. You shall properly, diligently and honestly perform all the duties which the Company may assign to you from time to time and shall faithfully account for and deliver to the Company all moneys, securities or other property belonging to the Company which may come into your possession, custody or control. For any duties performed by you in bad faith or in violation of applicable law or breach of this Offer Letter and/or the Employee Handbook, you shall be solely liable and shall reimburse the Company for any loss incurred by it as a consequence thereof.

6. The Company's rules, regulations and directions relating to its employees, including the terms in the Employee Handbook, which are now or may hereafter be in force, will apply to you and will be strictly complied with by you. You should, therefore, acquaint yourself with all Company rules and policies which are applicable to you. In particular, the Company attaches great importance to security, compliance and fair dealing procedures and your attention is drawn to the rules set out in the Employee Handbook. You may be asked to disclose information as deemed necessary to comply with local regulatory requirements arising from the Company's business activities (including records relating to investments held by you and your connected persons), or which are otherwise consistent with the best market best practices of the Company. A breach of the terms of this Offer Letter or Employee Handbook or local legal and compliance rules is a disciplinary offence that may justify summary dismissal. Also, you shall at all times be conversant with and comply with any rules and regulations applicable to your specific area of work, such as (where applicable) the local rules, regulations, and by-laws and any and all applicable laws in relation thereto. Violation of any of these rules, regulations, laws or provisions may result in the immediate termination of your employment.

7 Termination

7.1. Termination with Notice: The Company or you may terminate your employment by giving 90 days prior written notice, with or without assigning any reason. The Company may choose to terminate your employment immediately or by a period of notice shorter than the stipulated notice period by making a payment to you equal to your salary for all or part of the notice period in lieu of that notice. The notice period might also be agreed upon by mutual consent between you and the Company. In the event the Company agrees to relieve you prior to completion of your notice period, you will be required to pay the Company an amount equivalent to salary for the number of days of unserved notice. In case you give notice of termination of your employment, the Company reserves the right to enforce the notice period as per policy, and any waiver of the same/payment in lieu of notice is at the discretion of the Company. If the Company or you have given notice of the termination of your employment, the Company may direct you not to perform any of your duties, to remain away from the Company's premises and not to contact clients or other employees of the Company for all or part of the notice period. During this time you will remain employed by the Company and therefore remain subject to your conditions of employment and you will continue to receive your salary and contractual benefits during the notice period.

7.2. Termination without Notice: The Company may terminate your employment immediately and without notice period or payment in lieu of notice in the event that:

- (i) you are guilty of serious misconduct or;
- (ii) you are guilty of a serious breach of the employment rules as set out in this Offer Letter and/or the Employee Handbook and/or any laws, rules or regulations by which you may be bound or;
- (iii) you breach any fundamental term or condition of your employment or;
- (iv) you intentionally disobey a lawful and reasonable direction of the Company or;
- (v) you conduct yourself in a way which, in the Company's reasonable opinion, may bring yourself or any member of the Company into disrepute or which may jeopardize or prejudice the business and/or reputation of the Company or;
- (vi) you are convicted of a serious criminal offence or a criminal offence which, in the Company's opinion, compromises your ability to perform your duties or;
- (vii) you have provided false, inaccurate or incomplete information to the company regarding your background and/or previous employment or;
- (viii) you are found in an act of moral turpitude or;
- (ix) you become bankrupt or make any arrangement or composition with or for the benefit of your creditors or;
- (x) you cease to hold qualification necessary for you to carry out your work with the company or;
- (xi) you have been absent for a continuous period of 10 days (including absence when leave though applied for, is not granted or when you overstay period of sanctioned leave by 10 days); or
- (xii) been found inefficient or lower performer as compared to other employees of your category.

7.3. Consequences of Termination of your Employment: If your employment is terminated for any reason:

- (i) before you leave the Company, you must return to us all of the Company's property and confidential information, and you must not retain any copies, extracts or reproductions of any part of that property or confidential information;

- (iii) you will continue to be bound by your employment obligations to the Company relating to the Company's confidential information and Intellectual Property Rights (as defined in this Offer Letter);
(iv) you must not make any statements (whether orally or in writing) or do anything which might damage the reputation and/or business of the Company or interfere with the Company's relationships with its clients and customers; and
(v) you must not thereafter represent yourself as an employee of the Company in any manner whatsoever.

8. Non-Solicitation:

You hereby agree and undertake that at no time during the term of your employment with the Company and for period of 6 (six) months following the termination date, you shall not directly or indirectly, either as an individual on your own account or as a partner, employee, consultant, advisor, agent, contractor, director, trustee, committee member, office-bearer or shareholder (or in a similar capacity or function):

- (i) seek, canvass, solicit or accept from any person who was a client or potential client of the Company, any services or business of the type offered by the Company;
(ii) seek to directly or indirectly, disclose to any person, firm or corporation the names or addresses of any of the customers or clients of the Company or any other information pertaining to it and them. Neither shall you call on, solicit, take away, or attempt to call on, solicit, or take away any customer of the Company on whom you have called or with whom you became acquainted during the term of your employment, as the direct or indirect result of your employment with the Company;
(iii) seek to employ, solicit or entice away from the Company, any employee or worker or independent contractor associated with the Company, whether such person was a person with whom you dealt in the course of your duties or otherwise.

9. Exclusivity:

You are being employed on a full-time exclusive basis by the Company. Hence, while you are in the service of the Company, you are not permitted to engage yourself or devote any time or attention to any full-time or part-time employment, trade, business or occupation with or without remuneration other than that of the Company. So also, you will not undertake either directly or indirectly any activities which are contrary to or inconsistent with your obligations to the Company or the Company's interests.

10. This Offer Letter shall be governed and construed in accordance with the laws of India in relation to any legal action or proceedings to enforce this Offer Letter. The parties irrevocably submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of any competent courts situated at Mumbai and you hereby waive any objection to such proceedings on the grounds of venue or on the grounds that the proceedings have been brought in an inconvenient forum.

11. If any paragraph, subparagraph, or provision of this Offer Letter, or the application of such paragraph, subparagraph, or provision, is held invalid or excessively broad or unenforceable by a court of competent jurisdiction, the remainder of this Offer Letter, and the application of such paragraph, subparagraph, or provision to persons or circumstances other than those with respect to which it is held invalid or unenforceable, shall not be affected.

12. The terms of employment set out in this Offer Letter and the Employee Handbook may be reviewed by the Company from time to time in line with its policies and practices. Accordingly changes if any to this Offer Letter will be notified by the Company to you in writing or electronically and where reasonable such notification shall be prior to the effective date of the change.

Dear Aryan Jiten,

Following our recent discussions, we are delighted to extend an offer of employment to you.

Enclosed are a Summary of Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and Detailed Terms and Conditions which set out important conditions relating to your employment and which, together, form your employment terms with Barclays ('Employment Letter').

The Employment Letter refers to the Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) as these are a central part of everything we do. The Values as well as our purpose and behaviours, will have formed a key part of your selection process when being offered a role at Barclays. You will be expected to act in accordance with the Values as a Barclays employee, and in particular, to follow our Code of Conduct (known as the Barclays Way). More information on this, and how we live the Values will be available prior to and on joining Barclays.

This offer is conditional upon you satisfying Barclays recruitment and screening conditions and procedures and where applicable, the appropriate regulatory approvals. To start the process you will need to complete an application form. If you have not already received it, you will receive a link to the site shortly.

On or before your first day of employment, you will need to provide written documentation which proves your eligibility to work in India. You will also need to sign one copy of your Employment Letter (enclosed) confirming that you have read, understood and accept the terms. You must return this on your first day of employment.

We look forward to welcoming you to Barclays.

Yours sincerely,

Summary of Key Terms

Introduction to this Section

This section is intended as an "at a glance" summary of the key terms of the offer to you. You must, therefore, read these terms in conjunction with any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions which together comprise your Employment Letter.

Name	Aryan Jitendra Dhankar
Employing Company	Barclays Global Service Centre Private Limited ("the Company")
Position	Your role will be Graduate, BA3 (or equivalent), or such other role as the Company reasonably decides from time to time.
Start Date	10 July 2023, or such other date agreed between us in writing, subject to the pre-employment conditions being met to the Company's satisfaction. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
Working Hours	In addition to the terms set out elsewhere in the Agreement, this offer of employment is contingent upon successful completion of your current degree prior to your anticipated start date. Successful completion of your degree means that it is completed within the specified timelines highlighted in your application and that your final degree classification matches or exceeds the predicted results stated in your application to Barclays. It is your responsibility to inform our recruitment team immediately, if you suspect that your grades will be lower than those predicted. Your start date for the purposes of continuous employment is as set out above.
Working Hours	Your hours of work will be an average of 40 per week. Rest intervals and breaks are separate from the 40 hours of work.
Initial Place of Work	The Company is operational 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, so depending on your business function, your working days and hours may involve day and night shifts, and working on weekends/weekly offs and holidays, as permitted under applicable laws. Your manager will inform you if you are required to work in a different shift.
Probationary Period	You will initially be based in LTS - Barclays Global Service Centre, Gera Commerce Zone SEZ, Survey No.65, Village Kharadi Pune 411014.
	However, your place of work will be determined in line with the requirements of the scheme of Barclays' sole discretion. It is a condition of your employment that you agree that you may be required to work or travel to any branch or office (in India or overseas). Where you are required to work outside of India, additional terms and conditions may apply to your employment, which will be provided at the relevant time.
	Your employment is subject to a probationary period of 6 months, or such additional period as the company may in its discretion consider necessary.

Salary

Components	In INR Per Annum
Basic salary	462,000.00
House Rent Allowance	231,000.00
Flexible Benefit Plan (see further "Statutory and other Benefits" below)	462,000.00
Annual Salary	1,155,000.00
Provident Fund (Employer's Contribution)	55,440.00
Gratuity (per Company policy)	22,212.00
Total Fixed Pay	1,232,652.00

Salary will be payable on a monthly basis, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses, and other statutory deductions, and is currently paid on or around the 24th (or the prior working day if the 24th is not a working day) of each month. The estimated CTC above does not create any contractual right to any such payment.

You may be eligible to receive discretionary allowances as mentioned above or otherwise, subject to and in accordance with the Company's policy on such allowances / Flexible benefit pay component of the salary, subject to amendment from time to time by the Company, to reflect changes in law, tax, or other reasons. These allowances may be reduced or withdrawn.

Your allowances will be paid along with your salary as mentioned above, subject to applicable taxes, duties, cesses and other statutory deductions.

Other Payments

The Company agrees to pay you a one-off non-pensionable scholarship and bursary payment of Rs. 100,000.00 (the "Scholarship and Bursary Payment") in recognition of your studying costs. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be paid within 60 days from your date of joining Barclays. The payment will be made subject to applicable tax and / or other withholdings or deductions as required by law or regulation.

As agreed by you, the Scholarship and Bursary Payment will be subject to your compliance with the following requirements:

You will be required to repay the Scholarship and Bursary Payment net of any taxes or other reductions or withholdings as required by law or regulation within 30 days of any of the following occurring:

- you have terminated your employment voluntarily (or have given the Company notice to terminate your employment within 12 months of your start date); or
- you are dismissed for gross misconduct or fundamental breach of contract or for a serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group (or you have been given notice to terminate your employment for these reasons) within 12 months of your start date; or
- you fail to satisfy the pre-employment conditions as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company.

The Company may adjust this repayment amount from any amount payable to you by any Barclays Group company. The Scholarship and Bursary Payment should not be interpreted as giving rise to any right to or legitimate expectation of any other award, nor is it any assurance as to the level of any award which may be made to you in future, which will be at the Company's discretion.

You were also given an opportunity to join your employment without the Scholarship and Bursary Payment and therefore your liability to repay the amount, as has been mentioned above, in no case to be considered as a detriment to restrict your employment for a specific term.

Qualifications Exemptions

It is a condition of your employment and continued employment with the Company that you successfully complete any professional qualification and/or examination as may be required and notified to you by the Company from time to time, including without limitation any qualifications or examinations required by the Regulator. You will be expected to pass all exams within a predetermined period and/or within one or more sittings, which shall be set out in the Company policy.

Subject to the terms set out below and the Company policy, the Company will be responsible for the cost of any first attempts at any such qualification with our preferred provider, including study books and associated examination fees. You should refer to the Company policy for details.

If you do not pass any exam or obtain a qualification within the period specified or within the relevant number of attempts (which may in some cases only be one) the Company reserves the right to terminate your employment.

In the event that your employment is terminated for gross misconduct, or if you resign from the Company or otherwise terminate your employment or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company, you will be required (except where a qualification or examination is required by the Regulator) to repay to the Company the following sums in full within 30 days:

- 100% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment at any time during your course of study, or within six months of completing your course of study, or if you fail to join the Company for any reason and / or you fail to satisfy the pre-conditions of employment as set out in this Agreement or as otherwise determined by the Company; or
- 50% of all fees and costs paid for by the Company in respect of any course of study if your employment is terminated for gross misconduct or you resign or otherwise terminate your employment within six twelve months of completing your course of study.

Any such sums owed by you to the Company will be deducted from any sums due to you from the Company or, if such a deduction is not made, will be deemed to be due as a debt from you to the Company.

Discretionary Incentive Award

You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis, at the absolute discretion of the Company and subject to you being eligible at the relevant time. Normally, awards are made in the first quarter, in respect of the previous financial year.

Statutory and Other Benefits

You will be eligible for various statutory benefits in accordance with the relevant laws. You will also be eligible to participate in the Company's benefits scheme, details of which are set out in the attached flyer which does not form part of your contract or have any contractual effect.

Any benefits are subject to the relevant policies/plans from time to time in force. The Company reserves the right to change the benefits or policies/plans from time to time.

If the Company pays or reimburses any expense on your joining the Company towards your relocation from your current place of stay to your place of posting as agreed between the Company and you, if your employment ends less than one year after the Start Date you confirm that you will pay to the Company (or alternatively Company may set-off against/ write off) any amount paid or reimbursed in respect of such relocation from the amount payable to you.

Annual Leave

You are entitled to avail annual leave which includes privilege leave, casual leave and sick leave entitlement in accordance with the applicable laws in the state of your Place of Work. Further details are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions and on your intranet.

Notice Period

Either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving two months written notice. However, the Company may terminate your employment with immediate effect in accordance with applicable Company policies.

Any reduction/ waiver to notice period shall be at the sole discretion of the Company. Company may adjust balance of annual leave while granting such reduction/ waiver.

Further information on Notice is included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Overtime

Employees who are eligible under applicable laws to be paid Overtime for work beyond normal working hours, will be paid for the same in accordance to the applicable State laws at your Place of Work.

Further details in regard to Overtime are included within the Additional Term Guidelines available on the company's Intranet.

Data Privacy

The Company processes employee information for legal, regulatory, administrative and other purposes related to your employment and the conduct of the business of the Barclays Group (the "Agreed Purposes"). Processing includes obtaining, holding, editing, destroying and disclosing employee information to any Barclays Group company and its employees and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, auditors, consultants, lawyers/law firm, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) for the Agreed Purposes ("Processing" or "Process").

For the Agreed Purposes, the Company may transfer employee information to any Barclays Group company and/or any third parties (for example, insurers, pension scheme trustees, banks, business partners, suppliers and vendors engaged to provide products or services to the Company, and other employers following a business transfer or merger) in order to Process employee information for the Agreed Purposes.

You confirm that you will provide your employee information to the Company and consent to the Processing of employee information for the Agreed Purposes. This may include transfers to recipients based in another country to your place of employment (either within or outside the European Economic Area) with different levels of protection of your personal data to India.

You confirm that the Company and/or any Barclays Group company may monitor and/or record your use of office equipment, for example, e-mail, internet (including chats and blogs), telephones and mobile telephones for the purposes of compliance with Company procedures and policies, maintenance, security and regulatory requirements or as permitted by law.

Additional clause conditions shall apply to information relating to your family members/relatives with respect to insurance policy, emergency contact details, etc., in accordance with prevailing Barclays' Company policy. It is your responsibility to inform such individuals that their data will be processed in this manner and to obtain their consent.

Confidentiality

It is important that you recognise that during your employment with the Company you will have access to, and be entrusted with, confidential information and trade secrets relating to the Company, the Barclays Group and any of our clients and customers. Both during and after your employment you must comply with all policies and procedures relating to confidentiality, confidential information and trade secrets and any stricter policy which applies to your role.

Post-Termination Restrictions

In protecting the interests of the Company, you must not, for a period of 3 months from the termination date of your employment:

- approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer/supplier of Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to your termination;
- solicit or entice, or attempt to solicit or entice away or engage or employ any director, officer or employee in the Barclays Group.

Full details of the restrictions you will be bound by are included in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Acceptance

In accepting the terms of this Employment Letter, you confirm that all information provided by you to us in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview) is true and not misleading. You further confirm that you will notify us of any change in that information between the date of this offer of employment and the Start Date and during the term of your employment with the Company, including any change in the information you provided during the pre-employment recruitment and screening process and any change in the circumstances of the termination of your employment with your current employer.

By accepting this offer, you accept that you are bound by the terms of this Employment Letter. This includes the Key Terms, any applicable Schedules and the enclosed Detailed Terms and Conditions. By accepting this offer, you further accept that you are bound by all applicable policies, guidelines, processes and procedures as amended from time to time and that you shall ensure that you acquaint yourself with the terms of all such policies, guidelines, processes and procedures. This Employment Letter sets out the complete and exclusive terms and conditions between you and the Company and supersedes all proposals or prior agreements, oral or written and all other communications between the parties relating to the subject matter of these terms. In the event of any conflict between the Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedule and the Detailed Terms and Conditions, the Detailed Terms and Conditions will prevail. In addition, by accepting this offer you will be deemed to confirm that you have received, read, understood, accept and will comply with the requirements detailed in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Yours sincerely,

Detailed Terms and Conditions

Introduction

About the Detailed Terms and Conditions

The purpose of the Detailed Terms and Conditions is to provide you with the relevant information on what the Company and the Barclays Group expects from its employees.

The Detailed Terms and Conditions also set out a list of key practices, guidelines and processes that the Barclays Group has developed to reflect our values, purpose and behaviour and as part of our high performance culture and, in accordance with your contractual obligations, must be adhered to at all times. Further information and policies can be found on your own business unit intranet site.

It is important that we review our policies, practices, guidelines and processes to ensure that we stay at the leading edge, enabling us to be one of the most advanced financial services companies in the world. From time to time, our policies and procedures do change and you must familiarise yourself with them on joining and periodically throughout your employment. References in the Detailed Terms and Conditions to a policy, practice, guideline and / or process generally are references to the relevant policy, practice, guideline and / or process in force at the relevant time.

These detailed terms and conditions also refer to the Barclays Values which must be adhered to at all times. The Barclays Values (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence and Stewardship) are set out on your own business unit intranet site.

You should also refer to Appendix I which sets out definitions of the terms used in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

Your Detailed Terms and Conditions of Employment

1. Introduction to this Section

This section sets out your detailed terms and conditions of employment and should be read alongside your enclosed Summary of Key Terms and any applicable Schedules. These documents form your employment terms with the Company and are referred to in this document as "Employment Letter". By signing the Employment Letter you confirm that you have read, understood and accept the terms set out in the Detailed Terms and Conditions.

2. Pre-employment and ongoing conditions

- 2.1 Your confirmation in the employment will be subject to successful completion of the Probationary Period as mentioned in the summary of terms or such additional period as the Company considers necessary in its absolute discretion. Your employment shall be deemed to be confirmed automatically unless communicated otherwise in writing.
- 2.2 You understand that the Company's offer of employment is made to you subject to and conditional on the completion of certain pre-employment procedures and processes. You certify that the information that you have provided in connection with completion of the procedures and otherwise in connection with this offer of employment (including at interview stage) is true and accurate both at the time it is given and on the Start Date. The Company reserves the right to carry out screening checks on all employees, and such procedures may include but are not limited to:
 - (a) receipt of references and documentary proof that are satisfactory to the Company that you are legally entitled to reside and work in your country;
 - (b) completion of credit checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (c) where criminal record checks are applicable to your role, completion of those checks to the satisfaction of the Company;
 - (d) if requested by the Company, a medical examination by the Company's medical advisers;
 - (e) where Regulator approval for your appointment is required and such approval is sought before your employment commences, such approval either (i) being obtained or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator; (ii) receipt of documentary proof that you hold the appropriate and relevant qualifications; and
 - (f) the Company receiving a signed copy of the Terms from you.
- 2.3 Whilst every effort will be made to complete all the checks and processes in the pre-employment procedures before your Start Date, this may not always be possible. In case you are employed prior to completion of the pre-employment procedure, the Company may terminate your employment at any time on minimum statutory notice if the check reports are not up to our satisfaction or the procedures are not completed within a reasonable period of time.
- 2.4 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your obtaining, holding and continuing to hold all applicable qualifications, licences and registrations as required by your role. Where Regulator approval for your role is required and such approval is sought after your employment commences, then your continued employment is conditional on such approval either: (i) being obtained; or (ii) not being withdrawn by the Company or a Barclays Group company following consultation with the Regulator (or other relevant regulatory body).
- 2.5 You shall be liable and responsible to inform and update your latest contact and address details, in the records of the Company, from time to time. Failure to comply may constitute gross negligence on your part.
- 2.6 You should not engage in any matter which would or could be anticipated to result in a conflict of interest between you and the Company.

2.7 This offer of employment and your continued employment is also subject to your successful completion of certain trainings (such as Communication & Culture and/or other product and policy trainings/accreditations) that may be assigned to you by the Company from time to time. In case you remain absent for more than 2 days during these training programs or you become unable to qualify the trainings to the satisfaction of the Company, the Company shall have the sole discretion to take appropriate action including termination of your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii of the detailed terms and conditions of this Employment Letter. In case of your absence due to any personal emergency, your Line Manager shall on his/her sole discretion and upon evaluation of the reason of your absence, may recommend the Company to reassign you for the next available training within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence. In case you are reassigned for the next training as mentioned above, there may be possible change in process and/or compensation on account of such realignment. If for any reason you do not agree to the realignment terms or no such realignment is possible within a period of 30 days of your returning from absence, the Company shall have the sole discretion to terminate your employment forthwith in accordance with provisions of Clause 18.1 (e) viii.

3. Place of Work and Mobility

Your place of work is as set out in your Summary of Key Terms. However you may need to travel to other locations and offices as reasonably required in the performance of your duties. You confirm that you will travel to such places (both inside and outside India) as the Company may reasonably require from time to time. Should the Company need to permanently change your place of work, you will be given reasonable notice of any such change (acceptabile in e-mail/letter format).

4. Duties

4.1 During your employment with the Company you confirm that you will:

- act in a manner consistent with and which supports our values, purpose and behaviours and in particular the Barclays Values;
- devote the whole of your working time and attention to the business of the Company and the Barclays Group;
- diligently and faithfully perform such duties and exercise such powers and functions as may reasonably be assigned to you by the Company in relation to its business and that of the Barclays Group to the best of your ability and with integrity, due skill, care and diligence;
- use your best efforts to promote and protect the interests of the Company and the Barclays Group and not do anything to harm those interests;
- comply with all reasonable requests, instructions and regulations given by the Company and the Barclays Group and promptly provide such explanations, information and assistance as to your activities in the business of the Company and the Barclays Group as they may reasonably need;
- neither engage in any activities which would detract from the proper performance of your duties under the terms of this Employment Letter, nor (without the prior written consent of the Company) in any capacity including as director, shareholder, principal, consultant, agent, partner or employee engage or be concerned or interested directly or indirectly in any other trade, business or occupation whatsoever provided always that such activities are in compliance with Barclays policies on conflicts or external business interests. This paragraph will not prevent you holding for investment purposes only, shares or securities which do not exceed three per cent (3%) in nominal value of the share capital or stock of any class of any company quoted on a recognised stock exchange;
- not engage or be interested in any activities which place you in a position where your interests conflict improperly with those of the Barclays Group, its clients, customers or shareholders. Barclays recognises that, on occasion, a conflict of interest may arise which is unavoidable. In such circumstances you must make your line manager and local compliance contact (or compliance contact aware of the issue immediately). You must not act in relation to the matter without their written direction or approval, and
- report any actual or proposed unlawful activity or behaviour affecting the Barclays Group by you or any other employee, officer, contractor of the Barclays Group or any other person to your manager (or, if they are potentially involved in such unlawful activity or behaviour, to your HR Business Partner or a member of your Compliance team) immediately on becoming aware of it.

5. Salary and allowances

Your salary will be paid on a monthly basis on or around the last working day of each month and is subject to applicable taxes, duties, charges and other applicable withholdings. All tax liabilities arising out of your entire remuneration package, present or future, shall be borne by you. Your salary and any allowances will accrue on a daily basis and will be paid pro rata if you are employed for part of a month.

Your salary will be reviewed annually without commitment to increase. The Company may deduct from any payments to you any money owed by you to any Barclays Group company in accordance with the applicable laws.

Your acceptance to these terms shall confirm your consent to the Company making payment of your salary, compensation, award, incentive/ bonus etc. by way of credit to bank account with the bank of Company's choice or via such other mode as the Company may deem appropriate.

6. Discretionary incentive award

- 6.1 You may be eligible to be considered for a discretionary incentive award on an annual basis. The value, form, conditions of delivery and timing of any such awards are at the Company's discretion. This discretion includes the right to make the award or a proportion of the award in a form other than cash, including an award of Shares and to defer an element of an award under the terms of a Barclays Group incentive plan.
- 6.2 Any discretionary incentive award will only be made if, at that time, you are in employment and are not under notice (whether given or received) nor under suspension or investigation for a regulatory or disciplinary matter.
- 6.3 If you are subject to any investigation or disciplinary process at the time when communication, payment or making of any payment and/or award would otherwise occur, then the delivery of that payment and/or award will be suspended. If on conclusion of any investigation and/or disciplinary process, you are dismissed for gross misconduct or cause and / or have committed any serious breach of the Risk and / or Compliance requirements of the Barclays Group, then no payment and / or award will be made to you. If no disciplinary action (or disciplinary action short of dismissal) is taken against you, then a payment and / or award may be made to you after the conclusion of that process. However, the amount of any award and / or payment to which you are entitled may be reduced by the Company in its sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, any award and / or payment may be reduced to nil in such circumstances.
- 6.4 Notwithstanding paragraph 6.3, any unpaid or unvested award (or portion of an unpaid or unvested award) may be reduced (to nil if appropriate) at the Company's discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. For the avoidance of doubt, the Company may exercise its discretion including as a result of:
 - (a) Barclays PLC or any subsidiary's financial statements having been materially restated for the period for which the award was made other than restatement due to a change in accounting policy or to rectify a minor error; or
 - (b) Your actions having, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Company:
 - i. deliberately misled the management of the Company, the market and/or Barclays PLC shareholders regarding the financial performance of Barclays PLC or of any subsidiary;
 - ii. caused harm to the reputation of the Barclays Group;
 - iii. amounted to misconduct, negligence, incompetence or poor performance ("misconduct", "negligence", "incompetence", and "poor performance" as determined by the Remuneration Committee acting in good faith, following consultation with the Company); or
 - (c) The Barclays Group or any of its subsidiaries, in the reasonable opinion of the Remuneration Committee, following consultation with the Risk Committee, has suffered a material failure of risk management.
- 6.5 Should the Company become aware that the amount of any award that has been paid or released to you was calculated on the basis of any false, incorrect or missated information, then, the Company may, within one year of any such payment or release being made, request that you will repay as a debt to the Company the amount (or any part of the amount) as may be determined in the Company's sole discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable laws. You confirm that in the event a repayment obligation arises the Company is authorised to deduct an appropriate amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you (including in instalments) as it determines in its discretion and to the extent permitted by applicable law.

- 6.6 A payment of cash and / or a release of shares or other instruments under an award will be subject to tax and other applicable withholdings, taxes, duties, cesses, deductions and will be subject to the rules of any applicable incentive plan.
- 6.7 Whether you are eligible to receive a discretionary incentive award, and if so, the amount shall be determined at the absolute discretion of the Company. You have no contractual right, whether express or implied, to receive an award of all, or an award of any particular amount, and the making of an award in any year does not give rise to any obligation on the Company to make an award in any future year. For the avoidance of doubt, your employment may be terminated by the Company at any time, for any reason, in accordance with clauses 18 or 19 of the Employment Letter and the exercise of that right to terminate is not limited or fettered by any term (express or implied).
- 6.8 Within Barclays, certain (usually senior) roles are designated as 'Material Risk Taker' ('MRT') roles. Where you are a MRT for any particular year you will be notified of this during or following the end of the relevant year. At any time during the seven year period from the date on which any variable remuneration is awarded to you in respect of a period for which you are a MRT (the "Relevant Variable Remuneration"), if Barclays determines that:

- (a) your actions or omissions have, in the reasonable opinion of Barclays amounted to misbehaviour or material error; and/or
- (b) Barclays or the relevant business unit has suffered a material failure of risk management,
- then, without prejudice to Barclays other remedies, Barclays may require that you repay an amount, not exceeding the value of the Relevant Variable Remuneration. The repayment shall be of such value as may be determined in Barclays discretion acting in good faith, to such Barclays Group Company and on such terms as Barclays may direct.

In respect of paragraph 6.8 (a) above, Barclays shall take into account your proximity to the applicable failure and your level of responsibility before any request for repayment is made. In respect of paragraphs (a) and (b) above, before any request for repayment is made, Barclays shall take into consideration whether you (i) have participated in, or were responsible for, conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Barclays Group or (ii) failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety.

For the avoidance of doubt, the whole or any part of the Relevant Variable Remuneration can be clawed back if Barclays makes its determination within seven years from the date that the Relevant Variable Remuneration was awarded to you even if an event falling within (a) or (b) above occurred prior to the date of award.

The determination of what constitutes "misbehaviour", "material error", "material failure of risk management", "significant losses" and "appropriate standards of fitness and propriety" shall be determined by Barclays acting in good faith.

You confirm that in the event Barclays makes a repayment determination, you shall repay the amount subject to that determination within the time period specified in the determination. You further confirm and provide authorisation for Barclays to deduct the appropriate repayment amount from your salary or any other amounts due to you, to the full extent permitted under local law, whether from Barclays or any other Barclays Group company.

You acknowledge that, (in addition to its rights at clause 16 (amendments to terms and conditions of employment) the terms of this clause 6.8 may be amended by Barclays to the extent deemed reasonably necessary in order to comply with law, regulations or guidance published by any regulatory authority or other relevant authority from time to time.

This clause shall apply in addition to the general right of repayment set out in clause 6.5 of the Employment Letter.

7. Statutory and Other Benefits

- 7.1 You will be eligible for various statutory benefits as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms and in accordance with the relevant laws.
- 7.2 The Company operates or may operate a benefits programme for its employees and your benefits are/will set out in full in the attached benefits brochure (except the statutory benefits mentioned above, these benefits do not form part of your contract of employment or have any contractual or other legal effect).
- 7.3 The Company has the right at its absolute discretion to amend or withdraw the benefits at any time and without any compensation or notice to you and / or replace any benefit with an alternative at its discretion.
- 7.4 Participation in any benefits scheme is subject to the rules of the relevant schemes, which may vary from time to time, and is subject to you satisfying any applicable requirements of the trustees or third party providers (where relevant). Your participation may be excluded where, in Barclays' opinion, cover can only be obtained on the basis that exceptional conditions or unusually high premiums are imposed or levied by the insurer or provider.

8. Annual Leave

- 8.1 Your annual leave entitlement is set out in the Summary of Key Terms. The Company's annual leave year currently runs from 1 January to the 31 December. The dates of the annual leave year may be changed. You are obliged to take all your annual leave entitlement in the relevant year, unless a policy/handbook applicable to you states otherwise, in which case leave may only be carried over subject to and in accordance with those terms and applicable law. Your annual leave dates must be agreed in advance with your line manager. You will be allowed to carry your unused privileged leaves over to the next annual leave year, subject to the limit and restrictions as may be defined in the company policy and subject to the applicable laws. There is no provision of encashment of unused leave (including in case of termination of employment), except where such encashment is mandated by law applicable at the place of your employment at the relevant time.
- 8.2 If your employment begins during an annual leave year, your annual leave entitlement (plus any Bank or Public Holidays which fall during this period), will be calculated pro rata. During the probationary period you may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favour up until the time of taking such leave. Any unused leave at the time of cessation of employment shall lapse and any payment to be made in lieu of the unused leave shall be at the sole discretion of Barclays unless mandated by the applicable law. If you have taken more leave than your accrued entitlement, you shall be required to repay to the Company an amount equivalent to any holiday taken in excess of your pro rata holiday entitlement, and the Company is authorised to deduct the appropriate amount from your final salary instalment or any other sum owed by the Company to you at the Termination Date.
- 8.3 In accordance with regulatory guidelines and the Company's policies, the Company may require you to go on a mandatory block leave.

9. Intellectual Property

- 9.1 For the purposes of this paragraph:

"Intellectual Property Rights" means (i) copyright and related rights, patents, know-how, confidential information, database rights, inventions and rights in trademarks and designs (whether registered or unregistered), (ii) applications for registration, and the right to apply for registration, for any of the same, and (iii) all other intellectual property rights and equivalent or similar forms of protection existing anywhere in the world.

"Invention" means any invention, idea, discovery, development, improvement or innovation made, whether or not patentable, or capable of registration, and whether or not recorded in any medium; and

"Works" means all documents, materials, software, photographic or graphic works of any type—and other materials in any medium or format which are created or developed, or are in the process of being created or developed, or used (whether in final form or otherwise) by you or on your behalf or by the Company in the course of your employment with the Company or for the benefit of the Company and which are protected by, contain or relate to any Intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.2 You will promptly disclose and deliver up to the Company all and any Works concerned, or made by you during and in the course of your employment (whether concerned, or made during normal working hours, in your normal place of work, or in conjunction with others, or otherwise). You confirm that you will provide the Company with all originals and copies of all correspondence, documents and other materials in whatever medium or form relating to or concerning the Works and the Intellectual Property Rights they contain.
- 9.3 You confirm that you will only use the Works to perform your obligations under Employment Letter and that you will not make personal copies of any Works other than for the purpose of your employment with the Company.
- 9.4 It is understood that all Intellectual Property Rights created by you in the course of your employment shall be "work for hire". You acknowledge that you have, and will have at all times whilst you are employed by the Company, a special obligation to further the interests of the undertakings of the Company, and that all Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works will automatically, on creation, belong to and vest in the Company absolutely to the fullest extent provided by law.
- 9.5 To the extent that the Works and Intellectual Property Rights do not vest in the Company or the Barclays Group automatically, you will hold such Works and Intellectual Property Rights on trust for the benefit of the Company until the Works and Intellectual Property Rights vest absolutely in the Company.
- 9.6 You confirm that you will immediately, upon request and at the Company's expense, provide all such documents and assistance as may be necessary to vest the Works and Intellectual Property Rights in the Works in the Company, to enable the Company to enjoy the full benefit of the Intellectual Property Rights, and to enable the Company to enforce its Intellectual Property Rights against third parties or defend claims brought against the Company in relation to any intellectual Property Rights.

- 9.7 By signing Employment Letter you accept and confirm to assign to the Company or a member of the Barclays Group (as specified by the Company) all current and future Intellectual Property Rights in the Works and any other proprietary rights capable of assignment by way of present assignment or future rights for the full term of such rights. You confirm that such assignment shall be perpetual, worldwide and royalty free. You also confirm that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 15(4) of the Copyright Act, 1957, such assignment as far as it relates to copyrightable material shall not lapse nor the rights transferred thereon revert to the Employee, even if the Company does not exercise the Rights under the assignment within a period of one year from the date of assignment. You acknowledge and confirm that you shall waive any right to and shall not raise any objection or claims to the Copyright Board with respect to the assignment, pursuant to Section 15A of the Copyright Act, 1957.
- 9.8 You unconditionally and irrevocably waive your moral rights in relation to existing and future Works, including your right to be identified as the author of the Works and not to have the Works subject to derogatory treatment. You acknowledge that, except as may be expressly provided by law, no further remuneration or compensation other than that provided for under Employment Letter is or may become due to you.
- 9.9 When this Employment Letter expires or terminates, for whatever reason, you will immediately deliver up to the Company all Works in your possession or under your control, and under no circumstances may any Works be retained by you except with the prior written consent of the Company.
- 9.10 Without prejudice to any specific legal rights which you may otherwise have, you acknowledge that no further remuneration or compensation other than that expressly provided for in this Employment Letter will become due to you in respect of your compliance with this Section 9.

10. Confidentiality

- 10.1 During your employment with the Company or at any time afterwards, you must not disclose to any person or make use of any Confidential Information or trade secrets that you have obtained in the course of your employment. This includes information that you have acquired in the course of your employment concerning the business or affairs of the Company and/or any other Barclays Group company or our customers or clients. You are required to use your best efforts to prevent the unauthorised publication or disclosure of any such Confidential information. Exceptions to this are the use of information for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter, where the Company has given written consent or disclosure is required by law, where the information is already in or comes into the public domain (other than by your unauthorised disclosure).
- 10.2 During your employment or at any time afterwards, you must not make any copy or record (whether recorded in writing, on computer disc, electronically or otherwise) of any Confidential Information, unless this is required for the proper performance of your duties under this Employment Letter. Any such information belongs to the Barclays Group and must be returned by you either at any time during the course of your employment on the request of the Company and immediately on termination of your employment.
- 10.3 For the purposes of this Employment Letter, "Confidential Information" means information concerning the business, affairs, finance, clients or trade connections of the Company, any member of the Barclays Group, or any of its customers, clients, suppliers or agents. This includes but is not limited to:
- (a) commercially sensitive information or trade secrets;
 - (b) corporate and marketing strategy, business development plans, sales reports and research results;
 - (c) business methods and processes, technical information and know-how relating to the Barclays Group's business and which is not available to the public generally, including inventions, designs, programmes, techniques, database systems, formulae and ideas;
 - (d) business contacts, lists or details of clients and suppliers and details of contacts with them, their business or affairs, including client names and client contact details, financial and personal affairs, and trading history and methodology;
 - (e) information on employees and the terms and conditions of their employment, details of employee benefits, incentive schemes/plans, salary scales and/or current or anticipated trade union/employee disputes.

666

(f) information or details of any actual, potential or threatened litigation, legal action, claim, dispute or arbitration against or with any member of the Barclays Group or any current or former director, officer or employee of the Barclays Group in such capacity and any information in respect of provisions for any such actions;

(g) budgets, management accounts, trading statements and other financial reports;

(h) unpublished price sensitive information relating to shares or securities listed or dealt in on any recognised stock exchange; and

11. Regulatory compliance and dealing codes

11.1 The nature of the Barclays Group's business is such that it is authorised and regulated by the appropriate Regulator.

11.2 It is your responsibility to know, understand and comply with all legal, regulatory and governance obligations, including the provisions of the Regulatory and Compliance policies that are relevant to you. If you are in any doubt as to your responsibilities in this regard or the rules which apply to you, you must contact the Compliance team within your business area.

11.3 If you are a Regulator approved person (or any equivalent status with any other regulator) you must comply with the Regulator's Statement of Principles and Code of Practice for Approved Persons (or meet the applicable standard(s)). Failure to meet these Principles / Standards and / or to comply with this Code of Practice (or other applicable standards) may result in investigation by the regulator, applicable regulator and/or the Company, and / or disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company which may result in the termination of your employment.

11.4 You confirm that you will be bound by and will comply with the Barclays Group Share Dealing Code and with any more stringent dealing rules applicable to you or the area of the business in which you work. In particular, you agree not to make any investment, directly or indirectly, in any company or business which is a customer or client of the Barclays Group and which may in the reasonable opinion of the Company be expected to cause your personal or family interests to conflict with your duty to the Company in any respect.

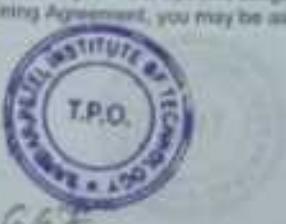

11.5 Any incentives or compensation payable to you by any member of the Company or Group Company (under this Employment Letter or otherwise, including any guaranteed amounts and including, where applicable, the payment and settlement schedule and split of cash and Shares as set out in this Employment Letter) are subject to limitation or modification to the extent reasonably deemed necessary by the Company including in order to remain consistent with Barclays remuneration policy (as amended from time to time) or to comply with laws and regulations, including any regulations or guidance published by the Regulator from time to time.

12. Expenses

There may be occasions when you incur business expenses for instance, travelling to a training course or visiting another business location for a meeting. Any expenses must be pre-approved and claimed promptly and will be reimbursed to you in line with our procedures, a copy of which can be found on your intranet.

The Company at its sole discretion may bear certain expenses on your training, learning and developmental needs, subject to your acceptance of the terms and obligations as would be mentioned in the agreement ("Training Agreement") that may be executed with you.

As a consideration to the training expenses to be incurred by the Company, you may be asked to work with the Company for a certain period of time, post completion of the said training/programme/courses, as the case may be and to compensate the Company by paying an agreed sum as liquidated damages. Your specific obligations will form part of the Training Agreement to be executed with you. For the execution of the Training Agreement, you may be asked to give a surety to undertake your obligations under the terms of the Training Agreement.

Unless otherwise agreed in the Training Agreement, any breach of the terms of the said Training Agreement, will be considered as the breach of the terms of this Letter.

13. Attendance at work

13.1 Your Summary of Key Terms will provide you with details of the particular working pattern that applies to you, and any specific arrangements that may apply regarding changes to this pattern. If you work full time, or for 8 hours or more on a given day, your normal working hours would additionally include up to a daily one-hour break.

13.2 From time to time, the Company may need to vary your hours, days and times of work if this is necessary to accommodate the needs of the business or the absence of your colleagues. Should the Company need to vary your working hours, you will be given reasonable notice of any such changes.

14. Sick leave

14.1 If you are unable to work through ill health or injury you will be entitled to sick leave in accordance with the policy on Leave and Holidays, which can be found in the Company's Intranet. The Company reserves the right to only approve sick leave of more than two consecutive working days if certified by a medical practitioner of the Company's choice, and you hereby confirm that you co-operate with such an examination and to authorise the full disclosure of any resulting report to Barclays.

14.2 The payment of salary and any allowances during periods of sickness will be subject to as prescribed under the applicable laws and you following the requirements regarding notification and certification of absence as set out in this Employment Letter, on your Intranet and the Company being satisfied that you are unable to work due to illness or injury.

If unexpected circumstances mean that this is not possible, you should inform your line manager as soon as possible. Absence without approval and / or explanation will be dealt with under the disciplinary procedure which could result in disciplinary action being taken against you by the Company and which may result in the termination of your employment.

16. Amendments to terms and conditions of employment

16.1 The Company reserves the right to review, revise, amend, replace or withdraw the contents of these Terms and introduce new policies, practices, guidelines and procedures from time to time to reflect the changing needs of the business or any changes in legislation or regulation from time to time.

16.2 For the avoidance of doubt, where the Company retains a discretion under these Terms, including but not limited to the discretion to make incentive award(s) to you, any matters considered in the decision whether to make such an award and the value, form, conditions and timing of delivery of any such award(s) such discretion cannot be limited or imposed in any way other than by consent between you and the Company which is documented formally in writing on the Company's headed paper by an authorized member of the Human Resources Department.

17. Allocation of duties and transfer within the Barclays Group

You confirm that the Company will be entitled at any time and with prior notice (where required by applicable law) to: (i) assign you to carry out such projects and/or duties commensurate with your abilities as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (ii) assign you on a temporary or permanent basis to undertake additional duties and/or different duties commensurate with your abilities within any part or parts of the Barclays Group as it will in its absolute discretion determine; and/or (iii) second you on a temporary or permanent basis to work for any company in the Barclays Group or to a third party under (iv) transfer your employment and its rights and obligations to another company in the Barclays Group.

18. Leaving Barclays

18.1 Subject to paragraph 2 of these Detailed Terms and Conditions the Company and you may each terminate this Employment Letter in accordance with the "Notice" paragraph set out in your Summary of Key Terms. In addition:

(a) either you or the Company may terminate your employment by giving one month's written notice (or, if greater, the minimum notice according to local applicable law) during any probationary period that may apply to you as set out in your Summary of Key Terms;

(b) your employment shall be conditional on your ability to start work on the agreed Start Date. If you are unable to do so, you will have no entitlement to receive any payment or other benefit arising from leaving this Company or the Barclays Group.

(c) your employment may also be terminated by the Company without notice or pay in lieu of notice if you commit an act of gross misconduct (as may be defined under applicable Company policy from time to time which may include failure to comply with any policies and/or procedures including those referred to in the Detailed Terms and Conditions, lack of competence, serious breach of the Terms including improper or unethical behaviour).

(d) Your contractual and normal retirement age is 60 years. On the day you attain that age, your employment shall end automatically without any need for either party to serve written notice; and

(e) the Company may (without notice, pay in lieu of notice or incurring any obligation to pay compensation) immediately terminate your employment if you:

- i. are convicted of any criminal offence (other than a minor offence which, in the opinion of the Company, does not affect your position as an employee of the Company); or
- ii. are guilty of any act of dishonesty or gross or serious misconduct or any conduct which brings or is intended to bring any member of the Barclays Group or yourself into disrepute or may damage the business or affairs of the Barclays Group; or
- iii. have been found by the Company to have materially or repeatedly breached or have not complied with the terms of this Employment Letter (or otherwise fail or refuse to carry out the duties assigned to you); or
- iv. have breached or otherwise failed the Barclays Group sanctions screening policy or process; or
- v. cease to hold or fail to obtain any regulatory approvals or consents which are required for the effective discharge by you of any duties assigned to you under this Employment Letter; or
- vi. materially breach the rules of the Regulator; or
- vii. breach any Barclays Group rules on anti-bribery or anti-corruption;
- viii. don't obtain or maintain the accreditation(s) or qualifications that you are required to have (in the Company's opinion, or according to relevant regulators or professional bodies) to be able to work in your job profile;
- ix. be repeatedly absent without leave or absent without leave for a period exceeding 14 days.

This sub-paragraph is not exhaustive and does not restrict any other right which the Company may have (whether at common law or otherwise) to terminate your employment summarily.

18.2 You shall be liable to pay the Damages to the Company, in case you fail to serve the requisite notice as mentioned in the Summary of Key Terms. These Damages shall be in addition to the payment of salary in lieu of notice period. In respect of the Damages, the Company reserves the right to set-off against such off-set amount payable/ withheld from the salary and/or any allowances. Further, you shall not be relieved from your contractual notice period, unless expressly relieved in writing.

18.3 The termination of your employment will not affect any terms of this Employment Letter which are intended to operate after the termination date, including the paragraphs relating to Intellectual Property, Confidentiality and Post Termination Restrictions.

18.4 On termination of your employment, irrespective of the reason, or at any other time when asked by the Company, you will:

- (a) immediately return to the Company all mobiles, equipment and documents, whether electronic or otherwise, and any other property (of any kind) (security pass, business cards, etc.) relating to the business of or belonging to the Barclays Group, together with all copies of any such documents, that you have in your possession or under your control;
- (b) immediately delete any information relating to the business of the Company or the Barclays Group stored on any computer or storage device and all information derived from the same in your possession or control and held outside of any Barclays Group premises;
- (c) resign with immediate effect from any offices or appointments you hold within or connected to the Barclays Group; and
- (d) confirm in writing that you have complied fully with the terms of this paragraph and provide evidence of compliance as the Company may request.

19. Payment in lieu of notice

19.1 The Company reserves the right in its sole and absolute discretion to terminate your employment and your terms with immediate effect (whether or not notice has been given by either party) by giving notice in writing to you of its intention to make a payment in lieu of notice and, if it does so, the Company shall make you a payment in lieu of notice, equal to the salary which you would have been entitled to receive if you had worked during your Notice Period or, if your Notice Period has started, the unexpired portion (the "Payment in Lieu"). Where the Company elects to make a Payment in Lieu of some or all of your Notice Period, your employment shall terminate on the date specified by the Company, regardless of when the Payment in Lieu is paid.

19.2 Any Payment in Lieu will be paid less tax and any applicable withholdings. You will not be entitled to receive any payment in respect of holiday entitlement that would have accrued during the period for which the Payment in Lieu is made.

19.3 Any Payment in Lieu may be paid by the Company in accordance with the Company policies and subject to the applicable laws. Any Payment in Lieu may at the Company's discretion be paid as a lump sum within one month of the Termination Date or in equal monthly instalments from the date on which notice is served until what would have been the end of the Notice Period provided always that if after exercising its discretion to make a Payment in Lieu the Company becomes aware of any grounds that would permit it to summarily terminate your employment any payments due under this clause 19.3 will cease to be payable and the net value of any Payment in Lieu that has been received by you shall be repaid as a debt to the Company within 30 days of the Company notifying you of this repayment obligation.

20. Disciplinary leave and suspension

20.1 The Company may suspend you at any time from the performance of all or any of your duties:

- (a) for the whole or any part of any applicable Notice Period; or
- (b) for such periods and on such terms as is necessary to allow any investigation to take place (including, but not limited to an investigation by a regulatory authority or an investigation under the Company's disciplinary procedure).

20.2 During any period of suspension, the Company will be under no obligation to provide work for or assign any duties to you and may require you not to attend any premises of any member of the Barclays Group (other than as a customer) and may require you to:

- (a) not speak to, contact or otherwise communicate with or engage with any director, consultant, agent, contractor or employee of any member of the Barclays Group other than to carry out your personal banking, or any person, firm or company who, at the date of such suspension or exclusion is a client or customer of any member of the Barclays Group unless they are members of your immediate family;

- (b) at any time to carry out such special projects or duties commensurate with your abilities as the Company shall in its absolute discretion determine;
- (c) meet with representatives from the Company in order to facilitate a handover of work and provide assistance with ongoing business activity; and
- (d) take any holiday which you have accrued.

20.3 During any period of suspension:

- (a) your employment with the Company and this Employment Letter will continue and you will continue to be bound by your obligations under it (except as expressly set out in this paragraph) including, but not limited to, your obligations of confidentiality, good faith and fidelity to the Company; and
- (b) you shall continue to receive your basic salary and all contractual benefits in the usual way.

21. Post-termination restrictions

21.1 You confirm to the Company (for itself and as trustee and agent for each member of the Barclays Group) that you will not, whether directly or indirectly, on your own behalf or on behalf of or in conjunction with any other person, firm, company or other entity:

(x) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date approach, solicit or deal with any person, firm, company or other entity who is or was a customer, client or supplier of the Company or the Barclays Group and with whom you had material dealings in the course of your employment with the Company or in respect of whom you were aware of material and confidential information, in both cases within the 12 month period immediately prior to the Termination Date. Nothing in this paragraph will prohibit you from seeking or doing business which is not in direct or indirect competition with the business of the Barclays Group; and

(xi) for a period of 6 months (if you are an MD, Director, or VP or equivalent grade) or 3 months (if you are an AVP or below or equivalent grade) from the Termination Date solicit or entice away or attempt to solicit or entice away or employ or engage any director, officer or employee of executive status in the Barclays Group with whom you had material dealings within the 12 months period immediately prior to the Termination Date. For the purposes of this paragraph "employee of executive status" will include without limitation any employee of the Barclays Group with a corporate grading Managing Director, Director, Vice President (or equivalent grades, or anything which replaces these grades) and any employees of the Barclays Group with a lower corporate grading where in the 12 months prior to the Termination Date, you have had line manager responsibilities in relation to that employee or they have had line manager responsibilities or have been engaged in work or projects which in the Company's reasonable opinion are key to its business and / or mean that they are in possession of material and confidential information relating to the Barclays Group.

21.2 Each of the restrictions contained in this paragraph are considered by the parties to be reasonable in all the circumstances as at the date of this Employment Letter. However, the parties acknowledge that if any one or more of such restrictions will be judged to be void as going beyond what is reasonable in all the circumstances for the protection of the interests of the Barclays Group, but would be enforceable if words were deleted or one or more of the duration, range of activities and areas covered were reduced in scope, the restrictions will be deemed to apply with such modifications as may be necessary to make them valid and effective. Any such modification will not affect the validity of any other restriction contained in this Employment Letter and it is confirmed that each restriction in this paragraph will be construed as separate and individual restrictions.

21.3 You confirm that if, during either your employment with the Company or the period of the restrictions set out in this paragraph you receive an offer of employment or engagement, you will provide a copy of these restrictions to the offeror as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the offer.

22. Further terms

22.1 No omission to exercise or delay in exercising any right, power or remedy of the Company under this Employment Letter will constitute a waiver of that right, power or remedy.

22.2 During your employment

(a) the Company may at its discretion require that you undergo screening, including for criminal record, sanctions list and/or credit reference checks from time to time. It is anticipated that any such screening would only be undertaken if required for regulatory purposes or in order to comply with the minimum standards for the role you are undertaking; and

(b) you should advise the Company should any of the circumstances as set out in paragraph 18.1(e) of this Employment Letter arise or be brought against you.

22.3 You acknowledge that in entering into these Terms you have not relied on any representation or undertaking by the Company whether oral or in writing, except as expressly incorporated into this Employment Letter.

22.4 You consent to the Company monitoring your use of all Company resources and its communication and electronic equipment (including without limitation the telephone, internet, blackberry, software applications and email systems) and information stored on the Company's computer equipment, as described in your local acceptable use policy in accordance with the Barclays Group procedure and / or guidance on electronic communications. A copy of the policy that applies to you can be found on your intranet.

22.5 You understand that you may, during your employment, be granted awards under the terms of one or more of the Company's long term incentive plans or any incentive or bonus plan operated by the Barclays Group. If, on termination of your employment, you lose any of the rights or benefits under any such plans, you will not be entitled, by way of compensation for loss of office or otherwise, to any compensation for the loss of any rights under any such plans.
